Werber's Dope Bail Cut

By STEPHEN COOK

Frank N. Werber, wealthy Marin County entrepeneur accused running a marijuana import business on the sly, won his freedom on bail today amid conflicting official stories of his arrest.

The story told yesterday by Marin officers of the investigation and arrest of the former manager of the Kingston Trio was partially incorrect, according to a later report from federal officers.

Werber, 39, grinned through his bushy beard after Judge Alvin H. Goldstein reduced his bail from $31,250 to $12,500 on four felony charges filed by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

Werber made the bail and was ordered to appear Tuesday in Municipal Court to answer charges of importing marijuana, cultivating it and possessing it for sale.

In a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Richard Goldsmith yesterday, Werber was additionally charged with transporting and concealing marijuana and conspiracy to do that. He made $10,000 bail on those federal offenses.

On top of that, Werber, who would face a mandatory five-year prison term if convicted of importing marijuana, was slapped yesterday with a $412,850 tax lien for the marijuana agents said he possessed.

The penalty tax on marijuana is $100 an ounce. Agents said that the $22,900 they seized Monday night at Werber's home was given to the Internal Revenue Service to pay part of the promoter's debts.

Marin narcotic agents yesterday reported that U.S. Customs agents saw the marijuana being smuggled across the border from Mexico to Laredo, Tex., by Stanley Mulligan and Charles Peter Barrett, owners of Latitude 38 restaurant in Sausalito.

As that version went, officers followed Mulligan and Barrett by plane from Laredo, watched as they landed Friday at a private airstrip north of San Rafael, then watched until they saw Mulligan deliver the 258 pounds of grass to Werber's plush home on Richardson Bay.

But the story told by Marin officers yesterday was untrue, according to an affidavit filed with the U.S. Commissioner by agent John J. Molittieri of the U.S. Customs office.

The truth, according to the affidavit, Mulligan and Barrett were captured Friday in Laredo, charged with smuggling and released without bail from the south Texas court after they agreed to deliver the marijuana for the agents.

They told agents they had an agreement with Werber under which they would bring the grass from Mexico to Marin, if he would pay for the marijuana and the cost of transportation.

Asst. U.S. Attorney Michael Metzger said that Mulligan, Barrett, two agents and the six duffle bags of pot flew into San Francisco International Airport via commercial jet on Saturday.

Marin Undersheriff Sidney Stinson said today that Insp. Harry Bock of the drug abuse bureau, who reported the marijuana was brought to Marin by light plane, had been told that by customs agents.

Werber was out of town during the weekend, and the cargo could not be delivered until Monday night.

Roger Garety, attorney for Werber, argued at his client's bail hearing in Municipal Court this morning that if the charges against Werber are so grave Barrett and Mulligan should face the same charges in Marin.

Deputy Dis. Atty. Ernest Zunino, arguing against the bail reduction, said agents told him Werber has been a big dealer in

Nixon Opens 'Fast Finish' Drive

"Maybe they're behind but they say don't worry, it's going to be like 1948.

"You remember how Harry Truman won in 1948, he gave 'em hell."

"And my answer is it's one thing to give 'em hell, but it's something else to give 'em Humphrey.

"I don't care what the polls show," said Nixon, who leads them.

"The last three weeks of this campaign we are campaigning this whole country as it never has been before. Harry Truman said 'give 'em hell,' Nixon says sock it to 'em and we're going to win, too, in 1968."

Nixon earlier told the national convention of Future Farmers of America that U.S. agriculture has "a strength that it can share with the rest of the world."

He said Americans must do a better job of bringing agricultural knowhow to underdeveloped naitons.

"They must learn as we have learned that the basis for a strong industrial society is a strong agriculture," Nixon said.

Earlier Nixon, claiming the presidential lead in "every major state" moved into what he called Operation Extra Effort — a campaign windup with electronic focus.

Nixon described his plan for the remaining days of the White House campaign yesterday before he set out from Key Biscayne, Fla.: "The fastest finish in campaign history."

Robert Ellsworth, his national political director, said that will mean an intensified television and radio campaign, plus a stepped-up regiment for the nominee.

But there was no noticeable disruption in the measured style and pace of the Nixon campaign itinerary.

"We do have available television and radio in a perhaps far greater quantity than has been available in any previous campaign, even greater than in 1960," Nixon said.

It was evident that Nixon's windup plan does not include the kind of exhausting and extensive personal travel which marked his losing bid for the presidency eight years ago. Then, in a 32-hour windup spring, Nixon covered more than 7,200 miles. Some of the major items in the current plan:

Four hours of national television on Monday, Nov. 4, the

Apollo Trio Gives TV Viewers Lesson In Cooking And Plumbing

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — Bearded, rested and feeling better, the Apollo 7 astronauts presented a televised lesson in space age cooking and plumbing on the Wally, Walt and Donn show today and then sped on toward the halfway point of their marathon space mission.

As they swept into their sixth day in orbit, their space chariot was performing so well that plans were being firmed to send three men around the moon Christmas Day aboard Apollo 8 to be lifted aloft by the giant Saturn rocket.

For the third straight morning, the tediousness of the flight was broken by the daily television. The TV show was shortened from 11 minutes to nine minutes today because of initial reception trouble at a receiving station at Corpus Christi, Tex.

The show began as usual with Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. holding up the usual introductory sign: "Hello from the Lovely Apollo Room High Atop Everything."

Then, in contrast to the hijinks of previous days, the astronauts were more businesslike as they demonstrated some of the things they do in space.

Civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham showed how the astronauts prepare their food as he took a plastic container of breakfast fruit juice and injected cold water in it through a nozzle.

Narrator Schirra said that the rehydratable food could be made palatable with either hot or cold water. Apollo 7 meals have been the first hot meals in space.

As the food bag floated freely off Cunningham's fingertips, Schirra said: "You can see in the center an interesting formation of bubbles."

The bubbles, caused by weightlessness, were not actually visible to viewers.

Then Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele took over the camera and pointed it at a puddle of water in the lower bay of the cabin.

Schirra said the water is caused by condensation from some of the cold tubing in the life support system but that the exact source was not known.

LBJ Tells Candidates No Peace Talk Change

Rumors Afloat In Paris

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Johnson telephoned major presidential candidates today to tell them there has been no breakthrough in Vietnam War negotiations, despite widespread reports of a U.S. proposal to halt completely the bombing of North Vietnam.

He gave them this word, which had earlier been released to inquiring newsmen by presidential press secretary George Christian:

"The position of the United States with respect to Vietnam remains as set forth by the President and the secretary of state.

'NO CHANGE'

"There has been no basic change in the situation; no breakthrough."

But in Paris U.S. spokesman William J. Jorden said "there has been a movement" in the peace talks. Jorden stressed "it is terribly difficult to judge progress until one arrives at a destination."

Johnson arranged a conference telephone call to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in St. Louis, Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon in Kansas City and American Independent Party candidate George C. Wallace in Los Angeles.

READS STATEMENT

Christian said the President told the three he wanted them to know what the White House was saying and read the memorandum to them. He said the President acted "in the light of the uncertainty created by the various reports."

A senior South Vietnamese political official said in Saigon earlier today the United States has proposed a full bombing halt and was discussing the proposal with the Saigon government.

In Paris South Vietnamese diplomats told newsmen they understand the United States had made the proposal as an attempt to further peace negotiations.

PACKAGE PLAN

Washington officials, although declining to say whether a final settlement has been reached, acknowledged the United States and North Vietnam have been discussing for several weeks a package plan to end the deadlocked talks in paris.

The Washington officials said a key element of the package is North Vietnam's military restraint in return for a bombing halt.

Also being discussed, they said, is the way the South Vietnamese government and the National Liberation Front—political arm of the Viet Cong—would be brought into the second phase of the Paris talks.

The report from Saigon followed two meetings today between U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Souht Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu. Later Bunker met a third time with Thieu who meanwhile had met with his Cabinet and top political, legislative and government figures.

SAIGON SOURCE

The Saigon source said Thieu told top members of his regime the enemy must guarantee they will not escalate the war if a bombing halt is ordered.

There was no indication during today's 26th meeting in Par-

BAY RESIDENTS PROTEST

Houseboat Cleanup, Rules Ordered By Supervisors

By WAT TAKESHITA

On motions by Peter H. Behr, the supervisors:

1. Authorized the county counsel to file a complaint against Donlon J. Arques charging that houseboats on and near his property in Richardson Bay are public nuisances and many are lying on underwater public streets.

2. Asked the planning commission to draft zoning laws, limiting the proliferation of houseboats outside of established marinas.

3. Asked Public Works Director Donald R. Frost to complete in about a month an ordinance controlling houseboat construction and maintenance.

4. Approved spending up to $15,000 to clean up debris on public rights-of-way.

5. Authorized the right of application for occupancy permits for owners in the case of three or four houseboats that are mostly on private land but encroach partially on public land and can be brought up to safety standards.

The rapid fire decisions brought a howl from the audience, particularly from David Gold, attorney for Arques.

Gold argued that Arques is not to blame because he does not provide the houseboats or the wiring or other facilities. "Let's not have a concept of guilt by association," said Gold. "If the county wants to clean up the tenants, let the county go ahead. "Don't tell Mr. Arques to clean

Bruce Denies Delays On Program For New Careers, Tells Problems

Bruce emphasized he does not want to start or continue arguments with Dr. Arthur Pearl, developer of the new program, nor with anyone else.

In a news story which appeared Monday, Austin J. Thompson, head of the county human rights department, was quoted as saying the county administrator claims the program would cost $5,000 to $10,000 per person to operate.

"We can see that in some cases, where education might be needed beyond that available in the county, costs could come to $5,000 or $10,000 for a certain individual," said Bruce. An example might be jobs which require professional licenses or degrees requiring out-of-county education or training.

But to use those figures as applying to all trainees under new courses is "a distortion taken out of context," declared Bruce.

The administrator explained why he feels it is important to develop statistics on both the county job turnover and employment growth before the county proceeds on the new careers program.

He said the total job turnover and employment growth figures are not enough; his office must break those down among the various departments on a sepcific basis.

"There are relatively few openings in any given time and these are not subject to mass handling," said Bruce. "The budget is tight and lean and there are no excess positions or excess time for supervision of trainees."

He gave this example: "Say we have four draftsmen in the department of public works. There may be more, I'm not sure. But assume one vacancy developed among the four positions. If we brought in one person who didn't know drafting, we'd have to take the time of one supervisor to train him. What will happen to the work that the fourth draftsman was doing? What will happen to production?

These studies must be made in the 30 county departments, each divided into several divisions and involving perhaps a thousand different functions, each with a relatively small work force, he noted.

In this respect, county work is different from those in large factories or companies, said Bruce. If 20 or 50 employees were engaged in one function, one or two trainees would not seriously affect production, but in county work, most functions are small, and one inexperienced trainee plus a supervisor to train him could cut seriously into output, the administrator explained.

Bruce said a detailed cost analysis has not been completed, but he can see these factors that would add to cost:

"We would need to increase the amount of time available for supervision and training, which would mean an increase in staff. We may also need skilled

Bus Commuters Face Another Fare Boost

Marin and Southern Sonoma commuters face their second Greyhound bus fare increase this fall as the state Public Utilities Commission approved a 4 per cent increase on fares on all routes — both commuter and long distance — yesterday.

The increase follows on the heels of a 6 to 8 per cent increase in commute fares that went into effect Sept. 1. The September increase was designed to cover some of Greyhound's added costs of operation.

This hike is to cover only the higher labor costs, estimated at $1,450,000 annually, granted in a contract signed May 30 with the Amalgamated Transit Union, representing the line's drivers, station employees and office workers.

The commission found that the fare increase would bring in slightly more revenue than the labor cost increase but not so much as to be excessive.

In a typical increase, a Sausalito rider will pay 60 cents instead of 55 cents for a one-way trip to San Francisco.

Other Marin and Sonoma rates (with present rates in parentheses) will be:

Marin City, 60 cents (55), one way, and $8.35 20-ride book ($8); Mill Valley and Corte Madera, 75 cents (70) and $11.45 ($11); San Rafael, Manor, Tiburon and Belvedere 90 cents (85) and $12.50 ($12); Terra Linda 95 cents (90) and $13.55 (13).

Ignacio and Novato, $1.05 ($1) and $14.60 ($14); Petaluma $1.55 ($1.45) and $17.70 ($17); Cotati and Rohnert Park, $1.70 ($1.60) and $20.80 ($20); Bolinas, $1.25 ($1.20) and $17.70 ($17) and Inverness, $1.75 ($1.65) and $21.85 ($21).

Gladys Develops Into Hurricane

MIAMI (UPI)—Gladys grew to a full hurricane today as it slammed into southwestern Cuba with 80 mile per hour winds and aimed for a direct blow at a 140-mile section of Florida's west-central Gulf Coast.

Gladys, growing stronger by the hour, ripped into Southwest Cuba near the coastal town of Gerona after raking the Isle of Pines earlier in the day.

Americans Win Nobel Medicine Prize

STOCKHOLM (AP) —Three American professors were awarded the 1968 Nobel Prize fo physiology and medicine today for their work in deciphering the genetic code, popularly known as a key to life, to determine how genes of a cell direct a cell's function.

The joint winners are Robert Holley of Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., Har Gobind Khorana of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis., and Marshall Warren Nirenberg of the National Heart Institute, Bethesda, Md.

Many scientists have worked on the problems for which the professors won the world's most coveted medical distinction. The three will share equally in the award, which has a record cash value this year of $70,000.

MARSHALL NIRENBERG

HAR GOBIND KHORANA

ROBERT HOLLEY

Experts explained that the efforts involved translation of the genetic code, a sequence of four nucleotides in nucleic acids, into the sequence of 20 amino acids in proteins. This could be compared with the translation of a language containing four letters into another containing 20 letters.

The medical prize is one of five set up to be awarded annually under the will of Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. Each will be worth $70,000 this year.

The Nobel Peace Prize for 1968 was awarded Oct. 9 to Prof. Rene Cassin of France, who heads the European Court of Human Rights.

The literary laureate of the yeas is to be chosen tomorrow. A German novelist, Guenter Grass, is considered among the top prospects. The remaining prizes, for physics and chemistry, will be distributed Oct. 30.

The American scientists were singled out by the Swedish Royal Caroline Institute of Medicine and Physiology. It said they had worked independently, but that their investigations converged toward the solution of a common problem.

Nirenberg, 41 and a New Yorker, opened this research area by a very simple but ingenious experiment and by following up his breakthrough he could clarify the general character of the genetic code, the Caroline Institute faculty said.

Dr. Khorana, born in Raipur, Inidia, in 1922, and Holley, born the same year in Urbana, Ill., probed the fine structure of the genetic code and explained how it is used by the cell for the biosynthesis of proteins.

Nirenberg, who heads the section of biochemical genetics at the National Heart Institute in Bethesda, was educated at the University of Florida and received his Ph. in biochemistry from the University of Michigan in 1957. He received the National Medal of Science from President Johnson in 1965.

His research interests include, beside the genetic code, the mechanism of protein synthesis and nucleid acids.

Khorana started his career as an organic chemist. During 1950-52 he worked with the Nobel Prize winner A. Todd in Cambridge, England, on building up a complex biological substance called nucleotides.

Shelling Of Village Kills 10 Civilians

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marine artillerymen fired eight 155mm shells into the outskirts of a supposedly empty village yesterday, killing 10 South Vietnamese and wounding 23 others, military spokesmen announced.

The village was about a mile northeast of the Thuong Duc Special Forces Camp, in jungled foothills 30 miles southwest of Da Nang. There has been sporadic fighting at the camp since Sept. 28.

The 155mm guns were firing against suspected enemy positions to protect sweeping American Marines from the 5th Regiment and South Vietnamese infantrymen from the 501st Regiment.

Marine spokesmen said an error in elevation on the sighting device caused the shells to land in the village about half a mile west of the target.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command in Saigon said the accident is under investigation. He said the village was thought to have been evacuated "but maybe the people moved back in without telling the village chief."

All those killed were civilians.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Ban In Britain

LONDON (AP)—The government today banned all foreign agitators from entering Britain for an anti-Vietnam demonstrations Oct. 27, officials said.

Diplomatic missions in London have been told their citizens arrested during the mass protest march would be dealt with harshly.

The informants said immigration officials at all entry posts have been advised of the ban and will be sent in the next few days a list of students and others with records of violence. The list was compiled by Scotland Yard with the help of foreign police forces and Interpol, the international police organization.

Cigarette Check

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Federal Trade Commission repeort lists Marvel regular-sized filter cigarettes with the lowest tar and nicotine content of any on the market and Carlton king-size filters as being equally low in tar content.

The study, released yesterday by the Senate Commerce Committee, ranked English Ovals the highest in both categories.

The committee said the findings were from the third in a series of tests at the FTC's special smoking machine laboratory and the first covering all 122 brands of cigarettes on the market.

Date A Secret

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — Julie Nixon says she and David Eisenhower have set their wedding date. But they're keeping it a secret.

"I hope the wedding won't be turned into a TV spectacular," says David.

Julie's and David's remarks about the forthcoming marriage were made at a news conference held after they flew here from New York. They said Fred Grandy, a friend, will be best man and Tricia, Julie's sister, the maid of honor.

Wallace On Nazis

Lindsay Jeered Over School, Race Issues

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay was booed and cursed by a hostile white audience at a Brooklyn Jewish center last night when he pleaded for understanding in the city's racially tense school crisis.

When the mayor finished speaking, a crowd of about 4,000 whites greeted him outside with shouts of "Lindsay must go!" Police had to restrain the crowd which pounded on Lindsay's car as he drove away.

"Antiwhite propaganda will not be part of our school system," Lindsay promised inside the center, "anti-Semitic epithets will not be part of our school system."

"But they are! But they are!" shouted hecklers in the audience of about 1,500.

At the height of the disturbance, Lindsay had to shout to make himself heard.

Pointing out an official of the striking AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers, Lindsay compared some of the teachers actions with those taken by the predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican school district in Brooklyn which is seeking decentralization.

"Our city will not survive if teachers are illegally transferred any more than it will if this gentleman here leads the teachers in an illegal strike," Lindsay said. "I say to you that there have been acts of vigilanteism by both groups."

The strike against the 1.1-million pupil public school system is in its third day with no talks slated in the dispute. It is the UFT's third walkout of the six-week-old fall term.

The combined efforts of some parents and nonstriking teachers kept 420 of the city's 900 public schools open yesterday but the board of education said total attendance was only about 68,000, the same as Monday.

The walkout is over the refusal of the locally elected governing board of the Ocean Hill-Brownsville experimental school district to reinstate 80 ousted UFT members.

The predominantly white union is demanding that Ocean Hill's Junior High School 271, one of its eight schools, be closed because of alleged harassment and death threats against the disputed teachers.

Student Acts Are Defended In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Most Chicago school officials have reacted with alarm to Negro student agitation which has thrown many of the city's high schools into turmoil, but two officials see cause for encouragement.

Some 5,000 Negro high school students stayed away from classes yesterday in continuing protests to dramatize their demands for more representation, more Negro teachers and administrators and more Negro studies. Seventeen persons were arrested.

The demonstrations illustrate "a healthy attitude despite the fact that here and there some excesses are engaged in," Warren Bacon, a Negro member of the board of education, has said.

"We should be pleased that black students are really becoming concerned about their education and that their interest is awakened to the revelance of schools to their lives," he added.

Said Joseph Rosen, district superintendent for a West Side area in which some of the troubled schools are situated: "I think it is a disturbing phenomenon for those in the middle of it, but a beautiful phenomenon for the people who are growing."

He added: "We're watching people who want to get involved—students, parents and teachers. The reaction to that expression of concern can be either positive or negative."

up the tenants . . . Don't ask him to be the policeman for the county."

"Why should he go out there and antagonize people he has known for years," replied Gold. "That's unfair."

"If I were the landlord, I wouldn't let tenants throw cans and debris all over the front yard and say, 'I don't care, I don't live there'," scolded Supervisor William A. Gnoss.

Supervisor John F. McInnis told Gold that the enforcement campaign is aimed at both landlords and tenants, and the complaint against Arques is just one facet. He suggested the supervisors proceed with action.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney reported that the civil court action authorized by the supervisors will be followed by criminal action against Arques for "flagrant code violations existing on his property which endanger the life and limb of the people in the area."

Maloney said he had also filed four criminal complaints against houseboat dwellers who failed to apply for occupancy permits.

Deputy County Counsel Joseph A. Forest complained that Arques has not responded even once to the series of letters sent to him.

"I've been on the board for four years and have never seen Mr. Aeques respond," agreed Kettenhofen. "He's been very uncooperative."

"I've been on the board 16 years," added Gnoss. "And talking about Mr. Arques, we can never get him in here. You can't drag him in here."

"I have word that he is alive and well in Las Vegas, posing as Howard Hughes," laughed Thomas T. Storer.

Kettenhofen repeated what he has been trying to get for several weeks — an emergency ordinance to stop all construction or bringing in of houseboats into Richardson Bay.

Lawrence argued that his group is making an honest effort to comply with a new ordinance being drafted by the Department of Public Works, and an emergency ordinance now would delay the completion of that ordinance.

Lawrence declared that not many boats are coming into the area, and construction for the year is almost over because of the rainy season.

Kettenhofen and Frost disagreed, charging that more boats and new construction are evident every day.

Houseboat resident Robert Kalloch, who said he has been living on the bay for three and one-half years, suggested that houseboat control be by natural attrition.

"Winter is coming so people won't move out there," declared Kalloch. "The inadequacy of boats will become evident as soon as the storms come. If inadequate, they'll sink. That's all there is to it." The audience roared.

Stephen H. Kaufmann, attorney for the Strawberry Recreation District demanded an immediate moratorium on the use of the area for houseboats. "As part of the zoning ordinance, you do have the power to stop use of the property for houseboats," he declared. "The Coast Guard said that in six months, we'll be able to walk from Sausalito to Strawberry Point. You'll have a density that will be unbelievable."

He charged that Strawberry Point is becoming a "catch basin for sewage, and pardon the expression, it's a stinking mess."

Dean M. Jennings, publicist for Gallo Wines who lives on a houseboat on the Arques property, said that the Marin Houseboat Association now has 98 houseboat owners and have elected officers.

Jennings said his group is willing to comply with all regulations that are set up, but find that by trying to comply, they find themselves faced with a demolish order.

"Last week there were 84 applications for occupancy permits," said Jennings. "Of these, some 50 were served with demolish or remove orders. Most of the specifics on which the demolish or remove orders were made were based on information submitted in the applications!"

This, Jennings charged, is entrapment.

Behr conceded Jennings had a point and suggested that long-standing houseboats that can be brought up to standards should be allowed to apply for occupancy franchise if they encroach only slightly on public property.

Public Works Director Frost shook his head. "A moment ago, I thought we were going out of houseboat business; now we seem to be going back into houseboat business."

Behr replied he is not in the houseboat business at all but it merely trying to be equitable to bona fide residents of houseboats while at the same time making them safe for the health and welfare of residents.

the Bay Area for some time.

Werber smiled and stifled a laugh.

Garety told the judge Werber is not likely to flee from the charges because he has substantial business and property investments in the area.

Besides, he said, "Mr. Werber is anxious to prove the falsity of these charges lodged against him."

Werber was free from 4 p.m. yesterday, when he made bail in federal court, until 9 p.m., when Marin officers arrested him on the local charges. He spent the night in County Jail, unable to make the $31,250 bail orginally set by Judge Goldstein.

Also scheduled to enter a plea Tuesday in Municipal Court is Frank John Mathieson, 34, of San Anselmo, a drummer. He was arrested with Werber Monday night and charged with possession of marijuana for sale.

Judith Ann Sloper, 29, Werber's girl friend who lives in the Werber mansion at 4 DeSilva Island, must appear in court tomorrow for arraignment on charges of cultivating marijuana and possession of the weed.

Bryce Staples Wilson, 44, of Kentfield who listed his occupation as a writer, must appear at the same time to face a charge of possession of marijuana for sale.

Werber refused comment today on allegations that he was accumulating the marijuana with plans to begin a religious cult, based on use of the weed, with himself as high priest.

He would not discuss the case other than to express amazement at accusations that he has been a large dealer in marijuana.

His immediate plans, he said, were to shower away the results of two nights spent in jail, then help Miss Sloper celebrate her 30th birthday.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

The Case Of The Handbill

Richville was a quiet, wealthy small town. Most residents took long vacations.

Richville also had a high number of burglaries. So the city passed a number of laws for better lighting of homes and streets, and providing for more police and special patrols. It also passed a law that no one could throw handbills on private residential land without the owner's consent.

Randolph Burst ran a neighborhood paper with ads and a few local news items. He claimed the local law violated his right to free speech. He challenged the law in court but he lost.

The ordinance did not bar a publisher from leaving papers at a home that accepts them. Nor did it keep him from asking the owner's consent to leave papers.

Throwing papers on another's property without his consent is like standing on the person's front porch, hoping to catch some people who might listen. No one has the right to litter another's property under a claim of "free speech."

In another case, Palm Springs passed a law that barred use of sound trucks without a police permit. It also limited their use to four hours a day, and said the trucks had to move at least ten miles an hour. To the court this restriction was too broad. "Free speech is worthless unless there are meaningful ways to express it," the Supreme Court said.

Another city tried to limit giving free pamphlets on public streets. It said the readers littered the streets after reading them. The court thought this ordinance invalid; the city could ban littering. But giving pamphlets to the public lies within the scope of free speech. Since Thomas Paine's time, the free press has been a useful weapon in defense of liberty.

You cannot restrict those who go from door to door handing out religious or political information. You can go from door to door to see if you can get willing listeners.

Soliciting money for charity has no such protection. The law regards it not as "speech," but as a commercial activity. Ordinances limiting door to door salesmen are generally valid.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, top U.S. negotiator there, told newsmen after the session there had been no talk of the bombing issue.

North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy declared: "The 26th meeting was just like the 25 preceding ones." During the session itself Thuy repeated Hanoi's formula for progress in the talks: a total, unconditional halt in U.S. attacks on the North.

The United States has insisted on mutual restraint by North Vietnam as a condition for a full bombing halt. Hanoi has yet to give any word or hint that the recent decline in its military activity is due to a deliberate decision to de-escalate the war.

What the declines means could not be immediately explained.

with the plumbing problem, Eisele took a small vacuum cleaner-like device and Schirra described:

"Now he's going to suck up the water with the accumulator line we have. It's a pretty good size blob of water. It takes quite a while to mop up."

He explained that the water is then spilled overboard through a water dump system.

The only levity in the conversation, in contrast to earlier days, was this comment from Schirra, emulating an airline pilot:

"This is your captain speaking. On this flight you can unfasten your seat belts and relax and I hope we can make this flight enjoyable for you."

Mission Control told the astronauts that the reception was good but not up to the quality of the previous two mornings.

Apollo 7 was headed for the midway mark of its planned 11-day journey tonight with ground crews keeping a watch on tropical storm Gladys off the Florida coast. No major highlights are planned in the last half of the mission as the astronauts continue the routine job of checking and rechecking the systems.

They all slept well last night, each averaging about eight hours. This contrasted with the previous night when Schirra complained that they were awakened too early.

All three reported their colds were much better and that they had stopped taking medication, including aspirin.

employment counselors outside the department who would test and evaluate trainees, follow through and work with them. In any such program, there are bound to be some failures, which means the investment goes down the drain."

Bruce said his staff is working on statistics on turnover and employment growth and hopes to make a progress report to the supervisors "in a few weeks." He said, "I think we can come up with a program that is modest and with a moderate price tag."

Bruce said he is not sure whether a new agency must be created specifically for new careers which would include educational counselors supporting services. "We want to keep this open as option," said Bruce.

Pearl has said that creation of a special agency would destroy the New Careers concept.)

The administrator explained he has not approached College of Marin to help provide the education for new careers trainees "because before we can intelligently talk to the college, we must see what the turnover and statistics are. There's no point in training or employing a person in new careers if you can't guarantee him a job after the training."

"It would be unfortunate to argue about something that is in the formative stages," Bruce concluded. "The idea or concept is too important to jeopardize from negative arguments."

Clark Rips Nixon Over Law, Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark accused Richard M. Nixon Wednesday of "deliberately misleading" Americans on the law and order issue. He said the GOP presidential candidate doesn't know enough about crime control to even discuss the subject objectively.

Nixon has been making campaign statements such as : "Under the stewardship of the present administration, crime and violence have skyrocketed in America." He has said he will have an attorney general who can deal with crime better than Clark has.

Blasting back, Clark told a Women's National Press Club audience the Republican candidate "resorts to trigger words and misstatement on the crime issue."

Clark suggested Nixon should "state positions on the issues clearly, not fabricate false issues."

He asked: "Can a man who deliberately misleads be trusted to lead?

Clark said crime cannot be controlled or reduced by "exortations to law and order" which he said may mean many things "but to most today signify . . . (and) repressiveness."

"It nurtures fear by conjuring terrible crimes. It fires anger by implying authoritarian power . . .

"Besides dividing, the demagogic phrase misleads or leads not at all. Crime is a very practical and pervasive problem. Practical, pervasive and specific programs are required if crime is to be arrested. But the phrase 'law and order' offers no program . . . . "

Picking too on Nixon's "support your police" slogan, Clark suggested that "police need more than a cheering section."

Setting out what he considers the necessary programs for crime control, Clark mentioned:

The registration and licensing of firearms.

New emphasis on corrections.

OBITUARIES

CHARLES HUBBARD

Funeral for Charles C. Hubbard of Reno, formerly of San Rafael, will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at the Parent funeral chapel, Petaluma. Interment will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Hubbard, 37, died after a short illness Monday in Reno, where he had lived two years and worked as a salesman for Sears Roebuck Co. Born in Palo Alto, Hubbard lived in San Rafael from 1935 to 1960.

He is survived by his wife, Marion Hubbard of Reno; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Hubbard of Petaluma; a son, Charles C. ERIKA DUTRA

Private family funeral for Erika Lain Dutra, 3-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Edward Dutra of 7110 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Lagunitas, was held today at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

The child was found dead in her crib at the home of friends yesterday morning, according to the Marin County Coroner's office. Cause of death was not known.

Asst. Coroner Eugene R. Fontaine said that the child's mother had taken the baby to stay with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Munk of Woodacre on Monday. Mrs. Munk said the baby appeared in normal health during the day and was sleeping normally when checked at 10:30 p.m.

She was found dead at 8:30 a.m. with her face turned to the mattress of the crib.

HOWARD SMITHERS

Howard Leon Smithers, 55, of 2534 Stony Point Road. Petaluma. died yesterday at a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

Born and educated at Ogdensburg, N.Y., he came to the Cotati-Petaluma area in the early 1940s. He had been employed as a Carpenter by the Dick Peters Construction Co., of Mill Valley, and was a member of the Carpenter's Union, Local 35 of San Rafael.

He is survived by his wife, Alice Congers Smithers of Petaluma; four sons, Allan Smithers of Riggins, Idaho, Milford Smithers of Santa Rosa; Howard Smithers of Petaluna, and Robert Perry of Corte Madera; four daughters, Mrs. Beverly Malugani, Mrs. Carol Nichols, Mrs. Donna Ayers and Mrs. Linda Babson, all of Santa Rosa; a brother, Cad Smithers, and a sister, Mrs. Evelyn Bush, both of New York.

Funeral will be Friday at 2 p.m. at the chapel of Sorensen's Funeral Home, Petaluna. Interment will be at Liberty Cemetery.

Reed Trustees Want Closer Parent Links

Reed School District trustees last night pondered ways to improve communication to parents about new school programs.

Trustees expressed their concern after spending two hours reviewing the new social science curriculum at Del Mar School and answering questions from parents.

Two weeks ago the board spent about three hours with an audience of about 150 persons reviewing the teaching program at Reed School.

Trustee Leo Souza said it would be wise for staff members to discuss the social science curriculum program with parents "in depth."

Trustees also wrapped up the Reed School program discussion that started two weeks ago, but the audience was smaller, about 35 persons and about half of them staff members.

Jack Usilton, Reed principal, said he had sent a brochure to parents explaining team teaching, ungraded classes and multi-grouping of pupils.

A discussion on school programs will be held by the Reed Parent-Teacher Club at 8 p.m. Monday at the school, Usilton reported.

He also explained the report card program whereby parents will have a choice of the traditional report ard or parent-teacher conferences or both.

Souza said he felt this method was asking them (parents) to chose sides," and it "was a poor position to put parents into."

One resident said some people were unhappy over some of the new teachers and what they were teaching and another said many parents feel they haven't any say in what is taught.

K. L. Rice Jr., board chairman, suggested they talk to school principals and if still not satisfied to the board.

Souza wondered if the questioning of programs hasn't arisen because the district is "doing things we weren't doing two years ago."

Rice said, "It's probably due to changes instituted to the point where parents don't understand what's going on."

Trustees agreed that parent orientation nights alone weren't sufficient because two hours wasn't enough time to cover programs in depth.

One resident suggested that the board consider appointing an advisory committee composed of members of various professions who live in the district.

REEDLAND WOODS SCHOOL — Heard a report that a soils check revealed unstable fill at the Reedland Woods School site, and work is underway to make it stable but the additional cost hasn't been estimated. William G. Vanesen, assistant superintendent for business, said the extra cost would be included in the district's litigation against Lytton Savings and Loan Co. since the back fill over a storm drain installed by Lytton lacked compaction to support the fill over the drain.

ENROLLMENT — Received a report from Vanesen that district enrollment dropped 24 pupils between Sept. 26 and Oct. 10, and Trustee Leo Souza asked for information as to whether the families of the pupils still live in the district or have moved.

GRANADA SCHOOL — Heard that the construction at Granada School will be completed Dec. 1.

HIRING — Hired Mrs. Bonita Sanborn as a teacher's aide at Bel Aire School at $2.25 an hour with a four-hour day for the 1968-69 school year, and authorized the hiring of a custodian for Granada School at $449 a month.

DELEGATES — Voted for Mrs. Dorothy Brown, Dixie School District, Dr. Glen Haydon, Menlo Park City School District, and Lauress Wise, Redwood City School District, as delegates to the California School Board Association Assembly.

BOND SALES — Received a report that the Bank of America was low bidder for sale of $270,000 in district bonds at an interest rate of 4.99117 per cent.

Trustee James B. Atkin was absent.

Dialing Monkey For Zoo's News Called 'Drivel'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the latest news of the city zoo, dial "M-O-N-K-E-Y-S."

The Greater Los Angeles Zoo Association says attendance has zoomed as a result of this money business involving the telephone company.

Callers first hear on tape the sounds from the monkey compound and volunteer guide Janice Seaman, representing her voice as that of Paco Parrot, urges the family to visit the zoo and learn the identity of this month's mystery animal.

"He has four legs. He walks on his knuckles. He seldom makes sounds. He never chuckles. His tail is large. It drags on the ground. His tongue is so long and rather blue. The ants and termites stick on like glue. Do you know who? I do."

Said Potter yesterday: "What juvenile drivel?"

"This thing insults the intelligence of our younger generation. Kids today are more sophisticated than that," he said. He added that "there isn't a kid in town who wouldn't know" the mystery animal is an anteater.

A Nude Dancer Protests Draft

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Among the 150 persons who assembled outside the old Federal Building yesterday to support the draft resistance of Sidney Walter was a woman who peeled off her clothes, danced in the nude and cut up a melon with a large knife.

At the same time, members of the Firehouse Theater, of which Walter is the artistic director, put on skits favoring draft resistance and advocating peace in Vietnam.

Walter, the father of three children, was classified 1-A in July after he twice returned notices of delinquency to his Niagara Falls, N.Y., draft board explaining his position as being uncooperative.

The nude woman was not arrested, police said.

BART Estimates Concession Fees

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Bay Area Rapid Transit District can earn $165,000 a year from coneessions in its stations, says a preliminary report from the district's real estate department.

The report yesterday was based on a projection of 400,000 passengers a day and plans to install concessions at 30 of the district's 34 stations.

The three-county rapid transit system still is under construction.

Help To India

GENEVA (AP) — The World Council of Churches announced yesterday it has sent $10,000 to India to start a relief program for an estimated two million flood victims in West Bengal.

David D. Ring Nominated For Tam Trustee Vacancy

Ring, a 43-year-old attorney, was an unsuccessful candidate for the Tamalpais board last year, running a close third in a three-way race for two seats.

He has been a member of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization since 1965, and had served on the Reed School District board for eight years.

The vacancy arose early this month when Dr. John C. Siemans, board chairman, resigned after suffering a heart attack.

North Bay Transport Needs Report Slated

Studies of future transportation needs in Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties will be presented to the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission by its staff 10 a.m. Oct. 24 in the Sonoma County Planning Commission hearing room, 2555 Mendocino Avenue, Santa Rosa.

Also on the agenda is the final report of the study group on innovations and novel systems.

Charge Filed For Carrying Hidden Gun

Lanny G. Berry, special human relations assistant for the Tamalpais High School District, was charged in Marin Municipal Court yesterday with carrying a concealed weapon, a misdemeanor offense.

Berry, 36, of 685 Blackberry Lane, Lucas Valley, was arraigned on the charge and his case was continued until Oct. 22 for entry of plea.

The district attorney filed the charge as a result of an incident Sept. 7 when Berry, arguing with Herbert P. Mooney at 596 Millercreek Road, Marinwood, allegedly drew a .22-automatic from his hip pocket and exhibited it during discussion.

Sheriff's reports indicate both Berry and Mooney called for deputies after the dispute.

Barry, a former juvenile probation officer for Marin County, was hired by the school district in 1966 to work with the district's black students and their families.

Scholars Honored At Redwood High

Five Redwood High School students have been awarded letters of commendation for high performances in the 1968 national merit scholarship qualifying test.

They are Andrew E. Allen, Belvedere; Lynn A. Baker and Nanette M. Hantzsche, both of Tiburon; Imants P. Kaupe, Ross; and Welsey G. Mock; Corte Madera.

The five were among 39,000 who will graduate from high school next year and who scored in the upper 2 per cent in the nationwide test.

'STONE AGE,' SUPREME COURT

Douglas Thinks New Faces Could Undo Warren Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, who turned 70 today, says he wonders whether Americans would let "some Stone Age guys" alter the work of the Warren Court.

Douglas, two years shy of being the court's senior justice, was asked in a rare interview if a change in one or two places on the bench could alter the record of the court's 15 years under Chief Justice Earl Warren.

"A constitutional decision in the court is always open to change," Douglas replied. "Much of the things we do are controversial."

"Some Stone Age guys" could alter the court's direction if they were put on the bench, Douglas remarked.

He went on after more thought, however, "I just don't know that the sober second thoughts Americans have will allow fundamental changes."

Douglas also denied rumors that he plans to quit, said it was a misfortune Abe Fortas was not confirmed as chief justice and rejected the idea rising crime is related to court decisions.

The justice challenged a senator's remark that he "felt safer on the streets of Communist Moscow than on the streets of some areas of our nation's capital."

Douglas didn't mention Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., by name, but said the point is that Russia is a police state.

"Some people would like to have their kind of a police state," Douglas added. "But Americans do not want a police state no matter what they say in their intemperate state."

A few days ago a political column said Douglas had decided to write his memoirs and to retire. "I have no plans to retire," the Justice declared. "I have no contract to publish anything" with the possible exception of a series of lectures he gave last March at New York University.

An electronic pacemaker was implanted in his chest last June to correct a slow pulse rate. Douglas explained: "There was nothing wrong with my heart. When I went into a deep sleep it would be like hibernation. My heart beat would drop. Then when I woke up it would be beating fast."

In any event, he said, "I am probably in better health than I have been in years." Douglas is hiking, horseback riding—but not traveling around the country enough to know if America is moving to the right politically.

"America has always been a pretty conservative country," he observed. "Whether there is a trend to the right, I don't know."

The conversation turned to defeat of Justice Fortas' nomination. "I think it was a misfortune that Abe Fortas was not confirmed," Douglas said. "He would, on the merits, have made a fine chief justice. This was politics.

"A certain nucleus of people in the Senate thought this was a chance for them to name a new chief justice, a political plum."

Attacks on the court, which accompanied the fight over Fortas, are nothing new, Douglas noted. Its decisions have always been controversial, and one year more than 70 bills were circulating in Congress to reverse court rulings, he said.

Afternoon Blackout Hits Petaluma Area

Most of Petaluma was without electricity for 20 minutes yesterday afternoon when an automatic switch failed to function at Substation C on the east side of town.

With the exception of the downtown business district, most areas lost service at 3:55 p.m. and had it return at 4:15 or 4:20 p.m., according to Clifford Bartlett Jr., Petaluma Pacific Gas and Electric Co. manager.

November 16th is the start of something big: a great new vacation lake 90 miles from San Francisco

When Lake of the Pines was completed, we sent a taskforce of experts combing Northern California—by helicopter, jeep and shoe-leather—searching for the perfect place to set our next great vacation lake. It had to be near enough so you could run up on Fridays after work...secluded enough to let the rest of the world rush by while you sail, swim, golf, dine, dance and play tennis in private.

The months of searching paid off—beautifully. We found exactly what we were hoping to, in a hidden valley amid hot mineral springs and basking under 300 days of golden sunshine a year.

All it lacked was water. We are now constructing a lake that will provide deep blue water to dive in, sail over, swim on and live around. Putting water in its proper place is our speciality—as you probably know if you've seen Lake of the Pines, or any one of the other vacation lakes United States Land has created all across the country.

How to get in on a good thing: To be among the first to know about this great new vacation lake, mail the coupon. It'll bring you just-published facts and figures on the golf club, the water sports and private lakeside club and marina, the vacation homesites...and how you and your family can preview this new vacation colony 90 miles from the Golden Gate before its Grand Opening.

Marin Demo Will Support Humphrey

A leading Marin Democrat today showed a change of heart and said he will support his party's presidential ticket.

S. Robert Politzer, chairman of the Marin County Democratic Cental Committee, last February labeled the Johnson administration's war policy "genocide," and in August predicted local Democrats would "sit out" the presidential election if Humphrey were the nominee.

Today, however, Politzer told the Independent-Journal that he was "just a loyal Democrat, and will support Humphrey no matter what happens." He supported Kennedy during the primary campaign, when the central committee was split between McCarthy and Kennedy supporters — with only a handful favoring Humphrey.

Politzer, reporting on last night's monthly committee meeting at the County Courthouse in San Rafael, said party workers had found "an awful lot of grass roots stirring for Humphrey.

Politzer also reported that the committee's "Dollars for Democrats Drive" netted about $1,000 in its first week. (The committee treasury last month had $1,287 in red ink.)

The committee also appointed Hans G. Roenau, Tiburon lithographer, and William Mills, Tiburon attorney, to fill vacancies left by Robert L. Harmon and D. Cameron Baker Jr. of Belvedere. Both resigned because they registered outside of Marin County, Politzer said.

State Is Filling More Farm Jobs

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A record of more than one million farm worker placements in California agriculture has been announced by Director Peter Weinberger of the state Department of Employment.

Heavily increased grower requests for workers resulted in the record total, which is predicted to reach approximately 1,180,000 by the end of the year, exceeding the previous high, in 1959, of 1,005,000.

Weinberger cited four factors, which he said accounted for the placement record of the Farm Labor Sevice of the agriculture department.

They were: Weather conditions which provided the best growing conditions; bumper crops in many commodities such as tomatoes, peaches, and pears; more local domestic workers, including women and youths; and more growers utilizing the services of the farm labor offices.

Irish Fire Bomb Hits British Office

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A demonstrator threw a gasoline bomb at the British Embassy yesterday and was immediately arrested. The bomb exploded against a wall but did no damage.

The incident followed Saturday's attack on the embassy by demonstrators protesting what they allege is anti-Catholic discrimination in British-controlled Northern Ireland.

Fairfax Trustees Try Again On Library Fund

Fairfax School District trustees voted last night to apply for $60,000 in federal funds to establish a special materials library at White Hill School.

The Fairfax School District board also:

ASSEMBLY — Supported Mrs. Dorothy Brown, president of the Dixie School District board, and Dr. Glenn Hayden of the Menlo Park School board as delegates to the California School Boards Association Delegate Assembly.

CLEAVER — Received without comment a letter from State Supt. of Public Instruction Max Rafferty warning of penalties against school districts and teachers if Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver were permitted to speak to students.

ENROLLMENT — Learned of a district enrollment of 1,142, up three from the last board meeting.

ORGANIZATION — Supported Mrs. Audrey A. Miller of the Lagunitas School District board as a member of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization.

SABBATICAL—Approved sabbatical leave in 1969-70 for Mrs. Julia Reade, district reading specialist, to pursue a doctorate.

Camera Missing

Thomas H. Kewin of 69 Fairway Drive, Mill Valley, told police someone stole a $300 camera from his home sometime between Oct. 1 and Saturday. Kewin said he noticed the camera missing when he went to use it on Saturday.

Berkeley Orders Black Studies

BERKELEY (UPI)— The Berkeley Board of Education voted yesterday to give all city school teachers a mandatory course of instruction on Negro history and culture.

The teacher education course was one of 14 demands presented to the board by the Black Student Union at Berkeley High School.

Big Four May Heed Thant's Parley Plea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Signs pointed today to Big Four acceptance of Secretary-General U Thant's proposal that their foreign ministers meet to discuss ways of bolstering the United Nations as a peace force.

However, U.N. delegates generally felt no date for a meeting could be set until after the U.S. presidential election; they pointed out that President Johnson could not commit the next administration to any such parley. Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart of Britain told a news conference Monday he did not foresee a Big Four meeting before next year.

A spokesman for Thant said he had received unofficial reactions that were "not negative" from Stewart, French Foreign Minister Michel Debre, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and U.S. chief delegate J.R. Wiggins.

Thant made public yesterday letters he had sent more than a week ago to the four foreign ministers. He talked with all four during their visits to the General Assembly for the current policy debate. A spokesman said that he had received no reaction from Rusk, but Wiggins called on Thant late yesterday to discuss the matter.

Thant expressed hope in his letters for an eventual Big Four summit conference that would inject a "ray of hope" in the dismal world picture. He suggested that the foreign ministers meet to discuss such matters as the financial situation of the United Nations, disarmament, U.N. peacekeeping and peacebuilding functions, and guidance and support for the mission of Gunnar Jarring, the secretary-general's Middle East envoy.

Thant had hoped that the ministers would get together during the current assembly session to discuss the issues, but all four have gone home.

Elsewhere in the United Nations:

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Jarring talked at length yesterday on Israel's nine-point plan for a Middle East settlement.

Laurence Michelmore, commissioner-general of the U.N. Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees (UNRWA), said his agency's financial situation remains precarious and the outlook bleak, unless refugee aid funds are increased 10 per cent.

Maoist Forces Nearing Full Control?

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

If there is substance in Peking Radio's latest claim of victory in the cultural revolution, Mao Tse-tung's forces are just about ready to legalize their seizure of power and try to rebuild stability in the nation of 700 million.

According to an unofficial translation of a broadcast editorial from Red Flag, Peking's main theoretical journal, "China's Khrushchev" has been stripped of party and government positions in a "complete victory" for the forces of Party Chairman Mao.

STILL ANONYMOUS

The editorial did not mention its target, President Liu Shao-chi, by name. This indicated that Maos' men were somewhat short of "complete victory." But the rest may be mere technicality, though it may take some time to accomplish.

When the cultural revolution exploded more than two years ago, one of its rules was that no ranking party or government leader could be assailed by name. Others who fell were denounced by name. But Liu, who has been chairman of the government and vice chairman of the party, still is called only "China's Khrushchev," a reference to his alleged "revisionism."

FINAL DOWNFALL

The editorial, however, reflected confidence that Liu's end is at hand. His final overthrow may await the calling of a Communist party congress, and for this reason Liu may still not be denounced by name even though in fact he may be thoroughly defeated.

The Chinese party's statutes require a congress every five years. There has been no congress, however, since the eighth in 1956, a dozen years ago. A congress, supposedly the supreme party body to which provincial organizations send delegates, is required to name a new central committee, which in turn names the politburo and other ruling organs.

DELAY REASONS

There have been signs that Mao's followers wanted to call a Congress this year, and were waiting only until they felt victory secure enough. A propitious date, Oct. 1, already has passed. That was the anniversary of the Communist takeover of the mainland.

If, however, the Maoists have imposed "revolutionary committees" on all the provinces as they claim, it would be easy enough to transform those committees into the present-day party and call a congress. That congress could officially remove Liu Saho-chi from his post of vice chairman of the party. It would then be simple enough to have the National People's Congress, a sort of parliament, remove him as its chairman—president of Red China.

The signs now are that China is in the hands of a group of 13 leaders under Mao, with defense minister Lin Piao wielding the real power in the name of "Mao Tse-tung's thinking." Lin has been designated Mao's heir apparent.

If China is going to seek stability after two uproarious years of violence, it must reconstruct a ruling party. The party as it existed at the Eighth Congress in 1956 no longer exists. Of its 99 central committee members, about 75 have been purged or denounced. Of the 20 politburo members in 1956, 13 have been denounced in the course of the cultural revolution.

Final victory for the Maoist forces could head China into thinly veiled military rule under Lin Piao, who leans heavily on the support of the armed forces.

There are no signs, however, that a restoration of some measure of stability would do anything to halt the wide breach between Peking and Moscow. China, on a go-it-alone policy, is farther away from the Soviet party now than it was two years ago, when the cultural revolution broke into the open. What China-watchers look for with a return of some stability is a careful policy avoiding long risks abroad while building strength at home.

Black Students Protest To Board

OAKLAND (UPI) — About 150 Negro students at Fremont High School packed the meeting of the Oakland Board of Education yesterday to protest the suspension of a student for attacking a teacher.

The students, who said they represented the Black Students Union, said they were protesting the board's decision to postpone action on the status of the suspended student until after his Juvenile Court hearing on Nov. 4.

Earlier, about 800 students skipped classes.

Petaluma Air Service Turned Down By State

The California Public Utilities Commission yesterday denied a request from Let's Fly, Inc. of Santa Rosa to fly a daily commuter service from the Petaluma Sky Ranch and Santa Rosa airport to major airports in San Francisco and Oakland.

Leslie LeBar, Let's Fly president, said no one from his organization attended yesterday's commission session in San Francisco and were surprised by the verdict. The PUC said the local airline had not shown sufficient proof of the need for the commuter service.

Stating he plans to appeal the verdict, LeBar said, "We thought we had shown a great need for the service during hearings on the request last July." He said when hearings are held on the planned appeal, he hoped to have community leaders testify to the need.

Now flying on a demand basis, the airline had requested to make two round-trip flights everyday. Lodging protests on the request were Air California, Air West and Golden Pacific Airlines, which is also seeking PUC approval to operate a similar commuting service from the Sonoma County airport.

SFO helicopter service on Marin's Richardson Bay had also lodged a protest, but withdrew it when Le Bar assured them his service would not run regularly between San Francisco and Oakland international airports. That service had been requested of the PUC by SFO Helicopters.

License Hearing

The Alcoholic Beverage Control board will hold a public hearing on the Belvedere Tennis Club's application for a conditional liquor license at 10 a.m. Oct. 23 in the grand jury room at Civic Center.

U.C. Enrollment Listed At 28,132

BERKELEY (AP) — Enrollment for the fall quarter at the University of alifornia Berkeley campus is 28,132, about 700 less than a year ago.

The university reported that the figure would have topped 30,000 but more than 2,000 eligible applicants were turned away to keep Berkeley enrollment near the "optimum ceiling."

The decrease from last fall reflects a planned cutback to bring enrollment closer to the 27,500 guideline set in the California master plan for higher education.

Patient Goes Home

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Petrus Smith left Groote Shuur Hospital yesterday, 38 days after doctors gave him the heart of an African woman in a transplant operation. He said he felt "100 per cent better."

LIKE AN ASTRONAUT — Six-year-old Calvin Grindel of Cuba, Ill., who is taking radiation treatments for a growth in his head, shied away from Betatron treatments until University of Illinois Hospital technicians in Chicago designed him this astronaut-like helmet. The big ears are for the Betatron attachments and the ropes, cords, belts and shoulder pieces are for decoration only. (AP Wirephoto)

Second Disco Department Store To Open

Marin County's second Disco department store will open tomorrow in Larkspur at the site of the former Lee Bros. Value World.

Occupying the one-acre building in Larkspur Plaza, Disco will hold a grand opening ceremony between 9:30 and 10 a.m. which will be attended by company and Larkspur officials.

This will be Disco's 10th store in a chain headed by Daylin, Inc. of Beverly Hills. The San Rafael store, which has been open several years, former was known as MAC Department Store, MAC-Disco and more recently as Disco Wonderworld. The new name for all stores in now simply Disco.

The Larkspur store will have more than 30 departments, including men's and women's clothing, shoes, drugs and pharmaceuticals, hardware and housewares, small appliances, sporting goods, automobile supplies and liquor. There will be no food department. The store will be staffed by about 200 employees. Approximately $250,000 has been spent by Daylin in remodeling the building.

James Marlais, who has managed the San Rafael store, has been made district manager of the two Marin stores and any other stores which may open in this district. Lyle Plummer, formerly with Disco in Stockton, has been appointed Larkspur manager.

During a 10-day grand opening period store hours wll be from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Thereafter regular hours will be from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Fridays; 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturdays; and from noon to 6 p.m. on Sundays.

Compressor Stolen

Sentence Date

George Franklin Battensby, 58, of San Anselmo, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge that he burgled Braverman's Furniture in San Anselmo Sept. 5, 1967. His case was continued to ov. 12 for sentencing.

San Anselmo Trustees Set Sabbatical Policy

The San Anselmo School District board last night agreed to limit the number of teachers on sabbatical leave to 2 per cent during any year.

The policy previously has set a limit of 3 per cent. Supt. Stephen L. Parodi said although there has been no problem, the board for several weeks has been considering the change to preclude any difficulty.

He said there are about 100 teachers in the district, and requirement is that sabbatical leave requests be submitted by Nov. 1 of each year. At present, he said, there are no applications for next year.

San Anselmo School District Board Also:

MEETINGS — Agreed to have two yearly meetings, one in October and one in April, with the city council to discuss items of mutual interest.

CLASSROOMS —Agreed to continue a policy of permitting the city parks and recreation department to use the three multi-purpose rooms for recreational use, and to consider permitting the department to use classrooms for adult groups.

REPRESENTATIVE — Nominated Audrey Miller, Lagunitas School District trustee, to the Marin County Committee on School District Organization in the Nov. 7 election. The selection dependent upon her approval.

CONFERENCE — Increased from 5 to 10 the minimum amount of days each year that a teacher should hold conferences with parents for pupils in grades 1 through 6.

COMMITTEE — Agreed to create a budget committee composed of 11 persons to help the board plan future yearly budgets. The committee would include two board members, three teachers, two school administrators, three laymen, and the district superintendent.

Hero's Wounded Son Evacuated

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI)—Navy corpsmen put the son of America's most decorated Marine aboard a flight out of the war zone today, five days after he lost his legs in a booby trap explosion.

Marine spokesmen did not disclose the exact destinaion of 2nd Lt. Lewis Puller Jr., 23, of Belvoir, Va., son of retired Gen. Lewis (Chesty) Puller, a World War II and Korean War hero.

The flight could take young Puller to the Philippines or Japan for treatment before his return to the United States.

Stanford Backs Grapes Boycott

STANFORD (UPI) — A Stanford University campus referendum showed today students supported the boycott of California table grapes by a 5-2 margin.

In balloting Monday and yesterday, 1,030 students supported the boycott by endorsing a statement backing "the struggle of the United Farm Workers for better living conditions." The statement was opposed by 409 students.

The university has an enrollment of 11,300 students.

Playing A Role In Lifesaving

WHIDBEY ISLAND NAS, Wash. (UPI)—The Navy's twin-jet A3B SKywarrior, which started out as a heavy bomber and has now changed to other tasks, is playing a key role in a lifesaving saga in the Vietnam War.

The planes are fitted out with a hose-reel assembly, a set of pipes, a 1,500-gallon tank and a pump and are being used as air refueling tankers.

The tankers have been credited with saving 499 combat planes worth $958.5 million. These planes would have had to ditch if it hadn't been for the converted Skywarriors, according to officers at this base.

Burial Place

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—"Uncle Sam" is buried in Oakwood Cemetery, near Troy, N.Y., according to the New York state Department of Commerce. "Uncle Sam" Wilson was a meat packer who supplied the Army with beef during the War of 1812.

Countywide Mailing Set To Help GOP

The Marin County Republican Central Committee last night voted to mail a special campaign edition of its newsletter, Trumpetings, to every Republican household in Marin.

Committee chairman Charles Michals estimated the cost of mailing the eight-page edition next week to some 33,000 households at almost $3,000. The money "to extol the virtues of our candadates" will come entirely from available committee funds, he said.

The mass mailing was voted at a special committee meeting in the County Courthouse in San Rafael. No public notice was given of the public meeting, but the committee is not governed by the state's antisecret meeting law.

Michals also reported a fourth Nixon-Agnew headquarters in Marin would open this week in San Anselmo opposite the Post Office. It will be operated by the Marin Federated Republican Women and financed by the central committee, he said.

Other headquarters already are opening in San Rafael, Mill Valley and Novato.

Drath Condemns Presidio Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The 28 soldier-prisoners in the Presidio stockade who have been refusing to work remained in segregation today as controversy rose outside the walls.

Philip Drath, of San Rafael, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 6th District, called the shooting of a prisoner last Friday, which the work stoppage protested, a "likely case of unjustified manslaughter."

The dead prisoner was Pvt. Richard Bunch, 19, Dayton, Ohio, who was held on an AWOL charge and was killed with a shotgun by an unnamed guard as he ran away from a work detail.

The Army said Bunch ignored shouted commands to halt. But Drath said warning shots should have been fired first and that the shot at Bunch should have been directed to the legs.

Junta Patrols, Curfew Keep Panama Calm

PANAMA CITY (UPI)—National Guard patrols and a strict nighttime curfew today kept Panama under solid control of the military junta that overthrew President Arnulfo Arias five days ago.

Panamanians generally accepted the new regime. Antijunta students scattered glass and carpet tacks in the streets as harassment but patrolling troops and the curfew kept a lid on violence.

The United States announced in Washington yesterday it was suspending diplomatic relations with Panama, paving the way for official recognition of the junta.

The United States was expected to withhold official recognition of the junta, however, until four of five other Western hemisphere nations act first.

Junta Foreign Minister Carlos Alfredo Lopez Guevara told newsmen the U.S. decision caught the new regime by "complete surprise" and "was not what we expected out of the United States."

The U.S. State Department announcement criticized Arias for using the sanctuary of the American-controlled Canal Zone to urge an uprising against the junta. Arias' efforts have gone for naught.

Canal Zone Gov. W.P. Leber and a U.S. embassy political officer visited Arias yesterday, presumably to discuss his plans and warn him further against playing politics while in U.S. territory. They had no comment for newsmen afterwards.

Meanwhile junta president, Col. Jose Pinilla, and Col. Bolivar Urrutia ran the new regime from behind the barred gates of the National Palace. The capital was back to normal following the bloodless coup last Saturday.

The new minister of the presidency, Juan Materno Vasquez, went on nationwide television last night and asked viewers to "consider the entire situation" and realize that the National Guard takeover was in the best national interests.

Junta censors edited the morning newspapers La Estrella and the Star and Herald and kept closed Arias-supporting newspapers and television stations.

103 Years Of Service Over

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Union Pacific Railroad has lost two of its steno-clerks—and with only a total of 103 years of service between them. Christabel Troxel decided to quit work when she reached her 80th birthday. And she took her kid sister, Maud, 77, with her.

The spinster sisters went to work for UP during World War I, Maud in 1916 and Christabel in 1917. They were born in Nebraska. Christabel is going on her second world cruise and Maud says she hasn't made up her mind what to do.

Where It Began

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—The nation's first educational television network was started in Alabama 15 years ago. It now is the largest state-owned ETV facility in the United States. Seven stations are in operation and another is on the drawing boards.

Sinking Vessel's Crew Is Rescued

Coast Guard headquarters here reported the rescue just 10 minutes after the men launched an inflatable life raft.

All seven persons aboard the stricken fishing vessel "John R. Cook" were lifted to safety by helicopters dispatched from the Navy aircraft carriers USS Lexington some 30 miles away.

The Coast Guard reported seas at six feet and winds at 20 knots when the fishermen abandoned their boat at 11:54 a.m. in the life raft dropped earlier by a circling airplane.

Sausalito Chamber Board Backs Bonds

The Sausalito Chamber of Commerce board yesterday unanimously endorsed the $10.9 million Tamalpais High School bond issue on the Nov. 9 ballot, according to president Raymond L. Roy.

Mrs. Bette Wallace, a high school district trustee, spoke. The bond issue was the only item discussed at the meeting.

A CONCLUSION

Rock Sample Reveals Oldest Of Life Forms

WASHINGTON (SS) — It is rare, in scientific investigation of the past, for anyone to discover a limit. There is always the chance that something older, deeper, bigger, smaller or more basic will be turned up in the next spadeful of dirt.

Recently, however, rock samples chipped from the mountains of Rhodesia have revealed traces of what may be not only the oldest life forms ever found, but the oldest that ever will be found.

The samples were collected from an exposed edge of a layer of rock called the Onverwacht, which dates back more than 3.2 billion years and is believed to contain the oldest exposed, well-preserved sedimentary rock beds on earth.

They were gathered to provide raw material for a training project to aid researchers at the University of Arizona's department of geochronology, who plan to apply similar life-hunting methods to pieces of lunar rock brought back from the moon by Apollo astronauts.

The investigators hoped to find fossilized remnants of primitive one-celled algae. Because some of the objects were expected to be as small as one ten-thousandth of an inch, the processing of the samples was done in clean rooms designed to keep out even the most minute forms of contamination.

After being cleaned with high-frequency sound waves some of the samples were sliced into layers so thin they were transparent, then fastened to glass microscope slides, while others were ground into powder and cooked in hot acid to remove any excess material.

Examination revealed thousands of tiny objects, some of them spherical, some long and filament-like, and other cup-shaped.

Physically, they appear indeed to be microfossils, the oldest surviving remains of earth's earliest creatures. Preliminary chemical analysis has added evidence by revealing compounds that are commonly found in the presence of life. But the conclusion is far from foregone.

"There is no assurance at all that life had evolved by the Onverwacht time," says Dr. Bartholomew Nagy of the University of Arizona.

The filaments, for example, could have resulted from deposits of sediment along planes and fissures in the rock, while the other shapes could have had similarily nonbiological origins. Also, the fact that chemical compounds in the samples have been associated with life does not necessarily mean that life was required to produce them.

If the traces are the remnants of life, however, they may mean that man will never be able to reach back to the very first sign of life on the planet. Finding life signs in the ancient Onverwacht would mean that the origins of life presumably occurred in still older rocks, which, the researchers believe, have been destroyed by millions of years of heat, pressure and upheaval from the evolving earth.

The objects are still being painstakingly analyzed in hopes of answering the mystery.

At least half a dozen scientists have already been involved, ranging from Dr. Albert E. J. Engel of the University of California at San Diego, who headed the team that originally gathered the samples in summer 1967, to Charles M. Drew at the Naval Weapons Center in China Lake, who provided an unusual stereoscopic microscope that made the examination possible.

Other researchers include Lois Anne Nagy and Dr. Gerhard, O. W. Kremp of the University of Arizona, and Dr. Celeste C. Engel of the U.S. Geological Survey.

That the tiny objects were once alive has in no way been established. If they were, however, and if the limit of man's discovery has indeed been reached, it is at once a rarity and a tragedy.

Late LBJ Friend Gets Burial Nod

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special exception to permit burial in Arlington National Cemetery of Judge Paul J. Kilday of the Court of Military Appeals, a friend of President Johnson's, has been made by the Army.

Army officials said it was the first such exception they know of in the 20 months since new burials at Arlington were ordered strictly limited because space is running out.

Judge Kilday, a longtime Texas congressman before being appointed to the military Court of Appeals, died Saturday after an apparent heart attack. He was 68.

Vietnam Bounces Back After Tet

SAIGON (AP) — The top U.S. adviser to South Vietnam's pacification program said today the country has almost completely recovered from the effects of two enemy offensives earlier this year.

Robert W. Komer called the recovery "a major success" of President Nguyen Van Thieu's Saigon government.

"The effects of the Communists' Tet offensive last February and mini-Tet attacks of May have now been largely removed and the government is ready to begin a new phase of pacification," Komer said.

"The facts speak for themselves. More than 100,000 damaged or destroyed homes have been repaired or rebuilt. There is an abundance of food. Lines of communication are open. In short, the economy is moving."

The enemy offensives, launched against population centers including Saigon, were designed to shake confidence in the government. More than 13,000 civilians were killed and 27,000 were wounded; and more than a million refugees were left homeless by the destruction of $175 million worth of property.

"Instead, the offensives galvanized a relatively new and untried government into positive action on behalf of the people of South Vietnam," said Komer.

The recovery program's initial task was to furnish emergency aid to the civilian population, Komer said, setting up emergency food distribution centers, establishing curfews for security and reopening roads and lines of communication.

"As lines of communication were quickly reopened and secured, prices which skyrocketed during the first uncertain days of the attacks declined to near normal levels," he said.

Komer reported the program furnished care for 750,831 evacuees during Tet and another 140,000 in "Mini-Tet," the "great majority" of whom have now returned to new or rebuilt homes.

The government paid 60,000 families more than $4 million in relief and resettlement allowances, and distributed more than 100,000 tons of food, clothing and other supplies. Komer said 24 non-Communist countries, the Red Cross and various other volunteer agencies contributed about $4.3 million in cash or supplies.

Explosives Cache Found In Arrest

OAKLAND (UPI) — A suspected military deserter was arrested yesterday by police and FBI agents who also discovered a large quantity of explosives in the suspect's apartment.

The alleged deserter was identified as Darrell Gurkin. Authorities did not reveal his branch of service.

Police said the explosives cache included five sticks of gelamite, wires, tape, booster charges and plastic.

Climber Falls To Death On El Capitan

YOSEMITE (UPI)—A experienced mountain climber fell 3,000 feet to his death on El Capitan here yesterday.

James Madsen, 21, Seattle, an experienced climber who had conquered the peak several times, was identified as the victim. Madsen apparently was the first climber killed in a fall on El Capitan since the peak was first scaled in 1958.

Madsen and four other persons climbed the peak to check on the position of two other climbers, Charles Pratt, 29, La fayette, and Chris Fredericks, 26, El Segundo. They were found safe and said they planned to continue their climb up the difficult south wall.

Madsen and another climber had reached the top of El Capitan on the north route and were descending the south face when the accident occurred.

Tiburon Fire Chief Asks More Volunteers

The Tiburon Fire Department needs more volunters, especially from the Belveron Gardens area, Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher last night told the Belveron Homeowners Association, according to vice president Opal Henson.

Buscher outlined the duties of a volunteer fireman, the functions of the fire department, the district's tax rate and what property tax revenues are used for, Mrs. Henson reported.

Substituting for chairman Donald L. Batten, who was ill, Mrs. Henson issued a call for volunteers to help construct a new bus shelter on Jefferson Drive at Tiburon Boulevard in West Belveron Gardens.

A representative of the police department will discuss the department's functions at the next association meeting, tentatively scheduled for 8 p.m. Nov. 21 at Del Mar School.

Mill Valley Artist Has Works On Display

County Librarian, Virginia Keating said the exhibit will continue through Nov. 9.

Durham, a graduate of San Francisco Art Institute, also studied in New York and in Europe. The exhibit is part of the young adult program of the county library.

Redevelopment Topic

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency will discuss how it can aid the Marin City Council in its long range program in cooperation with PACT, a community development agency, at a meeting today at 8:30 p.m. in the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

New Constitution In Drafting Stage

A new constitution for the Associated Students of College of Marin — placing more emphasis on education — is in the final drafting stage and is expected to be put to a popular student vote Oct. 24-25, a student proponent said today.

The constitution, prepared by members of the Students for Academic Freedom (SAF), would change the present student commissioner system of the executive council to a 15-member group of committee chairmen.

The student, Michael McGinn, an SAF member, said a petition bearing over 430 student signatures called for a popular vote. Signatures of one-tenth of the some 4,200 day students were required.

Acceptance of the new constitution requires a two-thirds majority vote.

The constitution would replace the present 14-member executive council with chairmen for committees on budget and finance, community education, campus planning, data processing, reproduction, facility use, health and safety, instructional research and development, library, publicity and publications, student personnel, values and institutional research.

McGinn said the constitution is an attempt to rearrange the student government, placing emphasis on education. He said the present constitution emphasizes social and athletic events.

The new constitution, if passed, would probably be effective immediately, McGinn said, and another election would be called to fill the chairman positions.

Wild Chime

NOTTINGHAM, England (UPI)—The village clock started chiming at five o'clock and went on to chime 900 times. A clockmaker called in to investigate said it "apparently went mad."

Plant Tumor Cure Is Found

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Two University of California scientists have discovered a "medicine" that consistently destroys bacteria-caused plant tumors without harming the plant.

The discovery could be a long step forward in man's fight against cancerous diseases that injure growing things—eventually, perhaps, including man himself.

The compound developed by Drs. Milton N. Schroth and D. C. Hildebrand has been patented by UC. Applied with a brush, it is now being manufactured and sold to California farmers and nurserymen.

Gets Back In

NORTHAMPTON, England (UPI)—"I just can't get along with people outside prison," said Kenneth Chambers, 52, when he asked Northampton Quarter Sessions Court that an eight-year prison sentence on robbery and forgery charges be extended. The court obliged by re-sentencing him to 12 years.

Two GIs Found Guilty On Chained Protests

I-J Special Report

FORT ORD —Two more of the nine servicemen who chained themselves to clergymen in an antiwar demonstration in Marin City in July and said they had resigned from the service were convicted of desertion yesterday by military court-martial.

Military spokesmen here said that James Seymour, 20, of Deer Park, N.Y., and Steve Anderson, 17, of Las Vegas, Nev., would be sentenced today.

Seymour and Anderson were also found guilty of disobeying a lawful order by a general court-martial.

The soldiers were among the nine servicemen who were arrested at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City after two days of peaceful demonstrations and services which began in San Francisco.

Five of the men have already faced military justice, and four were found guilty of desertion, receiving sentences as stringent as four years at hard labor. The only man to be tried in Marin County, Air Force Sgt. Oliver V. Hirsh, was charged with being AWOL and given an undesirable discharge with no prison sentence.

Cotati To Act On Police Benefit

The Cotati City Council tonight will official recognize its three-man police force reserve so the officers may qualify for city employee benefits.

City officials said the men have been working under Police Chief John Curtis but have not been recognized as an auxiliary to the regular three-man force.

Also on the agenda is an agreement with the Cotati Elementary School District on water supply to the new Thomas Page School on Richardson Lane. The council meeting is at 7:30 p.m. at the fire hall.

U.S. Traffic Safety Plan Criticized

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The head of the state transportation agency said toay the federal new national traffic safety program to meet the needs of California and other individual states.

"Your number one priority item, driver licensing, is no longer a problem in California, while your number seven priority, identification and surveillance of accident locations, is of prime concern in this state," Gordon C. Luce, state transportation secretary, said in a telegram to Alan S. Boyd, U.S. transportation secretary.

Luce suggested that Boyd rescind a list of 15 national traffic safety priorities and work with each state to "develop individual programs tailored to meet specific needs."

Nationwide Collegiate 'Time Out Day' Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Student Association announced today a call to colleges and universities to suspend classes Oct. 29 in a "Time Out Day" for students to seek an answer to the question: "Where do we go from here?"

"It is not a strike," said Robert S. Powell Jr., president of the group, a confederation of 375 college and university student governments representing more than two million students.

Powell said the NSA is suggesting that students carry on activities on the day, a Tuesday, even if college officials refuse to shut down operations. He said some conflicts are expected but that "it is too early to tell" whether the day might bring widespread demonstrations or disorders on campuses.

NSA sent its request to 1,600 colleges and universities and so far has word that students on at least 100 campuses plan to join in the activities, Powell said. He added that NSA does not know how many college administrations have agreed to suspend classes.

Powell said at a news conference that "the critical need for such a day springs from our bitter experiences over the past 12 months even though "students have won some significant victories on campuses and in the political system of the nation."

He said it is hoped the event will mark the beginning of a new coalition of students into "a strong national student movement."

Powell said the event is being held early in the fall because "this is going to be a very difficult year on campus" and students need to lay plans.

"The campus mood is growing more frustrated and more cynical," Powell said, in part because "the three candidates (for president) seem incapable of raising the issues" that are relevant to the country. He said such issues had been raised in the campaigns of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Among the issues the NSA listed as relevant were the Vietnam war, the draft, "white racism" and "the viability of our current political system."

The date for "Time Out Day" was set a week before the Nov. 5 presidential election, Powell said, so students could enter the campaign dialogue.

Activities will range from peaceful discussion to direct action and confrontation with college officials, said Powell, 23, a native of Thomasville, N.C. and a graduate of the University of North Carolina. He is currently on leave from advanced study at Princeton University.

Richardson Bay Rejects Sanitation Superdistrict

Richardson Bay Sanitary District directors last night rejected creation of a sanitation district as the best way to merge with the Tiburon Sanitary District, President Alfred O. Pratesi reported.

Director Kurtis T. Webb said the idea of a sanitation district was suggested by Tiburon directors at a joint sub committee meeting held recently.

Richardson Bay directors indicated they would prefer merger or absorption of one district by the other rather than creating a sanitation district, which would be superimposed over the two and merely create another taxing body, Pratesi said.

Under state law a sanitation district could be created without dissolution of the existing sanitary districts, thus creating a superboard which would have taxing powers and would perform functions similar to but not necessarily duplicating those now performed by the two sanitary districts.

However, the state law also requires that if a sanitation district is formed, and it serves any portion of a city, a city officer must sit on the board and if more than half of the sanitation district is in the city, city officials must make up the majority of the board.

Webb was directed to communicate the board's feelings at the next subcommittee meeting and to continue discussions on other means of consolidation.

The board also asked Director Stanley G. Bennett to contact the City of Mill Valley to see if it would join a consolidated district since a portion of the city is served by the Richardson Bay district.

Directors also agreed that the commercial area along the west side of Highway 101 should continue to be served by the district even though it recently was annexed to Mill Valley.

A letter setting forth their views will be sent to Mill Valley City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer, Pratesi said.

Balmer recently asked the board to de-annex the area but indicated the city could not, or cannot, serve the area at the present time and might request the district to continue service on a contract basis, he explained.

The board will next meet at 8 p.m. Nov. 19 at the Trestle Glen treatment plant.

Student Fund Disclosure Is Denied

Michael Goheen, member of a College of Marin student committee appointed to study the Associated Students budget, today said he was not the source of information for an article on the committee's findings reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Goheen, who said the article was otherwise accurate, declared it was an imposter that identified himself on the phone to the I-J as Goheen and released the report which the committee intended to keep secret until presented this afternoon to student government's executive council.

Goheen said the other four members of his committee denied giving the report in answer to an I-J reporter's call to student government headquarters.

County Votes To Buy Regional Library Site

Marin County yesterday agreed to buy two acres, and perhaps three, at $70,000 per acre for a branch county library in Corte Madera on Meadowsweet Drive. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

On a motion by Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, the supervisors asked the county counsel to prepare an option agreement to buy the property.

Owner Fred Sanford is asking $210,000 for the three acres with the buyer to pay the 1968-69 taxes of $4,233. The site is in wooded hills behind the Bank of America, facing Meadowsweet Drive.

The taxes will be paid two thirds by the county and one third by Corte Madera. Supervisors decided that the county would buy two acres for $140,000, and negotiate further with the Town of Corte Madera on who would pay how much for the third acre.

Both the county administrator and County Librarian Virginia Keating reported that two acres would be sufficient. Mayor Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera said the town council believes the third acre is needed to put the library in its proper setting.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

BILLBOARDS — Adopted amendments to the zoning code, requiring all nonconforming outdoor signs (mostly billboards) to be taken down after a three-year "amortization" period.

VARIANCE — Denied a variance for Jack Blumenfeld, who wanted to expand his home on Montecito Road in the Country Club Tract of San Rafael.

CABLE TV — Continued until Oct. 22 or 29 a discussion on how to improve cable television service in the county. Leland H. Jordan, attorney for Cable Television of Marin, was trying a case in court and could not attend yesterday's hearing.

MENTAL HEALTH CENTER — Authorized an outlay of $4,081 for additional equipment for the new Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital.

REED SCHOOL BONDS — Approved the sale of $270,000 in Reed Union School District bonds to Bank of America, at an interest rate of 4.99117 per cent.

SUPERIOR COURT — Transferred $40,770 from reserves for operation of Marin's fifth superior court. A total of $18,027 will be allocated to the operation of the court and $16,968 to the county clerk's office and $5,775 to the sheriff's department for related services.

MENTAL HEALTH — Submitted to the state a 1969-70 community mental health services budget of $2,591,423, of which $887,457 will be borne by federal staffing grants and the rest under a formula of 90 per cent state and 10 per cent local participation. A new state law requires early submittal of local mental health budgets.

BOOKMOBILE — Declared a 1957 county bookmobile surplus and sold it to Book Bank USA for $250 for use overseas.

Commissioner — Named Philip Economon as assistant agricultural commissioner at $829 a month, succeeding R. Allan Bullard, who was promoted to commissioner in June to succeed the late Richard T. Straw.

NEW CAREERS — Heard from Administrator Alan Bruce a criticism of the Independent-Journal news story of Monday, which reported that the director of the county's New Careers program blamed Bruce for delays. "I think it is unfortunate that on a subject as important and as exciting as this one, some people begin to fire away on distorted hearsay during the gestation stage," said Bruce. Supervisors made no comments.

PERSONNEL COMMISSION —Appointed Bruce McKenzie of San Rafael, a member of Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission, to the Marin County Personnel Commission. McKenzie succeeds Miss Margaret Lucas, who resigned last month.

LABOR-MANAGEMENT — Asked the Marin Human Rights Commission to appoint one of its members to the Marin Advisory Committee to the Bay Area Construction Opportunity Program.

Three-Way Tie In Chess Meet

Results of the Greater Redwood Empire chess open tournament in Novato were announced today by Otto Haiungs, coordinator for the two-day tournament co-sponsored last weekend by the Novato Chess Club and the Novato Chamber of Commerce.

In the expert or master class, there was a three-way tie between Roy Hoppe of Novato, and John Grefe and Steven Spencer, both of Berkeley.

The tournament in the Novato Community House attracted 83 players from Northern California, Haiungs said.

Supervisors Vote Contract For Ambulance

Marin supervisors — with cautious hopes for success — awarded a contract to Doctor's Ambulance of San Rafael yesterday for public emergency and non-emergency service in the county.

Doctor's surprise county officials and competitors last week with a bid asking the county to guarantee payment of $14.95 per patient in those cases where beneficiaries of public emergency runs fail to pay. The fee normally billed for service is $33 plus mileage.

United Ambulance joined with Novato Ambulance Service on a competitive bid of $25 per patient for unpaid emergency calls. Richard F. Angotti, president of United, and Jack D. Kinney, owner of Novato Ambulance, called Doctor's bid economical suicide.

The supervisors quickly approved the contract, however, by a 4-0 vote after the county administrator's office reported it had found Doctor's bid valid. Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen abstained on the vote, saying he still believed the county should be served by three ambulance companies.

The board expressed hope that single company service would be successful and thus end the long feud between the companies, but noted Doctor's performance would be subject to periodic review.

Besides emergency service, Doctor's also will provide transportation for mentally ill and medically indigent patients. The county will pay $24.95 per patient plus a rate of 99 cents per mile for ambulance service and $15 per patient and 50 cents per mile for "convalescent car" service.

Emergency service will be provided under the contract in all communities but Sausalito and areas of West Marin.

Kenneth M. Hale, administrator for Doctor's Amublance, said last week he would lose money on the emergency service, but expected to gain more private business through public runs.

Hale will begin exclusive service in 30 days, with the contract to last a year. He may seek higher rates at expiration of the pact.

Police Clear Out College Sit-Ins

SAN MATEO (UPI)—A group of College of San Mateo students applied sit-in tactics yesterday to back their demands for increased help for minority group students.

Police were called to the scene after about six hours and the 100 students were evicted without incident from the school administration building. There were no arrests.

The students demanded more tutors for the program—a request the college board of trustees has already rejected.

Civil Rights Group Seeks New Members

The Council for Civic Unity of the San Francisco Bay Area, a civil rights organization working in the fields of employment, housing and education since 1945, this week launched a membership drive to finance expansion of its programs.

Tax-deductible memberships are being handled by the council's headquarters, 495 Fulton Street, San Francisco.

Car Show At School

A car show including antique and new vehicles and sponsored by Redwood High School's senior class will be held on the school campus from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Oct. 27.

Bolinas Harbor District Financial Report Sought

On a motion by Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, supervisors voted unanimously yesterday to ask the harbor district for the harbor district for the financial statement. Supervisors offered the services of the county auditor-controller, if the harbor district does not want to get its own accountant.

Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen went along on the vote for the financial statement but steadfastly resisted Storer's demand for a complete audit of district books over the past three years.

The supervisors want the information in three weeks because at 9 a.m. on Nov. 5, they will consider the dissolution of thee harbor district and the possibility of having the county take over the district operation.

In at least four public hearings, Storere said he tried without success to determine how much the district had spent and where, and how much consultant Norman T. Gilroy had received.

"The people have a right to know how funds are spent and how much," declared Storer.

"Doesn't the county auditor, as a matter of law, have the right to audit the books of the Bolinas Harbor District?" asked Supervisor Peter H. Behr.

A harbor district is one of two types of districts that does not require an annual financial report by the county auditor, explained Assistant Administrator John F. Barrows. Until June of 1967, the county auditor had financial reports on the district, said Barrows. "But since then, they (the harbor district) wanted a private audit."

"It's incredible to me that there is the least bit of reluctance to let the auditor go through the books," stormed Storer. "This is outrageous!"

Supervisors Peter H. Behr and William A. Gnoss agreed with Storer that a complete audit is in order.

Kettenhofen objected to a complete audit. "I don't think it's our problem to dig into past expenses," said Kettenhofen. "My only interest is in the debt we will assume."

Behr argued that if the county is to take over the debts of the district, supervisors have a right to know how the debts were incurred and what reserves are on hand.

Supervisor John F. McInnis wondered whether "it is within our prerogative" to ask the harbor district for a complete audit. He suggested the county get a "financial balance sheet" showing the bebts and reserves.

Storer's motion for a report on the district's complete financial condition then got a second from Behr and unanimous approval.

Storer reported that the harbor district's actual and prospective debt may amount to $232,298, and the district has collected $114,800 in taxes since 1956, but beyond that, he has been unable to get any information on how much and where the money is being spent.

Thomas Barfield, member of the Bolinas Harbor District board, sent a telegram to the supervisors, suggesting that Storer give an accounting of his expenses as a supervisor since he insists on getting an accounting from the harbor district.

Storer declared that supervisors' expenses are public records open to anyone who cares to investigate. "You will find that my mileage cost is less than for the previous supervisor (George Ludy) when the district was much smaller." Storer added that his phone bill averages less than $25 per month and is quite consistent with the size of his district and the various commissions on which he serves.

A 'Soul Food' Menu Approved

BERKELEY (AP) — Soul food" will be available in the Berkeley High School cafeterias starting Oct. 30 in response to a demand by the Black Students Union.

Board of education members heard that report last night from Dr. J. . Rodeheaver, director of secondary education.

Soul food consists of such items as collard greens, corn bread, black eyed peas, chitlings and hominy grits.

The report also said that in response to requests a position as black curriculum coordinator to recruit Negro teachers had been established, that interview for five black counselors had been held, and that an expert in African and soul food would work with home economists twice a week in classes.

Second Class On Weight Control

Overwhelming response to the current Weight Control Class, sponsored by the Marin County Heart Association, prompts opening a second class to start next Tuesday and to continue each Tuesday evening for the next 10 weeks.

Setting will be Ross General Hospital and instructor is Frances Dahl, nutritionist. Class time is 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Written physician approval is necessary as a 1200 calorie base diet will be used.

Instruction focuses on food preparation around the whole meal pattern, selection of foods for varied menus and learning to adapt recipes for appealing meals while holding to low calorie count. Holiday meal planning will also be featured.

Among the adaptation of recipes to low calorie is the following:

CHRISTMAS PARFAIT
(60 calories each serving)
1 envelope low calorie lime gelatin dessert
1 envelope low calorie cherry gelatin dessert
Water as required according to recipe on package
1 package dessert topping mix. (Prepared with skim milk.)

Prepare the two gelatins and pour into separate square pans to thicken. When set, cut into small cubes. Prepare topping mix and pile into parfait glasses with mixture of the two colored gelatin cubes. Top with small dab of topping mix and garnish with half of a maraschino cherry. (Makes six generous servings)

Classes are open to both men and women. Anticipated weight loss based on previous class results is 1½ pounds per week. Patients will weigh in and chart progress during the 10 week course.

Registration can be made with Marin County Heart Association, or during opening class Tuesday, Ross General Hospital at 7:30 p.m.

Hush Puppies

Enjoy hush puppies with fish or chicken dinners. Sift together 1½ cups of enriched corn meal, ½ cup of sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon each of soda, baking powder and salt. Stir in 1 small onion, finely chopped. Add 1 beaten egg and 1 cup of buttermilk. Stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Drop batter by teaspoonfuls into preheated 375-degree deep fat. Cook until golden brown. Fry only a few at a time to prevent fat temperature from dropping too low. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes 2 dozen.

Some Desert Ideas For Versatile Persimmons

With the coming of fall the persimmon trees are bearing heavily in Marin gardens. Aside from serving them cored and peeled on crisp lettuce with French dressing for a dinner salad, they can be used in desserts as well.

PERSIMMON ICE CREAM
6 or 7 very ripe persimmons
2 cups cream
1 egg yolk
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar and
¾ cup water, boiled together to a syrup which will string.
Juice of 1 lemon or 2 limes

Peel and remove stem and core of persimmons and press through coarse sieve with lemon or lime juice and salt.

Heat cream in double boiler and pour over beaten egg yolk, then return to double boiler and cook, stirring until smooth. Cool and add syrup, which has been cooled, and put mixture into refrigerator tray. Beat twice during freezing. Add persimmons just before last beating.

PERSIMMON FRAPPE

Take 6 or 7 very ripe persimmons, peel and mash through colander. Sweeten to taste; add ½ cup sherry and pack in ice for 1½ to 2 hours (not in refrigerator tray). It should not be frozen stiff and should be stirred once or twice. Serve in glasses.

Simmer Chicken And Squash For Country-Style Cooking

Chicken prepared country style has the color and aroma you experience in provincial restaurants scattered throughout the French and Italian countryside. American country-style cooking blends the heritage of old-world recipes with the convenience foods of today.

Italian and French provincial cooks combine meat and vegetables in one process and simmer them in a rich tomato sauce. In our variation chicken and squash are simmered in canned tomato sauce with Italian seasonings and aged Romano cheese.

Our recipe uses zucchini and crookneck squashes but others could be substituted.

Serve the budget-wise Country Kitchen Chicken piled high on a heated platter. Pour the rich sauce over all an border with hot buttered noodles, sprinkled with fresh snipped parsley for garnish.

COUNTRY KITCHEN CHICKEN
1 broiler-fryer (2½ to 3 lbs.), cut up
¼ cup pure vegetable oil
1 large onion, thinly sliced
2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce with cheese
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
4 medium summer squash, cut up (we used 2 zucchini, quartered lengthwise, and 2 yellow crookneck, sliced)
4 ounces wide noodles, cooked and drained. Snipped fresh parsley

In large heavy skillet brown chicken in oil; add onion and cook until transparent. Pour off fat. Add tomato sauce with cheese, bay leaf, salt and pepper; simmer, covered, 30 minutes. Add squash; simmer, covered 15 to 20 minutes more, or until chicken and vegetables are tender. Remove bay leaf. Heap chicken and vegetables on heated serving platter; pour sauce over all. Border with hot noodles and sprinkle with parsley. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Dish Up Toffee Souffle Parfaits For Fall Parties

Autumn is an exciting social time. Club luncheons. Mixers. Buffet dinners after the homecoming game. New faces. Adventures. Plan refreshments in the same swinging spirit. Here's an easy-entertaining, prepare-in-advance parfait that makes its own friends.

TOFFEE SOUFFLE PARFAITS
1½ cups chopped chocolate covered English toffee candy bars (6 1⅛ ounce bars)
¼ cup water
1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
2 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon rum extract
½ cup whipping cream, whipped

Combine 1 cup of the chopped candy and water in small saucepan. Place over low heat and cook slowly, stirring constantly, until most of the toffee candy is melted, 6 to 8 minutes. Cool. Combine gelatin, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt, milk and egg yolks; cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon. Stir in remaining ½ cup chopped toffee, vanilla and rum extract. Chill until mixture begins to set. Beat egg whites until they hold soft peaks. Gradually add remaining sugar and continue beating until stiff and glossy. Fold into gelatin mixture. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon alternate layers of gelatin mixture and sauce into parfait glasses or dessert dishes. Chill. Yield: 6 servings.

Serve Peas French Style

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

One of the best things French cooks do with vegetables is to puree them. We've often wondered why more American cooks don't follow suit.

So to spur you on, here's a delightful way of pureeing green peas to serve with meat, poultry or fish. The French serve the puree as is, spooned onto dinner plates along with the main course. But a good American cook we know likes to fill tart shells with the puree for easy service at a buffet; this may appeal to you.

If you have a blender this is a wonderfully easy dish to prepare. You can put it together at the last minute, or you can do the blending ahead of time and heat just before serving.

Canned green peas are great to have on the pantry shelf. So many things you can do with them — and all at the last minute. Here are several suggestions:

Add the drained peas to cream sauce along with some cut-up leftover baked ham. Serve in patty shells — the puff-paste kind that comes frozen and needs only to be baked. Makes an elegant luncheon or Sunday-night supper dish.

Add the peas to canned marinara sauce and serve over cooked elbow macaroni. Fine to accompany meat or poultry; all you'll have to add to this main course is a crisp salad.

Heat the peas in their liquid along with some diced raw celery, then drain. Add a good dollop of butter and seasonings to taste. The celery will be crip and add good texture contrast to the peas.

FRENCH PEA PUREE
1 can (17 ounces) sweet peas
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons light cream
¼ teaspoon salt
White pepper to taste
½ teaspoon crushed basil
Unsweetened baked tart shells, if deired
Commercial sour cream, if desired

Turn the peas into a strainer to drain thoroughly.

Puree the peas in an electric blender and turn into a small saucepan; add the butter, cream, salt, pepper and basil.

Over low heat, stirring often, heat until very hot.

Serve as is; or spoon into tart shells and, if you like, top with sour cream.

Makes 1⅓ cups, enough for 4 servings as is or spooned into four 3-inch baked tart shells. Double recipe if you like, pureeing one can of drained peas at a time

One Dish Meal

Yam sausage skillet supper is a one dish meal. Peel 4 medium-sized raw yams and slice about ⅛ inch thick. Brown 1 pound of link sausages on all sides in a large skillet. Pour off droppings. Arrange yam slices, 2 medium-sized onions, thinly sliced, and 2 green peppers, seeded and cut into thin strips, in skillet with sausage. Cover tightly and cook over low heat about 20 minutes, turning sausage and vegetables occasionally. Season to taste with salt. Makes about 4 servings.

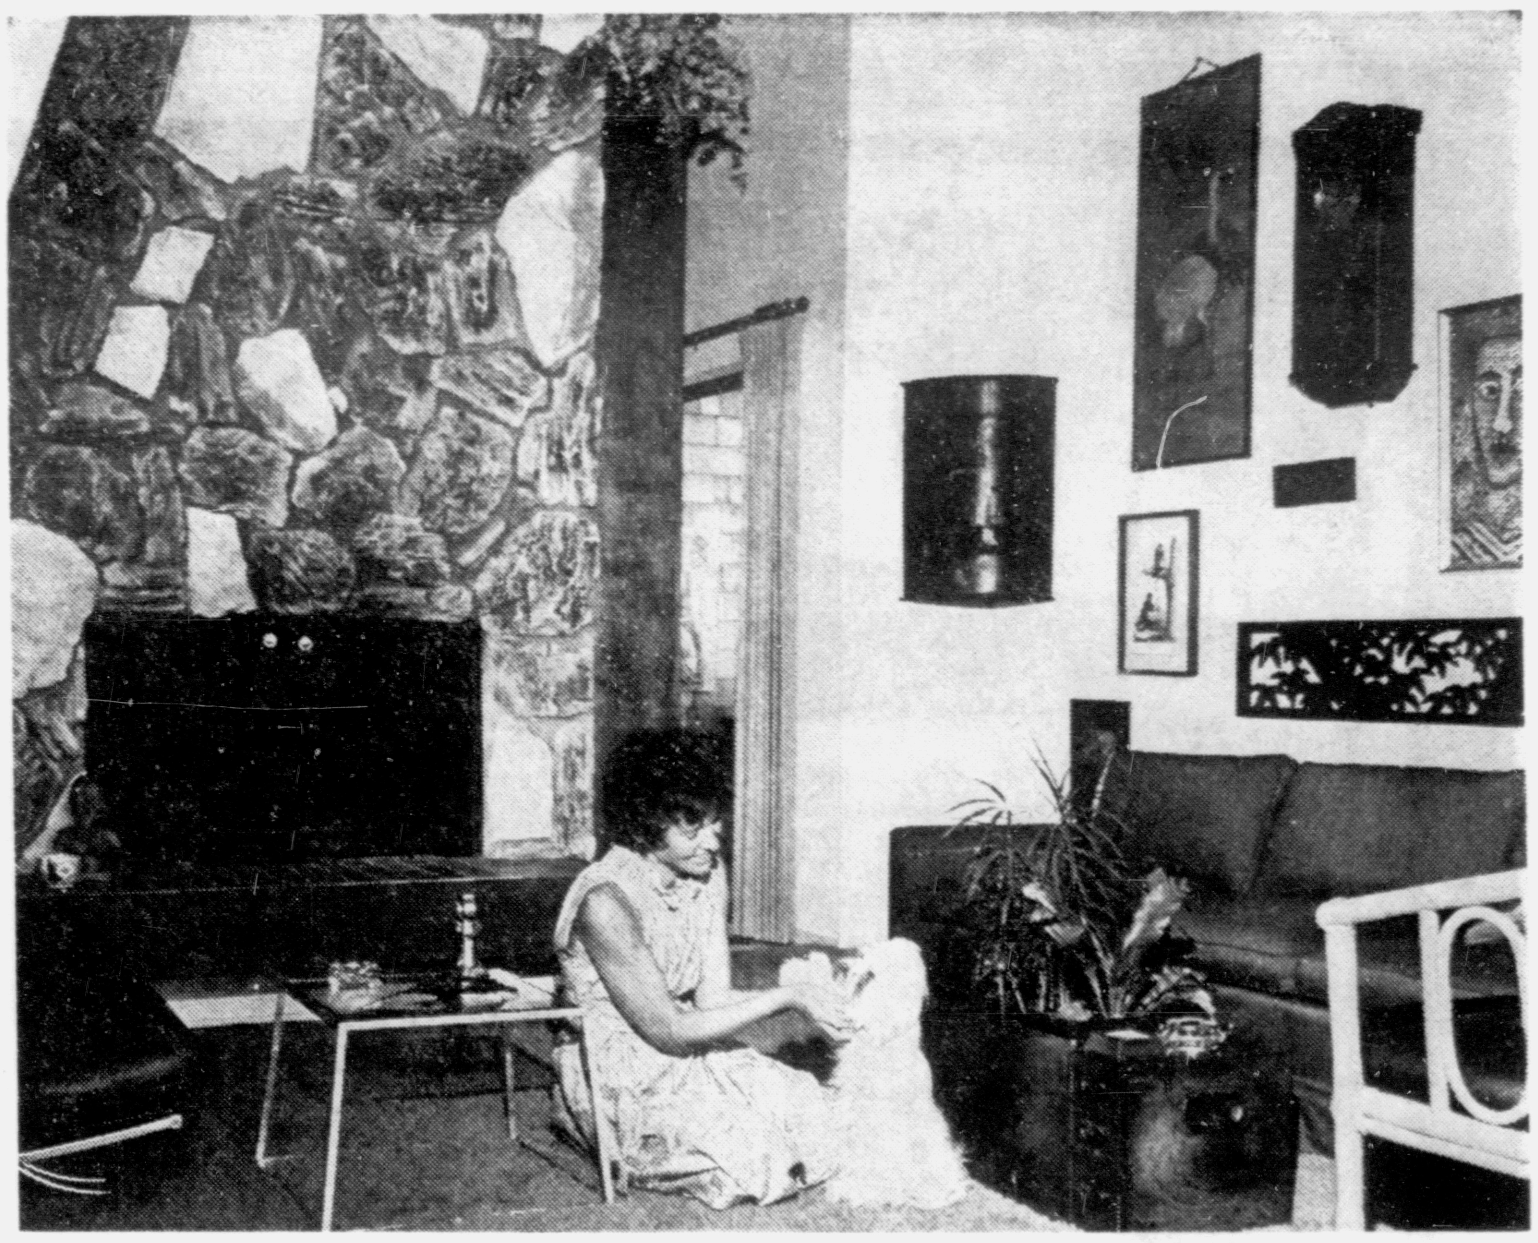
POSING WITH the gaily colored giraffe that will be part of an art exhibit especially arranged for the Sausalito house tour are two of the hostesses who will be modeling, from left, Mesdames Donald Leary and James Neely. The exhibit will be in this setting at the home of the Theodore Bernardis, where the tour will end with a champagne reception.



THE DUPLEX of John McCrary and interior designer Gene Burkett, which will be shown on the house tour, is in contemporary style with Oriental touches. Sausalito Nursery School member Mrs. Stuart Miller during a preview tour stopped in the living room to admire "Nama," (little Chinese bowl) the little Lhasa Apsos dog that is as decorative as some of the furnishings.

Homes From Ferry Boat To Modern Duplex Set For Tour

This year's Sausalito house tour on Oct. 23 will span the length of the town from Alan Watt's ferry boat home at Gate Five to the contemporary duplex of John McCrary and Gene Burkett on the crest of the south hill.

Also included in the tour is the apartment of the Robert Rosenbergs, the Brookner Brady carriage house and the spacious hill home of the Harold Rosenblums.

The tour, sponsored by the Sausalito Nursery School, will end with an art exhibit and champagne reception in the spacious home and patio of the Theodore Bernardis. Bea Bernardi, a well known weaver, will be displaying some of her tapestries plus work of almost a dozen of Marin County's best known artists.

Tours will leave by shuttle bus at 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. from the Sausalito pharmacy across from Vina del Mar park and will return there after the reception.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the Sausalito Nursery School.

An example of gingerbread Gothic, the Bradys' home was built in 1870 as a carriage house. By the mid '70s it had become a dwelling, and a fragment of newspaper found between the walls indicates the changes were made around 1881. Abut the turn of the century architect Loring Rixford made further modifications.

Of special interest in the living room is the Steinway piano, circa 1870, which came around the Horn. And the living room desk and firescreen made by Col. Brady's father.

The contemporary duplex of John McCrary and Gene Burkett was designed by architect Doug Coleman and built last year by Warren Christensen. The furnishings, mostly contemporary with oriental touches, have been done by interior designer Burkett himself, and his paintings and prints are used throughout.

Surrounded by gardens full of unusual plants, the Rosenblum home radiates warmth. Of note in the kitchen are the Franklin stove and indoor barbecue, and in the living room are an original Matisse and a tall Italian tulip vase.

Exciting to experience from every angle, the home of the Theodore Bernadris was designed six years ago by Bernardi, as were many of the furnishings. Bea Bernardi, created the fabrics for some of the furniture as well as prize-winning tapestries.

Artists, whose works will be on display there, are Helen Rich, Eleanor Bender, Gwen Stone, Frank Milner, Maggie Hazel Rosen, Leah Schwartz, Rex Gross, Sherl Williams, Gordon Williams, Susan Gomberg and Bonnie Carriage.

No dwelling more descriptive of Alan Watts, the authority on oriental philosophy, could be imagined that the "Vallejo," the 89-year-old ferry-houseboat shared by Watts and artist Jean Varda.

This old steel-hulled side wheeler was bought by Gerald Onslo-Ford, who now lives in Inverness but once had his studio there. The Wattses moved there in 1961. Of note are two variegated lumber scrap walls, Varda collages and Chinese embroideries.

IN A PREVIEW of homes on the house tour two Sausalito Nursery School members examine the work of Bea Bernardi, noted weaver whose work will be displayed. Behind Mrs. James Neely, left, is "Winter," one of Mrs. Bernardi's prize-winning tapestries on the four seasons inspired by Cathedral Mountain in Death Valley. Standing by the loom is Mrs. Claude Bravermann. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

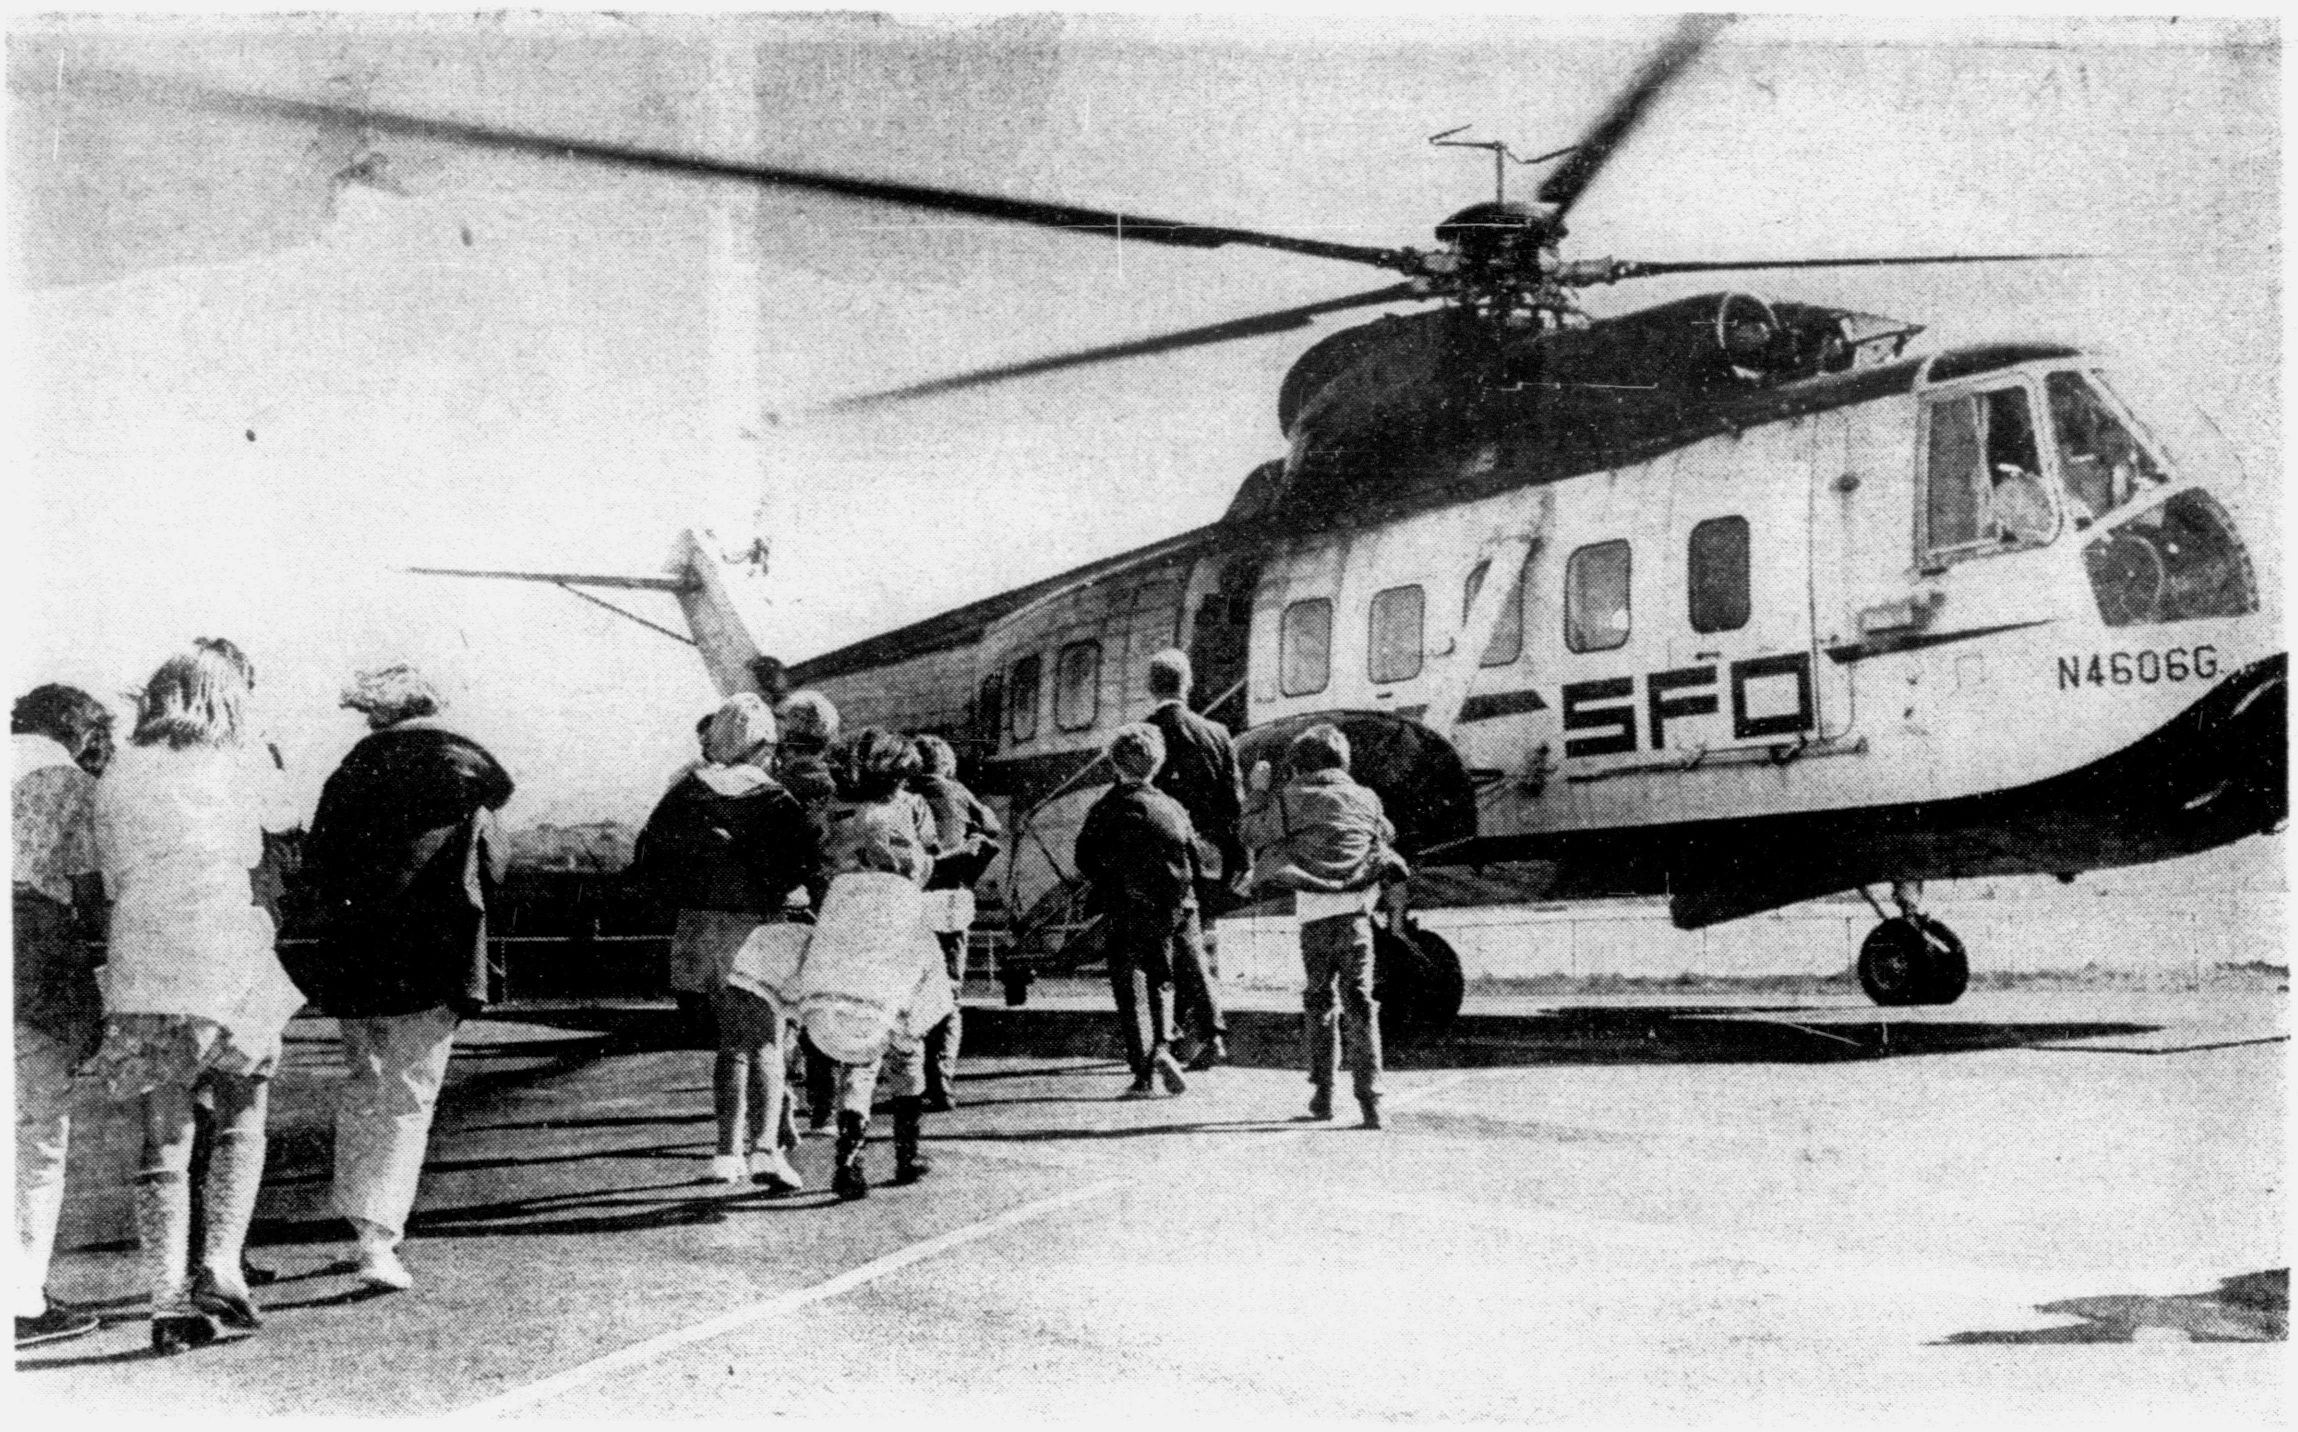
'TICKET PLEASE,' says Short School third grader Victor Ybanez of San Rafael to agent Jon Geiger at the Richardson Bay heliport, ready for the P-TA sponsored flight to San Francisco International Airport by helicopter. The 14 youngsters entered the ticket office by twos and each obtained their own ticket. The P-TA paid for the field trip in connection with the class's study of the Bay Area in their social science program. The second half of the class made the flight and tour today.



THEY'RE UP, UP AND AWAY

Clear and sunny, yesterday and today were especially bright days for two groups of third graders from Short School in San Rafael. Thanks to the school's Parent-Teacher Association, many took their first flight—in a helicopter over the bay to San Francisco International Airport. Here they race for the craft, eager to board and be off. Accompanied by Short Principal Webb Smith and P-TA member Mrs. George Kallman, the first group of 14 pupils took off yesterday in the chopper from Richardson Bay heliport, toured San Francisco International Airport where they had lunch and inspected a jetliner, and flew home to Marin. Today the second group made the tour, with teacher Sandra Malstrom and P-TA president Mrs. D. K. Sherwood. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

IN EAST AFRICA

A Taste Of Real Africa

Seventh in a series on a return trip to East Africa.

By BARBARA HOSMER

"Spectacular scenery on the north road winding over the mountain," we were promised while traveling the main route from Lake Victoria toward Mt. Elgon, a 14,000 foot extinct volcano lying just inside Uganda near the Kenya border.

But why muse about a future that's yet several hours off when the present holds more immediate attractions? — people performing amazing balancing acts riding bicycles with baskets of sweet potatoes and melons on their heads and giant bunches of bananas lashed on behind, small half-naked boys chasing hoops with sticks in the yard while their mother sits in the doorway tending the baby on her lap, a modern glass and concrete high school built with U.S. funds, men and women hoeing weeds in the cassava fields, elders gossiping in an open-sided rest hut while chickens strut past. . .

SUDDENLY IN front a small procession of ten or 15 boys and their elders comes dancing down the center of the road in a rhythmic clatter, shaking "bells" of shell tied to their wrists and ankles and waving stalks of corn.

"They are having circumcision rite," explains Jimmy, the Baganda driver, slowing while the men, women and teen-agers shuffle past on their way to where the ceremony will be held. The boys, about 15 or 16, shake magnificent headdresses of long white fur from the Colobus monkey and rattle their anklets, chest bands of shell and strings of beads as they jog along in the happy celebration that will last several days and finally admit them to manhood.

Many times in the north central hill country of Kenya and Uganda we were to meet such processions of the tribes who each August follow their ancient tradition which entirely changes the young men's tribal status. Other Ugandans, from different tribes, were to scoff at such a primitive practice, however.

A stop on the main street of Mbale, Uganda's third largest, set in the foothills for food supplies to provision us for the upcoming few days on the remote Uganda-Sudan border. The drivers Kintu and Jimmy stowed the boxes in the twin vehicles and pulled away from the last main town until Kitale, just over the Kenya boundary to the east.

Gardens were exhuberant with bougainvillea and hibiscus along the road but soon gave way to banana groves and small fields of maize and millet, worked largely by hand. Forests of uniformly small trees and then stands of larger ones showed where the Uganda government is carrying on a reforestation project near the foot of the mountain, whose base is some 50 miles across.

THE ROAD BECAME deep red dirt as the vehicles began to climb through the green farmlands on the lower slopes. The sun emphasized the brilliance of the verdant growth of shrubs and banana trees along the way, but the road was damp from earlier rains, and billowy giant clouds with near black edges hovered overhead in a threatening way in the tropical air.

The road twisted into hairpins and narrowed so that a vehicle could barely pass. The farms became terraces with clusters of one-room straw huts perched at their edges. Women in wild red, yellow and green printed wraparounds carried baskets of produce on their heads and hoes in hands as they moved along the road from the fields. A tiny head invariably poked out of the shawl on her back as mother worked. The small boys, dressed in khaki cotton shorts, tended the goats with long staffs along the mountain sides.

Streams dropped away into ravines where vines wound from the trees and blossoms dotted the foliage. Vistas from the mountain ranged across green lowlands and farther peaks and waterfalls in a breathtaking panorama of growing abundance, supported by the double rainy season of April-May and August-September.

The light across the hills grew dramatic as the downpour began. Soon the road was oozy and the sharp twists treacherous. Africans hidden from the downpour under gigantic green leaves passed like fugitives from a floating garden.

Villagers huddled under tin roof overhangs across the road as we stopped to have our coffee and sandwiches in a vacant resthouse while sheets of warm water poured down on the thatching overhead.

The going was slow as the road grew sloppier in the deluge. Both vehicles began to slide as they twisted higher and higher up the mountain. But the spectacular scenery blotted out our apprehension even as the going got rougher. From the tiniest wayside blossom to the broad sweep of the slopes and waterfalls the picture was one of incredible beauty, all washed with a wierd light playing through the mountains of clouds.

Tiny clusters of straw huts were set along the slopes on either side of the road and their families carried on their farming and goat tending throughout the on-again-off-again tropical squalls. The bright pink and yellow garments of the women stood out sharply against the green of the newly-washed grasses, and groves of banana and mango trees, while far away on the ridges cloud shadows turned the forests a deep emerald.

It was Saturday afternoon in an African village — a happy time for beer-drinking, cock fights, gossip and dancing, even on this remote 7,000 foot mountain slope.

Some 15 men and women were seated in a circle, each sucking from a four foot stalk straw whose end was stuck into a community calabash of pombe, the potent beer that Africans brew from corn and millet. They raised smiling black faces with reddened eyes as an older man rose and welcomed us, through Jimmy's interpretation. The village chief then invited us to look around the gathering. Two separate circles of pombe drinkers went on happily sucking up the brownish, grainy brew while a few women tended the foods barbecuing over several fires of smoking coals. The elders talked and youngsters played among the chickens.

The sun shone faintly through the smoke rising from the fires and as we left we had no doubt that the celebration would yet go on for several hours.

Farther on we were to pass smaller, but similar village gatherings with their rings of pombe drinkers. Obviously all work had stopped for the Elgon farmers, and traditional Saturday party time was on.

MORE SLOW MILES, sliding back and forth on the all-treacherous road of mud. Suddenly another village appeared, with a line of young tribesmen dancing to a clatter of shell beads and exhuberantly throwing their heads around to flash the long white fur of their headdresses. Their families were gathered around them, and they danced the few yards up the hill to greet us as we slowed.

Then on again along wildly verdant mountainsides and through repeated cloudbursts. Finally a car ahead. Jimmy stops to let it pass and talk about road conditions with the driver.

"It's very, very bad. No, the road is not closed," says the rain-soaked blonde in British accents and pulls away. She is anxious to push on to Mbale before nightfall.

"Have to push," says Jimmy, resigned. We slog out into deep mud and begin to shove from the rear. Engine heat and exhaust from the rear-placed engine fill the lungs. Wheels spin and the rear corner slips into the ditch. A unison push as our feet slip back in the slick. Again, and the bus inches forward, tires skimming, and races drunkenly to a more level stopping point.

Rain beats down and the light is fading, but the air is mild.

"KINTU IS stuck," remarks Jimmy when the second bus fails to show in a few minutes. Out again and down the hills. Bus end in a ditch, tilted. Jimmy drives while all push. Push again. Straighten up and pant in the thin air of the high altitude.

A band of young Africans appears out of the rain, curious. They laugh and stand there when asked to help push, but finally the older boys join in, and then little ones too, staring at our pale faces in curiosity all the while.

Push, push again, and spin away for a few yards until the next curve or slight rise of the road sends the car sliding to a halt against a bank or in a ditch.

Two cars, no traction, sheets of water, deeper mud. One to drive, seven to push; one rope, a few willing tribesmen along the way. One bus freed; go help the other.

HOURS PASS but few miles. It's inky dark now. Headlights only. Push, jump in the ditch before the bus slides back on you. Mud from the waist and feet round clods. The rope, now. From the front bumper we pull like Mississippi bargemen. Haul more to the right so it won't slide crossways of the road.

Lights shone faintly along the way from African huts — just over the banks, but people feared to come out to help in the nighttime. Just one young, brave man slogged along with us for several agonizing miles.

We snatched a few soft buns

Poltergeists Are Blamed For Damage From Pump Vibrations

DEAR HELEN:

We had an experience with these so-called invaders. The most probably explanation was that bottles slid off tables, collided with other objects, etc., because of vibrations from a large diesel-driven water pump three-quarters of a mile away. But word got around, and here is where the unhappiness started.

Newspaper reporters and a major national picture magazine irresponsibly linked the "poltergeist" to the pre-teen family member. You probably remember the great amount of copy devoted to the boy who made things break just by "being there."

Lives were disrupted and the small son suffered considerable social discomfort through teasing and avid questioning.

We all know that the close passage of a very large truck will vibrate a house enough to cause dishes to rattle. But it is not thought weird because the sound of the truck is obvious. The source is not hidden.

We also know that mechanical vibrations can travel and can even be focused so that the result is unusual. The snap of a bull whip is an example of a mechanical wave in the whip which focuses on the tip to produce a very energetic sound and whip action.

In the instance mentioned above, the house and pump site were probably linked by the wet sand in an oak creek bed. For several months, in very cold weather, at seven in the morning when the faulty diesel pump was turned on to boost local water pressure, small objects in the house would leap and shake, sometimes crashing to the floor. Another home, half-way between the pump and the "haunted house" suffered repeated broken front door glass, and repeated failure of light bulbs in certain sockets.

Of course, evidence is unclear, because the temperature and moisture content of the linking stream bed kept changing. The water company did not identify the faulty pump as the cause, but the trouble stopped about the time the pump was repaired!

There are experts who trace down these "ghosts" —to very human causes. "Ghost's Host" should consult one. — C. A. Z.

DEAR C:

Now we know! And another fascinating ghost yarn exploded in a burst of facts. Thanks for bringing us up to date on a story which I always considered unfinished. I'm so very glad the boy hasn't been plagued with a poltergeist all these years!—H.

DEAR HELEN:

My mother and father are divorced and both are remarried. My stepfather will be giving me away at my wedding, though my father will also attend.

Here's the problem. My stepfather wants to invite his aunts and uncles whom I've never met, in addition to his parents. He's willing to stand the added expense. My blood-related relatives and the groom's relatives are all invited, but wouldn't it be too much to bring in a third set? —C. C.

DEAR C:

Your stepfather is acting in the capacity of a real father when he gives the bride away. Therefore I think his relatives should receive invitations. Don't risk a rift in the family by excluding them!—H.

IN EAST AFRICA—

from the supply box to munch for dinner.

Going again like a berserk roller coaster skidding from side to side across the muddy track and hanging on hard to the passenger handrails. How much yardage this time before our dizzying run comes to a halt?

The rear end skittered as if on ice and made a wild arc into the bank. Out of the bus again re-dampening soggy clothes to inch the vehicles on.

"No landrovers around here to pull anybody out," Jimmy said, wiping the water off his face. "We can't stay here all night. We go on to Kitale."

Kitale? There was no such place in this wet ink-black night. Back into the mud-smeared interior of the bus and hang on, while Jimmy sings a comic song in Swahili and guns and gears the craft to keep it pointed forward and moving.

Lights from the second bus follow, falter, and follow again as Kintu inches over the mountain behind. Finally on the down slopes, twisting and skidding perilously for long hours through deep forests on the east side of the equatorial mountain. Nearing midnight on a Saturday night, nobody was at the border station as we crossed into Kenya.

"I'm going to a night club still tonight," he joked as the buses pulled to a stop in front of the deserted hotel.

We shed the twin clumps of mud that were our shoes and fell bare-footed out of the cars. Slogging through the gutter and up the walk, we stood dumbly in the light at the hotel desk, dripping. The lobby was filled with our muddy tracks.

"Now you really see Africa," Jimmy remarks. "You see how it can be, how it is for us to live here."

AFTER MIDNIGHT as we washed away hunks of mud in the hot water, vivid memories of the village parties and dancers and the spectacular vegetation and vistas of their mountain home shone through the muddy adventure.

ON THE AGENDA

Hospital Volunteers Schedule Annual Novato Harvest Ball

The seventh annual Harvest Ball of the Novato Hospital Volunteer Service will be held on Saturday at the Marin Country Club in Novato.

Invitations have been mailed for the ball and cocktails will begin at 7 p.m., dinner at 8:30, followed by dancing.

Mrs. Willoth Stenz is ball chairman and her committee chairmen are Mesdames Noel Weaver, Robert L. Weber, James Berthinier, Louis Ondrasek, and Jerry B. Evans. Mrs. Jack Sparrow is reservations chairman.

The ball is the only fund raising event sponsored by the Novato Hospital Volunteer Service. Proceeds from previous balls have purchased many patient aids in use at the hospital including a defibrillator, a heart monitoring machine and transistor radios. All are used by patients at no expense to them.

MARINITES WILL have a chance to participate in the annual Ski Swap and benefit the Boyd Marin Museum of Science when the Ross and Greenbrae guilds of the museum present a skiers event Saturday. The ski swap gives families an opportunity to sell and buy used equipment for the upcoming winter. A small admission and registration fee is charged. The seller registers each item to be sold at his own price, explains chairman Mrs. Webster Otis of Ross. Guild members will assist buyers in finding boots, poles, skis, parkas or whatever they need. Bay Area merchants will also display latest ski equipment during the day.

The sale will be held at J and B Ford service department, 5860 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

CORINTHIAN YACHT Club will honor Rear Admiral C. R. Bender, commander of the 12th Coast Guard district, and members of his staff at luncheon at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The occasion is the Coast Guard Day hosted by the Tiburon Club each fall. During the day a demonstration of air-sea rescue will be given, the Coast Guard band will give a program and a Coast Guard cutter will be on display.

THE LATEST fall fashions will be presented by The Novato Junior Women's Club when members present their "Cruising with Fashions" from 7 to 9 p.m., Friday in the showroom of Ted Schuman Chevrolet in Novato.

Members will model the fashions informally as they walk throughout the audience. Wine and cheese tasting will also be offered.

Mrs. W. Michael Anthony and Mrs. Gordon Weesner are co-chairmen assisted by Mrs. Paul E. Lundberg, and Mrs. James Reis.

Modeling the fashions are Mesdames Donald Babcock, Gordon Briggs, Ralph Buckwalter, Gerald Foster, Ronald Lipe, Garry Ramser, James Reis, David Rhodes, Vernon Robertson and Douglas Scott. Mrs. Alan Chisholm will be commentator.

Proceeds from the fashion show will benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

THE CHURCH of Our Saviour's Young Wives Group will meet Friday at 9:30 a.m. at the Fireside Room of the church in Mill Valley. Mrs. Jean Sternburg of the Family Service League will speak on marital relations. Case histories will be presented and there will be an opportunity to ask questions.

NOVATO NURSES will host the meeting of the California Nurses Association District 28 at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novato.

Mrs. Dorothy Gunnell, University of California School of Nursing graduate division adviser, will be the speaker. Her topic will be "Furthering Your Education."

Mrs. Lauren Elkin and Mrs. Michael Abraham are co-chairmen.

A SIX-WEEK workshop in publications and publicity begins at Redwood High School in Larkspur tonight at 7:30. Ida Geary, writer and editor, will conduct the course which is specially designed for newsletter editors and press chairmen of clubs.

THE MEMBERSHIP drive to support the Marin Symphony Guild programs is underway, announces Mrs. John A. Clements of Tiburon, president.

The guild is the governing and fund-raising arm for Marin musical activities including the Marin Symphony Orchestra, Marin Youth Orchestra and Workshop for Strings and previews presented before each of the programs.

On the guild board of directors are Mrs. John A. Lesoine of Ross, vice president; Leonard C. Asiano of Mill Valley, treasurer; and Mrs. Leslie J. Airth of Tiburon, executive secretary.

"No, love. Captain Kangaroo doesn't come on after your nap—just when you get up in the morning."

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 16, the 290th day of 1968 with 76 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1859, abolitionist John Brown staged a raid on Harper's Ferry, Va. He seized a hotel, arsenal, firehouse and 30 townspeople. He was captured two days later.

In 1934, Chinese Communists began their long march to the northwest where they established headquarters and mapped strategy against the Nationalist government (which they overthrew in 1949).

In 1959, U.S. Army Chief of Staff, George Marshall, died.

A thought for the day: Roman Emperor Marcus Aurelius, said: "Receive wealth or position with arrogance and be ready to let it go."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

Key Play Overlooked By Team In Saving A Six-Spade Slam

Playing today's hand in a recent team match the two declarers found different ways to go down at six spades. Each declarer had an even chance, but both overlooked a play that would boost the odds to 2 to 1 in his favor.

Opening lead — Q ♡

HAD TO RUFF

The first declarer took the ace of hearts, drew three rounds of trumps, cashed the king of clubs and lost a finesse to the queen of clubs. Back came a heart, and South had to ruff with his last trump.

Now dummy had two losing hearts and one losing diamond, and South could discard only two of them on his extra clubs. Down one.

The second declarer took the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart, led a club to the king and ruffed a second heart. Then he drew trumps and tried the club finesse. West won with the queen of clubs and cashed a heart trick. Likewise down one.

PLAY FOR BREAK

After taking the ace of hearts and ruffing a heart South should lead a low club and should play a low club from dummy.

West wins with the eight of clubs and returns a trump (as good a defense as any). Dummy's queen of spades wins, and South ruffs another heart. South cashes the ace of spades, leads a club to the king and draws a third round of trumps.

CLUB TO ACE

Now South leads a club to the ace, capturing the queen, and runs his last two clubs. Dummy has only one losing heart and one losing diamond, and both of those losers go on South's extra clubs. The ace of diamonds and dummy's last trump take the rest of the tricks.

South must develop four club tricks and should give up one trick in the suit while he still has control of the play. The odds are better than 2 to 1 that the five missing clubs will break 3-2.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ K Q 7 6
♥ A 6 4 3
♦ K 5 2.
♣ 10 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass or bid one spade.

This borderline decision depends on your temperament and the nature of your partner. Most experts would pass this hand, but would open it if there were a sprinkling of tens and nines in spades and hearts.

SEASON TO OPEN FRIDAY

"Mother Courage," Berthold Brecht's story of a woman who views war as being "good for business," will open the College of Marin drama season at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the college theater. Elizabeth Huddle (center, seated) stars as the mother of Swiss Cheese, played by Bruce Webster of Forest Knolls (left); Kattrin, played by Corrinne Atkinson of San Rafael, and Elif, played by Mark Rasmussen of Lagunitas. The performance will be repeated at 8:30 p.m. Saturday and Oct. 23 to 26. (Photo by Roger Bockrath)

Lower Rates Cut Revenue By $25,000

North Marin County Water District revenues last fiscal year dropped to $250,704 from $275,704 the previous year as a result of reduced water rates, according to the district's annual report.

The report received by the district board at last night's meeting, according to board secretary Eugene Churchill, said the $25,000 revenue drop represented an average saving of about $2 for the district's approximately 8,000 customers.

The report indicated an average balance of $940,000 throughout the year, Churchill said.

The North Marin County District Board also:

WATER — Received a report that water consumption in September was 16.3 per cent more this year than last because of the hot, dry month. The district's consumption was 183.4 million gallons compared to 157.7 million gallons in September 1967.

FIRE DISTRICT — Approved a $5,630 contract with the Novato Fire District for installation of fire hydrants and mains to the fire district's new site on Atherton Avenue.

MOBILE HOMES — Approved a construction agreement with Paul Goldstone of Oakland for Los Robles Mobile Home Park on Bel Marin Keys Boulevard.

REGULATIONS — Approved regulations for the use of the land around Stafford Lake for recreational purposes. They are the same as used by the Novato Parks and Recreation Department during the two years it was in charge of the property, he said.

Brown Sees McCarthy As Vital To Humphrey

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former Gov. Edmund G. Brown said today Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy probably holds the key to the Democratic national ticket's chances of winning California on Nov. 5.

"If he came out with a first class speech — not just an indifferent one — it could make the difference between winning and losing in California," Brown told a Capitol news conference.

The lack of an endorsement from McCarthy probably is hurting Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic presidential nominee, more in California than anything else, he said.

Asked if he thought Humphrey could defeat Richard M. Nixon without strong backing from McCarthy, Brown said, "It would be awfully tough, but I still think he can do it."

Brown, speaking from the rostrum where he held dozens of news conferences as governor, said he will campaign throughout California and in several western states for the Humphrey-Muskie ticket between now and election time.

Brown said Nixon, the man he beat for governor in 1962, "seems to be a warmer human being" in this campaign than in the past when he was "designated as slick, tricky and evasive."

But he said Nixon has been "put into a shell . . . wrapped in cellophane" since the national conventions and has failed to make known his positions on such issues as disarmament and the war in Vietnam.

At first Nixon seemed to be a hawk on the war but "now he's being quiet about it," Brown said.

Lynch Files Auto Repair Fraud Suit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch filed a lawsuit today seeking to stop operations of "an allegedly fraudulent automobile transmission repair scheme" in Sacramento.

Lynch's suit asked the Sacramento Superior Court for an injunction blocking operations of George E. Applegate's Bonded Transmission Centers. The attorney general also sought civil penalties for alleged false or misleading advertising and a minimum of $25,000 as damages.

The company adverised "car transmission repair at 'special' prices when the sole purpose is to coerce and trick customers into accepting greater repairs while the automatic transmission of the customer's auto is disassembled and the parts spread around his feet," Lynch said.

He added that if customers refuse the repairs, "they are forced to tow their cars . . . with the disassembled transmission in a box in the trunk."

Lynch also said the company used second-hand "often worn out parts."

He said the company still "charged their customers for performing these transmission repair 'specials'" but failed to perform them when they were "unable to trick their customers into agreeing to the greater transmission repairs."

Firearms Check

MANILA (UPI)—The Constabulary reports there are 380,000 registered firearms in the Philippines, a country with 34 million population. That's a ratio of about one firearm for every 89 Filipinos.

Kosygin Visits Prague; Occupation Pact Seen

PRAGUE (UPI)—A Soviet delegation headed by Premier Alexei N. Kosygin flew in from Moscow today and Radio Prague said they would sign an agreement providing for the "temporary" stationing of Soviet troops on Czechoslovak soil.

The Soviet delegation arrived only a few hours after the return from Moscow of Czechoslovak Premiere Oldrich Cernik from two days of what was described as "extremely hard" negotiations with the Soviets over the treaty which would legalize the presence of foreign Communist troops here.

Prague Radio said Kosygin and his party were met at the airport by Cernik, parliament leader Josef Smrkovsky, Slovak party leader Gustav Husak and "other representatives."

The radio made no mention of Communist Party First Secretary Alexander Dubcek, whose experiment in democracy resulted in the Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia on Aug. 21.

Dubcek also was not listed among those who greeted Cernik at Prague airport on his arrival from Moscow earlier in the day.

(In Budapest, Hungarian Prime Minister Jenoe Fock told Parliament that "the larger part of the Soviet troops and the units of the four other Socialist countries can be withdrawn from Czechoslovakia shortly.")

The Communist Party newspaper Rude Pravo said the Moscow talks attempted to remove "the layer of distrust" between Moscow and Prague,

In Moscow, east European sources said the representatives of the other four Warsaw Pact nations that invaded Czechoslovakia may also visit Prague for the signing of the treaty — East Germany, Bulgaria, Poland and Hungary.

The pact was expected to call for two or three Russian divisions to remain in Czechoslovakia. The treaty would open the way for the withdrawal soon of most of the estimated 235,000 occupation troops, sources said.

The sources said there was little disagreement on this. Money was the problem.

Reliable sources said disagreement came over Czechoslovak demands the occupation forces pay for damage done to roads, fields and buildings by the invaders. The sources said both sides disagreed also on who would foot the bill for the Soviet troops remaining in Czechoslovakia.

Both sides agreed to hand the money questions to lesser ranking experts, the sources said.

Sea Bottom May Help Clean Air

NEW YORK (AP) — Mobil Corp. scientists reported today they have enlisted materials from the ocean floor in the fight to control air pollution.

They said so-called manganese nodules, found widely in the Pacific Ocean, are effective catalysts for converting combustible materials in automotive emissions to harmless water and carbon dioxide.

Currently, they said, the mining of manganese nodules from the ocean depths is too expensive.

The report was made at a Mobil-sponsored research symposium in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Kansas City Goes For Youth, Seattle For 'Names'

BOSTON (UPI)—They paid their money, $5.25 million apiece, and they took their choice. Neither the Kansas City Royals nor the Seattle Pilots expect to become the butt of Met-type jokes.

The two brand new American League franchises were stocked with rosters of 30 players each yesterday. They paid the existing clubs $175,000 for each selection in a day-long expansion draft. And both managements came away poorer but insistent they had gotten what they wanted.

Kansas City went solidly for youth, some tried, most not. Seattle went more for "name" players and, as a result, acquired a much older collection of veterans.

The Royals were admittedly looking ahead to "1970, 1971 and 1972" according to General Manager Cedric Tallis. They figure that pitchers Roger Nelson, 24, Steve Jone, 27 Jon Warden, 22, Dave Morehead, 25, Wally Bunker, 23, Jim Rooker, 26, and Bill Butler, 21, have "growth potential."

But just in case their "kiddie korps" is too young, the Royals installed Hoyt Wilhelm, 45, and Moe Drabowsky, 33, in their bullpen.

Pilot General Manager Marvin Milkes didn't agree. "We wanted established players and we got them. We got power and speed. We expect to trade for more pitching strength. We have players of value and people on the other clubs already want to talk to us. Our store is always open," Milkes added.

He displayed a chart listing selections by position that showed an infield of Don Mincher, 30, Ray Oyler, 30, Rich Rollins, 30, and Jack Hernandez, 28; an outfield of Tom Harper, 28, Tommy Davis, 29, and Chico Salmon 27; Jerry McNertney, 32, as the catcher and Pitchers Buzz Stephen, 24, Diego Segui, 30, Marty Pattin, 25, Gary Bell, 31, Gerald Schoen, 21, Jack Aker, 28, and Steve Barber, 29.

Tallis had Joe Foy, 25, Mike Fiore, 24, Paul Schaal, 25, and Billy Harris, 25, written across the top though additional notes confused the matter somewhat.

In addition to Kelly, his outfield list showed Joe Keough, 22, Steve Whitaker, 25, and Bob Oliver, 25. The long list of pitchers, a dozen righthanders and five southpaws, dominated the sheet.

United States Gold Medal Total Now At Four

JIM GILMARTIN

Mrs. Cuneo Returns To Olympic Scene

QUEEN ANN—Among the Marin Countians in Mexico City for the Olympic Games are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cuneo of San Rafael who departed last Friday aboard a Western Air Lines jet.

Mrs. Cuneo is no newcomer to the Olympics. The former Ann Curtis won two gold medals and one silver for swimming in the 1948 Games at London. Her goldies were in the 400-meter freestyle and 400-meter relay and the silver for second place came in the 100-meter freestyle. In addition to her Olympics accomplishments, Queen Ann also won the Sullivan Award as the outstanding amateur athlete of 1944, first woman and first swimmer so honored.

ANN CURTIS CUNEO

In recalling her swimming days, Mrs. Cuneo noted that the 1948 Olympic swimming team was composed mainly of college students in their 20s. Today, thanks to the tremendous development of Age Group swimming in America, the U.S. team is composed largely of comparative babies. Swimmers in their 20s are considered over the hill.

JIM SHORTS:

Bill Ross At Hunters Point

Bill Ross, who trained and managed numerous service boxing champions while serving as Chief Master Sergeant and athletic director at Hamilton Field, has retired from the Air Force and taken over as athletic director at Hunters Point Naval Shipyard.

Local golf filberts who'd like to see rookie pro Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael in action may do so Oct. 28-Nov. 3 at Harding Park in San Francisco. Ron, along with such other Bay Area favorites as the Brothers Lotz (John and Dick), Bob E. Smith, Ron Funseth, Ken Venturi, Bobby Lunn, George Archer and Jim Wiechers are among the entrants in the Lucky International $100,000 Tournament.

Mill Valleyan Charles Einstein, who has carved his niche in the literary world mainly as a baseball expert, ghost writer and father confessor for Willie Mays and author of a book on how to play Little League baseball (to satisfy mommy and daddy), has moved to indoor sports in his latest publication — "How To Win At Blackjack," Cornerstone Library, New York. The paperback goes for a buck. Hit me. Ouch. Not so HARD!

He's Been In Canada Before

Yes, Johnny Boccabella of Marin, plucked Monday by the Montreal Expos from the Chicago Cubs in the N.L. expansion draft, has played ball in Canada before. In 1961 old Socktheballa starred for the Saskatoon Commodores of the semi-pro Western Canada League.

Sudden Thought: How lucky can a guy get. I mean, don't you think playing for Canadian Club would be an intoxicating experience?

Yes, folks, the San Francisco Warriors have a ticket outlet in Marin County—at Taveggia-Brusati Sport and Saddle Shop, 1340 Fourth Street, San Rafael. Also, the pro cage pasteboards can be purchased at all Greyhound Bus depots.

Oerter Didn't Want To Be Merely Another 'Asterisk'

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Al Oerter, the first Olympian in history to win four straight gold medals, says he never wanted to be merely another "asterisk" in the record book.

Until yesterday, he was.

Having won the discus event in Melbourne in 1956, again in Rome in 1960, and once again in Toyko in 1964, the 32-year-old West Islip, N.Y., computer analyst shared with John Flanagan the distinction of being the only Olympian to win three gold medals in a row.

Flanagan, an Irish cop from New York, won the hammer throw for the U.S. in 1900, again in 1904 and a third time in 1908. Oerter left him behind yesterday.

"I'm quite happy to be a fourth gold medalist without an asterisk or any other conditions," he explained, talking about how it felt to be the first human ever to win four in a row in Olympic competition.

United States Swim Stars Begin To Reach 2nd Peak

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The vaunted U.S. swimming and diving team is beginning to reach a second peak this season for the Olympic swimming and diving championships starting tomorrow.

For alost every member of the team, the build-up for the Olympic trials to make the U.S. team was the most terrifying experience of their athletic carerrs.

"I was scared stiff until I made the team," said Mike Burton today. He is the world record holder in the 1,500-meter freestyle and favorite to win the metric mile and the 400-meter freestyle gold medals here.

"We left swimmers home who could win medals here. The competition at home is fierce."

"I had to peak more to make this team than I did in 1964," said Don Schollander, the Golden Boy of the Tokyo Olympics with his four gold medals. "Four years ago I just passed through the trials and really peaked for the Olympics.

"This year I had to go all out in the 200," added the 22-year-old Yale senior from Jacksonville, Fla., "the competition was tremendous. It gets tougher and tougher every year. They're coming up faster and better."

Schollander won the 100 and 400 freestyle and anchored the 400 and 800-meter freestyle relay teams, in Tokyo.

In the trials Schollander finished fifth in the 1 00 freestyle and thus won't be able to defend that title or compete in the 400-meter relay.

But he broke his own world record in the 200-meter freestyle with a time of 1:54.3 and passed up the 400 freestyle.

The 200 is a new Olympic event and by winning the 5-foot-11 blond also qualified for the 800-meter freestyle relay team. He'll probably get two golds.

Schollander said he felt fine and that a sore left elbow responded to treatment.

Burton, who had been bothered by a sore throat, said, "I feel much better now. I think I'm as ready as I'll ever be."

Any time trials?

"No," said the 21-year-old UCLA senior from Carmichael, Calif. "We didn't have any here. We're just getting accustomed to the pool.

"We're trying to peak for the big ones here. These are the ones that count. This is what all the years of swimming is all about."

Which race did he prefer, the 400 orthe 1,500?

"The one I win," said Burton.

Top-Level Credentials Held By K.C. Chiefs

NEW YORK (UPI)—All it takes to know why the Kansas City Chiefs, who the Oakland Raiders take on Sunday, are leading the Western Division of the American Football League is one look at the individual offensive statistics in the sixth week of the season.

The Chiefs, who took over first place last Sunday with their fifth victory in six games, have the individual leaders in passing and scoring and the No. 2 and No. 9 runners in the league.

Len Dawson is the passing leader with 61 completions in 102 attempts for a .598 percentage, 818 yards, four touchdowns and an average gain of 8.02 yards. John Hadl of the San Diego Chargers ranks second with 77 completions in 156 attempts for a .494 percentage, 1268 yards, nine touchdowns and an 8.13 average gain while Joe Namath of the New York Jets is third with 85-172 for .494, 1339 yards, eight touchdowns and 7,78.

Jan Stenerud is the leading scorer with 68 points on 14 extra points and 18 field goals—20 points more than Jim Turner of the Jets, who has 48 points on 15 extra points and 11 field goals. George Blanda of the Oakland Raiders is third with 40 points.

Hewritt Dixon of the Raiders has gained 484 yards in 91 attempts for a 5.3 yard average and the Chiefs' Bob Holmes, 5-foot, 9-inch, 220-pound "find" from Southern University, ranks second with 335 yards on 54 attempts for a 6.2 average. Hoyle Granger of the Houston Oilers is third and Ben Gregory of the Buffalo Bills is fourth.

The No. 9 ranking runner is Kansas City's Mike Garrett, who has gained 208 yards on 59 attempts for a 3.5 average.

Bulls Top Knicks In NBA Opener

NEW YORK (UPI)—Flynn Robinson scored 32 points as the Chicago Bulls, under rookie Coach Dick Motta, scored a 100-96 victory over the New York Knickerbockers in the opening game of the 1968-69 National Basketball Association season at Madison Square Garden last night.

Robinson, a Cincinnati Royal castoff, scored consistently with short one handed pops in compiling his 32 points. Seven-foot rookie center Tom Boerwinkle came down with clutch rebounds late in the game to preserve the victory for Chicago.

Oerter's Fourth Straight

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—As long as ancient, aching Al Oerter and swift Wyomia Tyus are competing, the United States will have a big share of Olympic glory — but today the Yanks must split even that share with two speedy sons of the British Commonwealth.

Oerter, who is giving Father Time as big a pain in the neck as he had had in his back for a long time, became the first athlete in Olympic history to win the gold medal in his event four straight times when he took the discus throw yesterday with an Olympic record heave of 212 feet, 6½ inches.

Now 32 years old, Oerter, of West Islip, N.Y., thinks he just may go for a fantastic fifth straight gold medal at Munich in 1972—when he'll be 36.

"I'll keep throwing for at least another year," said Oerter. "Munich is a big question mark now. I'll have to think about it."

Oerter said if he had lost, he would have tried to make the 1972 Olympic team in yachting. But now he's the champ again.

PLANS TO RETIRE

Miss Tyus, 23, won't be around for another Olympics in '72, since she plans to retire from track after these games. But the Griffin, Ga., star already has become one of the unique "repeat" winners in Olympic history—becoming the first sprinter to capture the women's 100-meter dash for the second straight time and this time in the world record time of 11 seconds.

Wyomia's triumph was merely one performance on one of the most brilliant track days in Olympic history — certainly the most brilliant day the British Commonwealth had enjoyed in a long, long time.

For one thing, there was Dave Hemery of Britain, a 24-year-old Boston University student, running a truly amazing race to win the 400-meter men's hurdles in 48.1 seconds—not only .7 under the pending world record of America's Geoff Vanderstock, but a stunning full second under the listed world and Olympic record of 49.1 set by America's Rex Cawley in 1964.

Hemery came zooming into the stretch eight meters ahead and, although he said, "I was so tired I didn't think I could make it to the finish line first," he made it with plenty to spare over West Germany's Gerhard Hennige.

For the other, there was Australian Ralph Doubell beat-

Simpson Holds Quite A Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—O. J. Simpson of Southern California remained the Pacific-8 Conference's runaway scoring and rushing leader, according to the conference statistics released today.

The Trojan star has increased his touchdown credits to 72 points and his rushing to 808 yards.

Other individual statistical leaders include Stanford's passing quarterback Jim Plunkett in total offense with 995 yards and Washington State's Jerry Henderson in passing with 62 completions.

California's Wayne Stewart leads in receiving with 24 catches. Al Worley of Washington is ahead in interceptions with six steals. Zenon Andrusyshyn of UCLA is the conference's top punter with an average of 42.6 yards per kick.

Thompson's Racer Blown Off Course

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (UPI)—California speedster Mickey Thompson was blown off course yesterday on a shakedown run in preparation for a crack at the world land speed record for piston-driven cars.

Thompson's "Autolite Special" was nearly one half mile off course when it completed the trial run on wind-swept, rain-soaked 10-mile straightaway course.

A spokesman indicated it would probably be tomorrow before Thompson would be able to make an official assault on the mark of 409 miles per hour held by fellow Californians Bob and Bill Summers.

Thompson said his projectile-like vehicle, powered by two Ford overhead cam engines, continues to operate smoothly.

"We don't have any mechanical problems," Thompson said. "All we need is the weatherman's cooperation."

The U.S. Auto Club clocked Thompson at 160 miles per hour when he entered the speed traps in Tuesday's trial run and 240 miles per hour when he exited.

"The wind caught the car just after Mickey popped the braking parachutes and pulled it off course," a spokesman for Ford Motor Co. said.

Thompson, a veteran of speed runs on the famed salt flats, planned additional low speed tests prior to an official run to determine how the 5,400-pound vehicle handles in the wind.

A spokesman said the winds, measured at 17 miles per hour, caused the additional problem of blowing water onto the course.

The north end of the 10-mile course was reported to be under water and the south end puddled. About half the course was described as being in "reasonably good" driving condition.

Thompson had a close call when his car slid on two wheels at 240 miles per hour. Thompson was unhurt but appeared shaken after his car came to a halt.

Rainy Days Like That In Mysterious Oakland

OAKLAND — After a week's respite to recover from the rigors of watching the A's in 80 odd (many actually were) games, I returned to the vast East Bay early of a Sunday to be faced with a delicious dilemma: Watching Raider football in the afternoon or Seal hockey in the evening? Or both?

The rain in the late morning — plus the prospects of dealing with 53,000 humans in one spot — kept me away from a certain Raider victory over injury-wracked San Diego. The Oakland footballers must have been equally certain, considering their reported flat play.

But by dusk, guilt hailed — and I was off to the Coliseum Arena for a look at the new (in quotes) Seals. It was far less crowded, by about 51,000. Also, the rain had stopped, which matters a great deal when you're viewing an indoor sport.

THE OAKLAND hockey team, rebuilt and supposedly reinspired, was as flat as the Raiders — at least for the two periods I was around. While the faces were new, the style of play wasn't. It was truly amazing how futile the Seals seemed, particularly when their opponents, the Kings of Los Angeles, had just flown in from a weary Saturday night beating in St. Louis. If anybody had a right to be listless, it was the Kings.

YET, THEY skated to a 3-1 lead after the first 40 minutes. Oakland had its old problems — inability to get the puck out of its own end, failure to take advantage of the "power play" situation when LA was shorthanded because of a penalty. The 1967-68 season for Oakland was starting all over again.

And poor Charlie Hodge, Seal goalie, was still hollering to stumbling defensemen, "Help me; help me." Charlie has a lovely screeching effect in his plea — heard paticularly well when there are only 2,500 people in a 12,500-seat arena.

LATER IN the season we will examine the neuroses of hockey goalies. Hodge especially is entitled to a couch-full.

Understandably, the Seals need more work together. After only eight exhibition games and one league encounter, they couldn't be expected to look like the Montreal Canadiens. None of the team's four lines has that instinctive familiarity that leads to clever passing and, ultimately, putting the puck in the net.

NEW COACH Fred Glover, a supposedly kind fellow, must amiably seek out the proper offensive combinations in the next few weeks. The season is long, so the orientation time can't totally damage a team like the Seals — unless there's no talent around to begin with.

On defense, Oakland is still weak, with no solid experience or savvy. Which must please Hodge no end.

AFTER THE second dull period, I figured it was all over. The Beatles were to appear with the Smothers Brothers; "Mission Impossible" also loomed. Better to leave the scene of suffering and tend to the home fires. The Seals, I assured my companion, were dead for this night. Was I certain? Certainly. Hadn't I predicted an easy Raider victory?

GLOVER MUST have told his charges that, with Michelson's departure, they should now do their stuff. They did, coming up with two goals in the first minute of the final period and ending up with a 4-4 tie — even scoring the equalizer on a power play.

Rainy Sundays are like that in the mystery that is Oakland.

Charger Named Top Defender

NEW YORK (AP) — Chuck Allen is like the shoemaker whose kids don't have any shoes.

He's a football player who has four daughters and no sons, and he's a mink rancher whose wife doesn't have a fur coat.

Allen also is the American Football League's defensive player of the week as selected by The Associated Press today.

The 29-year-old middle linebacker was the focal point of the defense which completely stymied the Oakland offense in the second half as the Chargers upset the Raiders 23-14 last Sunday, preventing them from equaling the league record of 15 straight victories.

Bobby Orr Leads Bruins Against Seals Tonight

OAKLAND (AP)—Bobby Orr leads his undefeated Boston Bruin teammates into the Oakland Coliseum tonight to meet the Oakland Seals in a National Hockey League game.

The Seals lost their season opener 5-1 to Minnesota and tied Los Angeles 4-4. The Bruins have whipped Detroit 4-2 and Philadelphia 3-2.

In addition to Orr, an all-star defenseman last year, the Bruins have center Phil Esposito, second in the NHL scoring race last season with 35 goals and 49 assists, and left wing Johnny Bucyk, who scored 30 goals.

Flynn Still 'Fair'

A WET WARMUP

Colette Besson of France removes a soggy warmup suit in a driving rain while preparing to run in the women's 400-meter semifinal race during the Olympics in wet Mexico City yesterday. The track was slowed by heavy rain.

Two More Gold Medals For U.S.

ing a man whom many had thought unbeatable, Kenya's Wilson Kiprugust, in the final of the men's 800 meters in a world record of 1:44.3.

The United States had a hero in this race today, even though he didn't win—slender, blond Tommy Farrell of Forest Hills, N.Y. A lot of track people think little Tommy hasn't got the talent of a world class runner—but nobody ever had denied his supply of running courage. For the second straight Olympics, Farrell has been the only Yank to get as far as the finals of the 800. In 1964 he finished fifth.

This time he was 40 yards from the finish line shoulder-to-shoulder with East Germany's Dieter Fromm in a battle for the bronze medal. Farrell loses few bouts of nerve and he won this one to give the U.S. a surprise third place.

But there was no denying after yesterday's competition that the United States will be lucky to match the 12 gold medals in men's track it won in the 1964 Olympics. So far the Yanks have only three in men's track. Yesterday, the Yanks were shut out completely in the 400-meter hurdles, which the U.S. had won six straight times.

CHANCES FOR TWO

The United States, however, figures to pick up two more gold medals today.

The pole vault, an old Yankee stronghold, is expected to give a gold medal to indoor-outdoor world record holder Bob Seagren or maybe to John Pennel, the first man who cleared 17 feet. And John Carlos and Tommie Smith are expected to run 1-2, or maybe 2-1, in the men's 200-meter dash, with Larry Questad looking in for a bronze.

But the U.S. had no hope in the men's javelin, where Mark Murro is the lone candidate against big name spearthrowers. In the women's 400-meter dash, Jarvis Scott of Los Angeles has a chance if she revises her poor, fast-start tactics of the preliminaries. George Young, the Arizona school teacher, is an outsider against African aces in the 3,000-meter steeplechase.

The U.S. men's basketball team continued to roll yesterday with a 96-75 romp over the Philippines, and tonight meets Yugoslavia, a team to which it has lost two exhibition games.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Some Planning Pointers Before You Go Cruising

Here's a tip for anyone planning a long run in his boat where there is a need to consult a chart. It's particularly useful when the chart you have to use is one of the big ones that requires a seven-foot chart table if they are to be spread out.

Before starting, go over your intended route or track on the chart and make a checklist of all the buoys and markers by type and number, and all the landmarks and hazards you will pass.

A list of this kind is very easy to manage and reading it will not keep your eyes off the water ahead for the same length of time required to look at a chart. By glancing at the checklist, the skipper can see immediately what he has to look for next as he moves along.

Naturally, the chart will be carried along as well just in case more complete information is needed at some particular point.

Cruising has its own set of problems, as many of the questions we get indicate:

Q. I'm planning a canal trip — through several locks. Anything I should know?

A. Most lock walls are pretty rough, and, if you scrape them, you can damage your boat. Take lots of fenders and bumpers of good quality and high strength. Also, throw in an extra boat hook and two or three lengths of mooring lines. When you need them, you need them badly.

Q. I am about to retire. I would like to cruise the Pacific Northwest and the Gulf. Where can I rent or charter boats? Is there a list of charter and rental organizations?

A. The best list I know is in Boat Owners Buyers Guide, 50 West 44th Street, New York, N. Y. 10036. It costs $1.50. The only word of advice I have is to take your time when renting to have a complete and perfect understanding — on paper — with the charterer or lessor.

Q. How much does it cost to maintain a cruising type power boat?

A. I would say that, depending on where one lives, the cost of "owning" a cruiser runs between $25 and $50 per foot per year. I live in a high cost area, and several cruising families I know budget for the higher figure. If there is anything left over at the end of the season, which is seldom, they put it in a sock toward a bigger boat.

Q. Do you have to live in a state to collect a refund on gasoline tax?

A. No. And this is something to watch if you cross into a state that gives gasoline tax refunds. Be sure to get receipts every time you buy fuel. Find out how to make application for the rebate.

Q. We're taking a couple we've known only a short time on a week's cruise. . . .

A. When they first come aboard, be very businesslike and firm and show them where to stow their belongings. Point out that on a boat there must be a place for everything, and everything must be in its place. If trouble strikes, there's no time to put something away or look for whatever you need. Incidentally, going for a WEEK with strangers is not a good idea. Take them for a DAY first. They could be real slobs.

Q. I like to take along a shotgun to practice trapshooting with clay birds. I'm told I could get into trouble in some places. Is this so?

A. Lawyers assure me that, as long as a gun (shotgun or rifle) is cased, taken down or obviously just being stored, you can take it almost anywhere. However, before you take a gun out and load it, ask some resident if there are local laws or hunting regulations that might apply. I ran into trouble myself this way once — having a shotgun in a bird sanctuary that I didn't even know existed.

Q. How about insurance if I cruise to the Bahamas, Mexico and the Caribbean?

A. Check with your insurance agent or broker before you go, of course. Generally speaking, your present insurance will cover you — with only minor adjustments — in the once-British or still-British islands of Bermuda, the Bahamas and Caribbean, as well as the French, Dutch and U. S. islands there. However, in Mexico, you had better buy new insurance from a Mexican company.

FOOTBALL ODDS

Rams, Colts Favored; 49ers Are Underdogs

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Los Angeles Rams and Baltimore Colts are strong favorites to remain unbeaten and tied for first place in the Coastal Division of the National Football League Sunday but the Dallas Cowboys are only seven-point choices over the Minnesota Vikings.

The Rams are favored by 19 points over the Atlanta Falcons and the Colts have been made 14-point picks over the Cleveland Browns. Each is seeking its sixth straight victory of the season.

In other NFL games, the St. Louis Cardinals are six over the Washington Redskins, the New York Giants five over the San Francisco 49ers, the New Orleans Saints two over the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Chicago Bears are rated even with the Philadelphia Eagles.

The New York Jets are six over the Houston Oilers, the Boston Patriots 3½ over the Buffalo Bills and the Cincinnati Bengals and Miami Dolphins are rated even in the only American Football League games listed today.

All the nation's top-ranked college football teams are favored except 10th - ranked Arkansas, which is a three-point underdog to Texas. Arkansas has won four straight games while Texas stands 2-1-1.

Top-ranked Southern California, second-ranked Ohio State and ninth-ranked Georgia are 20-point choices over Washington, Northwestern and Vanderbilt, respectively.

In other games involving the top 10, fourth-ranked Kansas is 15 over Oklahoma State, seventh-ranked Florida is 13 over North Carolina and eighth-ranked Tennessee is six over Alabama.

Elsewhere, Michigan State is six over Minnesota, Navy nine over Pittsburgh, Princeton 13 over Colgate, Harvard three over Cornell, Auburn 12 over Georgia Tech, Boston College five over Tulane, Indiana one over Michigan, Oklahoma 20 over Iowa State, Iowa 14 over Wisconsin and California and UCLA are a tossup.

Willsey Talks Of Bruin Speed

BERKELEY (UPI) — UCLA's football team is much like that of Army, says California Coach Ray Willsey, except that UCLA has a speedier offense.

"The Bruins have a multitude of people with speed," Willsey said yesterday, calling Mickey Cureton, Ron Copeland and Hal Busby "extremely dangerous."

Linebackers Jerry Woods and Travis Tatum rejoined the Bears yesterday after being out three weeks with leg injuries.

PREP FOOTBALL NOTES

Injuries Mar Thriller

By GARY TISCHLER

It was a memorable weekend of football in Marin County.

And some of the memories are somber.

Double injuries marred a game that for sheer weight of drama will seem vivid years from now.

Redwood reserve defensive halfback and quarterback Charles Flynn suffered a fractured neck while making a tackle on Novato fullback Tom Zechlin. He is listed in fair condition at Marin General Hospitad. And Pat Greene, the leading scorer in the Marin County Athletic League going into the game, suffered a mild concussion and may be out for two to three weeks.

These were dark sides to a game that had more than its share of courage on display — freak plays, near-misses and frustration. It seemed to have a kind of clear pitch and flow very rare in high school games, the tempo easily defined and the moment of momentum pickup easily seen.

The first noticeable thing was the crackup of Novato's usually impeccable ground game very early in the proceeding, and that in turn showed what Russ Dillon was made of, as well as some unusually sturdy qualities of the Redwood line.

Greg Davenport, the Hornets' top rusher, got nowhere all afternoon. And neither did anyone else until midway into the second half, when Zechlin, the converted tackle, suddenly provided the one roaring piece of fireworks by way of the ground.

The Giants showed their mettle early when the Hornets had first and goal from the five and eventually wound up at the nine-yard line after getting to the one.

But Dillon, spilled twice in that early drive, came back with a beautiful first down play as Pete Weekley got three yards past the Redwood secondary and snared a long, beautifully-placed pass for a 77-yard play that stunned the Giants into a first-half daze.

So did Dillon's punting, something he hasn't had to do very often. He laced his kicks high, spiralling beautifully allowing no return all afternoon long, averaging 41 yards per boot in an unnoticed but key part of the game.

The key man on the Redwood line was big and injured Gary Kasprzak, who, although three times jumping offsides, played a big part in wrecking the Hornet running game.

Dillon, who passed very little in the Tamalpais game the previous week, could have had a runaway game with a little glue on the ball. He lost two sure touchdown passes when receivers dropped the ball, once on the goal line.

Peters, Redwood's key man last year, never could find the passing range. Midway through the second period, he hobbled off the field and appeared slowed the rest of the game. Flynn took over his defensive halfback position, playing well despite his 135-pound size, until the tragic run-in with Zechlin.

But it was fullback Pete Richter, who has played only sparingly all year due to cracked ribs, who guttily came up with the big play time and time again for the Giants.

Richter, who appears to be almost sleepwalking while running, burrowed, barged and banged for first down yards, scoring the Giants' first touchdown on a beautiful, tank-line smash up the middle. And they say he is not completely recovered from his early-season injuries.

Then came Zechlin's dramatic 66-yard run that turned the game upside down and caused Novato coach Al Scott to literally leap into the air in joy not once but four times like a genuine fan and father. It will be a long time before football becomes computerized if a few more Scotts are around, and the more the better.

Zechlin, who had never kicked an extra point in his high school career, followed with a straight and true kick, leaving Redwood with two touchdowns needed to win.

. . . ELSEWHERE . . . How about Tamalpais losing 29-13 to Mills, which hadn't won going into the game? . . . Jim O'Brien broke another long one for Marin Catholic, this time 52 yards enroute to a 100-yard night in a 19-19 tie against Rancho Cotate . . . How about Drake's complete stifling of the San Rafael offense . . . and the performance of what looks like another great back in Bob Sutherland of Drake? . . . Terra Linda's complete wipeout of Poly scoring six touchdowns, all on sustained drives . . . which brings us to Saturday night when the annual biggie of the year comes up. It's Terra Linda (3-0-1) vs. Drake (3-1-0) and Terra Linda has never beaten the Pirates, and has not scored against Drake for the past two years.

Weather In Key Role At Sahara

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Golf star Jack Nicklaus shoots for his third straight Sahara Invitational tournament victory when the $100,000 72-hole event begins tomorrow.

A field of about 135 is expected to compete with $20,000 awaiting the winner. Included are U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, Billy Casper, current leading money winner of the touring pros, Julius Boros and other top players.

MISSING

Missing from the roll, however, are Arnold Palmer, Gay Brewer and Gary Player.

The site for the four rounds is the par-72, 7,143-yard course at the Paradise Country Club, located on the outskirts of Las Vegas.

Nicklaus, who won the 1963 Sahara, registered back-to-back victories in 1966 and 1967. Last year he picked up the $20,000 with rounds of 68-69-62-71—270.

Las Vegas weather invariably provides much speculation. A wind storm or heavy rain can develop almost without warning. One year play was conducted simultaneously at the Paradise and Las Vegas Municipal course across town.

A rainstorm suddenly hit the Paradise course and washed out all scores for the round. But not a drop fell on the neighboring club. Its scores were, of course, also rubbed out.

WIND

The 36-hole pro-am competition was set to conclude with the final round today. The pros were playing for a $22,222 side purse, the amateurs for prizes.

In yesterday's windy first round of the pro-am, teams headed by Dean Beman and Howie Johnson led the field with 59s. Top individual scores for the day were turned in by Rocky Thompson, with a 69, and Miller Barber, one stroke back.

Fish Derby Winner

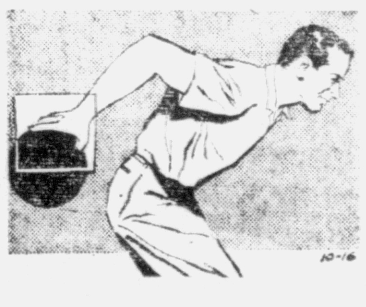
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



I am in favor of a simple delivery, with the fingers remaining behind the ball all the way. This means no twisting or snapping at the finish. If your thumb is turned just slightly to the left, you'll obtain all the hook that is necessary with just an easy lifting motion as the ball takes off.

Celeb Golf Under Way

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — The Ninth Annual Baseball Celebrity Golf Classic gets underway today with a field including such stars as Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants and Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The tournament, over the 72-hole Canyon Country Club course, runs through Saturday.

Also among the field playing for the first prize of a color television set are Sammy Ellis of the California Angels, last year's winner, Bobby Knoop, Bob Rodgers, Jim Fregosi and Andy Messersmith, also of the Angels; Ron Fairly, Wes Parker Hank Aguirre and Salty Parker of the Dodgers; Jim Davenport and Hal Lanier of the Giants; Ron Perranoski of the Minnesota Twins; Tommy Davis of the Chicago White Sox; Andy Etchebarren of the Baltimore Orioles; Gene Mauch, new manager of the newly-formed Montreal Expos of the National League; and Rick Monday of the Oakland Athletics.

Olympics Basketball Is A Six-Team Race

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Prior predictions that six teams would battle for the Olympic basketball title still are holding up after three days and nights of competition—except for Mexico.

Mexico got its come-uppance last night in the first clash of favored teams as Brazil, whose coach says "we could win it if someone should slip," beat the Mexicans 60-53.

Otherwise the United States and Russia, generally picked to fight for the championship, and Yugoslavia and Italy have shown their prowess.

The United States, a sort of slumbering giant, didn't play well in its game yesterday with the Phillipines, having too many turnovers to make Coach Hank Iba entirely happy. The Yanks won 96-75 because they were just so much bigger and had more rebounding strength.

Russia set an Olympic scoring record its second time out when it swamped Morocco 123-51. All told the Soviets have scored 302 points in three games, which is 22 more than the Americans have counted and 69 more than Brazil, 31 more than Yugoslavia and almost 50 more than Italy.

Only five teams are undefeated as the tournament goes in its fourth day with the highly important U.S.-Yugoslavia game scheduled tonight.

The United States, Yugoslavia and Italy are 3-0 in Group A, and Russia and Brazil have that record in Group B where the two do not meet until the last day of the first round—next Sunday.

Donis Peralta of Panama's team hasn't won a game, but he leads the tournament in scoring and the fans are fascinated by a 5-foot-7 guy who goes up for rebounds and sometimes even dunks one.

Peralta has scored 78 points in three games. He thrives against the big fellows, although he weighs only 132 pounds the lightest man in the tournament.

Second in scoring is Don-Pa-Chin of South Korea, whose team hasn't won a game, either. He has scored 73 points.

The big teams do not have any individual scorers in the top 10.

'Cats Win Again

Undefeated Marin Catholic High School's Class C basketball team breezed to its third Marin County Athletic League victory of the season yesterday, 30-11 over Terra Linda High. John Street was top scorer with 10 points.

THE LADIES — BLESS 'EM ALL

The male animal is a contradiction and there is little hope for his early recovery. He professes great love for women in general, and perhaps one or more in particular. He measures quality and quantity in his manufactured, cooked, and fabricated goods to her whim and desire and ultimate approval. He struts like a fool to catch her eye, and beams like a kid at Christmas when she glows her regal approval.

He works like a pack animal to provide for her, to pamper her, to protect her, and sometimes takes a lot of abuse for his trouble. He strives for success to quicken the rustle of silk for his lady, and he indulges her frightening collections of artifices carefully selected to keep him guessing, confused, and subdued. He does all these, and seeks more ways to do more, and he wouldn't have it any other way.

The male animal readily admits instant and total motivation comes from woman. There is no greater force. He knows all this, and yet he becomes an automobile dealer and his memory and common sense instantly desert him. He is a man among men, in a male environment, with good ole grease, and machines, and the heady smell of honest sweat, high octane gas, and concentrated smog.

No mere wisp of a woman could comprehend or invade this very special male sanctuary, and, by George, if one of 'em does come in, she's just got to be reminded of the separation of sex and machines in the new facts of life. Discussions have to be carried on in a very simplified version of our language, like: This is a steering wheel. Turn the steering wheel. See how the front wheels turn, too. Now, isn't that nice?

What nut of a man permitted his wife to bring in the car all by herself, and without a mechanic to interpret or at least a male-written recitation of troubles to look for? How can we localize the symptoms that cannot be described or come from hiding in your garage? How are you going to explain the fix when you've fixed it? And, so goes the agonizing soliloquy that inevitably winds up with thoroughly confused and disgusted woman and self-righteously vindicated dealer who knew it would happen.

A pitiful situation and a pitifully stupid dealer. The situations are endless in number and the number of dealers stupid in this area are much too many.

I am one dealer who may well be guilty of much ignorance in many money-grubbing ways of dealermanship, but I've got a whole lot of smarts in how to appreciate the impact of woman. The correlation of happy women customers and successful auto dealers alone makes a course in statistical analysis fascinating and worth while. I have taught and preached this course well in my own dealership, Marin Dodge, and my people, both fore in sales and aft in service know their lessons well.

The woman who comes to us to shop for a car finds herself overwhelmed with intelligent—not condescending—attention. We know the cars were designed and engineered with the woman in mind, so what could be more natural than letting her know how good our designers and engineers are, and how well they read her?

The woman who drives into our Service Department gets no sympathetic clucks or bland dismissal of recited grievances as figments of a fertile female imagination. We'll look for and find that nerve-shattering bloop-bloop that comes only between 25 and 27 miles per hour. And, we'll talk adult talk, not baby talk.

Like any normal male animal, we need women, and even more so. With us, it's economic survival, too.

DeMolays To Install On Saturday

Terry L. Wilson will be installed as master councilor of the Novato Chapter, Order of DeMolay, at 8 p.m. Saturday at Druids Hall in Novato.

Lorna Parr will be installed as the chapter sweetheart.

Wilson, 18, is a senior at Novato High School, where he is a high hurdler on the track team. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Wilson of 10 Gertrude Lane.

Miss Parr, 17, also is a senior at Novato High School. She holds the office of charity in Novato Assembly 194, International Order of Rainbow for Girls. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Parr of 38 Washington Street.

Other officers to be installed are Rex Kosack, scribe; Bill Danbury, senior deacon; Jim De Garmo, junior deacon; Allen Benelli, senior steward; Curt Lewis, junior steward; Mike Lloyd, orator; Pat Latta, sentinel; Bill Swearingen, chaplain; Jerry Lewis, standard bearer; Rick Wilson, marshall, and Chris Rohrer, almoner.

Ross General Joins National Clinical Program

Ross General Hospital has joined a 14-hospital clinical and drug information service program spanning the nation, hospital officials have announced.

The program, which started Oct. 1, will test a computer system in which doctors and pharmacists have immediate access to thousands of microfilmed studies on medications and diseases, supplied by the University of Iowa hospital.

Ross General is the only California hospital taking part in the nationwide test program, according to A. H. Angelini, director of pharmacy services at the hospital.

If the one-year test is successful, hospitals such as Ross General with advanced pharmacy departments will serve as distribution centers for information for other hospitals in the area.

Schoonmaker Forms New Division To Manufacture Small Generators

The formation of a new division has been announced by A. G. Schoonmaker, Sausalito, to design and manufacture small generator sets up to 400 kilowatts, special vehicles, ground support equipment and refrigerated vehicles and containers.

During the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, a sales volume of $6 million, out of the company's total sales of $15 million was credited to this part of its production activities. The new division will be known as the Emtek Division and Schoonmaker has hired former marketing vice president M. J. Sullivan of the International Fremont Division of Dynamics Corp. of America as an Emtek vice president. He will be headquartered in New York and Washington, D.C., where apparently much of this business is generated.

All this is expected to boost Schoonmaker production and a considerable increase in employment at the Sausalito plant is anticipated early next spring.

KIRK W. FREDERICK of San Rafael has been appointed to head a new administration division at Fibreboard Corp., San Francisco to consolidate manufacturing, marketing and distribution activities, personnel, public relations and office services. He was previously vice president of organization and personnel.

ARCHITECT Eugene E. Crawford of Crawford and Banning, San Rafael, has been elected first vice president of the California council of the American Institute of Architects for 1969. He will serve as president in 1970.

SAN RAFAEL COMMERCIAL PHOTOGRAPHER Ken Molino has a series of full-page photographs of Marin appearing weekly in Advertising Age magazine. He recently concluded a six-month color series assignment for Western Electric Co. of its communications installation in San Francisco. Now he is traveling in Southern California and Nevada picturing the facilities and services of a major utilities company.

SUBJECT of a feature article in Tire Review, a trade magazine, is Brodie and Schwerin San Rafael Tire and Brake, San Rafael. The company is cited for a highly successful business policy of honoring all credit cards since 1962.

TOM MARTIN of Raccoon Straits Yacht Sales in Sausalito was named an award winner by Pearson Yachts, Providence, R.I., for his outstanding sales record of Pearson vessels in this area.

Air West Reports Passenger Records

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Air West passenger traffic continued to show increases in September as the international carrier completed its first full quarter of merged operations in eight western states, Canada and Mexico.

Highlights included record third quarter boardings of 825-240, up 89,390 passengers over 1967; a September high of 247,740 passengers, compared with 227,180 a year ago, and nine-month boardings of 2,310,748, compared with 2,658,160 for the entire 12 months of 1967.

The first coins minted in the Western Hemisphere were made in Mexico City in the 1530s, says the National Geographic.

Bank Directors Vote Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Stockholders of Bank of America got an "early Christmas gift" yesterday when directors coted a 20 per cent stock dividend.

The stock split will be payable Dec. 23 to shareholders of record Dec. 2. The bank said an increase in capital stock necessary to pay the dividend will be presented to shareholders for approval at a special meeting Dec. 17.

The bank's directors also declared a regular quarterly dividend of 55 cents a share, payable on Nov. 29 to shereholders of record Nov. 1.

INVESTING

Bonds And Preferreds Pay Well

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I recently retired and could use more income. Have you any suggestion on the following stocks which I hold: Atlas Consolidated Mining & Development, Lorillard Corp., Keystone Steel and Wire, Inspiration Consolidated Copper and F. W. Woolworth? — W. P.

A. Sales of two issues will increase your yield and add stability to your portfolio. Although Inspiration Consolidated Copper will probably report somewhat better earnings than in strike-depressed 1967, this could be the second year in which the dividend was not covered, leaving some doubt as to the payment's security. The second sale is Woolworth which, because of an improving outlook, has moved up in price, but at this level the yield is inadequate for your needs.

I like Atlas Consolidate Mining — a Philippine-based copper operation — which has upped its October quarterly payment to 89 cents a share after reporting a 78 per cent increase in first-half earnings.

A contract arrangement with Mutshubishi of Japan, negotiated in 1955 and expiring in 1972, has been beneficial to Atlas. This month daily production will have reached an annual rate of 100 million pounds, a target set two years ago. Increased production should help offset weakening in copper prices expected next year.

Directors of Lorillard have approved the merger into Loew's Inc. Under terms of the union you will receive for each Lorillard share held a $62 face value debenture paying 6.875 per cent a year in interest.

In addition you will receive a warrant to purchase — pending approval of a three-for-one split — one share of Loew's common at $35 for four years and at increasing amounts for the following eight years.

The prospects for Keystone Consolidated Industries (formerly Keystone Steel and Wire) depend on the company's success in expanding into new markets to offset the limited growth and intense competition in its wire business. Because recent acquisitions are promising and shares offer a good income, I would hold.

Purchase of either of these high-rated bonds is recommended: Georgia Power 6⅝'s of 1981 or Pacific Electric 6⅝'s of 1993. The balance of your funds should be used to buy American Can $1.75 preferred yielding about 5½ per cent.

Boothe Computer Reports Earnings

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — D. P. Boothe Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, Boothe Computer Cor., has reported earnings of $418,876, or 29 cents per share on revenues of $5,584,00 for the quarter ending Sept. 30.

Nine months earnings were $828,638, or 60 cents per share, on revenues of $10,190,000.

Purchasing Powers Expected To Climb

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — For at least the next 10 years, the output of the nation's economy and the real purchasing power flowing to consumers will grow at a rate of 4 and one-half per cent if it is a time of full employment, Paul W. McCracken, University of Michigan economist, says.

He said economic growth at this level would be about 30 per cent faster than the 3 and one-half per cent rate which generally has prevailed since the latter part of the last century.

Hike In Earnings

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — United States Leasing International, Inc., (AMEX) has reported a 33 per cent increase in per share earnings for the first nine months of 1968. Earnings were a record $1.6 million, equal to 61 cents per share vs. 46 cents at Sept. 30 last year.

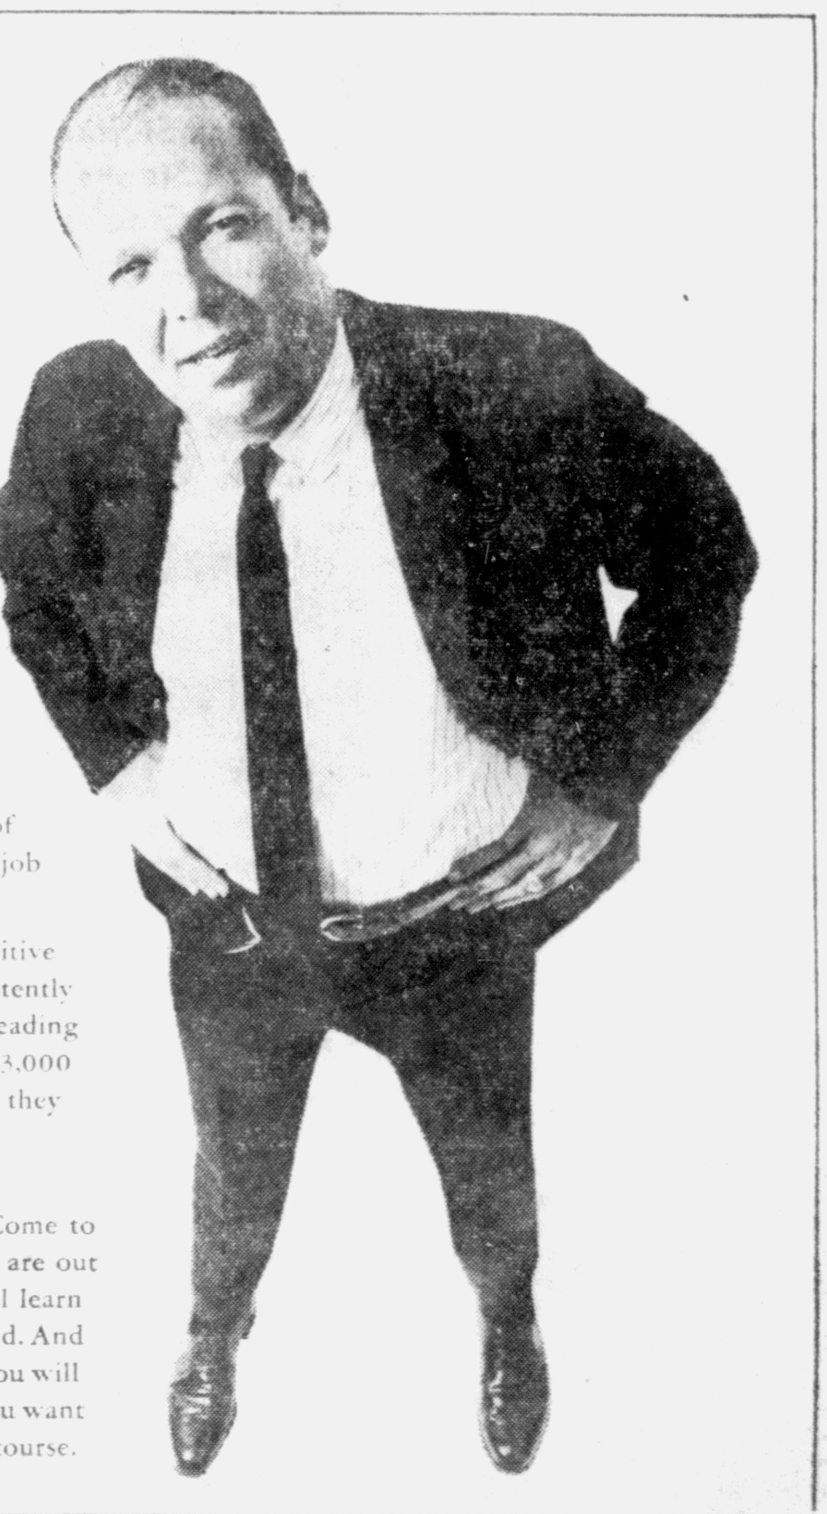
"I read 250 words per minute and I got through college. If that was good enough for me, it's good enough for my kid."



Sure, you can still get through college if you're a "normal" student reading at the average rate of 250 to 400 words per minute. It just means that throughout your college career you'll spend over 5,000 hours doing just your required reading! And that's a shame, because you could save at least 3,700 of those hours. How? By learning to read at least three times faster.

For five years now the Reading Dynamics Institute has guaranteed to at least triple your reading speed or refund your entire tuition. Thousands of people throughout the Bay Area have taken up this offer and are now reading 3 to 10 times faster. Results? Hundreds, even thousands, of irreplaceable hours saved for them to invest as they choose. Businessmen and professional people now spend more time in productive work. High school and college students have time for campus activities and taking "want to" courses, raising their grade point average, or holding down a part-time job. Imagine, if a student could cut 3,700 hours of his required reading time and invested only 2,500 of those hours in a job that paid $1.75 an hour, he could earn $4,375.00.

Reading Dynamics is an incredible education breakthrough. It is the definitive rapid reading method in the world today because their graduates consistently surpass the 450 to 600 words per minute rates aspired to by conventional reading courses. Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,000 and 3,000 words per minute. Many go higher, and all understand and appreciate what they read at these staggering speeds.

FREE READING DYNAMICS MINI-LESSON
Does Reading Dynamics really work? Well there is one way to find out. Come to one of the free Reading Dynamics Mini-Lessons listed below. Whether you are out of school or in, you'll find the Mini-Lesson an exciting hour well spent. You'll learn what Reading Dynamics is all about and all of your questions will be answered. And since the Mini-Lesson is a miniature version of a Reading Dynamics class, you will probably leave reading a little faster than when you came in. Of course, if you want to read a lot faster for the rest of your life you will have to sign up for the course.

Student Power Signs Daubed At Drake High

Signs demanding "Free Speech," "Power Now" and "Student Power" were painted on walls, lockers, walkways, benches and even a drinking fountain last night at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo.

Principal Harold Allison said that janitors were called during the night and early morning hours to scrub off the signs with paint remover and repaint over the slogans. By the time school opened this morning most of them had been removed or covered up, he said.

Some of the slogans were painted in free-hand letters about three feet high, he said, and others were done using a stencil about one foot high and red spray paint.

Allison said he did not know of any activity or movement at the school which would have incited the sign painter or painters, or even if vandalism was done by a Drake student or students.

The San Anselmo Police Department is investigating, he said.

Accidents are the leading cause of death among persons aged one to 17, says the National Safety Council.

Vacancy Filled In Terra Linda

Robert N. Bennett of 648 Woodbine Drive was elected last night to the board of directors of the Terra Linda Community Services District, according to board secretary Helen Lontz.

Bennett, a representative for Bankers Life Insurance, will succeed Richard Rosenberg, who resigned last month.

Marin GOP Leader Scolds Republicans For Cranston

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — California Republican National Committeeman Thomas C. Reed of Ross today sharply criticized Republicans opposing Max Rafferty, their party's nominee for U.S. Senate.

"The times are too perilous and the needs too urgent to send a man to Washington who intends to sabotage whatever Dick Nixon intends to do," said Reed of Rafferty's opponent, Democratic nominee Alan Cranston.

Members of the Republican for Cranston committee either should get a pledge from Cranston that he will back the new president, or withdraw their support, declared Ross in a statement released here by Rafferty for U.S. Senator headquarters.

Friday night will be amateur photographers night at the dress rehearsal of "Bunny Bash," at 8 p.m. in the Novato Community House.

The Novato Community Players are sponsoring an amateur photography contest for those wishing to take either posed or candid shots of the cast for the bash, a spoof of the Playboy clubs.

The best over-all photograph will receive four reserved seat tickets to the opening night, with two tickets for best in each of three categories: back-stage drama, on-stage rehearsal and "cheesecake."

The bash will be presented at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 15, 16, 22 and 23 at the Novato Community House.

Juvenile Writing Course Scheduled

A six-week course in commercial writing for the juvenile market will start at 8 p.m. Monday in Marin Country Day School's adult education program.

The class, taught by Jeanne Massey, will meet for two hours each Monday and will include both basic and advanced instruction. Enrollment information is available from the day school.

Sonoma Supervisors Reject Court Shift

Sonoma County supervisors yesterday denied a request from Cotati Police Chief John Curtis to transfer the City of Cotati from the Central Judicial Court District in Santa Rosa to the Southern Judicial Court District in Petaluma.

Studying a map, supervisors found the irregular Cotati city boundaries were an island in the central district and would be connected to the southern district only by a narrow strip along Highway 101. Feeling this would bring jurisdictional problems, the board refused the request.

Curtis said he felt the transfer would make court appearances more convenient for Cotati residents since transportation is more readily available to Petaluma. City Mgr. Gordon C. Howe said the proposed transfer had never been presented to the council, and that Curtis made the request on his own.

Russia, Cuba Ink Scientific Pact

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuba and the Soviet Union have signed a five-year agreement for scientific collaboration, Radio Havana reported today.

The accord calls for 90 Soviet scientists to visit Cuba and for Cubans to go to Russia for science training.

Novatan Injured On Lakeville Highway

Dirk J. Smit, 37, of 10 Rebecca Way, Novato, was injured at 2:15 a.m. today when the truck he was driving struck a bridge abutment and went into a three foot ditch on Lakeville Highway near East Stoneburner Road, Petaluma.

Smit was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for lacerations of the head. Petaluma police reported the truck belonged to his employer, Teleview Systems, 148 Mitchell Road, San Rafael.

Apartment Looted

A .22-caliber pistol and a clock radio valued at a total of $85 were stolen Friday or Saturday from the apartment of Arnold Schultz, 400 Canal Street, Apt. 121, San Rafael police said.

GI Smothers Grenade; Medal Of Honor Given

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 20-year-old Army medical aidman who smothered a grenade explosion with his body has been awarded the Medal of Honor, the Army announced today.

The parents of Pfc. James H. Monroe of Wheaton, Ill. will receive his posthumous award tomorrow from Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor.

Monroe was killed on Feb. 16, 1967 while serving with the 1st Calvary Division near Bong Son, South Vietnam.

While treating a seriously wounded man, he saw a live grenade fall directly in front of his platoon's position.

"He shouted a warning to all those nearby, pushed the wounded aside and lunged forward to smother the grenade's blast with his body," the Army said.

Monroe is the fourth Army medic to earn a Medal of Honor in Vietnam.

His medal is the 53rd of the nation's highest military decoration to be conferred in the Vietnam war.

Auto Parts Stolen

Barton M. Young of 636 Lindaro Street, San Rafael, reported yesterday that $210 worth of parts was removed from his car while it was parked in front of his home Monday night, police said.

LBJ Signs Bill For New Aid To Colleges

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson today signed into law legislation to step up aid for the nation's overcrowded colleges. The bill also contained a provision to cut off aid to students who participate in campus disorders.

Johnson also signed into law a sweeping overhaul of the vocational education program, authorizing $3 billion over three years starting July 1.

The higher education bill authorizes $7.3 billion through fiscal 1971 to help private and public universities to build classrooms, improve libraries and expand graduate student programs.

The aid cut-off amendment provides that students convicted by a court or found guilty by the university, after adequate hearing, of conduct that damages college property or disrupts classes would lose federal aid for two years.

The new vocational education law authorizes the biggest spending effort yet in that field, spreading $3 billion over three years starting in fiscal 1970.

The two new education laws also mark the first serious attack on the Administration's war-on-poverty agency, the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The higher education law transfers Upward Bound, the pre-college tutoring program for needy high school students, from OEO to the Office of Education.

The vocational education law calls for a study toward phasing out OEO's Job Corps and requires the next President to recommend by next March 1 whether the Head Start program of training pre-school children should also be transferred from OEO.

Student Reports Theft Of Suitcase

The theft of a suitcase, valued at $50, was reported yesterday by Helen Elizabeth Doneaux of Stockton, a student at Dominican College, San Rafael police said.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

'New Careers' Encounters Same Old Bureaucracy

Exactly two months ago today, the Independent-Journal commended the Marin County Board of Supervisors for endorsing a "New Careers" program in county employment, but raised the question: Why is it necessary to have a five-month study by the administrator's staff before starting the program?

The same question bothered Dr. Arthur Pearl of University of Oregon, who on Aug. 13 had presented the program to the supervisors. Last week, he was back in Marin to find out what's holding it up.

PROFESSOR PEARL and Dr. Frank Riessman of New York University are the originators of the "New Careers" program.

Unlike the labyrinthine bureaucracy of the "War on Poverty," it is simplicity itself. The whole idea is to offer employment to those disadvantaged in education or background, at the same time giving them job-oriented education to help them better themselves.

For the employer — in this case, the County of Marin — there is no need for a special organization. The "New Careers" applicants can be handled through the employment office that handles all job applications.

For the schools, the program requires setting up special courses to train the young men and women for the jobs they are to fill, and give them the educational background for advancement. It is this promise of advancement that is the key to the program's success.

SO WHAT HAS happened in the two months since the board of supervisors endorsed "New Careers" for a county project?

The county administrator's office, which was given the job of setting it up, has not even come out of the dressing room, let alone started the game.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella said last week, when Professor Pearl arrived with his inquiries, that he hasn't even made a cost estimate yet.

Nobody from the administrator's office has talked with Louis H. Herkenhoff, president of College of Marin, although he expressed interest in the program and said he has faculty members eager to offer the special classes.

THE COUNTY ADMINISTRATOR'S office proposed creating a new department—a new bureaucracy—to administer the program.

This is precisely what is NOT needed. This is the War on Poverty all over again — big promises and scant results. This is the "Lyndon B. Johnson syndrome" applied at the county level.

Exactly two months ago today, we said in this column:

"It would seem a simple matter to unfreeze the stratified county civil service structure to permit hiring 25 or 50 untrained minority race members. . . . The training program could be worked out afterward with College of Marin. We see no reason why the hiring must wait until the whole blueprint is completed."

WE SAY IT AGAIN NOW. And since County Administrator Alan Bruce's office has not even started the blueprint, we suggest that the board of supervisors assert a little authority and do something itself to get the program started — now! The "study and report" route via the administrator's office is getting nowhere — as usual.

The Propertied Bird

The more we learn about animals, the more we are struck by their resemblance to humans. But in our reading the other day, we think we found the similarity that takes the prize.

Science has known for several decades that birds do not sing in the spring because their mates were enthralled by their voices. They sing to proclaim to the world that this is my territory, I have staked my claim and will fight any male of my kind that tried to muscle in. They are birds of property.

Now, this may seem a rather stupid thing to do. But a female bird won't give more than a quick first glance to an unpropertied male. And, for all we know, the males with large properties in rich subdivisions, like Kent Woodlands, win the loveliest, most talented mates.

Proposition 9 Seen As Threat To Water, Sewer Services

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Another reason for defeat of Proposition 9 on the Nov. 5 ballot — the Watson initiative limiting real property taxes to one per cent of market value — has been developed by the California State Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber is urging California voters to reject the Watson Amendment in view of its impact on water, and other health and safety requirements.

Burnham Enersen, chairman of the chamber's statewide water resources committee, says that Proposition 9, if enacted, "would cripple incomplete or planned water supply, treatment and distribution systems and waste disposal systems by removing the ability of local government to finance capital outlay programs for the construction of needed facilities."

"Pay-as-you-go financing of such projects," he said, "using the revenue from the sale of water or charges for waste disposal, is impossible since these services cannot be sold until the facilities are constructed and operating.

"LONG-TERM BOND financing remains as the only feasible means of financing such projects.

"Water needs in California for new communities, new industries, and more productive farms are compounded by constatnly increasing per capita needs. Local water agencies in the next decade will be in excess of $4 billion in capital outlay.

"Another $1.2 billion will be needed during the next five years for construction of new sewage treatment plants, or for repair of existing facilities.

"Raising the water quality through inprovement of existing facilities will cost even more. Funds from almost all of these projects must come from local bond issues which would be blocked by Proposition 9."

ADD THIS COST to the already evident costs of welfare and education, which also run up into the billions, to the state's budget, and the need for state revenue would be astronomical in the years to come.

Just the funding of education and welfare alone would, it is estimated, come near tripling the state income tax, and cause the sales tax to rise to around 12 per cent. Add water and waste disposal to this and the total bill would reach in the field of not only the undesirable, but also the unbearable for the ordinary taxpayer.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Farm Workers Not Covered By NLRA

Another reader (H. H. Rodgers, Oct. 9) recently criticized the grape boycott and stated that secondary boycotts are illegal under the Taft-Hartley Act. Since farm workers are excluded from National Labor Relations (Taft-Hartley) Act coverage, secondary boycotts by them are not illegal. This determination has recently been upheld by the California attorney general's office.

Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers Organizing Committee would be only too willing to accept NLRA coverage, despite its restrictions, since this would give them recognition of their rights as well as a guarantee of benefits which have been available to other labor groups for over 30 years, for example unemployment insurance benefits.

Thousands of farm worker families in the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys go on welfare each winter because of their low wages, seasonal employment, and lack of unemployment beneifts.

Different Approach To Transit Problem

The disappointing series of columns by William Fusselman have triumphantly pointed out various reasons why transit won't work in Marin County. A similar approach was taken by various people a good many years ago who recited the reasons why the airplane would never get off the ground.

At meetings of the Marin County Transit District — where I have never seen Mr. Fusselman in attendance — the various acknowledged problems which he lists are discussed in detail. So are many others, and so are various proposals for overcoming them.

A look at a different set of difficulties is given in "Tomorrow's Transportation," a study of new systems for urban transportation made by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The report begins by identifying eight general problems in present-day urban and suburban areas, where the automobile and sadly outmoded public trasnit systems are the rule.

Traffic congestion, urban pollution, quality of service and efficient use of land were four of the problems whose names are self-explanatory. Equality of access to urban opportunity is another, with the comment that present transportation tends to immobilize and isolate such nondrivers as the old, the younger, the poor and the handicapped.

Three others listed are:

Urban development options: "Transportation investments can be used creatively in the orderly development of urban areas. Present urban transportation is often not appropriate." (Question: How do we want Marin County developed? By freeway alone?)

Efficient use of equipment and facilities: Increased efficiency and economy must be obtained through better use of such techniques as cost control, scheduling and routing, experimentation in marketing.

Institutional framework: "An improved institutional framework — legal, financial, governmental and intergovernmental — is needed to eliminate rigidities and anachronisms which prevent the adoption of new technologies and methods." . . .

Sales Tax Preferred To Property Levy

As a homeowner-taxpayer I would like to comment in favor of Proposition 1-A.

I personally prefer "nickel and dime" paying a small sales tax than paying a large or larger tax on my home. Besides visitors to our state and even welfare recipients help contribute to the community when they buy products with these taxes; and nobody, but nobody helps pay my property tax.

As far as the Legislature dropping the sales tax by one-half cent if 1-A is defeated, I rather doubt it. They can always find something else to spend the money on, sooner or later. So why not help the already overburdened homeowner, now?

Black America Course 'A Must'

I cannot keep this to myself! Last night (Oct. 9) was the first of four lectures about the history and culture of the black American. Somehow my education lacked this subject. It seems to me that learning about each other's past brings with it understanding of our present.

Everyone out there in "I-J-land" should get up right now and find the course closest to him. This knowledge is a must for every American. The Novato High School series continues Oct. 23, Nov. 6, and Nov. 20 — each at 7:30 p.m. It's free! Please come and bring your relatives.

MARQUIS CHILDS

'68 Campaign 'Last Hurrah' For Politics On Old Alignment

WASHINGTON — Out of two and a half weeks on the road talking with hundreds of peopel — many of them the young — one conclusion comes through. With the upheaval shaking the body politic at almost every level, the political structure so long familiar will never be quite the same again.

Third parties have sprung up and then withered away. The two old parties have survived more or less intact for more than a century. The politics of pragmatism and compromise has prevailed and on the whole has served the nation well.

GEORGE C. WALLACE'S American Independent Party may, like its many predecessors, be carted off to the political attic. But if it is not to be Wallace's party — a personal party built essentially around one man — another upsurge on the right seems certain to take its place. Wallace's support has shown above all a deep-seated frustration with the political process a disillusionment with the two old parties. As one of Wallace's taxi drivers in Southern California put it:

"They (the Republicans and the Democrats) aren't going to do a blankety blank one of the things that have got to be done in this country. Maybe this fellow Wallace can't either. But I'm for giving him a chance."

The conventional political wisdom is that Wallace's strength has peaked and that he is bound to decline in the final weeks. In a final stop in the Midwest the evidence seemed to be all to the contrary. A poll taken in an automotive plant in St. Louis in the first week in October showed 40 for Hubert Humphrey, 100 for Richard Nixon and 850 for Wallace. These were United Auto Workers.

At the beginning of the campaign a Granite City, Ill., steel plant showed 380 for Humphrey, 480 for Nixon and 597 for Wallace. These were members of the United Steelworkers Union. And for law-and-order buffs the poll reported out of the Missouri State Prison —150 Humphrey, 400 Nixon and 800 Wallace — says something.

IF THE SAMPLES from around the country are a true reflection of the way the blue-collar vote is going, the nationwide polls may underestimate the Wallace strength.

Wallace's selection of Gen. Curtis LeMay as his vice presidential running mate has in most editorial and other opinion been a bad blunder. A southern governor with a touch of the populist is linked with a tough spokesman for the military - industrial complex and the hardest of hard lines on the Vittnam war. This is the curious hybrid, half-tiger and half-southern mule, that comes through. It must leave the taxi driver, the beautician, "just us folks" to whom Wallace addresses himself, somewhat puzzled.

Yet there is no proof that LeMay scares the Wallaceites as he does the cartoonists who recall the link between Hitler and the aggressive military in the person of Field Marshal Herman Goering. The hard line on Vietnam — let's go all out and get it over with — has always scored high in any sampling of opinion. If LeMay adds any appeal to the ticket it is in the area of widespread impatience over a war that continues to take such a heavy toll in blood and money with no foreseeable end.

NEITHER NIXON nor Humphrey seems thus far to inspire any intense enthusiasm. They are typical products of the politics of the past. To use a dubious word they lack charisma, fire, a dramatic presence, that draws the crowds and send them. A Wendell Willkie, Dwight Eisenhower with his own paternal, understated style, Adlai Stevenson and his great appeal for a limited segment of the voting public, John F. Kennedy who in 1960 drew the screamers, Robert F. Kennedy and the wildly unruly crowds greeting him in the primaries — there is nothing like that in the current campaign.

Fed up, wanting a change, the voters will go for Nixon unless all signs fail. Under the circumstances the total vote will probably be considerably lower than in recent years unless the Wallaceites turn out in large numbers.

Luck, as in every department of human life, is a big factor. Humphrey's tragedy, and against the background of the high achievements of his political career it has at times the look of a Greek tragedy, is to run in the wrong year in the wrong campaign under terms that could hardly be more unfavorable. The luck is all with Nixon.

ON DER MARCH?

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Nixon Has To Look Back In Fear Someone Gaining

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Richard M. Nixon, clearly the front-runner as the long presidential race winds into its final lap, is occasionally missing a stride as he glances nervously over his shoulder at his pursuers.

George Wallace, surprising some experts, is still up front with the leaders. He is running easily, confident that he has forced the pace thus far.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey is just running as hard as he can. It may not be the right time for sprinting, but there just doesn't seem to be any other strategy available.

These are the conclusions which arise from a second appraisal of the three presidential campaigners. This time we watched them, with the campaign beyond its halfway point, before the ninth annual conference of United Press International editors.

WALLACE — The former Alabama governor began his UPI speech with the wry comment that he was not used to speaking before orderly audiences. Then, from notes, he spoke for half an hour stressing his determination to vest control of local schools and local government in locally elected officials, not in "pointy-head" federal bureaucrats.

In a half-hour question period Wallace was asked a number of questions about foreign policy. He said his whole campaign and attitude were "pitched on peace — peace through strength." On the central issue of the Vietnam war, he said he supports the Paris talks ("let's pray and hope they're successful"), but would move for a military victory with conventional arms if the talks fail.

NIXON — Nixon made no speech and submitted, at once, to questions.

As expected, editors' questions brought out most of the positions which Nixon has been taking in his speeches. He maintained his self-imposed ban on outlining peace proposals for Vitenam. He said he would not escalate the level of bombing now.

HUMPHREY — The vice president talked from a foreign policy text for 50 minutes. There was no lack of detailed discussion here. On the contrary, there were five detailed essentials for world peace and a six-point proposal for the Middle East as elaboration for one of the five.

Humphrey restated his willingness to accept the "risk" of a complete bombing halt in Vietnam. He again stressed, however, that such an action would have to be matched by some evidence of Communist good faith. He said Russia should see that North Vietnam provides it.

ART BUCHWALD

The Truth Is Out At Last: How We Got Into Vietnam

WASHINGTON — In all the discussions on what went wrong in Vietnam, no one has asked the crucial question: "Who was the first American adviser to South Vietnam, and what kind of advice did he give to get us in so much trouble?"

Through careful research and extraordinary luck, I managed to locate him the other day. His name is Keenan Rutledge and he now works for an automobile company recalling faulty steering wheels.

At first Keenan was reluctant to discuss the role he played in Vietnam, but after plying his with drinks he opened up.

"I WAS A PRIVATE in the Army," Keenan said, "stationed at Fort Bragg back in 1954. I was on KP one day and the sergeant came in and said, 'Rutledge, how would you like to get off KP?' I asked what I had to do and he said, 'There's some place called Vietnam and they need an adviser for their army. The captain said to take someone from the KP list.'

" 'But Sarge, what should I advise them?"

" 'How do I know? I don't even know where Vietnam is.' "

Keenan looked into his glass "I figured anything was better than KP, so I packed my duffel bag and waited for available transport. In those days everything was based on priority. It took three months before anyone would fly me to Vietnam. Well, I got there and showed up at the palace in Saigon. Everyone was waiting for me from the premier on down and the first thing they asked me was, 'What's your advice?'

"I said, 'I don't like the looks of things," and this impressed the hell out of them. I then said, 'The first thing you ought to do is defend yourselves.'

"THEY LIKED THAT, but I could tell they were still disturbed and finally one of the cabinet officers said, 'We respect your advice, but what bothers us is why the United States would send us a private to solve our military problems'.

"I thought fast and said, "This is just a disguise to throw off the Communist agents. I'm really a corporal.'

"That satisfied them, and they said they would do anything I told them.

"Well, there I was in Vietnam all by myself, and they were counting on me to save them. I wrote a letter to the Pentagon telling them about the advice I had given the South Vietnamese so far and they congratulated me and asked me if there was anything I wanted. I had just seen the movie 'Wake Island' on television, so as a gag I radioed back, 'Send me more Japs.'

"THIS MUST have gotten them very confused in Washington, because the next thing I knew they sent out an inspector general to find out what was going on: I told him that things were going very well and I expected to be home by Christmas. The inspector general reported this back to the secretary of defense who went on television and announced to the American public, 'Our boys in Vietnam will be home by Christmas.'

"In the meantime the South Vietnamese were leaning on me pretty heavily for advice, and since I couldn't be everywhere at the same time, I asked the Pentagon to send out another adviser. Since I was out there first, I was the senior adviser and he was the junior adviser. I was promoted to sergeant. Now the United States was committed, because it had two men in Vietnam. When Bob Hope heard about it he came out and did a show for the two of us.

"UNFORTUNATELY, the South Vietnamese kept asking for more and more advice, so we had to keep asking for more and more advisers. One thing led to another and pretty soon I was commanding 40,000 advisers and had the rank of major general. I guess if I had stayed I would have had Westmoreland's job."

"What made you leave?"

"The South Vietnamese got sore at me. I told them if they ever hoped to win the war they'd have to win the hearts and minds of the people, and they said, angrily, 'When we want your advice we'll ask for it.'"

U.C. Changes Mind Again; Plans Grape Purchase Ban

BERKELEY (UPI) — The University of California at Berkeley changed its mind again yesterday and decided to not purchase table grapes being boycotted by the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

The decision amounts to a reaffirmation of an earlier decision.

The campus purchasing agent originally banned all grapes Oct. 4. On Saturday, U.C. President Charles Hitch said campuses could discontinue buying grapes "only if . . . there is not sufficient demand to make continued service economical." He said the university should not take sides in the grape dispute.

Richard P. Hafner, director of public affairs, said yesterday's decision "reflects our local needs . . . We felt our interpretation follows the intention of the president's memo."

Hitch's ruling had been interpreted by supporters of the boycott as a "sellout" to grape growers. About 400 supporters of the boycott marched on University Hall yesterday to demand amnesty for 11 students arrested there at a sit-in Monday night.

The sit-in cane after a meeting with Hitch by members of the Mexican-American Student Confederation who were angered by Hitch's order.

Ralph Arreola, acting chairman of the confederation, said Hitch's Saturday ruling "simply put the university behind the agricultural growers and the Ronald Reagan clique."

Chrysanthemum Weekend Slated

The Chrysanthemum Society of Marin will present its 19th annual flower show from 1 to 7 p.m. Oct. 26 and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 27 at the Crocker-Citizens National Bank, Fourth and B Streets, San Rafael.

The show, "Spotlight on Mums," will include horticulture and arrangement divisions, to be judged on a standard system.

Entry reservations may be made until next Wednesday and entries will be received from 7 to 10 p.m. Oct. 24 and 8 to 9 a.m. Oct. 25. Retired Lt. Col. J. Paul Sibbitt of 81 Cambridge Heights, Novato, chairman of the show, may be contacted for additional information.

Thai Leader Claims Heavy Cost To Reds

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thai forces have killed or captured 6,374 Communist terrorists in the past three years, Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn said yesterday.

Thanom, reviewing progress in the country's struggle against Communist guerrilla movements, told reporters a breakdown of the figures showed it included 576 Communists killed. The figures for terrorist captured included those who had surrendered to the government.

Tam Discipline Study Committee Gives Attendance Top Priority

Tamalpais High School District's discipline study committee, charting its course, agreed yesterday to focus first on attendance problems.

The committee, composed of students, parents and staff members, decided against starting with a general philosphical approach or investigating a specific incident.

During a two-hour session at the district room on the Redwood High School campus, there was a strong call for communication between students, community and school.

The committee, formed last month, spent most of its session determining how it should proceed and the scope of its task.

Rev. Gordon L. Foster of Mill Valley noted that young people "see things in revolt against the status quo while the present rules are designed to keep it intact."

Lawrence Goldberg, a member of the Kentfield School District board, said he saw "the discipline problem as a symptom of the gap between adults and young people . . . and maybe between adults themselves."

One student noted that students resent district policy and the committee could study what students resent.

Committee members also wondered how discipline could be applied within the educational goal of developing self-reliant individuals.

Dr. Gloria W. Melbostad, Tamalpais district trustee, said she felt there was too much emphasis on procedures, and "individuals felt they were not treated as individuals," but treated impersonally by regulation.

The committee was formed after parents of students, who were disciplined for skipping school to attend an antidraft rally in April, claimed the resulting discipline was unwarranted.

John M. Thompson, advisor to the Students Rights Club at Redwood High School, urged the committee to study student rights.

Dr. Ellen Binckley, committee chairman, assured him that student rights and other areas of concern would come before the committee as it progresses in its work.

The committee adjourned until 7:30 p.m. Nov. 5 at the district administration building at Redwood High campus. Nineteen of the 23 committee members were present.

Touch Football Days Are Over

MELROSE, Mass. (AP) — Rep. Torbert MacDonald, D-Mass., says his touch football days are over.

"All during my football career, which spanned playing at Medford High, Andover Academy and Harvard," he said, "I never had a broken bone. But the age of 51 is not the resilient age of 21.

"From here on I will leave the playing to my sons and the watching to myself."

Lack Of Quorum

The Novato Planning Commismeeting Monday because of a meeting last night because of a lack of a quorum, according to secretary Juanita Gibson. Four members of the seven-man commission were out of town, she said.

Colleges Seek Record Budget

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — State college trustees are suggesting a record operating budget from the Legislature of $285.2 million for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

Members of the trustees' finance and educational policies committees, meeting in San Francisco yesterday, voted 9-2 to recommend that the full board adopt that request figure when its meets Oct. 23-24 in Fresno.

The amount represents an eincrease of $46.2 million from the 1968-69 budget.

If the full board approves, the suggestion would go to the state Department of Finance and then to the Legislature and the governor. Last year the board asked $250.2 million and got $224.3 million.

Glenwood ranch with its excellent floor plan, large kitchen with breakfast area, carpeted living rm. with used-brick fireplace set in paneled wall. Sliding doors lead to very large patio, and the entire yard has been especially planted for very low maintenance. $29,500. Eves., 453-5718.

ALL IN THE FAMILY—Your family will enjoy this attractive shake-roof ranch with super-large covered patio (almost a 2nd living rm.), fenced and well-landscaped yard with dichondra lawns & rose gardens. Nice-sized living rm. with paneled fireplace wall; paneled formal dining rm. or family rm. depending on your needs. Electric kitchen with pleasant breakfast area; utility rm. & lots of storage. 3 bdrms., 2 bas., in desirable Northbridge with its streets divided by planter islands & closeness to schools and civic center. $39,750. Eves., 453-4872.

SAUSALITO — VIEW? — Convenient location with views of Richardson Bay, Strawberry Pt., Belvedere & Angel Islands. Newer, shake shingle house; used-brick fireplace serves as focal point of the spacious living-dining rm., carpeted & with doors to pretty patio. Laundry area, electric kitchen, level play area. $42,500. Eves., 453-8881.

MANSION — Needs a "large" family that enjoys entertaining and hobby rooms galore. Lower level consists of three hobby rooms, family room with fireplace, bar & bathroom. Main floor has huge living room, octagonal dining room, sun room, huge kitchen and sitting room. The upper floor consists of 3 master bdrms. & baths, plus two average sized bedrooms & 1 bath. Eves., 435-1590. $77,500

NOT THE APPIAN WAY . . . but right in the heart of San Rafael's choice Dominican area is this miniature Roman villa. Have a toga party in front of the marble fireplace and later your guests can take a dip in the fantastic INDOOR POOL that separates the spacious living room from the equally large formal dining room. Master bedroom could hold an entire Roman legion, and the master bath, naturally, has a Roman tub. Different, exciting, luxurious! Eves., 435-1590. $79,500.

SOLITUDE — For all Mill Valley lovers who crave tranquility. Listen to the birds sing, watch the fog roll over the hills into Sausalito. On a clear night, see the shimmering glow of San Francisco. Privacy so complete one can swim unnoticed in nature's garments. 3400 sq. ft. of luxury living including a Julia Child kitchen, formal dining rm., living rm. with pyramidal ceiling, 4 bdrms., 3½ baths and a tremendous recreation room. Eves., 435-1590 or 453-4872. $89,500

STATELY BROWN SHINGLE — Not an old one, but a better-than-new, architect-designed contemporary home that catches the distilled essences of Sausalito with its views of bay, bridges, even Coit Tower! Wonderful indoor-outdoor living here — many decks & a bridge from upper level to secluded hillside garden. Spacious living rm. with high ceiling, view windows, dark-stained floors, built-ins, wet bar; formal dining rm.; mosaic-tiled kitchen; family rm. opens to cozy patio, 4 bdrms., including master suite with deck & views of Alcatraz; 2½ bas. EXCLUSIVE. Eves., 456-1562. $132,000.

Humphrey Pledges 'Extra' Negro Help

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey says that a century of deprivation requires not only equal opportunity but even "a little extra help" for Negroes.

The Democratic presidential nominee spoke on civil rights in appearances here yesterday before a predominantly student group at Kansas City's Rockhurst College and at a meeting of labor and Negro leaders here.

With crowds urging him to "give 'em hell" at a campaign in the two largest cities of normally Democratic Missouri, Humphrey enjoyed one of his best days as he launched the final three weeks of his campaign.

Humphrey said he has been criticized for his support of federal programs to train more Negro workers, and to upgrade educational levels in the nation's slum areas.

He told a group of Negro leaders, "I do not intend, in order to win this election, to compromise a lifetime of dedication to the cause of human rights."

Humphrey has a busy schedule here today, including a question session with housewives, a shopping center reception, a downtown rally, and a television interview.

In a speech prepared for the downtown rally, Humphrey criticized Nixon's choice of Spiro T. Agnew as the No. 2 man on the Republican ticket.

"You know," he said, "it's bad enough that Mr. Republican's TV blitz keeps telling us that 'Nixon's the one.' But it's even worse when you stop to think that 'Agnew's the two,'" he added.

Later in the day, Humphrey will fly to New York City for the annual Alfred E. Smith Memorial dinner.

WALLACE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — George C. Wallace received a restrained but polite reception yesterday as he wound up a three-day California swing with speeches at three aerospace plants and by fielding questions from the audience on a national television show.

The American Independent Party's presidential candidate was to go to Alamagordo, N.M., and Texas today.

A Negro, who identified himself as Booker Terry Sharp, a Los Angeles cement mason, drew loud applause at the Joey Bishop TV show when, as the last question from the audience, he said: "What we need in this country is a president who will unify the people, not divide them. What are you going to do about that?"

"I agree with you," Wallace began before Bishop stopped further discussion by saying that Wallace now was over the time given other presidential candidates who appeared on the show. The program, on the American Broadcasting Co., was taped for showing tonight.

Earlier Wallace spoke at Hughes Aircraft in Culver City; at TRW Systems in Redondo Beach and Aerojet General in Downey. For the most part, the employees listened silently, although there were occasional bursts of applause and some boos.

LeMAY

SAIGON (AP) — Surrounded by some of the tightest security precautions yet seen in Vietnam, U.S. vice presidential candidate Curtis E. LeMay began a visit today to the Vietnam War.

A spokesman said George C. Wallace's running mate would talk to senior U.S. officials "and the man in the mud."

LeMay, an advocate of a full military victory in Vietnam, went from the airport to the nearby U.S. Command headquarters for his first military briefing by Gen. Creighton Abrams the U.S. commander for Vietnam, and his staff.

The former Air Force chief of staff was expected to meet with Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker later in the day.

The VIP arrival area at the airport was under heavy guard by Secret Service men, embassy security officials, Air Force and Army MPs and Vietnamese security men.

A spokesman said LeMay would return to the United States and report to Wallace before the third party presidential candidate appears on television Sunday.

AGNEW

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gov. Spiro T. Agnew says a return to the South of unemploymed workers who moved North to collect higher welfare benefits "might not be such a bad thing."

The Republican vice presidential candidate, long an advocate of standardized welfare benefits administered through the Social Security Administration, said last night that such a standarization might cause some welfare recipients to move South.

He is expected to spend most of the day taping television programs and will address a Republican dinner in the evening. Agnew will leave Pittsburgh tomorrow and travel to Youngstown, Ohio, and Detroit, Mich.

MUSKIE

Muskie delivered the same general message yesterday to predominantly Negro crowds in Harlem and Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant area and to an all white crowd in Brooklyn's Greenpoint section.

America must not build walls, he said, if they are to achieve the goals of ending the Vietnam war—"the first order of business"—eliminating ghettoes and unacceptable living conditions, and "learning to govern our cities."

RAFFERTY

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State schools chief Max Rafferty found himself before a high school civic classes yesterday where, as Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, he fielded questions on subjects ranging from Vietnam to the internal combustion engine.

He told Mrs. Margaret Garrett's senior civic class at El Camino High School that if the South Vietnamese "want to go communist, they ought to be allowed to do so."

Then he added, "But if they want our help, they should have that too."

He then repeated his four-point program for getting out of Vietnam.

Asked for his position on air pollution, Rafferty said he would support a federal program to develop cars that don't use smog-producing gasoline.

"The day of the automobile as you know it is ended," he said. "Otherwise, it is going to end all of us."

CRANSTON

Speaking at the University of California at Los Angeles, Cranston again referred to Rafferty's statement that if an unconditional bombing halt became American policy, it would be "perilously close to treason."

In Sacramento Rafferty said again yesterday: "I don't call my opponent a traitor. I don't think he is."

Despite this, Cranston kept up his contention, in remarks prepared for delivery, that Rafferty's words about treason apply to anyone who urges an unconditional halt to the bombing — including prominent senators of both parties.

Cranston told the students, "I bring good news to all of you incipient traitors who agree with me that we should stop the bombing and get on with the negotiations."

The news, he said, is that top presidential adviser McGeorge Bundy has joined those who call for a bombing halt without conditions and a phased withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

Bundy was a national security adviser to presidents John F. Kennedy and Johnson, and now is president of the Ford Foundation. Bundy made public his change of views on the war over the weekend.

REAGAN

ANAHEIM (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says there is a "price tag" for winning Assembly committee approval of a bill and the proceeds go to the election campaigns of Democratic candidates for the lower house.

Campaigning for Republicans in Orange County yesterday, the GOP governor said Jesse Unruh, Democratic speaker of the Assembly, is "the handler of campaign funds for the candidates."

A spokesman for Unruh, Richard Kline, replied: "Campaign contributions have never been a consideration for the passage or nonpassage of any bill going through the state Assembly in which Jesse Unruh has been even indirectly involved, much less directly."

Reagan's attack came as he toured Southern California in his battle to win Republican control of the Legislature.

Now, the Democrats control the Assembly 42-38, while the Senate is split 20-20. Today, Reagan was to move into San Diego County to put in a good word for Republican Assemblyman Pete Wilson.

Unruh, the powerful legislator who is considering running for Reagan's job in 1970, is also traveling through the state speaking for Democrats.

REGISTER

SACRAMENTO (AP) — More Californians are registered to vote this fall than ever before in the Golden State's history.

The total is 8,580,673. The previous record was 8,340,868 for the 1966 general election. Registration in the last presidential year, 1964, was 8,184,143.

The breakdown by party is: Democrats 4,682,661, or 54.5 per cent of the total; Republicans 3,462,131, or 40.3 per cent; American Independent Party 94,478, 1.1 per cent; Peace and Freedom party 64,248, or .7 per cent; miscellaneous 50,566, or .6 per cent, and declined to state 233,589, or 2.7 per cent.

Advisers Are Idled

The Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Board did not meet last night due to lack of business. The board's next meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Nov. 4 in the library gallery.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Realization Old Age Coming Can Become A Source Of Stress

VAN DELLEN

There comes a time when every man realizes youth has flown the coop. The emotional reactions to anticipated old age can be a source of stress.

Some individuals go through this transitional period gracefully; others, reluctantly and more so, when they fight against impossible odds to preserve the illusion of youth.

To the middle-aged man retirement is too close for comfort. His spouse also realizes that life has already poured out its most important gift, and she, too, fears the specter of old age.

This state of mind can create medical problems. The best defense is knowledge of self. It is most important to guard against our weaknesses.

THE EMOTIONAL manifestations that arise in this period of life usually represent exaggerations of the personality and characteristics of an earlier age. Those who know themselves are aware of their weaknesses.

Stable individuals evaluate situations as they really are and not as they appear through rose-colored glasses. Above all, be aware of and try to deal efflicts and tensions that all of us face. Blaming others is fraught with danger.

UNFORESEEN problems may strike. We refer to illness, business reversals, or losing a promotion.

Young people can afford to treat failures and disappointments casually because time is on their side. The middle-aged have lost this cushion. The physician may be able to offer a temporary crutch at this time to lessen the depression and help the individual over the hump.

Dr. Van Dellen will anser questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

PREVENTING HEPATITIS

Mrs. T. writes: My husband just returned to work after a long siege of hepatitis. What precautions should we take to prevent another attack?

REPLY

Because of immunity, a second attack seldom occurs after the first has subsided completely. Be sure he gets sufficient rest during the next few months. He should decline all social invitations and avoid unnecessary business commitments.

Liquor in any form is taboo. Strenuous exercise is not advisable and he should eat a nourishing diet.

LOW BLOOD COUNT

A reader writes: What is meant by a low blood count and why is it down?

REPLY

A low blood count is associated with a reduction in the number of blood cells or hemoglobin. Anemia is an example of this condition. The decline usually stems from bleeding, too little blood formation, or increased blood cell destruction.

ARTHRITIS OF RIBS

REPLY

If you refer to angina pectoris, no. Distress resembling this condition may occur on arthritis of the connecting joints between the ribs and breastbone or between the ribs and the vertebrae, especially when the involved areas are on the left side and at the same level as the heart.

IMPETIGO IS CATCHING

A reader writes: What causes impetigo? The skin is covered with lesions that look like cold sores and they weep a little. Does the disease spread to other persons?

REPLY

Impetigo is a highly contagious, crusty skin disease due to streptococci. It responds to antibiotics such as penicillin or the tetracylines.

SURGERY FOR GOITER?

B. L. writes: I have an inward goiter. Is there any cure other than operation?

REPLY

No, but surgery is not needed unless the enlargement is pressing on the windpipe or interfering with swallowing.

GUM AND ANGINA

A reader writes: Would constantly chewing gum have any effect on a man of 72 with angina? He has done this for about two years.

REPLY

No harm, provided the gum doesn't get in the way of the nitroglycerin tablet that is placed under the tongue when chest pain appears.

Today's Health Hint —
Clear out the medicine cabinet regularly.

Orphans Seeking $1.5 Million

OAKLAND (AP) A $1.5 million suit was filed yesterday in Superior Court on behalf of seven children whose parents were killed 10 days ago in a Fremont automobile accident.

William Clopton, a San Jose attorney, filed the suit for the children who range in age from 2 to 11 years.

Named defendants were the City of Fremont, Citizens Utilities Co., Pacific States Steel Co. and American Forge Co.

The suit contends they were negligent in not properly policing the highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Guadalupe Prado were killed when their car and another collided head on at Niles Boulevard and Kraftile Road. Police said Prado swerved to avoid a piece of wood on the highway.

Their children are now staying with their grandmother, Pauline Padilla, in Fremont.

Church Supports Farm Laborers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Council of the Episcopal Diocese of California has recommended inclusion of farm workers under the National Labor Relations Act.

The council, at its monthly meeting yesterday, approved a resolution urging agricultural workers be given the privileges extended to other workers, such as the right to be represented by a labor union.

The resolution, recommended by the council's department of social relations, said farm laborers are not accorded the right to organize under current labor laws.

However, the council left to individual Episcopalians a decision as to whether to support the current boycott of California table grapes sponsored by the AFL-CIO farm workers' union.

Nader Raps Repair Bills On New Cars

FARMINGTON, Mich. (AP) — Ralph Nader took another swipe at the auto industry yesterday, accusing U.S. automakers of deliberately building a profit system into breakdowns and repairs on new cars.

Nader, the author of a highly critical book on American cars, "Unsafe at Any Speed," promised he would make "spectacular revelations" in upcoming congressional hearings tentatively set for November.

Nader told a news conference at Oakland Community College that repairs on late model cars are costing individual consumers "hundreds of dollars a year."

He cited as an example the design of bumpers, which he said sustain heavy damage in minor collisions at speeds as low as two miles per hour.

"A functional bumper," said Nader," "would save—according to an insurance company estimate—a cool billion dollars a year for the American consumer." Nader said the estimate came from an insurance executive in Detroit, but he declined to identify the source.

Modernization Funds Sought In Marin City

Melvin Randolph, manager of the Marin City housing project, will seek board approval to apply to the housing assistance office for funds for a modernization program at a meeting of the Marin County Housing Authority today at 7:30 p.m. in the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

The program could involve painting, playground improvements, an irrigation system and paving. No cost estimate has been figured.

TV REVIEW

New Visual Frankness On Screen

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The most notable thing about last night's CBS-TV drama, "The People Next Door"—in which two families went to pot after their children took to narcotics—was the new visual frankness.

The 90-minute "CBS Playhouse" production, written by J. P. Miller, including one scene in which a 16-year-old girl on an "STP" trip runs around the family home, inside and out, in the altogether.

FRANK SCENES

There also was a scene in which she is found by her father in bed with a motley-looking punk in a messy pad. And in yet another scene she tells her father, in front of her mother, that he is a woman chaser; only her term was more explicit.

The young girl in question was played by an actress named Deborah Winters. Had long blonde hair—natch. Knew all the latest hate-your-parents cynicism beneath her dark idealism—natch.

Goodbye, Donna Reed, wherever you are. We'll miss you.

TWO FAMILIES

"The People Next Door" concerned two nice, everyday families. The daughter in one, as we have noted, takes narcotics like gumdrops, sleeps around and thinks her parents are phony—which they are. Her brother understands everything, as we can immediatey tell because he had long hair, wears a pendant, plays guitar and has outgrown marijuana and other former toys.

In the other family, meanwhile, the handsome, clean cut, short-haired, honor student son is a pusher of narcotics on the side, and is eventually turned over to the cops by his father. In short, what we have here is a remake of Sunnybrook Farm.

Television, it is clear, has now devloped to a high art a new form of theater—the generation gap soap opera. Like last night's outing, it is a middle-class, middle-aged, nightmare vision of Armageddon. It uses all the latest words and cliches and attitudes, but somehow it all comes out like a dramatized tract. The lions are the kids, and the Christians are the parents. Where are you, Donna?

THE ADULTS

"The People Next Door" included the usual adult stereotypes—natch—especially the typical father that we have come to know and love: An insensitive, determinedly respectable, self-deluding, lying, hard-drinking wage earner who likes it when his daughter attends football games. Lloyd Bridges had this enviable role.

And I would like to say that with parents like these, the new generation has no exclusive claim to drastic action. Such clods have been the cause of childrens' revolts in all times and places. The desire for truth and honesty did not, as the general gap soap operas suggest, begin in the last few years.

In short, we have had a spurt of black-and-white video confrontations of the obvious — but what has been missing is the more subtle description of relations between reasonably intelligent persons of various generations. Without this, all we are watching is the same old story, spiced merely by more sophisticated weapons of revolt.

DANIEL ROOT
Eagle scout

Novatan, 17, Becomes An Eagle Scout

Daniel Root, 17, a senior at Novato High School, has been awarded the Eagle award, highest in scouting, at a Court of Honor held at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Root has been in scouting four years. He holds 24 merit badges and is a member of the Order of the Arrow.

He is the son of M/Sgt. and Mrs. Samuel W. King of 281 Bolling Drive, on the base.

Three other Eagle Scouts, Joseph Schroedel, Mark O'Connell and Bill Linn, received the bronze palm at the same Court of Honor. Also presented were 130 merit badges, six first class, and nine second class promotions.

Fall Flower Festival Set In Ross

"Cavalcade of Color" will be the theme of the 22nd annual Fall Flower Festival of the Garden Society of Marin from noon to 6 p.m. Oct. 26 and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Oct. 27 at the Art and Garden Center in Ross.

A series of action features is planned for the two-day event, along with standard horticultural and arrangement competition.

Mrs. Robert L. Tuckey of Kentfield, vice chairman of the show, will demonstrate "New Approach to Flower Arrangement" at 2 p.m. both days.

At 3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, John Yonkow, a landscape designer, will present a talk with slides, "How to Avoid Destruction of Beautiful Marin County."

Robert Krohn, past president of the Marin Bonsai Club, will demonstrate "How to Grow a Bonsai Tree," at 1 p.m. Sunday,

Also scheduled are exhibits by the Marin Orchid Society and the Marin Bonsai Club.

Entries for the horticulture and arrangement divisions will be received from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Oct. 25 and judging will begin at 9 a.m. Oct. 26.

In the horticulture division there will be classes for chrysanthemums and ornamental plants, under the standard system of the National Council of State Garden Clubs and California Garden Clubs Inc.

In the arrangement division, classes will be divided for novice, amateur, advanced amateur and masters.

Alec C. Thomas of San Anselmo is show chairman with Herbert G. Pratty of San Rafael, president of the Garden Society of Marin, as general chairman.

Formosans Plan New Vice Curbs

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China's Interior Ministry announced yesterday it is going to outlaw prostitution in Formosa by stages.

It said the ban would be applied first in Taipei at a date yet to be decided and would later be extended to the rest of the island.

The ministry said all licenses issued to prostitutes will be revoked and all houses of prostitution, both licensed and unlicensed, will be closed.

Spirit Week Doings Set For Drake

Tricycle races, a tug-of-war, a slave auction and a girls' football game are among events planned for spirit week at Sir Francis Drake High School next week.

Climaxing the week will be Drake's homecoming football game at 8 p.m. Friday against Redwood High School at College of Marin stadium, and the homecoming dance from 9 p.m. to midnight Saturday in the Drake girls' gymnasium.

A spirit queen will be crowned at halftime Friday. Candidates, nominated by the football team, are Mary Caiati, Nancy Cauch, Ann-Marie Gare, Betsy Hermann, Tina Lawson, Mary Staley and Tori Thompson.

A spirit trophy will be awarded the class winning most points during the week's events, which will start before classes Monday with a corridor decorating contest.

At noon Monday, competition between classes will include a wheelbarrow relay, a tug-of-war and possibly scooter races.

Tuesday will be bicycle day, with all students asked to ride bicycles to school. At noon Tuesday, tricycle relays will be run and a sledgehammer car smash has been tentatively scheduled.

A slave auction of senior football players will be held at noon Wednesday.

On Thursday, a powder puff football game will pit junior and senior girls against freshman and sophomore girls, while the slaves bought Wednesday will model in a half-time fashion show.

On Friday, students will elect the spirit queen during second period classes and an effigy of the Redwood Giant will be hanged, burned or otherwise disposed of at noon. A pre-game rally wll be held at 2:35 p.m.

Playing for the homecoming dance Saturday will be the Rubber Soul Trio.

Burned Fireman Presented With A $1,200 Check

Capt. Richard W. Beyer, the Novato fireman critically burned July 19 fighting a Marinwood blaze, Monday night attended the first meeting of the Novato Volunteer Firemen since getting out of the hospital Sept. 27 and was presented a check for $1,200.

The money was raised by a steak barbecue sponsored by fellow fireman and by contributions from many citizens as well as members of the department.

"He was shocked, surprised and happy," observed Fire Chief George Cavallero.

Beyer said at first he was reluctant to accept it because he felt it bordered on chairty, but "the firemen convinced me that it was not only them, but the whole community who had gotten behind it, so it made me feel good."

Beyer, who is faced with more surgery next month and probably after the first of the year, said he has made no plans for the money or the immediate future.

Seeks Permit

Application of Harold B. Grant for a front yard parking variance at 81 Summit Drive is scheduled for the 7:30 p.m. meeting today of the Corte Madera Board of Adjustments at town hall. Grant seeks a 10-foot variance for uncovered off-street parking.

Insanity Plea Withdrawn In San Jose Trial

SAN JOSE (AP) — One codefendant has withdrawn his insanity plea in a murder-kidnap trial as the other wound up his defense with a single witness.

The prosecutor said yesterday that the Superior Court jury might get the case against Thomas E. Braun and Leonard Maine, both 19 and from Ritzville, Wash., by next Monday.

Maine, who had testified earlier that Braun shot down Timothy Luce, 17, of Ukiah and previously killed a man and woman in the Pacific Northwest, withdrew his insanity plea just before yesterday's trial session ended.

Both were charged with the death of Luce and the attempted murder, kidnap and rape of his girl friend, Susan Bartolomei, in August 1967.

INNOCENT PLEAS

Handrich called Braun a mentally ill schizophrenic.

"He is mentally ill and was then mentally ill," said Handrich. "He was acting automatically on outside impulses he did not understand. Braun doesn't fully know the significance of the act of murder. He didn't have gut-level knowledge of what it means to kill someone."

Handrich said Braun's mother abandoned him at the age of 2 and his father renounced him "as some bastard who doesn't really belong..."

'FELT TRAPPED'

"He felt perpetually trapped and anxious in a world which controls him," commented the psychologist.

He agreed Braun had picked up Luce and Miss Bartolomei near Ukiah, killed the boy in a vineyard, drove to Central California where the girl was raped in a motel, then taken later to the Sierra foothills and shot in the head five times.

Under crosse-xamination by Dist. Atty. Arthur Broaddus, Handrich said he believed the robbery of Luce of $6 and the rape of girl were "byproducts of a psychiatric disturbance, incidental to a crazy bit of behavior, I do not know what his motives were."

NO UNDERSTANDING

Handrich said, "Shooting Tim Luce illustrates Braun's tendency to simply act with no rational kind of motive or understanding of why he did it."

Jurors for the first time heard details on the shooting of Mrs. Deanna Buse, 21, of Bothwell, Wash. The defendants are accused in her death and that of Samuel Ledgerwood of Portland on the two days preceding their entry into California.

In further cross examination, Handrich said of Mrs. Buse: "He took the woman at gunpoint (from her car) into some bushes, ordered her to disrobe completely, then told her to fold her clothes neatly, at which point she was shot to death. There was no evidence of sexual molestation. I asked Mr. Braun was she unattractive. He replied, 'No.'

"She was a woman normally endowed," he continued. "How many of us can understand the motive of having a woman undress, then shoot her. This is quite typical of a schizophrenic. It is a bizarre, senseless act."

Alioto Catches Up On Taxes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) Mayor Joseph Alioto paid $329 in back taxes yesterday after it was discovered that the furnishings in his plush Presidio Terrace home had been underassessed by $5,040 for the past two years.

Tax records showed that Alioto's furnishings were assessed at only $560 for the past two years and the assessment should have been $5,600.

"It was a typing error," said Deputy Assessor Ray D. Leavitt. "Someone dropped a digit from the total."

Home Looted

Welfare Case Fraud Hard To Pinpoint

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's social welfare director says welfare fraud probably is more extensive than recent figures show, yet "there is no reason to believe people that are poor have any greater level of cheating in their lives than anybody else in society."

This comment by John C. Montgomery, the welfare director, came regarding a report issued by the state Social Welfare Board after five hearings designed to find out whether welfare cheating is widespread or slight in California.

TO GET FACTS

Gov. Ronald Reagan had asked the board and its Advisory Committee on Welfare Abuse to gather facts about "fraud and welfare chiseling, to check out and weigh carefully the evidence and to report to me the full picture of the situation as you find it."

Reagan had said, "One opinion is that cheating is widespread among the 1.2 million persons receiving cash subsistence grants in California. The other opinion is that there is only a minimal amount of cheating."

Regarding the hearings, Montgomery said: "Both of these views are not supported by what limited facts we have."

COSTLY REPORT

Jack W. Williams, the welfare board's executive secretary, estimated at about $2,000 the cost of the report and the hearings in Redding, San Bernardino, Fresno, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Welfare officials at all five hearings testified that reported fraud — as well as convictions — accounted for a fraction of one per cent to two or three per cent of their counties' welfare cases.

In larger counties, estimated loss from fraud ranged from $30,000 to $40,000. Welfare officers said some of this money was returned as cases were investigated.

20 AREAS

The board's report made 20 recommendations, including a state register of all welfare recipients, more effort by social workers to prevent fraud and simplified welfare records.

At Fresno in February, Richard B. Peterson, a county welfare official, was asked if there were more cases of fraud than actually were reported.

"Unquestionably there is," Peterson replied. "I refer briefly to the iceberg theory —that is, that you only see a portion of the problem above the water."

At the Los Angeles hearing March 1, assistant welfare director Marvin Freedan said 1,500 cases of suspected fraud were reported to the district attorney in 1967. He said there were about 250,000 welfare cases in Los Angeles County during any one month in 1967.

CASES PROCESSED

Of the 1,500 cases, Freedman said, 965 were processed by the district attorney's office. Of the 965, he continued, some three-fourths were rejected by the district attorney.

At San Bernardino in January, welfare director Roscoe Lyda said, "While it is difficult to prove, it is my contention there is a higher incidence of welfare fraud than commonly believed . . ."

At San Francisco Feb. 16, Chairman Williams adjourned the hearing after some members of the audience continually shouted and cheered. One shout to the board was, "Prove you are not a fraud."

81 CASES STUDIED

Gertrude Kannon, a San Francisco welfare official, read a 1963-64 report saying 81 cases of alleged fraud were reported in the program of Aid to Families with Dependent Children. She said there were 5,380 cases in that program in San Francisco during any one month in 1963-64.

At Redding in January, John J. Morrill, special investigator for the Shasta County Welfare Department, reported: "Out of 2,500 to 3,000 cases . . . we average approximately four cases per month reported to the special investigation unit of the welfare department." He said about one case per month goes to the district attorney.

Workshop May Repeat At College

Proposal for a second workshop by the Marin Junior College District board and students on Oct. 31 will be made by acting College of Marin President Louis H. Herkenhoff at the board's meeting tomorrow.

The meetiing will be in Room-G-1 of the physical education complex at the college.

Format of the suggested workshop will be the same as one held Oct. 8, the discussion of mutual matters of interest including the question of whether the board or associated students should pay $7,800 for athletic activities.

The board tomorrow also is expected to award a contract for interior and exterior finishing of two portable buildings already purchased by the district.

Architect Honored For Designs

Mill Valley architect Neill Smith of 166 Helens Lane, has been presented two 1968 awards for design excellence by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The awards were made Monday at the national conference of the American Institute of Planners in Pittsburgh, Pa.

The two projects by his San Francisco firm of Neill Smith and Associates which received the honors were Woodside Gardens, a 10-story public housing project for the elderly in San Francisco, and College-town, Phase 1, a married student housing project near Sacramento State College.

Smith is a past member of the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee and has designed several commercial buildings in Marin County including the Redwood Medical Center in Ross and the Northgate Medical Dental Building.

Marinites Hit By Strep Cases

Forty-nine cases of streptococcus infection, including 42 in Novato, were reported last week to the Marin County Health Department, Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, health officer, said.

There were five cases in San Rafael and one each in Mill Valley and Belvedere-Tiburon.

Twenty-seven cases of gonorrhea were also reported, including six in Sausalito, five in Novato, four in San Rafael and Mill Valley, two in Marin City and San Anselmo and the rest scattered throughout the county.

Therewere two cases of mumps reported in San Rafael, one case of syphilis, also in San Rafael, and one of salmonella, in Larkspur.

Police Pick Up Counterfeit Bill

San Rafael police yesterday reported confiscating a counterfeit $20 bill Sunday after a clerk at Tamalpais Market, Second and D streets, spotted the bad money.

Police said the man who tried to cash it said he got it in change when he cashed his pay check Friday at a San Anselemo tavern.

No charges were filed.

S.P. Loses Try To Discontinue Valley Trains

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Public Utilities Commission yesterday turned down the application of Southern Pacific to discontinue its San Joaquin Daylight passenger trains.

The PUC decision on the trains, which run between Oakland and Los Angeles and between Sacramento and Tracy, followed 11 days of public hearings last July. The hearings were held in San Francisco, Sacramento, Stockton, Fresno, Bakersfield and Los Angeles, and a total of 63 witnesses testified with 93 exhibits being introduced.

The PUC decision said S.P. "has not demonstrated that it has made a sincere effort to compete in open market with other modes of transportation by the manner in which it presently operates the aforesaid trains."

"It is the public utility obligation of Southern Pacific Co. to continue passenger service provided by the Sacramento and San Joaquin Daylights notwithstanding operating losses since there is a substantial public need for the service in question and although Southern Pacific apparently incorrectly assumes that it may divest itself of all unprofitable operations," the ruling said.

The PUC said declining patronage on the trains was due partially, "if not largely," to the lack of promotional advertising, the diminished adequacy and attractiveness of the service, and the failure to make the necessary effort to compete with other types of transportation.

The PUC said, "Despite Southern Pacific's failure to provide modern and attractive service and its negative and indifferent attitude on passenger service generally, there is still substantial patronage of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Daylights."

Mystery Sweetener Identified

MIAMI (SS) — The mystery of a miracle berry that makes sour things taste sweet has been solved.

The active ingredient has been isolated and found to be a protein with a molecular weight of 44,000. Application of the protein to the tongue modifies the taste so that sour substances taste sweet.

The protein comes from a shrub indigenous to tropical West Africa that yields a small, red berry. Natives often chew the pulp to make their stale and acid maize bread more palatable and to give sweetness to sour palm wine and beer.

Drs. Kenzo Kurihara and Lloyd M. Beidler of Florida State Universitiy report that the sweetening of the subsequent taste of acids occurs at solutions as low as five parts in a hundred million.

Hormone Helps Cancer Battle

LOS ANGELES (SS) — Radiation treatment for persons with advanced abdominal cancer is effective, but up to now a serious deterrent has been resulting kidney damage.

Dr. Richard J. Steckel of the School of Medicine of the University of California at Los Angeles has attacked the problem with infusions of the hormone, epinephrine, into the left renal artery immediately before and during irradiation of the entire abdomen.

Six months after completion of the treatment, the left kidney of his patient appears to be functioning better than the unprotected right kidney.

Medi-Cal Held Bonanza For Some Doctors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh took his criticism of Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration before a U.S. Senate committee today where he said the state's Medi-Cal program "constitutes a bonanza for unscrupulous medical men."

Some doctors, he said, "are making as much as $100,000 per year" by treating patients under the state program for medical care for the poor and the aged.

LEADOFF WITNESS

The Democratic Assembly speaker, on a tour of the state campaigning for Democratic candidates for the lower house, was leadoff witness before a hearing by the Senate Committee on Aging.

In remarks prepared for his appearance, Unruh said the Reagan administration's refusal to impose fee schedules for servies under Medi-Cal is "almost totally responsible for the soaring, runaway costs in the administration of this program."

Saying one San Joaquin County doctor charged the state $6 for laboratory tests which cost him only 25 cents, Unruh said, "The only limit on a doctor's charges under Medi-Cal is how much he can get away with without troubling his conscience too much."

If private insurance companies can impose fee schedules for doctors treating private patients, Unruh said, "the state should establish fee schedules for doctors treating patients with public money.

FEE INCREASES

"The present situation," he said, "constitutes a bonanza for unscrupulous medical men."

Fee increases by doctors have caused the cost of the program to rise $40 million in the past two years, Unruh said.

"Governor Reagan's failure to impose limits on the amount doctors and hospitals can collect from Medi-Cal refutes his claim that he wants to control the program's cost," he continued.

"The people really getting well under this program are the doctors—and some of them are getting very well indeed," Unruh said.

He called upon the medical profession "to restrain those doctors who continue to gouge the public pocketbook and the poor and elderly alike."

Poet Accused Of London Arson

LONDON (AP) — A 20-year-old poet, Timothy John Daly was accused today at Tower Bridge police court of setting fire to London's Imperial War Museum.

He was ordered held in custody for another hearing Oct. 23.

The dome of the museum was extensively damaged during a midnight blaze earlier this week but priceless relics of the two world wars were saved.

There was no indication whether Daly was connected with an anti-Vietnam war group that circulated leaflets in London urging demonstrators to make grenades and firebombs and assemble for a massive anti-Vietnam protest Oct. 27.

MUNICIPAL COURT
ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN, JR.
JUDGE
DEPT. THREE

Werber's Dope Bail Cut

By STEPHEN COOK

Frank N. Werber, wealthy Marin County entrepeneur accused running a marijuana import business on the sly, won his freedom on bail today amid conflicting official stories of his arrest.

The story told yesterday by Marin officers of the investigation and arrest of the former manager of the Kingston Trio was partially incorrect, according to a later report from federal officers.

Werber, 39, grinned through his bushy beard after Judge Alvin H. Goldstein reduced his bail from $31.250 to $12,500 on four felony charges filed by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

Werber made the bail and was ordered to appear Tuesday in Municipal Court to answer charges of importing marijuana, cultivating it and possessing it for sale.

In a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Richard Goldsmith yesterday, Werber was additionally charged with transporting and concealing marijuana and conspiracy to do that. He made $10,000 bail on those federal offenses.

On top of that, Werber, who would face a mandatory five-year prison term if convicted of importing marijuana, was slapped yesterday with a $412,850 tax lien for the marijuana agents said he possessed.

The penalty tax on marijuana is $100 an ounce. Agents said that the $22,900 they seized Monday night at Werber's home was given to the Internal Revenue Service to pay part of the promoter's debts.

Marin narcotic agents yesterday reported that U.S. Customs agents saw the marijuana being smuggled across the border from Mexico to Laredo, Tex., by Stanley Mulligan and Charles Peter Barrett, owners of Latitude 38 restaurant in Sausalito.

As that version went, officers followed Mulligan and Barrett by plane from Laredo, watched as they landed Friday at a private airstrip north of San Rafael, then watched until they saw Mulligan deliver the 258 pounds of grass to Werber's plush home on Richardson Bay.

But the story told by Marin officers yesterday was untrue, according to an affidavit filed with the U.S. Commissioner by agent John J. Molittieri of the U.S. Customs office.

The truth, according to the affidavit, Mulligan and Barrett were captured Friday in Laredo, charged with smuggling and released without bail from the south Texas court after they agreed to deliver the marijuana for the agents.

They told agents they had an agreement with Werber under which they would bring the grass from Mexico to Marin, if he would pay for the marijuana and the cost of transportation.

Asst. U.S. Attorney Michael Metzger said that Mulligan, Barrett, two agents and the six duffle bags of pot flew into San Francisco International Airport via commercial jet on Saturday.

Marin Undersheriff Sidney Stinson said today that Insp. Harry Bock of the drug abuse bureau, who reported the marijuana was brought to Marin by light plane, had been told that by customs agents.

Werber was out of town during the weekend, and the cargo could not be delivered until Monday night.

Roger Garety, attorney for Werber, argued at his client's bail hearing in Municipal Court this morning that if the charges against Werber are so grave Barrett and Mulligan should face the same charges in Marin.

Deputy Dis. Atty. Ernest Zunino, arguing against the bail reduction, said agents told him Werber has been a big dealer in

Nixon Opens 'Fast Finish' Drive

"Maybe they're behind but they say don't worry, it's going to be like 1948.

"And my answer is it's one thing to give 'em hell, but it's something else to give 'em Humphrey.

"I don't care what the polls show," said Nixon, who leads them.

"The last three weeks of this campaign we are campaigning this whole country as it never has been before. Harry Truman said 'give 'em hell,' Nixon says sock it to 'em and we're going to win, too, in 1968."

Nixon earlier told the national convention of Future Farmers of America that U.S. agriculture has "a strength that it can share with the rest of the world."

He said Americans must do a better job of bringing agricultural knowhow to underdeveloped naitons.

"They must learn as we have learned that the basis for a strong industrial society is a strong agriculture," Nixon said.

Earlier Nixon, claiming the presidential lead in "every major state" moved into what he called Operation Extra Effort — a campaign windup with electronic focus.

Nixon described his plan for the remaining days of the White House campaign yesterday before he set out from Key Biscayne, Fla.: "The fastest finish in campaign history."

Robert Ellsworth, his national political director, said that will mean an intensified television and radio campaign, plus a stepped-up regiment for the nominee.

But there was no noticeable disruption in the measured style and pace of the Nixon campaign itinerary.

"We do have available television and radio in a perhaps far greater quantity than has been available in any previous campaign, even greater than in 1960," Nixon said.

It was evident that Nixon's windup plan does not include the kind of exhausting and extensive personal travel which marked his losing bid for the presidency eight years ago. Then, in a 32-hour windup spring, Nixon covered more than 7,200 miles. Some of the major items in the current plan:

Four hours of national television on Monday, Nov. 4, the

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — Bearded, rested and feeling better, the Apollo 7 astronauts presented a televised lesson in space age cooking and plumbing on the Wally, Walt and Donn show today and then sped on toward the halfway point of their marathon space mission.

As they swept into their sixth day in orbit, their space chariot was performing so well that plans were being firmed to send three men around the moon Christmas Day aboard Apollo 8 to be lifted aloft by the giant Saturn rocket.

For the third straight morning, the tediousness of the flight was broken by the daily television. The TV show was shortened from 11 minutes to nine minutes today because of initial reception trouble at a receiving station at Corpus Christi, Tex.

The show began as usual with Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. holding up the usual introductory sign: "Hello from the Lovely Apollo Room High Atop Everything."

Then, in contrast to the hijinks of previous days, the astronauts were more businesslike as they demonstrated some of the things they do in space.

Civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham showed how the astronauts prepare their food as he took a plastic container of breakfast fruit juice and injected cold water in it through a nozzle.

Narrator Schirra said that the rehydratable food could be made palatable with either hot or cold water. Apollo 7 meals have been the first hot meals in space.

As the food bag floated freely off Cunningham's fingertips, Schirra said: "You can see in the center an interesting formation of bubbles."

The bubbles, caused by weightlessness, were not actually visible to viewers.

Then Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele took over the camera and pointed it at a puddle of water in the lower bay of the cabin.

Schirra said the water is caused by condensation from some of the cold tubing in the life support system but that the exact source was not known.

Gladys Develops Into Hurricane

MIAMI (UPI)—Gladys grew to a full hurricane today as it slammed into southwestern Cuba with 80 mile per hour winds and aimed for a direct blow at a 140-mile section of Florida's west-central Gulf Coast.

Gladys, growing stronger by the hour, ripped into Southwest Cuba near the coastal town of Gerona after raking the Isle of Pines earlier in the day.

LBJ Tells Candidates No Peace Talk Change

Rumors Afloat In Paris

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson telephoned major presidential candidates today to tell them there has been no breakthrough in Vietnam War negotiations, despite widespread reports of a U.S. proposal to halt completely the bombing of North Vietnam.

He gave them this word, which had earlier been released to inquiring newsmen by presidential press secretary George Christian:

"The position of the United States with respect to Vietnam remains as set forth by the President and the secretary of state.

'NO CHANGE'

"There has been no basic change in the situation: no breakthrough."

But in Paris U.S. spokesman William J. Jorden said "there has been a movement" in the peace talks. Jorden stressed "it is terribly difficult to judge progress until one arrives at a destination."

Johnson arranged a conference telephone call to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in St. Louis, Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon in Kansas City and American Independent Party candidate George C. Wallace in Los Angeles.

READS STATEMENT

Christian said the President told the three he wanted them to know what the White House was saying and read the memorandum to them. He said the President acted "in the light of the uncertainty created by the various reports."

A senior South Vietnamese political official said in Saigon earlier today the United States has proposed a full bombing halt and was discussing the proposal with the Saigon government.

In Paris South Vietnamese diplomats told newsmen they understand the United States had made the proposal as an attempt to further peace negotiations.

PACKAGE PLAN

Washington officials, although declining to say whether a final settlement has been reached, acknowledged the United States and North Vietnam have been discussing for several weeks a package plan to end the deadlocked talks in paris.

The Washington officials said a key element of the package is North Vietnam's military restraint in return for a bombing halt.

Also being discussed, they said, is the way the South Vietnamese government and the National Liberation Front—political arm of the Viet Cong—would be brought into the second phase of the Paris talks.

The report from Saigon followed two meetings today between U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Souht Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu. Later Bunker met a third time with Thieu who meanwhile had met with his Cabinet and top political, legislative and government figures.

SAIGON SOURCE

The Saigon source said Thieu told top members of his regime the enemy must guarantee they will not escalate the war if a bombing halt is ordered.

There was no indication during today's 26th meeting in Par-

BAY RESIDENTS PROTEST

Houseboat Cleanup, Rules Ordered By Supervisors

By WAT TAKESHITA

On motions by Peter H. Behr, the supervisors:

1. Authorized the county counsel to file a complaint against Donlon J. Arques charging that houseboats on and near his property in Richardson Bay are public nuisances and many are lying on underwater public streets.

2. Asked the planning commission to draft zoning laws, limiting the proliferation of houseboats outside of established marinas.

3. Asked Public Works Director Donald R. Frost to complete in about a month an ordinance controlling houseboat construction and maintenance.

4. Approved spending up to $15,000 to clean up debris on public rights-of-way.

5. Authorized the right of application for occupancy permits for owners in the case of three or four houseboats that are mostly on private land but encroach partially on public land and can be brought up to safety standards.

The rapid fire decisions brought a howl from the audience, particularly from David Gold, attorney for Arques.

Gold argued that Arques is not to blame because he does not provide the houseboats or the wiring or other facilities. "Let's not have a concept of guilt by association," said Gold. "If the county wants to clean up the tenants, let the county go ahead. "Don't tell Mr. Arques to clean

Bruce Denies Delays On Program For New Careers, Tells Problems

Bruce emphasized he does not want to start or continue arguments with Dr. Arthur Pearl, developer of the new program, nor with anyone else.

In a news story which appeared Monday, Austin J. Thompson, head of the county human rights department, was quoted as saying the county administrator claims the program would cost $5,000 to $10,000 per person to operate.

"We can see that in some cases, where education might be needed beyond that available in the county, costs could come to $5,000 or $10,000 for a certain individual," said Bruce. An example might be jobs which require professional licenses or degrees requiring out-of-county education or training.

But to use those figures as applying to all trainees under new courses is "a distortion taken out of context," declared Bruce.

The administrator explained why he feels it is important to develop statistics on both the county job turnover and employment growth before the county proceeds on the new careers program.

He said the total job turnover and employment growth figures are not enough; his office must break those down among the various departments on a sepcific basis.

"There are relatively few openings in any given time and these are not subject to mass handling," said Bruce. "The budget is tight and lean and there are no excess positions or excess time for supervision of trainees."

He gave this example: "Say we have four draftsmen in the department of public works. There may be more, I'm not sure. But assume one vacancy developed among the four positions. If we brought in one person who didn't know drafting, we'd have to take the time of one supervisor to train him. What will happen to the work that the fourth draftsman was doing? What will happen to production?

These studies must be made in the 30 county departments, each divided into several divisions and involving perhaps a thousand different functions, each with a relatively small work force, he noted.

In this respect, county work is different from those in large factories or companies, said Bruce. If 20 or 50 employees were engaged in one function, one or two trainees would not seriously affect production, but in county work, most functions are small, and one inexperienced trainee plus a supervisor to train him could cut seriously into output, the administrator explained.

Bruce said a detailed cost analysis has not been completed, but he can see these factors that would add to cost:

"We would need to increase the amount of time available for supervision and training, which would mean an increase in staff. We may also need skilled

Bus Commuters Face Another Fare Boost

Marin and Southern Sonoma commuters face their second Greyhound bus fare increase this fall as the state Public Utilities Commission approved a 4 per cent increase on fares on all routes — both commuter and long distance — yesterday.

The increase follows on the heels of a 6 to 8 per cent increase in commute fares that went into effect Sept. 1. The September increase was designed to cover some of Greyhound's added costs of operation.

This hike is to cover only the higher labor costs, estimated at $1,450,000 annually, granted in a contract signed May 30 with the Amalgamated Transit Union, representing the line's drivers, station employees and office workers.

The commission found that the fare increase would bring in slightly more revenue than the labor cost increase but not so much as to be excessive.

In a typical increase, a Sausalito rider will pay 60 cents instead of 55 cents for a one-way trip to San Francisco.

Other Marin and Sonoma rates (with present rates in parentheses) will be:

Marin City, 60 cents (55), one way, and $8.35 20-ride book ($8); Mill Valley and Corte Madera, 75 cents (70) and $11.45 ($11); San Rafael, Manor, Tiburon and Belvedere 90 cents (85) and $12.50 ($12); Terra Linda 95 cents (90) and $13.55 (13).

Ignacio and Novato, $1.05 ($1) and $14.60 ($14); Petaluma $1.55 ($1.45) and $17.70 ($17); Cotati and Rohnert Park, $1.70 ($1.60) and $20.80 ($20); Bolinas, $1.25 ($1.20) and $17.70 ($17) and Inverness, $1.75 ($1.65) and $21.85 ($21).

Transplants May Control Hemophilia

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Spleen transplants now offer brightening hopes for a normal life to victims of hemophilia, the "bleeder's disease," a Harvard Medical School researcher said here today.

"I'm reluctant to say 'cure,'" said Dr. John C. Norman. It would be more accurate to say there is good evidence that spleen transplants "can alleviate hemophilia," he said.

Another promising treatment, infusion of spleen cells, alleviated hemophilia for up to 60 days in clinical tests without any of the sometimes risky immunosuppresion required by transplantation.

LONG-KNOWN DISEASE

Scientists have estimated that up to 100,000 Americans, 99.9 per cent of them men, are hemophiliacs. In more serious cases, hemorrhaging can occur after minor bumps and bleeding often is spontaneous.

"Throughout his life, the patient with severe hemophilia lives on the brink of hemorrhagic disaster," Norman said.

Facotor VIII from other sources, including whole blood, can be infused, but the antihemophilic benefit is only temporary.

Norman's current experiment involves transplanting new spleens into eight hemophiligic dogs. The longest survival is now in its second year, and Factor VIII levels are satisfactory.

Norman said a hemophiliac can lead a relatively normal life if his Factor VIII level can be maintained at about 20 per cent of normal.

In one of the few human applications, a Denver, Colo., team transplanted a father's spleen into his 17-year-old son. The youth's Factor VIII level jumped from less than 1 per cent to 20 per cent. However, five days later, the new spleen ruptured, ending the experiment.

LIVER, TOO

The donor spleen, though unpaired, may be taken from a live donor since it is not a vital organ and in normal persons Factor VIII also is produced elsewhere in the body.

The liver is believed to produce three or four times the amount of Factor VIII generated by the spleen, Norman said.

It is not desireable for hemophiliac transplantation, however, because the operation is much more difficult and since the liver is a vital organ, the only sources are cadavers.

Norman said the cell infusions were given four hemophilic patients by doctors at the University of California at Irvine. In one 4-year-old, the Factor VIII level was raised from 2 per cent to 13 per cent for 60 days without antirejection measures.

Norman said his studies and the work in California and Colorado confirm that liver and spleen produce Factor VIII—knowledge not confirmed as recently as last year—and spleen transplant or spleen cell infusion now seem "more reasonable."

Nothing has been found in the area of transplant or infusion that would "lower the high hopes we have of its feasibility and possible utility as an adjunct in the treatment of classical hemophilia," Norman said.

Army To Retain Part Of Fort

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Army no longer uses Fort Mason as a maritime transportation center, but the military will retain the choice portion when 39 acres are disposed of as surplus.

An announcement yesterday said the 25-acre eastern portion, which includes attractive landscaping and the fort's major historical buildings, will not be disposed of.

The western 39 acres, which Mayor Joseph L. Alioto has proposed for development of private housing, a occupied by flat asphalt surfaces and barracks-like buildings.

Americans Win Nobel Medicine Prize

MARSHALL NIRENBERG

HAR GOBIND KHORANA

ROBERT HOLLEY

STOCKHOLM (AP) —Three American professors were awarded the 1968 Nobel Prize fo physiology and medicine today for their work in deciphering the genetic code, populariy known as a key to life, to determine how genes of a cell direct a cell's function.

The joint winners are Robert Holley of Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., Har Gobind Khorana of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis., and Marshall Warren Nirenberg of the National Heart Institute, Bethesda, Md.

Many scientists have worked on the problems for which the professors won the world's most coveted medical distinction. The three will share equally in the award, which has a record cash value this year of $70,000.

Experts explained that the efforts involved translation of the genetic code, a sequence of four nucleotides in nucleic acids, into the sequence of 20 amino acids in proteins. This could be compared with the translation of a language containing four letters into another containing 20 letters.

The medical prize is one of five set up to be awarded annually under the will of Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. Each will be worth $70,000 this year.

The Nobel Peace Prize for 1968 was awarded Oct. 9 to Prof. Rene Cassin of France, who heads the European Court of Human Rights.

The literary laureate of the yeas is to be chosen tomorrow. A German novelist, Guenter Grass, is considered among the top prospects. The remaining prizes, for physics and chemistry, will be distributed Oct. 30.

The American scientists were singled out by the Swedish Royal Caroline Institute of Medicine and Physiology. It said they had worked independently, but that their investigations converged toward the solution of a common problem.

Nirenberg, 41 and a New Yorker, opened this research area by a very simple but ingenious experiment and by following up his breakthrough he could clarify the general character of the genetic code, the Caroline Institute faculty said.

Dr. Khorana, born in Raipur, Inidia, in 1922, and Holley, born the same year in Urbana, Ill., probed the fine structure of the genetic code and explained how it is used by the cell for the biosynthesis of proteins.

Nirenberg, who heads the section of biochemical genetics at the National Heart Institute in Bethesda, was educated at the University of Florida and received his Ph. in biochemistry from the University of Michigan in 1957. He received the National Medal of Science from President Johnson in 1965.

His research interests include, beside the genetic code, the mechanism of protein synthesis and nucleid acids.

Khorana started his career as an organic chemist. During 1950-52 he worked with the Nobel Prize winner A. Todd in Cambridge, England, on building up a complex biological substance called nucleotides.

Shelling Of Village Kills 10 Civilians

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marine artillerymen fired eight 155mm shells into the outskirts of a supposedly empty village yesterday, killing 10 South Vietnamese and wounding 23 others, military spokesmen announced.

The village was about a mile northeast of the Thuong Duc Special Forces Camp, in jungled foothills 30 miles southwest of Da Nang. There has been sporadic fighting at the camp since Sept. 28.

The 155mm guns were firing against suspected enemy positions to protect sweeping American Marines from the 5th Regiment and South Vietnamese infantrymen from the 501st Regiment.

Marine spokesmen said an error in elevation on the sighting device caused the shells to land in the village about half a mile west of the target.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command in Saigon said the accident is under investigation. He said the village was thought to have been evacuated "but maybe the people moved back in without telling the village chief."

All those killed were civilians.

Lindsay Jeered Over School, Race Issues

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay was booed and cursed by a hostile white audience at a Brooklyn Jewish center last night wnen he pleaded for understanding in the city's racially tense school crisis.

When the mayor finished speaking, a crowd of about 4,000 whites greeted him outside with shouts of "Lindsay must go!" Police had to restrain the crowd which pounded on Lindsay's car as he drove away.

"Antiwhite propaganda will not be part of our school aystem," Lindsay promised inside the center, "anti-Semitic epithets will not be part of our school system."

"But they are! But they are!" shouted hecklers in the audience of about 1,500.

At the height of the disturbance, Lindsay had to shout to make himself heard.

Pointing out an official of the striking AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers, Lindsay compared some of the teachers actions with those taken by the predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican school district in Brooklyn which is seeking decentralization.

"Our city will not survive if teachers are illegally transferred any more than it will if this gentleman here leads the teachers in an illegal strike," Lindsay said. "I say to you that there have been acts of vigilanteism by both groups."

The strike against the 1.1-million pupil public school system is in its third day with no talks slated in the dispute. It is the UFT's third walkout of the six-week-old fall term.

The combined efforts of some parents and nonstriking teachers kept 420 of the city's 900 public schools open yesterday but the board of education said total attendance was only about 68,000, the same as Monday.

The walkout is over the refusal of the locally elected governing board of the Ocean Hill-Brownsville experimental school district to reinstate 80 ousted UFT members.

The predominantly white union is demanding that Ocean Hill's Junior High School 271, one of its eight schools, be closed because of alleged harassment and death threats against the disputed teachers.

Student Acts Are Defended In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Most Chicago school officials have reacted with alarm to Negro student agitation which has thrown many of the city's high schools into turmoil, but two officials see cause for encouragement.

Some 5,000 Negro high school students stayed away from classes yesterday in continuing protests to dramatize their demands for more representation, more Negro teachers and administrators and more Negro studies. Seventeen persons were arrested.

The demonstrations illustrate "a healthy attitude despite the fact that here and there some excesses are engaged in," Warren Bacon, a Negro member of the board of education, has said.

"We should be pleased that black students are really becoming concerned about their education and that their interest is awakened to the revelance of schools to their lives," he added.

Said Joseph Rosen, district superintendent for a West Side area in which some of the troubled schools are situated: "I think it is a disturbing phenomenon for those in the middle of it, but a beautiful phenomenon for the people who are growing."

He added: "We're watching people who want to get involved—students, parents and teachers. The reaction to that expression of concern can be either positive or negative."

Retardation Workshop Is Saturday

A day-long workshop on mental retardation will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday at the San Geronimo Country Club, sponsored by the Marin Aid to Retarded Children.

Principal speaker will be Dr. Ivy Mooring, director of the Mental Retardation Services board of Los Angeles.

Also on the program will be Marin Supervisor Peter H. Behr, Judge Alvin H. Goldstein, Dr. David Fisher, director of the Behavior Therapy Institute in Sausalito, Dr. Daniel A. Collins of Mill Valley, and H. David Sokoloff, first vice president of the California Council for Retarded Children.

The workshop will include a review of changes in providing for the mentally retarded, including the regional centers for diagnosis, counseling and purchase of services.

One has been established in San Francisco and its director, James M. Eason, will discuss its function.

Alvin N. Taylor, director of the Marin office of the Bay Area Social Planning Council, will speak on services now available for the retarded in Marin County and the needs for services and programs.

Kurt Wehbring is coordinator of the workshop, which has been made possible by a grant administered by the California Council for Retarded Children.

'Crisis In U.S.' Talk Series Set

A six-week lecture series on "Crisis in America" will be presented starting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at Petaluma Junior High School, sponsored by the adult education division of the Petaluma City Schools Department. The series speaker, Dr. John R. Wilkins, theologian and traveler, will delve into the reasons for unrest, demonstrations and violence in urban America.

A graduate of Hamline University and the Boston University School of Theology, he has traveled to China, Germany, Africa, South America and Pakistan.

The opening lecture will concern "factual report on civil disorders of 1967 in the United States." Other topics in coming weeks will be "Why Such Disorders Occur in Our Democracy," Oct. 24; "Causes and Effects of Ghetto Life," Oct. 31; "Right of Dissent, Community Rights and Law Enforcement," Nov. 7; "Recovery and Rehabilitation in Riot Torn Areas," Nov. 7; "Future of the Cities and National Plans for Action," Nov. 14.

Irvine Heiress Loses Appeal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A claim by the great-granddaughter of the late Orange County rancher James Irvine for part of the $75 million worth of shares in the Irvine Foundation was rejected yesterday by a federal appeals court.

The ruling by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals upheld an earlier decision by a federal court in Los Angeles which dismissed the claim of Mrs. Joan Irvine Smith.

Mrs. Smith's suit had contended that 459 shares of the estate should have gone to her rather than to the foundation.

up the tenants . . . Don't ask him to be the policeman for the county."

"You don't think there's any responsibility on the part of the landlord who collects rent?" asked Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen.

"Why should he go out there and antagonize people he has known for years," replied Gold. "That's unfair."

"If I were the landlord, I wouldn't let tenants throw cans and debris all over the front yard and say, 'I don't care, I don't live there'," scolded Supervisor William A. Gnoss.

Supervisor John F. McInnis told Gold that the enforcement campaign is aimed at both landlords and tenants, and the complaint against Arques is just one facet. He suggested the supervisors proceed with action.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney reported that the civil court action authorized by the supervisors will be followed by criminal action against Arques for "flagrant code violations existing on his property which endanger the life and limb of the people in the area."

Maloney said he had also filed four criminal complaints against houseboat dwellers who failed to apply for occupancy permits.

Deputy County Counsel Joseph A. Forest complained that Arques has not responded even once to the series of letters sent to him.

"I've been on the board for four years and have never seen Mr. Aeques respond," agreed Kettenhofen. "He's been very uncooperative."

"I've been on the board 16 years," added Gnoss. "And talking about Mr. Arques, we can never get him in here. You can't drag him in here."

"I have word that he is alive and well in Las Vegas, posing as Howard Hughes," laughed Thomas T. Storer.

Kettenhofen repeated what he has been trying to get for several weeks — an emergency ordinance to stop all construction or bringing in of houseboats into Richardson Bay.

Lawrence argued that his group is making an honest effort to comply with a new ordinance being drafted by the Department of Public Works, and an emergency ordinance now would delay the completion of that ordinance.

Lawrence declared that not many boats are coming into the area, and construction for the year is almost over because of the rainy season.

Kettenhofen and Frost disagreed, charging that more boats and new construction are evident every day.

Houseboat resident Robert Kalloch, who said he has been living on the bay for three and one-half years, suggested that houseboat control be by natural attrition.

"Winter is coming so people won't move out there,'' declared Kalloch. "The inadequacy of boats will become evident as soon as the storms come. If inadequate, they'll sink. That's all there is to it." The audience roared.

Stephen H. Kaufmann, attorney for the Strawberry Recreation District demanded an immediate moratorium on the use of the area for houseboats. "As part of the zoning ordinance, you do have the power to stop use of the property for houseboats," he declared. "The Coast Guard said that in six months, we'll be able to walk from Sausalito to Strawberry Point. You'll have a density that will be unbelievable."

He charged that Strawberry Point is becoming a "catch basin for sewage, and pardon the expression, it's a stinking mess."

Dean M. Jennings, publicist for Gallo Wines who lives on a houseboat on the Arques property, said that the Marin Houseboat Association now has 98 houseboat owners and have elected officers.

Jennings said his group is willing to comply with all regulations that are set up, but find that by trying to comply, they find themselves faced with a demolish order.

"Last week there were 84 applications for occupancy permits," said Jennings. "Of these, some 50 were served with demolish or remove orders. Most of the specifics on which the demolish or remove orders were made were based on information submitted in the applications!"

This, Jennings charged, is entrapment.

Behr conceded Jennings had a point and suggested that long-standing houseboats that can be brought up to standards should be allowed to apply for occupancy franchise if they encroach only slightly on public property.

Public Works Director Frost shook his head. "A moment ago, I thought we were going out of houseboat business; now we seem to be going back into houseboat business."

Behr replied he is not in the houseboat business at all but it merely trying to be equitable to bona fide residents of houseboats while at the same time making them safe for the health and welfare of residents.

Werber Bail Reduced By Municipal Judge

the Bay Area for some time.

Werber smiled and stifled a laugh.

Garety told the judge Werber is not likely to flee from the charges because he has substantial business and property investments in the area.

Besides, he said, "Mr. Werber is anxious to prove the falsity of these charges lodged against him."

Werber was free from 4 p.m. yesterday, when he made bail in federal court, until 9 p.m., when Marin officers arrested him on the local charges. He spent the night in County Jail, unable to make the $31,250 bail orginally set by Judge Goldstein.

Also scheduled to enter a plea Tuesday in Municipal Court is Frank John Mathieson, 34, of San Anselmo, a drummer. He was arrested with Werber Monday night and charged with possession of marijuana for sale.

Judith Ann Sloper, 29, Werber's girl friend who lives in the Werber mansion at 4 DeSilva Island, must appear in court tomorrow for arraignment on charges of cultivating marijuana and possession of the weed.

Bryce Staples Wilson, 44, of Kentfield who listed his occupation as a writer, must appear at the same time to face a charge of possession of marijuana for sale.

Werber refused comment today on allegations that he was accumulating the marijuana with plans to begin a religious cult, based on use of the weed, with himself as high priest.

He would not discuss the case other than to express amazement at accusations that he has been a large dealer in marijuana.

His immediate plans, he said, were to shower away the results of two nights spent in jail, then help Miss Sloper celebrate her 30th birthday.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

The Case Of The Handbill

Richville was a quiet, wealthy small town. Most residents took long vacations.

Richville also had a high number of burglaries. So the city passed a number of laws for better lighting of homes and streets, and providing for more police and special patrols. It also passed a law that no one could throw handbills on private residential land without the owner's consent.

Randolph Burst ran a neighborhood paper with ads and a few local news items. He claimed the local law violated his right to free speech. He challenged the law in court but he lost.

The ordinance did not bar a publisher from leaving papers at a home that accepts them. Nor did it keep him from asking the owner's consent to leave papers.

Throwing papers on another's property without his consent is like standing on the person's front porch, hoping to catch some people who might listen. No one has the right to litter another's property under a claim of "free speech."

In another case, Palm Springs passed a law that barred use of sound trucks without a police permit. It also limited their use to four hours a day, and said the trucks had to move at least ten miles an hour. To the court this restriction was too broad. "Free speech is worthless unless there are meaningful ways to express it," the Supreme Court said.

Another city tried to limit giving free pamphlets on public streets. It said the readers littered the streets after reading them. The court thought this ordinance invalid; the city could ban littering. But giving pamphlets to the public lies within the scope of free speech. Since Thomas Paine's time, the free press has been a useful weapon in defense of liberty.

You cannot restrict those who go from door to door handing out religious or political information. You can go from door to door to see if you can get willing listeners.

Soliciting money for charity has no such protection. The law regards it not as "speech," but as a commercial activity. Ordinances limiting door to door salesmen are generally valid.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, top U.S. negotiator there, told newsmen after the session there had been no talk of the bombing issue.

North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy declared: "The 26th meeting was just like the 25 preceding ones." During the session itself Thuy repeated Hanoi's formula for progress in the talks: a total, unconditional halt in U.S. attacks on the North.

The United States has insisted on mutual restraint by North Vietnam as a condition for a full bombing halt. Hanoi has yet to give any word or hint that the recent decline in its military activity is due to a deliberate decision to de-escalate the war.

What the declines means could not be immediately explained.

with the plumbing problem, Eisele took a small vacuum cleaner-like device and Schirra described:

"Now he's going to suck up the water with the accumulator line we have. It's a pretty good size blob of water. It takes quite a while to mop up."

He explained that the water is then spilled overboard through a water dump system.

The only levity in the conversation, in contrast to earlier days, was this comment from Schirra, emulating an airline pilot:

"This is your captain speaking. On this flight you can unfasten your seat belts and relax and I hope we can make this flight enjoyable for you."

Mission Control told the astronauts that the reception was good but not up to the quality of the previous two mornings.

Apollo 7 was headed for the midway mark of its planned 11-day journey tonight with ground crews keeping a watch on tropical storm Gladys off the Florida coast. No major highlights are planned in the last half of the mission as the astronauts continue the routine job of checking and rechecking the systems.

They all slept well last night, each averaging about eight hours. This contrasted with the previous night when Schirra complained that they were awakened too early.

All three reported their colds were much better and that they had stopped taking medication, including aspirin.

employment counselors outside the department who would test and evaluate trainees, follow through and work with them. In any such program, there are bound to be some failures, which means the investment goes down the drain."

Bruce said his staff is working on statistics on turnover and employment growth and hopes to make a progress report to the supervisors "in a few weeks." He said, "I think we can come up with a program that is modest and with a moderate price tag."

Bruce said he is not sure whether a new agency must be created specifically for new careers which would include educational counselors supporting services. "We want to keep this open as option," said Bruce.

Pearl has said that creation of a special agency would destroy the New Careers concept.)

The administrator explained he has not approached College of Marin to help provide the education for new careers trainees "because before we can intelligently talk to the college, we must see what the turnover and statistics are. There's no point in training or employing a person in new careers if you can't guarantee him a job after the training."

"It would be unfortunate to argue about something that is in the formative stages," Bruce concluded. "The idea or concept is too important to jeopardize from negative arguments."

Clark Rips Nixon Over Law, Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark accused Richard M. Nixon Wednesday of "deliberately misleading" Americans on the law and order issue. He said the GOP presidential candidate doesn't know enough about crime control to even discuss the subject objectively.

Nixon has been making campaign statements such as : "Under the stewardship of the present administration, crime and violence have skyrocketed in America." He has said he will have an attorney general who can deal with crime better than Clark has.

Blasting back, Clark told a Women's National Press Club audience the Republican candidate "resorts to trigger words and misstatement on the crime issue."

Clark suggested Nixon should "state positions on the issues clearly, not fabricate false issues."

He asked: "Can a man who deliberately misleads be trusted to lead?

Clark said crime cannot be controlled or reduced by "exortations to law and order" which he said may mean many things "but to most today signify . . . (and) repressiveness."

"It nurtures fear by conjuring terrible crimes. It fires anger by implying authoritarian power . . .

"Besides dividing, the demagogic phrase misleads or leads not at all. Crime is a very practical and pervasive problem. Practical, pervasive and specific programs are required if crime is to be arrested. But the phrase 'law and order' offers no program . . . . "

Picking too on Nixon's "support your police" slogan, Clark suggested that "police need more than a cheering section."

Setting out what he considers the necessary programs for crime control, Clark mentioned:

The registration and licensing of firearms.

New emphasis on corrections.

OBITUARIES

CHARLES HUBBARD

Funeral for Charles C. Hubbard of Reno, formerly of San Rafael, will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at the Parent funeral chapel, Petaluma. Interment will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Hubbard, 37, died after a short illness Monday in Reno, where he had lived two years and worked as a salesman for Sears Roebuck Co. Born in Palo Alto, Hubbard lived in San Rafael from 1935 to 1960.

He is survived by his wife, Marion Hubbard of Reno; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Hubbard of Petaluma; a son, Charles C. Hubbard, and a daughter, Kelene Hubbard, both of Dallas, Tex.; three stepdaughters, Joanne, Marcia and Cynthia Beedle, and a stepson, William Beedle Jr., all of Reno, and three brothers, James Hubbard of Petaluma, Robert Hubbard of San Anselmo and Jack Hubbard of Oakland.

ERIKA DUTRA

Private family funeral for Erika Lain Dutra, 3-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Edward Dutra of 7110 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Lagunitas, was held today at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

The child was found dead in her crib at the home of friends yesterday morning, according to the Marin County Coroner's office. Cause of death was not known.

Asst. Coroner Eugene R. Fontaine said that the child's mother had taken the baby to stay with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Munk of Woodacre on Monday. Mrs. Munk said the baby appeared in normal health during the day and was sleeping normally when checked at 10:30 p.m.

She was found dead at 8:30 a.m. with her face turned to the mattress of the crib.

HOWARD SMITHERS

Howard Leon Smithers, 55, of 2534 Stony Point Road, Petaluma, died yesterday at a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

Born and educated at Ogdensburg, N.Y., he came to the Cotati-Petaluma area in the early 1940s. He had been employed as a Carpenter by the Dick Peters Construction Co., of Mill Valley, and was a member of the Carpenter's Union, Local 35 of San Rafael.

He is survived by his wife, Alice Congers Smithers of Petaluma; four sons, Allan Smithers of Riggins, Idaho, Milford Smithers of Santa Rosa; Howard Smithers of Petaluna, and Robert Perry of Corte Madera; four daughters, Mrs. Beverly Malugani, Mrs. Carol Nichols, Mrs. Donna Ayers and Mrs. Linda Babson, all of Santa Rosa; a brother, Cad Smithers, and a sister, Mrs. Evelyn Bush, both of New York.

Funeral will be Friday at 2 p.m. at the chapel of Sorensen's Funeral Home, Petaluna. Interment will be at Liberty Cemetery.

Reed Trustees Want Closer Parent Links

Reed School District trustees last night pondered ways to improve communication to parents about new school programs.

Trustees expressed their concern after spending two hours reviewing the new social science curriculum at Del Mar School and answering questions from parents.

Two weeks ago the board spent about three hours with an audience of about 150 persons reviewing the teaching program at Reed School.

Trustee Leo Souza said it would be wise for staff members to discuss the social science curriculum program with parents "in depth."

Trustees also wrapped up the Reed School program discussion that started two weeks ago, but the audience was smaller, about 35 persons and about half of them staff members.

Jack Usilton, Reed principal, said he had sent a brochure to parents explaining team teaching, ungraded classes and multi-grouping of pupils.

A discussion on school programs will be held by the Reed Parent-Teacher Club at 8 p.m. Monday at the school, Usilton reported.

He also explained the report card program whereby parents will have a choice of the traditional report ard or parent-teacher conferences or both.

Souza said he felt this method was asking them (parents) to chose sides," and it "was a poor position to put parents into."

One resident said some people were unhappy over some of the new teachers and what they were teaching and another said many parents feel they haven't any say in what is taught.

K. L. Rice Jr., board chairman, suggested they talk to school principals and if still not satisfied to the board.

Souza wondered if the questioning of programs hasn't arisen because the district is "doing things we weren't doing two years ago."

Rice said, "It's probably due to changes instituted to the point where parents don't understand what's going on."

Trustees agreed that parent orientation nights alone weren't sufficient because two hours wasn't enough time to cover programs in depth.

One resident suggested that the board consider appointing an advisory committee composed of members of various professions who live in the district.

REEDLAND WOODS SCHOOL — Heard a report that a soils check revealed unstable fill at the Reedland Woods School site, and work is underway to make it stable but the additional cost hasn't been estimated. William G. Vanesen, assistant superintendent for business, said the extra cost would be included in the district's litigation against Lytton Savings and Loan Co. since the back fill over a storm drain installed by Lytton lacked compaction to support the fill over the drain.

ENROLLMENT — Received a report from Vanesen that district enrollment dropped 24 pupils between Sept. 26 and Oct. 10, and Trustee Leo Souza asked for information as to whether the families of the pupils still live in the district or have moved.

GRANADA SCHOOL — Heard that the construction at Granada School will be completed Dec. 1.

HIRING — Hired Mrs. Bonita Sanborn as a teacher's aide at Bel Aire School at $2.25 an hour with a four-hour day for the 1968-69 school year, and authorized the hiring of a custodian for Granada School at $449 a month.

DELEGATES — Voted for Mrs. Dorothy Brown, Dixie School District, Dr. Glen Haydon, Menlo Park City School District, and Lauress Wise, Redwood City School District, as delegates to the California School Board Association Assembly.

BOND SALES — Received a report that the Bank of America was low bidder for sale of $270,000 in district bonds at an interest rate of 4.99117 per cent.

Trustee James B. Atkin was absent.

Dialing Monkey For Zoo's News Called 'Drivel'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the latest news of the city zoo, dial "M-O-N-K-E-Y-S."

The Greater Los Angeles Zoo Association says attendance has zoomed as a result of this money business involving the telephone company.

Callers first hear on tape the sounds from the monkey compound and volunteer guide Janice Seaman, representing her voice as that of Paco Parrot, urges the family to visit the zoo and learn the identity of this month's mystery animal.

"He has four legs. He walks on his knuckles. He seldom makes sounds. He never chuckles. His tail is large. It drags on the ground. His tongue is so long and rather blue. The ants and termites stick on like glue. Do you know who? I do."

Said Potter yesterday: "What juvenile drivel?"

"This thing insults the intelligence of our younger generation. Kids today are more sophisticated than that," he said. He added that "there isn't a kid in town who wouldn't know" the mystery animal is an anteater.

A Nude Dancer Protests Draft

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Among the 150 persons who assembled outside the old Federal Building yesterday to support the draft resistance of Sidney Walter was a woman who peeled off her clothes, danced in the nude and cut up a melon with a large knife.

At the same time, members of the Firehouse Theater, of which Walter is the artistic director, put on skits favoring draft resistance and advocating peace in Vietnam.

Walter, the father of three children, was classified 1-A in July after he twice returned notices of delinquency to his Niagara Falls, N.Y., draft board explaining his position as being uncooperative.

The nude woman was not arrested, police said.

BART Estimates Concession Fees

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Bay Area Rapid Transit District can earn $165,000 a year from concessions in its stations, says a preliminary report from the district's real estate department.

The report yesterday was based on a projection of 400,000 passengers a day and plans to install concessions at 30 of the district's 34 stations.

The three-county rapid transit system still is under construction.

GENEVA (AP) — The World Council of Churches announced yesterday it has sent $10,000 to India to start a relief program for an estimated two million flood victims in West Bengal.

David D. Ring Nominated For Tam Trustee Vacancy

Reed School District trustees last night nominated David D. Ring of Tiburon, a former Reed board member, to fill the vacancy on the Tamalpais High School District board.

Ring, a 43-year-old attorney, was an unsuccessful candidate for the Tamalpais board last year, running a close third in a three-way race for two seats.

He has been a member of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization since 1965, and had served on the Reed School District board for eight years.

North Bay Transport Needs Report Slated

Studies of future transportation needs in Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties will be presented to the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission by its staff 10 a.m. Oct. 24 in the Sonoma County Planning Commission hearing room, 2555 Mendocino Avenue, Santa Rosa.

Also on the agenda is the final report of the study group on innovations and novel systems.

Charge Filed For Carrying Hidden Gun

Lanny G. Berry, special human relations assistant for the Tamalpais High School District, was charged in Marin Municipal Court yesterday with carrying a concealed weapon, a misdemeanor offense.

Berry, 36, of 685 Blackberry Lane, Lucas Valley, was arraigned on the charge and his case was continued until Oct. 22 for entry of plea.

The district attorney filed the charge as a result of an incident Sept. 7 when Berry, arguing with Herbert P. Mooney at 596 Millercreek Road, Marinwood, allegedly drew a .22-automatic from his hip pocket and exhibited it during discussion.

Sheriff's reports indicate both Berry and Mooney called for deputies after the dispute.

Barry, a former juvenile probation officer for Marin County, was hired by the school district in 1966 to work with the district's black students and their families.

Scholars Honored At Redwood High

Five Redwood High School students have been awarded letters of commendation for high performances in the 1968 national merit scholarship qualifying test.

They are Andrew E. Allen, Belvedere; Lynn A. Baker and Nanette M. Hantzsche, both of Tiburon; Imants P. Kaupe, Ross; and Welsey G. Mock; Corte Madera.

The five were among 39,000 who will graduate from high school next year and who scored in the upper 2 per cent in the nationwide test.

'STONE AGE,' SUPREME COURT

Douglas Thinks New Faces Could Undo Warren Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, who turned 70 today, says he wonders whether Americans would let "some Stone Age guys" alter the work of the Warren Court.

Douglas, two years shy of being the court's senior justice, was asked in a rare interview if a change in one or two places on the bench could alter the record of the court's 15 years under Chief Justice Earl Warren.

"A constitutional decision in the court is always open to change," Douglas replied. "Much of the things we do are controversial."

"Some Stone Age guys" could alter the court's direction if they were put on the bench, Douglas remarked.

He went on after more thought, however, "I just don't know that the sober second thoughts Americans have will allow fundamental changes."

Douglas also denied rumors that he plans to quit, said it was a misfortune Abe Fortas was not confirmed as chief justice and rejected the idea rising crime is related to court decisions.

The justice challenged a senator's remark that he "felt safer on the streets of Communist Moscow than on the streets of some areas of our nation's capital."

Douglas didn't mention Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., by name, but said the point is that Russia is a police state.

"Some people would like to have their kind of a police state," Douglas added. "But Americans do not want a police state no matter what they say in their intemperate state."

A few days ago a political column said Douglas had decided to write his memoirs and to retire. "I have no plans to retire," the Justice declared. "I have no contract to publish anything" with the possible exception of a series of lectures he gave last March at New York University.

An electronic pacemaker was implanted in his chest last June to correct a slow pulse rate. Douglas explained: "There was nothing wrong with my heart. When I went into a deep sleep it would be like hibernation. My heart beat would drop. Then when I woke up it would be beating fast."

In any event, he said, "I am probably in better health than I have been in years." Douglas is hiking, horseback riding—but not traveling around the country enough to know if America is moving to the right politically.

"America has always been a pretty conservative country," he observed. "Whether there is a trend to the right, I don't know."

The conversation turned to defeat of Justice Fortas' nomination. "I think it was a misfortune that Abe Fortas was not confirmed," Douglas said. "He would, on the merits, have made a fine chief justice. This was politics.

"A certain nucleus of people in the Senate thought this was a chance for them to name a new chief justice, a political plum."

Attacks on the court, which accompanied the fight over Fortas, are nothing new, Douglas noted. Its decisions have always been controversial, and one year more than 70 bills were circulating in Congress to reverse court rulings, he said.

Afternoon Blackout Hits Petaluma Area

Most of Petaluma was without electricity for 20 minutes yesterday afternoon when an automatic switch failed to function at Substation C on the east side of town.

With the exception of the downtown business district, most areas lost service at 3:55 p.m. and had it return at 4:15 or 4:20 p.m., according to Clifford Bartlett Jr., Petaluma Pacific Gas and Electric Co. manager.

November 16th is the start of something big: a great new vacation lake 90 miles from San Francisco

When Lake of the Pines was completed, we sent a taskforce of experts combing Northern California—by helicopter, jeep and shoe-leather—searching for the perfect place to set our next great vacation lake. It had to be near enough so you could run up on Fridays after work...secluded enough to let the rest of the world rush by while you sail, swim, golf, dine, dance and play tennis in private.

The months of searching paid off—beautifully. We found exactly what we were hoping to, in a hidden valley amid hot mineral springs and basking under 300 days of golden sunshine a year.

All it lacked was water. We are now constructing a lake that will provide deep blue water to dive in, sail over, swim on and live around. Putting water in its proper place is our speciality—as you probably know if you've seen Lake of the Pines, or any one of the other vacation lakes United States Land has created all across the country.

How to get in on a good thing: To be among the first to know about this great new vacation lake, mail the coupon. It'll bring you just-published facts and figures on the golf club, the water sports and private lakeside club and marina, the vacation homesites...and how you and your family can preview this new vacation colony 90 miles from the Golden Gate before its Grand Opening.

Marin Demo Will Support Humphrey

A leading Marin Democrat today showed a change of heart and said he will support his party's presidential ticket.

S. Robert Politzer, chairman of the Marin County Democratic Cental Committee, last February labeled the Johnson administration's war policy "genocide," and in August predicted local Democrats would "sit out" the presidential election if Humphrey were the nominee.

Today, however, Politzer told the Independent-Journal that he was "just a loyal Democrat, and will support Humphrey no matter what happens." He supported Kennedy during the primary campaign, when the central committee was split between McCarthy and Kennedy supporters — with only a handful favoring Humphrey.

Politzer, reporting on last night's monthly committee meeting at the County Courthouse in San Rafael, said party workers had found "an awful lot of grass roots stirring for Humphrey.

Politzer also reported that the committee's ''Dollars for Democrats Drive'' netted about $1,000 in its first week. (The committee treasury last month had $1,287 in red ink.)

The committee also appointed Hans G. Roenau, Tiburon lithographer, and William Mills, Tiburon attorney, to fill vacancies left by Robert L. Harmon and D. Cameron Baker Jr. of Belvedere. Both resigned because they registered outside of Marin County, Politzer said.

State Is Filling More Farm Jobs

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A record of more than one million farm worker placements in California agriculture has been announced by Director Peter Weinberger of the state Department of Employment.

Heavily increased grower requests for workers resulted in the record total, which is predicted to reach approximately 1,180,000 by the end of the year, exceeding the previous high, in 1959, of 1,005,000.

Weinberger cited four factors, which he said accounted for the placement record of the Farm Labor Sevice of the agriculture department.

They were: Weather conditions which provided the best growing conditions; bumper crops in many commodities such as tomatoes, peaches, and pears; more local domestic workers, including women and youths; and more growers utilizing the services of the farm labor offices.

Irish Fire Bomb Hits British Office

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A demonstrator threw a gasoline bomb at the British Embassy yesterday and was immediately arrested. The bomb exploded against a wall but did no damage.

The incident followed Saturday's attack on the embassy by demonstrators protesting what they allege is anti-Catholic discrimination in British-controlled Northern Ireland.

Fairfax Trustees Try Again On Library Fund

The Fairfax School District board also:

ASSEMBLY — Supported Mrs. Dorothy Brown, president of the Dixie School District board, and Dr. Glenn Hayden of the Menlo Park School board as delegates to the California School Boards Association Delegate Assembly.

CLEAVER — Received without comment a letter from State Supt. of Public Instruction Max Rafferty warning of penalties against school districts and teachers if Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver were permitted to speak to students.

ENROLLMENT — Learned of a district enrollment of 1,142, up three from the last board meeting.

ORGANIZATION — Supported Mrs. Audrey A. Miller of the Lagunitas School District board as a member of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization.

SABBATICAL—Approved sabbatical leave in 1969-70 for Mrs. Julia Reade, district reading specialist, to pursue a doctorate.

Thomas H. Kewin of 69 Fairway Drive, Mill Valley, told police someone stole a $300 camera from his home sometime between Oct. 1 and Saturday. Kewin said he noticed the camera missing when he went to use it on Saturday.

Berkeley Orders Black Studies

BERKELEY (UPI)— The Berkeley Board of Education voted yesterday to give all city school teachers a mandatory course of instruction on Negro history and culture.

Big Four May Heed Thant's Parley Plea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Signs pointed today to Big Four acceptance of Secretary-General U Thant's proposal that their foreign ministers meet to discuss ways of bolstering the United Nations as a peace force.

However, U.N. delegates generally felt no date for a meeting could be set until after the U.S. presidential election; they pointed out that President Johnson could not commit the next administration to any such parley. Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart of Britain told a news conference Monday he did not foresee a Big Four meeting before next year.

A spokesman for Thant said he had received unofficial reactions that were "not negative" from Stewart, French Foreign Minister Michel Debre, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and U.S. chief delegate J.R. Wiggins.

Thant made public yesterday letters he had sent more than a week ago to the four foreign ministers. He talked with all four during their visits to the General Assembly for the current policy debate. A spokesman said that he had received no reaction from Rusk, but Wiggins called on Thant late yesterday to discuss the matter.

Thant expressed hope in his letters for an eventual Big Four summit conference that would inject a "ray of hope" in the dismal world picture. He suggested that the foreign ministers meet to discuss such matters as the financial situation of the United Nations, disarmament, U.N. peacekeeping and peacebuilding functions, and guidance and support for the mission of Gunnar Jarring, the secretary-general's Middle East envoy.

Thant had hoped that the ministers would get together during the current assembly session to discuss the issues, but all four have gone home.

Elsewhere in the United Nations:

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Jarring talked at length yesterday on Israel's nine-point plan for a Middle East settlement.

Laurence Michelmore, commissioner-general of the U.N. Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees (UNRWA), said his agency's financial situation remains precarious and the outlook bleak, unless refugee aid funds are increased 10 per cent.

Correctional Officers Needed

Applications must be filed by Nov. 4 at the prison or the state personnel office, 515 Van Ness Avenue, San Francisco, Nelson said. A written test will be given Nov. 9 and an oral examination Nov. 13 at San Quentin.

Maoist Forces Nearing Full Control?

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

If there is substance in Peking Radio's latest claim of victory in the cultural revolution, Mao Tse-tung's forces are just about ready to legalize their seizure of power and try to rebuild stability in the natton of 700 million.

According to an unofficial translation of a broadcast editorial from Red Flag, Peking's main theoretical journal, "China's Khrushchev" has been stripped of party and government positions in a "complete victory" for the forces of Party Chairman Mao.

STILL ANONYMOUS

The editorial did not mention its target, President Liu Shao-chi, by name. This indicated that Maos' men were somewhat short of "complete victory." But the rest may be mere technicality, though it may take some time to accomplish.

When the cultural revolution exploded more than two years ago, one of its rules was that no ranking party or government leader could be assailed by name. Others who fell were denounced by name. But Liu, who has been chairman of the government and vice chairman of the party, still is called only "China's Khrushchev," a reference to his alleged "revisionism."

FINAL DOWNFALL

The editorial, however, reflected confidence that Liu's end is at hand. His final overthrow may await the calling of a Communist party congress, and for this reason Liu may still not be denounced by name even though in fact he may be thoroughly defeated.

The Chinese party's statutes require a congress every five years. There has been no congress, however, since the eighth in 1956, a dozen years ago. A congress, supposedly the supreme party body to which provincial organizations send delegates, is required to name a new central committee, which in turn names the politburo and other ruling organs.

DELAY REASONS

There have been signs that Mao's followers wanted to call a congress this year, and were waiting only until they felt victory secure enough. A propitious date, Oct. 1, already has passed. That was the anniversary of the Communist takeover of the mainland.

If, however, the Maoists have imposed "revolutionary committees" on all the provinces as they claim, it would be easy enough to transform those committees into the present-day party and call a congress. That congress could officially remove Liu Saho-chi from his post of vice chairman of the party. It would then be simple enough to have the National People's Congress, a sort of parliament, remove him as its chairman—president of Red China.

The signs now are that China is in the hands of a group of 13 leaders under Mao, with defense minister Lin Piao wielding the real power in the name of "Mao Tse-tung's thinking." Lin has been designated Mao's heir apparent.

If China is going to seek stability after two uproarious years of violence, it must reconstruct a ruling party. The party as it existed at the Eighth Congress in 1956 no longer exists. Of its 99 central committee members, about 75 have been purged or denounced. Of the 20 politburo members in 1956, 13 have been denounced in the course of the cultural revolution.

Final victory for the Maoist forces could head China into thinly veiled military rule under Lin Piao, who leans heavily on the support of the armed forces.

There are no signs, however, that a restoration of some measure of stability would do anything to halt the wide breach between Peking and Moscow. China, on a go-it-alone policy, is farther away from the Soviet party now than it was two years ago, when the cultural revolution broke into the open. What China-watchers look for with a return of some stability is a careful policy avoiding long risks abroad while building strength at home.

Black Students Protest To Board

OAKLAND (UPI) — About 150 Negro students at Fremont High School packed the meeting of the Oakland Board of Education yesterday to protest the suspension of a student for attacking a teacher.

The students, who said they represented the Black Students Union, said they were protesting the board's decision to postpone action on the status of the suspended student until after his Juvenile Court hearing on Nov. 4.

Earlier, about 800 students skipped classes.

Petaluma Air Service Turned Down By State

The California Public Utilities Commission yesterday denied a request from Let's Fly, Inc. of Santa Rosa to fly a daily commuter service from the Petaluma Sky Ranch and Santa Rosa airport to major airports in San Francisco and Oakland.

Leslie LeBar, Let's Fly president, said no one from his organization attended yesterday's commission session in San Francisco and were surprised by the verdict. The PUC said the local airline had not shown sufficient proof of the need for the commuter service.

Stating he plans to appeal the verdict, LeBar said, "We thought we had shown a great need for the service during hearings on the request last July." He said when hearings are held on the planned appeal, he hoped to have community leaders testify to the need.

Now flying on a demand basis, the airline had requested to make two round-trip flights everyday. Lodging protests on the request were Air California, Air West and Golden Pacific Airlines, which is also seeking PUC approval to operate a similar commuting service from the Sonoma County airport.

SFO helicopter service on Marin's Richardson Bay had also lodged a protest, but withdrew it when Le Bar assured them his service would not run regularly between San Francisco and Oakland international airports. That service had been requested of the PUC by SFO Helicopters.

License Hearing

The Alcoholic Beverage Control board will hold a public hearing on the Belvedere Tennis Club's application for a conditional liquor license at 10 a.m. Oct. 23 in the grand jury room at Civic Center.

U.C. Enrollment Listed At 28,132

The university reported that the figure would have topped 30,000 but more than 2,000 eligible applicants were turned away to keep Berkeley enrollment near the "optimum ceiling."

The decrease from last fall reflects a planned cutback to bring enrollment closer to the 27,500 guideline set in the California master plan for higher education.

Patient Goes Home

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Petrus Smith left Groote Shuur Hospital yesterday, 38 days after doctors gave him the heart of an African woman in a transplant operation. He said he felt "100 per cent better."

LIKE AN ASTRONAUT — Six-year-old Calvin Grindel of Cuba, Ill., who is taking radiation treatments for a growth in his head, shied away from Betatron treatments until University of Illinois Hospital technicians in Chicago designed him this astronaut-like helmet. The big ears are for the Betatron attachments and the ropes, cords, belts and shoulder pieces are for decoration only. (AP Wirephoto)

Second Disco Department Store To Open

Marin County's second Disco department store will open tomorrow in Larkspur at the site of the former Lee Bros. Value World.

Occupying the one-acre building in Larkspur Plaza, Disco will hold a grand opening ceremony between 9:30 and 10 a.m. which will be attended by company and Larkspur officials.

This will be Disco's 10th store in a chain headed by Daylin, Inc. of Beverly Hills. The San Rafael store, which has been open several years, former was known as MAC Department Store, MAC - Disco and more recently as Disco Wonderworld. The new name for all stores in now simply Disco.

The Larkspur store will have more than 30 departments, including men's and women's clothing, shoes, drugs and pharmaceuticals, hardware and housewares, small appliances, sporting goods, automobile supplies and liquor. There will be no food department. The store will be staffed by about 200 employees. Approximately $250,000 has been spent by Daylin in remodeling the building.

James Marlais, who has managed the San Rafael store, has been made district manager of the two Marin stores and any other stores which may open in this district. Lyle Plummer, formerly with Disco in Stockton, has been appointed Larkspur manager.

During a 10-day grand opening period store hours wll be from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Thereafter regular hours will be from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Fridays; 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturdays; and from noon to 6 p.m. on Sundays.

Compressor Stolen

Sentence Date

George Franklin Battensby, 58, of San Anselmo, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge that he burgled Braverman's Furniture in San Anselmo Sept. 5, 1967. His case was continued to ov. 12 for sentencing.

San Anselmo Trustees Set Sabbatical Policy

The San Anselmo School District board last night agreed to limit the number of teachers on sabbatical leave to 2 per cent during any year.

The policy previously has set a limit of 3 per cent. Supt. Stephen L. Parodi said although there has been no problem, the board for several weeks has been considering the change to preclude any difficulty.

He said there are about 100 teachers in the district, and requirement is that sabbatical leave requests be submitted by Nov. 1 of each year. At present, he said, there are no applications for next year.

San Anselmo School District Board Also:

MEETINGS — Agreed to have two yearly meetings, one in October and one in April, with the city council to discuss items of mutual interest.

CLASSROOMS —Agreed to continue a policy of permitting the city parks and recreation department to use the three multi-purpose rooms for recreational use, and to consider permitting the department to use classrooms for adult groups.

REPRESENTATIVE — Nominated Audrey Miller, Lagunitas School District trustee, to the Marin County Committee on School District Organization in the Nov. 7 election. The selection dependent upon her approval.

CONFERENCE — Increased from 5 to 10 the minimum amount of days each year that a teacher should hold conferences with parents for pupils in grades 1 through 6.

COMMITTEE — Agreed to create a budget committee composed of 11 persons to help the board plan future yearly budgets. The committee would include two board members, three teachers, two school administrators, three laymen, and the district superintendent.

Hero's Wounded Son Evacuated

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI)—Navy corpsmen put the son of America's most decorated Marine aboard a flight out of the war zone today, five days after he lost his legs in a booby trap explosion.

Marine spokesmen did not disclose the exact destinaion of 2nd Lt. Lewis Puller Jr., 23, of Belvoir, Va., son of retired Gen. Lewis (Chesty) Puller, a World War II and Korean War hero.

The flight could take young Puller to the Philippines or Japan for treatment before his return to the United States.

Stanford Backs Grapes Boycott

In balloting Monday and yesterday, 1,030 students supported the boycott by endorsing a statement backing "the struggle of the United Farm Workers for better living conditions." The statement was opposed by 409 students.

The university has an enrollment of 11,300 students.

Playing A Role In Lifesaving

WHIDBEY ISLAND NAS, Wash. (UPI)—The Navy's twin-jet A3B SKywarrior, which started out as a heavy bomber and has now changed to other tasks, is playing a key role in a lifesaving saga in the Vietnam War.

The planes are fitted out with a hose-reel assembly, a set of pipes, a 1,500-gallon tank and a pump and are being used as air refueling tankers.

The tankers have been credited with saving 499 combat planes worth $958.5 million. These planes would have had to ditch if it hadn't been for the converted Skywarriors, according to officers at this base.

Burial Place

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—"Uncle Sam" is buried in Oakwood Cemetery, near Troy, N.Y., according to the New York state Department of Commerce. "Uncle Sam" Wilson was a meat packer who supplied the Army with beef during the War of 1812.

Countywide Mailing Set To Help GOP

The Marin County Republican Central Committee last night voted to mail a special campaign edition of its newsletter, Trumpetings, to every Republican household in Marin.

Committee chairman Charles Michals estimated the cost of mailing the eight-page edition next week to some 33,000 households at almost $3,000. The money "to extol the virtues of our candadates" will come entirely from available committee funds, he said.

The mass mailing was voted at a special committee meeting in the County Courthouse in San Rafael. No public notice was given of the public meeting, but the committee is not governed by the state's antisecret meeting law.

Michals also reported a fourth Nixon-Agnew headquarters in Marin would open this week in San Anselmo opposite the Post Office. It will be operated by the Marin Federated Republican Women and financed by the central committee, he said.

Other headquarters already are opening in San Rafael, Mill Valley and Novato.

Drath Condemns Presidio Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The 28 soldier-prisoners in the Presidio stockade who have been refusing to work remained in segregation today as controversy rose outside the walls.

Philip Drath, of San Rafael, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 6th District, called the shooting of a prisoner last Friday, which the work stoppage protested, a "likely case of unjustified manslaughter."

The dead prisoner was Pvt. Richard Bunch, 19, Dayton, Ohio, who was held on an AWOL charge and was killed with a shotgun by an unnamed guard as he ran away from a work detail.

The Army said Bunch ignored shouted commands to halt. But Drath said warning shots should have been fired first and that the shot at Bunch should have been directed to the legs.

Junta Patrols, Curfew Keep Panama Calm

PANAMA CITY (UPI)—National Guard patrols and a strict nighttime curfew today kept Panama under solid control of the military junta that overthrew President Arnulfo Arias five days ago.

Panamanians generally accepted the new regime. Antijunta students scattered glass and carpet tacks in the streets as harassment but patrolling troops and the curfew kept a lid on violence.

The United States announced in Washington yesterday it was suspending diplomatic relations with Panama, paving the way for official recognition of the junta.

The United States was expected to withhold official recognition of the junta, however, until four of five other Western hemisphere nations act first.

Junta Foreign Minister Carlos Alfredo Lopez Guevara told newsmen the U.S. decision caught the new regime by "complete surprise" and "was not what we expected out of the United States."

The U.S. State Department announcement criticized Arias for using the sanctuary of the American-controlled Canal Zone to urge an uprising against the junta. Arias' efforts have gone for naught.

Canal Zone Gov. W.P. Leber and a U.S. embassy political officer visited Arias yesterday, presumably to discuss his plans and warn him further against playing politics while in U.S. territory. They had no comment for newsmen afterwards.

Meanwhile junta president, Col. Jose Pinilla, and Col. Bolivar Urrutia ran the new regime from behind the barred gates of the National Palace. The capital was back to normal following the bloodless coup last Saturday.

The new minister of the presidency, Juan Materno Vasquez, went on nationwide television last night and asked viewers to "consider the entire situation" and realize that the National Guard takeover was in the best national interests.

Junta censors edited the morning newspapers La Estrella and the Star and Herald and kept closed Arias-supporting newspapers and television stations.

103 Years Of Service Over

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Union Pacific Railroad has lost two of its steno-clerks—and with only a total of 103 years of service between them. Christabel Troxel decided to quit work when she reached her 80th birthday. And she took her kid sister, Maud, 77, with her.

The spinster sisters went to work for UP during World War I, Maud in 1916 and Christabel in 1917. They were born in Nebraska. Christabel is going on her second world cruise and Maud says she hasn't made up her mind what to do.

Where It Began

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—The nation's first educational television network was started in Alabama 15 years ago. It now is the largest state-owned ETV facility in the United States. Seven stations are in operation and another is on the drawing boards.

Sinking Vessel's Crew Is Rescued

Coast Guard headquarters here reported the rescue just 10 minutes after the men launched an inflatable life raft.

All seven persons aboard the stricken fishing vessel "John R. Cook" were lifted to safety by helicopters dispatched from the Navy aircraft carriers USS Lexington some 30 miles away.

The Coast Guard reported seas at six feet and winds at 20 knots when the fishermen abandoned their boat at 11:54 a.m. in the life raft dropped earlier by a circling airplane.

Sausalito Chamber Board Backs Bonds

The Sausalito Chamber of Commerce board yesterday unanimously endorsed the $10.9 million Tamalpais High School bond issue on the Nov. 9 ballot, according to president Raymond L. Roy.

Mrs. Bette Wallace, a high school district trustee, spoke. The bond issue was the only item discussed at the meeting.

A CONCLUSION

Rock Sample Reveals Oldest Of Life Forms

WASHINGTON (SS) — It is rare, in scientific investigation of the past, for anyone to discover a limit. There is always the chance that something older, deeper, bigger, smaller or more basic will be turned up in the next spadeful of dirt.

Recently, however, rock samples chipped from the mountains of Rhodesia have revealed traces of what may be not only the oldest life forms ever found, but the oldest that ever will be found.

The samples were collected from an exposed edge of a layer of rock called the Onverwacht, which dates back more than 3.2 billion years and is believed to contain the oldest exposed, well-preserved sedimentary rock beds on earth.

They were gathered to provide raw material for a training project to aid researchers at the University of Arizona's department of geochronology, who plan to apply similar life-hunting methods to pieces of lunar rock brought back from the moon by Apollo astronauts.

The investigators hoped to find fossilized remnants of primitive one-celled algae. Because some of the objects were expected to be as small as one ten-thousandth of an inch, the processing of the samples was done in clean rooms designed to keep out even the most minute forms of contamination.

After being cleaned with high-frequency sound waves some of the samples were sliced into layers so thin they were transparent, then fastened to glass microscope slides, while others were ground into powder and cooked in hot acid to remove any excess material.

Examination revealed thousands of tiny objects, some of them spherical, some long and filament-like, and other cup-shaped.

Physically, they appear indeed to be microfossils, the oldest surviving remains of earth's earliest creatures. Preliminary chemical analysis has added evidence by revealing compounds that are commonly found in the presence of life. But the conclusion is far from foregone.

"There is no assurance at all that life had evolved by the Onverwacht time," says Dr. Bartholomew Nagy of the University of Arizona.

The filaments, for example, could have resulted from deposits of sediment along planes and fissures in the rock, while the other shapes could have had similarily nonbiological origins. Also, the fact that chemical compounds in the samples have been associated with life does not necessarily mean that life was required to produce them.

If the traces are the remnants of life, however, they may mean that man will never be able to reach back to the very first sign of life on the planet. Finding life signs in the ancient Onverwacht would mean that the origins of life presumably occurred in still older rocks, which, the researchers believe, have been destroyed by millions of years of heat, pressure and upheaval from the evolving earth.

The objects are still being painstakingly analyzed in hopes of answering the mystery.

At least half a dozen scientists have already been involved, ranging from Dr. Albert E. J. Engel of the University of California at San Diego, who headed the team that originally gathered the samples in summer 1967, to Charles M. Drew at the Naval Weapons Center in China Lake, who provided an unusual stereoscopic microscope that made the examination possible.

Other researchers include Lois Anne Nagy and Dr. Gerhard, O. W. Kremp of the University of Arizona, and Dr. Celeste C. Engel of the U.S. Geological Survey.

That the tiny objects were once alive has in no way been established. If they were, however, and if the limit of man's discovery has indeed been reached, it is at once a rarity and a tragedy.

The Girl Scouts were founded at Savannah, Ga., in 1912.

Late LBJ Friend Gets Burial Nod

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special exception to permit burial in Arlington National Cemetery of Judge Paul J. Kilday of the Court of Military Appeals, a friend of President Johnson's, has been made by the Army.

Army officials said it was the first such exception they know of in the 20 months since new burials at Arlington were ordered strictly limited because space is running out.

Judge Kilday, a longtime Texas congressman before being appointed to the military Court of Appeals, died Saturday after an apparent heart attack. He was 68.

Vietnam Bounces Back After Tet

SAIGON (AP) — The top U.S. adviser to South Vietnam's pacification program said today the country has almost completely recovered from the effects of two enemy offensives earlier this year.

"The effects of the Communists' Tet offensive last February and mini-Tet attacks of May have now been largely removed and the government is ready to begin a new phase of pacification," Komer said.

"The facts speak for themselves. More than 100,000 damaged or destroyed homes have been repaired or rebuilt. There is an abundance of food. Lines of communication are open. In short, the economy is moving."

The enemy offensives, launched against population centers including Saigon, were designed to shake confidence in the government. More than 13,000 civilians were killed and 27,000 were wounded; and more than a million refugees were left homeless by the destruction of $175 million worth of property.

"Instead, the offensives galvanized a relatively new and untried government into positive action on behalf of the people of South Vietnam," said Komer.

The recovery program's initial task was to furnish emergency aid to the civilian population, Komer said, setting up emergency food distribution centers, establishing curfews for security and reopening roads and lines of communication.

"As lines of communication were quickly reopened and secured, prices which skyrocketed during the first uncertain days of the attacks declined to near normal levels," he said.

Komer reported the program furnished care for 750,831 evacuees during Tet and another 140,000 in "Mini-Tet," the "great majority" of whom have now returned to new or rebuilt homes.

The government paid 60,000 families more than $4 million in relief and resettlement allowances, and distributed more than 100,000 tons of food, clothing and other supplies. Komer said 24 non-Communist countries, the Red Cross and various other volunteer agencies contributed about $4.3 million in cash or supplies.

Explosives Cache Found In Arrest

OAKLAND (UPI) — A suspected military deserter was arrested yesterday by police and FBI agents who also discovered a large quantity of explosives in the suspect's apartment.

The alleged deserter was identified as Darrell Gurkin. Authorities did not reveal his branch of service.

Police said the explosives cache included five sticks of gelamite, wires, tape, booster charges and plastic.

Climber Falls To Death On El Capitan

YOSEMITE (UPI)—A experienced mountain climber fell 3,000 feet to his death on El Capitan here yesterday.

James Madsen, 21, Seattle, an experienced climber who had conquered the peak several times, was identified as the victim. Madsen apparently was the first climber killed in a fall on El Capitan since the peak was first scaled in 1958.

Madsen and four other persons climbed the peak to check on the position of two other climbers, Charles Pratt, 29, La fayette, and Chris Fredericks, 26, El Segundo. They were found safe and said they planned to continue their climb up the difficult south wall.

Madsen and another climber had reached the top of El Capitan on the north route and were descending the south face when the accident occurred.

Tiburon Fire Chief Asks More Volunteers

The Tiburon Fire Department needs more volunters, especially from the Belveron Gardens area, Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher last night told the Belveron Homeowners Association, according to vice president Opal Henson.

Buscher outlined the duties of a volunteer fireman, the functions of the fire department, the district's tax rate and what property tax revenues are used for, Mrs. Henson reported.

Substituting for chairman Donald L. Batten, who was ill, Mrs. Henson issued a call for volunteers to help construct a new bus shelter on Jefferson Drive at Tiburon Boulevard in West Belveron Gardens.

A representative of the police department will discuss the department's functions at the next association meeting, tentatively scheduled for 8 p.m. Nov. 21 at Del Mar School.

Mill Valley Artist Has Works On Display

County Librarian, Virginia Keating said the exhibit will continue through Nov. 9.

Durham, a graduate of San Francisco Art Institute, also studied in New York and in Europe. The exhibit is part of the young adult program of the county library.

Redevelopment Topic

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency will discuss how it can aid the Marin City Council in its long range program in cooperation with PACT, a community development agency, at a meeting today at 8:30 p.m. in the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

New Constitution In Drafting Stage

A new constitution for the Associated Students of College of Marin — placing more emphasis on education — is in the final drafting stage and is expected to be put to a popular student vote Oct. 24-25, a student proponent said today.

The constitution, prepared by members of the Students for Academic Freedom (SAF), would change the present student commissioner system of the executive council to a 15-member group of committee chairmen.

The student, Michael McGinn, an SAF member, said a petition bearing over 430 student signatures called for a popular vote. Signatures of one-tenth of the some 4,200 day students were required.

Acceptance of the new constitution requires a two-thirds majority vote.

The constitution would replace the present 14-member executive council with chairmen for committees on budget and finance, community education, campus planning, data processing, reproduction, facility use, health and safety, instructional research and development, library, publicity and publications, student personnel, values and institutional research.

McGinn said the constitution is an attempt to rearrange the student government, placing emphasis on education. He said the present constitution emphasizes social and athletic events.

The new constitution, if passed, would probably be effective immediately, McGinn said, and another election would be called to fill the chairman positions.

Wild Chime

NOTTINGHAM, England (UPI)—The village clock started chiming at five o'clock and went on to chime 900 times. A clockmaker called in to investigate said it "apparently went mad."

Plant Tumor Cure Is Found

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Two University of California scientists have discovered a "medicine" that consistently destroys bacteria-caused plant tumors without harming the plant.

The discovery could be a long step forward in man's fight against cancerous diseases that injure growing things—eventually, perhaps, including man himself.

The compound developed by Drs. Milton N. Schroth and D. C. Hildebrand has been patented by UC. Applied with a brush, it is now being manufactured and sold to California farmers and nurserymen.

Gets Back In

NORTHAMPTON, England (UPI)—"I just can't get along with people outside prison," said Kenneth Chambers, 52, when he asked Northampton Quarter Sessions Court that an eight-year prison sentence on robbery and forgery charges be extended. The court obliged by re-sentencing him to 12 years.

Two GIs Found Guilty On Chained Protests

I-J Special Report

FORT ORD —Two more of the nine servicemen who chained themselves to clergymen in an antiwar demonstration in Marin City in July and said they had resigned from the service were convicted of desertion yesterday by military court-martial.

Military spokesmen here said that James Seymour, 20, of Deer Park, N.Y., and Steve Anderson, 17, of Las Vegas, Nev., would be sentenced today.

Seymour and Anderson were also found guilty of disobeying a lawful order by a general court-martial.

The soldiers were among the nine servicemen who were arrested at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City after two days of peaceful demonstrations and services which began in San Francisco.

Five of the men have already faced military justice, and four were found guilty of desertion, receiving sentences as stringent as four years at hard labor. The only man to be tried in Marin County, Air Force Sgt. Oliver V. Hirsh, was charged with being AWOL and given an undesirable discharge with no prison sentence.

Cotati To Act On Police Benefit

The Cotati City Council tonight will official recognize its three-man police force reserve so the officers may qualify for city employee benefits.

City officials said the men have been working under Police Chief John Curtis but have not been recognized as an auxiliary to the regular three-man force.

Also on the agenda is an agreement with the Cotati Elementary School District on water supply to the new Thomas Page School on Richardson Lane. The council meeting is at 7:30 p.m. at the fire hall.

U.S. Traffic Safety Plan Criticized

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The head of the state transportation agency said toay the federal new national traffic safety program to meet the needs of California and other individual states.

"Your number one priority item, driver licensing, is no longer a problem in California, while your number seven priority, identification and surveillance of accident locations, is of prime concern in this state," Gordon C. Luce, state transportation secretary, said in a telegram to Alan S. Boyd, U.S. transportation secretary.

Luce suggested that Boyd rescind a list of 15 national traffic safety priorities and work with each state to "develop individual programs tailored to meet specific needs."

Roy W. Troutman Jr. is worshipful master of Free and Accepted Masons, Lodge 191.

Nationwide Collegiate 'Time Out Day' Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Student Association announced today a call to colleges and universities to suspend classes Oct. 29 in a "Time Out Day" for students to seek an answer to the question: "Where do we go from here?"

"It is not a strike," said Robert S. Powell Jr., president of the group, a confederation of 375 college and university student governments representing more than two million students.

Powell said the NSA is suggesting that students carry on activities on the day, a Tuesday, even if college officials refuse to shut down operations. He said some conflicts are expected but that "it is too early to tell" whether the day might bring widespread demonstrations or disorders on campuses.

NSA sent its request to 1,600 colleges and universities and so far has word that students on at least 100 campuses plan to join in the activities, Powell said. He added that NSA does not know how many college administrations have agreed to suspend classes.

Powell said at a news conference that "the critical need for such a day springs from our bitter experiences over the past 12 months even though "students have won some significant victories on campuses and in the political system of the nation."

He said it is hoped the event will mark the beginning of a new coalition of students into "a strong national student movement."

Powell said the event is being held early in the fall because "this is going to be a very difficult year on campus" and students need to lay plans.

"The campus mood is growing more frustrated and more cynical," Powell said, in part because "the three candidates (for president) seem incapable of raising the issues" that are relevant to the country. He said such issues had been raised in the campaigns of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Among the issues the NSA listed as relevant were the Vietnam war, the draft, "white racism" and "the viability of our current political system."

The date for "Time Out Day" was set a week before the Nov. 5 presidential election, Powell said, so students could enter the campaign dialogue.

Activities will range from peaceful discussion to direct action and confrontation with college officials, said Powell, 23, a native of Thomasville, N.C. and a graduate of the University of North Carolina. He is currently on leave from advanced study at Princeton University.

Richardson Bay Rejects Sanitation Superdistrict

Richardson Bay Sanitary District directors last night rejected creation of a sanitation district as the best way to merge with the Tiburon Sanitary District, President Alfred O. Pratesi reported.

Director Kurtis T. Webb said the idea of a sanitation district was suggested by Tiburon directors at a joint sub committee meeting held recently.

Richardson Bay directors indicated they would prefer merger or absorption of one district by the other rather than creating a sanitation district, which would be superimposed over the two and merely create another taxing body, Pratesi said.

Under state law a sanitation district could be created without dissolution of the existing sanitary districts, thus creating a superboard which would have taxing powers and would perform functions similar to but not necessarily duplicating those now performed by the two sanitary districts.

However, the state law also requires that if a sanitation district is formed, and it serves any portion of a city, a city officer must sit on the board and if more than half of the sanitation district is in the city, city officials must make up the majority of the board.

Webb was directed to communicate the board's feelings at the next subcommittee meeting and to continue discussions on other means of consolidation.

The board also asked Director Stanley G. Bennett to contact the City of Mill Valley to see if it would join a consolidated district since a portion of the city is served by the Richardson Bay district.

Directors also agreed that the commercial area along the west side of Highway 101 should continue to be served by the district even though it recently was annexed to Mill Valley.

A letter setting forth their views will be sent to Mill Valley City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer, Pratesi said.

Balmer recently asked the board to de-annex the area but indicated the city could not, or cannot, serve the area at the present time and might request the district to continue service on a contract basis, he explained.

The board will next meet at 8 p.m. Nov. 19 at the Trestle Glen treatment plant.

Student Fund Disclosure Is Denied

Michael Goheen, member of a College of Marin student committee appointed to study the Associated Students budget, today said he was not the source of information for an article on the committee's findings reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Goheen, who said the article was otherwise accurate, declared it was an imposter that identified himself on the phone to the I-J as Goheen and released the report which the committee intended to keep secret until presented this afternoon to student government's executive council.

Goheen said the other four members of his committee denied giving the report in answer to an I-J reporter's call to student government headquarters.

County Votes To Buy Regional Library Site

Marin County yesterday agreed to buy two acres, and perhaps three, at $70,000 per acre for a branch county library in Corte Madera on Meadowsweet Drive. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

On a motion by Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, the supervisors asked the county counsel to prepare an option agreement to buy the property.

Owner Fred Sanford is asking $210,000 for the three acres with the buyer to pay the 1968-69 taxes of $4,233. The site is in wooded hills behind the Bank of America, facing Meadowsweet Drive.

The taxes will be paid two thirds by the county and one third by Corte Madera. Supervisors decided that the county would buy two acres for $140,000, and negotiate further with the Town of Corte Madera on who would pay how much for the third acre.

Both the county administrator and County Librarian Virginia Keating reported that two acres would be sufficient. Mayor Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera said the town council believes the third acre is needed to put the library in its proper setting.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

BILLBOARDS — Adopted amendments to the zoning code, requiring all nonconforming outdoor signs (mostly billboards) to be taken down after a three-year "amortization" period.

VARIANCE — Denied a variance for Jack Blumenfeld, who wanted to expand his home on Montecito Road in the Country Club Tract of San Rafael.

CABLE TV — Continued until Oct. 22 or 29 a discussion on how to improve cable television service in the county. Leland H. Jordan, attorney for Cable Television of Marin, was trying a case in court and could not attend yesterday's hearing.

MENTAL HEALTH CENTER — Authorized an outlay of $4,081 for additional equipment for the new Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital.

REED SCHOOL BONDS — Approved the sale of $270,000 in Reed Union School District bonds to Bank of America, at an interest rate of 4.99117 per cent.

SUPERIOR COURT — Transferred $40,770 from reserves for operation of Marin's fifth superior court. A total of $18,027 will be allocated to the operation of the court and $16,968 to the county clerk's office and $5,775 to the sheriff's department for related services.

MENTAL HEALTH — Submitted to the state a 1969-70 community mental health services budget of $2,591,423, of which $887,457 will be borne by federal staffing grants and the rest under a formula of 90 per cent state and 10 per cent local participation. A new state law requires early submittal of local mental health budgets.

BOOKMOBILE — Declared a 1957 county bookmobile surplus and sold it to Book Bank USA for $250 for use overseas.

Commissioner — Named Philip Economon as assistant agricultural commissioner at $829 a month, succeeding R. Allan Bullard, who was promoted to commissioner in June to succeed the late Richard T. Straw.

NEW CAREERS — Heard from Administrator Alan Bruce a criticism of the Independent-Journal news story of Monday, which reported that the director of the county's New Careers program blamed Bruce for delays. "I think it is unfortunate that on a subject as important and as exciting as this one, some people begin to fire away on distorted hearsay during the gestation stage," said Bruce. Supervisors made no comments.

PERSONNEL COMMISSION —Appointed Bruce McKenzie of San Rafael, a member of Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission, to the Marin County Personnel Commission. McKenzie succeeds Miss Margaret Lucas, who resigned last month.

LABOR-MANAGEMENT — Asked the Marin Human Rights Commission to appoint one of its members to the Marin Advisory Committee to the Bay Area Construction Opportunity Program.

Three-Way Tie In Chess Meet

Results of the Greater Redwood Empire chess open tournament in Novato were announced today by Otto Haiungs, coordinator for the two-day tournament co-sponsored last weekend by the Novato Chess Club and the Novato Chamber of Commerce.

In the expert or master class, there was a three-way tie between Roy Hoppe of Novato, and John Grefe and Steven Spencer, both of Berkeley.

The tournament in the Novato Community House attracted 83 players from Northern California, Haiungs said.

Supervisors Vote Contract For Ambulance

Marin supervisors — with cautious hopes for success — awarded a contract to Doctor's Ambulance of San Rafael yesterday for public emergency and non-emergency service in the county.

Doctor's surprise county officials and competitors last week with a bid asking the county to guarantee payment of $14.95 per patient in those cases where beneficiaries of public emergency runs fail to pay. The fee normally billed for service is $33 plus mileage.

United Ambulance joined with Novato Ambulance Service on a competitive bid of $25 per patient for unpaid emergency calls. Richard F. Angotti, president of United, and Jack D. Kinney, owner of Novato Ambulance, called Doctor's bid economical suicide.

The supervisors quickly approved the contract, however, by a 4-0 vote after the county administrator's office reported it had found Doctor's bid valid. Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen abstained on the vote, saying he still believed the county should be served by three ambulance companies.

The board expressed hope that single company service would be successful and thus end the long feud between the companies, but noted Doctor's performance would be subject to periodic review.

Besides emergency service, Doctor's also will provide transportation for mentally ill and medically indigent patients. The county will pay $24.95 per patient plus a rate of 99 cents per mile for ambulance service and $15 per patient and 50 cents per mile for "convalescent car" service.

Emergency service will be provided under the contract in all communities but Sausalito and areas of West Marin.

Kenneth M. Hale, administrator for Doctor's Amublance, said last week he would lose money on the emergency service, but expected to gain more private business through public runs.

Hale will begin exclusive service in 30 days, with the contract to last a year. He may seek higher rates at expiration of the pact.

Police Clear Out College Sit-Ins

SAN MATEO (UPI)—A group of College of San Mateo students applied sit-in tactics yesterday to back their demands for increased help for minority group students.

Police were called to the scene after about six hours and the 100 students were evicted without incident from the school administration building. There were no arrests.

The students demanded more tutors for the program—a request the college board of trustees has already rejected.

Civil Rights Group Seeks New Members

The Council for Civic Unity of the San Francisco Bay Area, a civil rights organization working in the fields of employment, housing and education since 1945, this week launched a membership drive to finance expansion of its programs.

Tax-deductible memberships are being handled by the council's headquarters, 495 Fulton Street, San Francisco.

Bolinas Harbor District Financial Report Sought

On a motion by Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, supervisors voted unanimously yesterday to ask the harbor district for the harbor district for the financial statement. Supervisors offered the services of the county auditor-controller, if the harbor district does not want to get its own accountant.

Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen went along on the vote for the financial statement but steadfastly resisted Storer's demand for a complete audit of district books over the past three years.

The supervisors want the information in three weeks because at 9 a.m. on Nov. 5, they will consider the dissolution of thee harbor district and the possibility of having the county take over the district operation.

In at least four public hearings, Storere said he tried without success to determine how much the district had spent and where, and how much consultant Norman T. Gilroy had received.

"The people have a right to know how funds are spent and how much," declared Storer.

"Doesn't the county auditor, as a matter of law, have the right to audit the books of the Bolinas Harbor District?" asked Supervisor Peter H. Behr.

A harbor district is one of two types of districts that does not require an annual financial report by the county auditor, explained Assistant Administrator John F. Barrows. Until June of 1967, the county auditor had financial reports on the district, said Barrows. "But since then, they (the harbor district) wanted a private audit."

"It's incredible to me that there is the least bit of reluctance to let the auditor go through the books," stormed Storer. "This is outrageous!"

Supervisors Peter H. Behr and William A. Gnoss agreed with Storer that a complete audit is in order.

Kettenhofen objected to a complete audit. "I don't think it's our problem to dig into past expenses," said Kettenhofen. "My only interest is in the debt we will assume."

Behr argued that if the county is to take over the debts of the district, supervisors have a right to know how the debts were incurred and what reserves are on hand.

Supervisor John F. McInnis wondered whether "it is within our prerogative" to ask the harbor district for a complete audit. He suggested the county get a "financial balance sheet" showing the bebts and reserves.

Storer's motion for a report on the district's complete financial condition then got a second from Behr and unanimous approval.

Storer reported that the harbor district's actual and prospective debt may amount to $232,298, and the district has collected $114,800 in taxes since 1956, but beyond that, he has been unable to get any information on how much and where the money is being spent.

Thomas Barfield, member of the Bolinas Harbor District board, sent a telegram to the supervisors, suggesting that Storer give an accounting of his expenses as a supervisor since he insists on getting an accounting from the harbor district.

Storer declared that supervisors' expenses are public records open to anyone who cares to investigate. "You will find that my mileage cost is less than for the previous supervisor (George Ludy) when the district was much smaller." Storer added that his phone bill averages less than $25 per month and is quite consistent with the size of his district and the various commissions on which he serves.

A 'Soul Food' Menu Approved

BERKELEY (AP) — Soul food" will be available in the Berkeley High School cafeterias starting Oct. 30 in response to a demand by the Black Students Union.

Board of education members heard that report last night from Dr. J. . Rodeheaver, director of secondary education.

Soul food consists of such items as collard greens, corn bread, black eyed peas, chitlings and hominy grits.

The report also said that in response to requests a position as black curriculum coordinator to recruit Negro teachers had been established, that interview for five black counselors had been held, and that an expert in African and soul food would work with home economists twice a week in classes.

Second Class On Weight Control

Overwhelming response to the current Weight Control Class, sponsored by the Marin County Heart Association, prompts opening a second class to start next Tuesday and to continue each Tuesday evening for the next 10 weeks.

Setting will be Ross General Hospital and instructor is Frances Dahl, nutritionist. Class time is 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Written physician approval is necessary as a 1200 calorie base diet will be used.

Instruction focuses on food preparation around the whole meal pattern, selection of foods for varied menus and learning to adapt recipes for appealing meals while holding to low calorie count. Holiday meal planning will also be featured.

Among the adaptation of recipes to low calorie is the following:

CHRISTMAS PARFAIT
(60 calories each serving)

1 envelope low calorie lime gelatin dessert
1 envelope low calorie cherry gelatin dessert
Water as required according to recipe on package
1 package dessert topping mix. (Prepared with skim milk.)

Prepare the two gelatins and pour into separate square pans to thicken. When set, cut into small cubes. Prepare topping mix and pile into parfait glasses with mixture of the two colored gelatin cubes. Top with small dab of topping mix and garnish with half of a maraschino cherry. (Makes six generous servings)

Classes are open to both men and women. Anticipated weight loss based on previous class results is 1½ pounds per week. Patients will weigh in and chart progress during the 10 week course.

Registration can be made with Marin County Heart Association, or during opening class Tuesday, Ross General Hospital at 7:30 p.m.

Hush Puppies

Enjoy hush puppies with fish or chicken dinners. Sift together 1½ cups of enriched corn meal, ½ cup of sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon each of soda, baking powder and salt. Stir in 1 small onion, finely chopped. Add 1 beaten egg and 1 cup of buttermilk. Stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Drop batter by teaspoonfuls into preheated 375-degree deep fat. Cook until golden brown. Fry only a few at a time to prevent fat temperature from dropping too low. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes 2 dozen.

Some Desert Ideas For Versatile Persimmons

With the coming of fall the persimmon trees are bearing heavily in Marin gardens. Aside from serving them cored and peeled on crisp lettuce with French dressing for a dinner salad, they can be used in desserts as well.

PERSIMMON ICE CREAM

6 or 7 very ripe persimmons
2 cups cream
1 egg yolk
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar and
¾ cup water, boiled together to a syrup which will string.
Juice of 1 lemon or 2 limes

Peel and remove stem and core of persimmons and press through coarse sieve with lemon or lime juice and salt.

Heat cream in double boiler and pour over beaten egg yolk, then return to double boiler and cook, stirring until smooth. Cool and add syrup, which has been cooled, and put mixture into refrigerator tray. Beat twice during freezing. Add persimmons just before last beating.

PERSIMMON FRAPPE

Take 6 or 7 very ripe persimmons, peel and mash through colander. Sweeten to taste; add ½ cup sherry and pack in ice for 1½ to 2 hours (not in refrigerator tray). It should not be frozen stiff and should be stirred once or twice. Serve in glasses.

Simmer Chicken And Squash For Country-Style Cooking

Chicken prepared country style has the color and aroma you experience in provincial restaurants scattered throughout the French and Italian countryside. American country-style cooking blends the heritage of old-world recipes with the convenience foods of today.

Italian and French provincial cooks combine meat and vegetables in one process and simmer them in a rich tomato sauce. In our variation chicken and squash are simmered in canned tomato sauce with Italian seasonings and aged Romano cheese.

Our recipe uses zucchini and crookneck squashes but others could be substituted.

Serve the budget-wise Country Kitchen Chicken piled high on a heated platter. Pour the rich sauce over all an border with hot buttered noodles, sprinkled with fresh snipped parsley for garnish.

COUNTRY KITCHEN CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer (2½ to 3 lbs.), cut up
¼ cup pure vegetable oil
1 large onion, thinly sliced
2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce with cheese
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
4 medium summer squash, cut up (we used 2 zucchini, quartered lengthwise, and 2 yellow crookneck, sliced)
4 ounces wide noodles, cooked and drained. Snipped fresh parsley

In large heavy skillet brown chicken in oil; add onion and cook until transparent. Pour off fat. Add tomato sauce with cheese, bay leaf, salt and pepper; simmer, covered, 30 minutes. Add squash; simmer, covered 15 to 20 minutes more, or until chicken and vegetables are tender. Remove bay leaf. Heap chicken and vegetables on heated serving platter; pour sauce over all. Border with hot noodles and sprinkle with parsley. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Dish Up Toffee Souffle Parfaits For Fall Parties

Autumn is an exciting social time. Club luncheons. Mixers. Buffet dinners after the homecoming game. New faces. Adventures. Plan refreshments in the same swinging spirit. Here's an easy-entertaining, prepare-in-advance parfait that makes its own friends.

TOFFEE SOUFFLE PARFAITS

1½ cups chopped chocolate covered English toffee candy bars (6 1⅛ ounce bars)
¼ cup water
1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
2 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon rum extract
½ cup whipping cream, whipped

Combine 1 cup of the chopped candy and water in small saucepan. Place over low heat and cook slowly, stirring constantly, until most of the toffee candy is melted, 6 to 8 minutes. Cool. Combine gelatin, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt, milk and egg yolks; cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon. Stir in remaining ½ cup chopped toffee, vanilla and rum extract. Chill until mixture begins to set. Beat egg whites until they hold soft peaks. Gradually add remaining sugar and continue beating until stiff and glossy. Fold into gelatin mixture. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon alternate layers of gelatin mixture and sauce into parfait glasses or dessert dishes. Chill. Yield: 6 servings.

Serve Peas French Style

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

So to spur you on, here's a delightful way of pureeing green peas to serve with meat, poultry or fish. The French serve the puree as is, spooned onto dinner plates along with the main course. But a good American cook we know likes to fill tart shells with the puree for easy service at a buffet; this may appeal to you.

If you have a blender this is a wonderfully easy dish to prepare. You can put it together at the last minute, or you can do the blending ahead of time and heat just before serving.

Canned green peas are great to have on the pantry shelf. So many things you can do with them — and all at the last minute. Here are several suggestions:

Add the drained peas to cream sauce along with some cut-up leftover baked ham. Serve in patty shells — the puff-paste kind that comes frozen and needs only to be baked. Makes an elegant luncheon or Sunday-night supper dish.

Add the peas to canned marinara sauce and serve over cooked elbow macaroni. Fine to accompany meat or poultry; all you'll have to add to this main course is a crisp salad.

Heat the peas in their liquid along with some diced raw celery, then drain. Add a good dollop of butter and seasonings to taste. The celery will be crip and add good texture contrast to the peas.

FRENCH PEA PUREE

1 can (17 ounces) sweet peas
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons light cream
¼ teaspoon salt
White pepper to taste
½ teaspoon crushed basil
Unsweetened baked tart shells, if deired
Commercial sour cream, if desired

Turn the peas into a strainer to drain thoroughly.

Puree the peas in an electric blender and turn into a small saucepan; add the butter, cream, salt, pepper and basil.

Over low heat, stirring often, heat until very hot.

Serve as is; or spoon into tart shells and, if you like, top with sour cream.

Makes 1⅓ cups, enough for 4 servings as is or spooned into four 3-inch baked tart shells. Double recipe if you like, pureeing one can of drained peas at a time.

One Dish Meal

Yam sausage skillet supper is a one dish meal. Peel 4 medium-sized raw yams and slice about ⅛ inch thick. Brown 1 pound of link sausages on all sides in a large skillet. Pour off droppings. Arrange yam slices, 2 medium-sized onions, thinly sliced, and 2 green peppers, seeded and cut into thin strips, in skillet with sausage. Cover tightly and cook over low heat about 20 minutes, turning sausage and vegetables occasionally. Season to taste with salt. Makes about 4 servings.

POSING WITH the gaily colored giraffe that will be part of an art exhibit especially arranged for the Sausalito house tour are two of the hostesses who will be modeling, from left, Mesdames Donald Leary and James Neely. The exhibit will be in this setting at the home of the Theodore Bernardis, where the tour will end with a champagne reception.

THE DUPLEX of John McCrary and interior designer Gene Burkett, which will be shown on the house tour, is in contemporary style with Oriental touches. Sausalito Nursery School member Mrs. Stuart Miller during a preview tour stopped in the living room to admire "Nama," (little Chinese bowl) the little Lhasa Apsos dog that is as decorative as some of the furnishings.

IN A PREVIEW of homes on the house tour two Sausalito Nursery School members examine the work of Bea Bernardi, noted weaver whose work will be displayed. Behind Mrs. James Neely, left, is "Winter," one of Mrs. Bernardi's prize-winning tapestries on the four seasons inspired by Cathedral Mountain in Death Valley. Standing by the loom is Mrs. Claude Bravermann. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

Homes From Ferry Boat To Modern Duplex Set For Tour

This year's Sausalito house tour on Oct. 23 will span the length of the town from Alan Watt's ferry boat home at Gate Five to the contemporary duplex of John McCrary and Gene Burkett on the crest of the south hill.

Also included in the tour is the apartment of the Robert Rosenbergs, the Brookner Brady carriage house and the spacious hill home of the Harold Rosenblums.

The tour, sponsored by the Sausalito Nursery School, will end with an art exhibit and champagne reception in the spacious home and patio of the Theodore Bernardis. Bea Bernardi, a well known weaver, will be displaying some of her tapestries plus work of almost a dozen of Marin County's best known artists.

Tours will leave by shuttle bus at 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. from the Sausalito pharmacy across from Vina del Mar park and will return there after the reception.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the Sausalito Nursery School.

An example of gingerbread Gothic, the Bradys' home was built in 1870 as a carriage house. By the mid '70s it had become a dwelling, and a fragment of newspaper found between the walls indicates the changes were made around 1881. Abut the turn of the century architect Loring Rixford made further modifications.

Of special interest in the living room is the Steinway piano, circa 1870, which came around the Horn. And the living room desk and firescreen made by Col. Brady's father.

Fun is the key word for the Rosenbergs' apartment in the Ardilla Towers. Of special note is the coffee table—garnered from the old Mendocino post office.

The contemporary duplex of John McCrary and Gene Burkett was designed by architect Doug Coleman and built last year by Warren Christensen. The furnishings, mostly contemporary with oriental touches, have been done by interior designer Burkett himself, and his paintings and prints are used throughout.

Surrounded by gardens full of unusual plants, the Rosenblum home radiates warmth. Of note in the kitchen are the Franklin stove and indoor barbecue, and in the living room are an original Matisse and a tall Italian tulip vase.

Exciting to experience from every angle, the home of the Theodore Bernadris was designed six years ago by Bernardi, as were many of the furnishings. Bea Bernardi, created the fabrics for some of the furniture as well as prize-winning tapestries.

Artists, whose works will be on display there, are Helen Rich, Eleanor Bender, Gwen Stone, Frank Milner, Maggie Hazel Rosen, Leah Schwartz, Rex Gross, Sherl Williams, Gordon Williams, Susan Gomberg and Bonnie Carriage.

No dwelling more descriptive of Alan Watts, the authority on oriental philosophy, could be imagined that the "Vallejo," the 89-year-old ferry-houseboat shared by Watts and artist Jean Varda.

This old steel-hulled side wheeler was bought by Gerald Onslo-Ford, who now lives in Inverness but once had his studio there. The Wattses moved there in 1961. Of note are two variegated lumber scrap walls, Varda collages and Chinese embroideries.

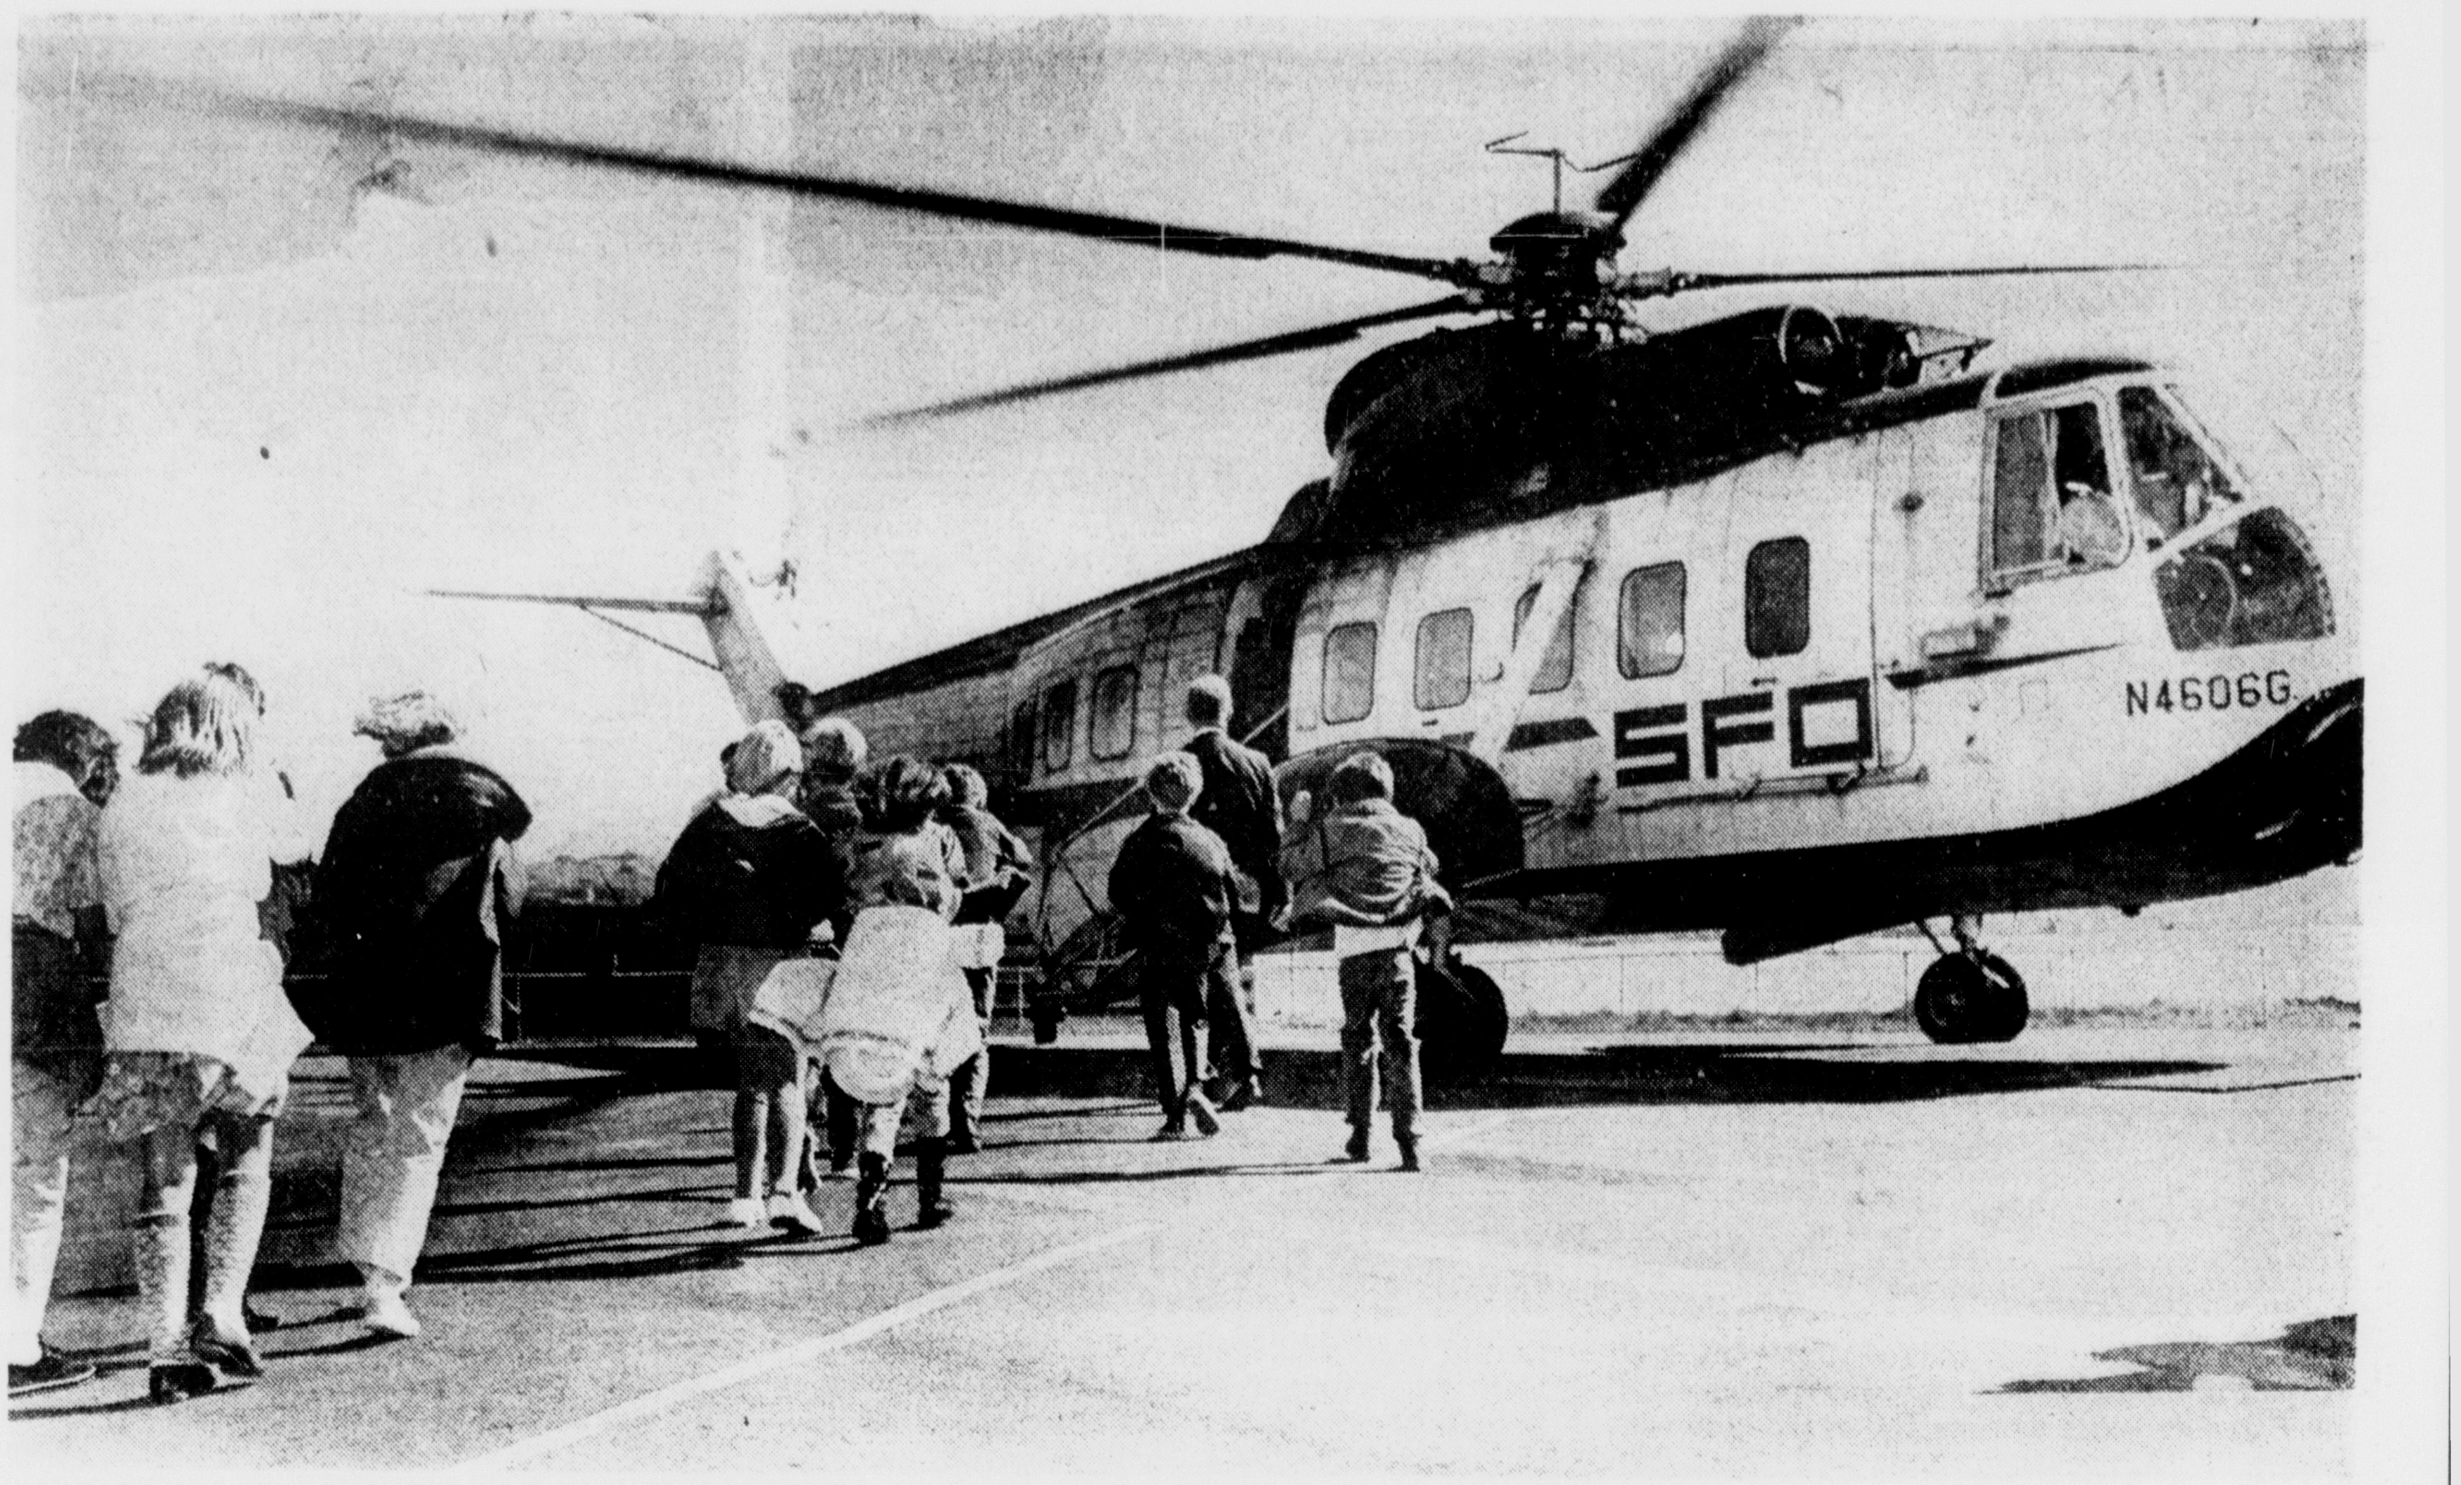
'TICKET PLEASE,' says Short School third grader Victor Ybanez of San Rafael to agent Jon Geiger at the Richardson Bay heliport, ready for the P-TA sponsored flight to San Francisco International Airport by helicopter. The 14 youngsters entered the ticket office by twos and each obtained their own ticket. The P-TA paid for the field trip in connection with the class's study of the Bay Area in their social science program. The second half of the class made the flight and tour today.



THEY'RE UP, UP AND AWAY

Clear and sunny, yesterday and today were especially bright days for two groups of third graders from Short School in San Rafael. Thanks to the school's Parent-Teacher Association, many took their first flight—in a helicopter over the bay to San Francisco International Airport. Here they race for the craft, eager to board and be off. Accompanied by Short Principal Webb Smith and P-TA member Mrs. George Kallman, the first group of 14 pupils took off yesterday in the chopper from Richardson Bay heliport, toured San Francisco International Airport where they had lunch and inspected a jetliner, and flew home to Marin. Today the second group made the tour, with teacher Sandra Malstrom and P-TA president Mrs. D. K. Sherwood. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

IN EAST AFRICA

A Taste Of Real Africa

Seventh in a series on a return trip to East Africa.

By BARBARA HOSMER

"Spectacular scenery on the north road winding over the mountain," we were promised while traveling the main route from Lake Victoria toward Mt. Elgon, a 14,000 foot extinct volcano lying just inside Uganda near the Kenya border.

But why muse about a future that's yet several hours off when the present holds more immediate attractions? — people performing amazing balancing acts riding bicycles with baskets of sweet potatoes and melons on their heads and giant bunches of bananas lashed on behind, small half-naked boys chasing hoops with sticks in the yard while their mother sits in the doorway tending the baby on her lap, a modern glass and concrete high school built with U.S. funds, men and women hoeing weeds in the cassava fields, elders gossiping in an open-sided rest hut while chickens strut past. . .

SUDDENLY IN front a small procession of ten or 15 boys and their elders comes dancing down the center of the road in a rhythmic clatter, shaking "bells" of shell tied to their wrists and ankles and waving stalks of corn.

"They are having circumcision rite," explains Jimmy, the Baganda driver, slowing while the men, women and teen-agers shuffle past on their way to where the ceremony will be held. The boys, about 15 or 16, shake magnificent headdresses of long white fur from the Colobus monkey and rattle their anklets, chest bands of shell and strings of beads as they jog along in the happy celebration that will last several days and finally admit them to manhood.

Many times in the north central hill country of Kenya and Uganda we were to meet such processions of the tribes who each August follow their ancient tradition which entirely changes the young men's tribal status. Other Ugandans, from different tribes, were to scoff at such a primitive practice, however.

A stop on the main street of Mbale, Uganda's third largest, set in the foothills for food supplies to provision us for the upcoming few days on the remote Uganda-Sudan border. The drivers Kintu and Jimmy stowed the boxes in the twin vehicles and pulled away from the last main town until Kitale, just over the Kenya boundary to the east.

Gardens were exhuberant with bougainvillea and hibiscus along the road but soon gave way to banana groves and small fields of maize and millet, worked largely by hand. Forests of uniformly small trees and then stands of larger ones showed where the Uganda government is carrying on a reforestation project near the foot of the mountain, whose base is some 50 miles across.

THE ROAD BECAME deep red dirt as the vehicles began to climb through the green farmlands on the lower slopes. The sun emphasized the brilliance of the verdant growth of shrubs and banana trees along the way, but the road was damp from earlier rains, and billowy giant clouds with near black edges hovered overhead in a threatening way in the tropical air.

The road twisted into hairpins and narrowed so that a vehicle could barely pass. The farms became terraces with clusters of one-room straw huts perched at their edges. Women in wild red, yellow and green printed wraparounds carried baskets of produce on their heads and hoes in hands as they moved along the road from the fields. A tiny head invariably poked out of the shawl on her back as mother worked. The small boys, dressed in khaki cotton shorts, tended the goats with long staffs along the mountain sides.

Streams dropped away into ravines where vines wound from the trees and blossoms dotted the foliage. Vistas from the mountain ranged across green lowlands and farther peaks and waterfalls in a breathtaking panorama of growing abundance, supported by the double rainy season of April-May and August-September.

The light across the hills grew dramatic as the downpour began. Soon the road was oozy and the sharp twists treacherous. Africans hidden from the downpour under gigantic green leaves passed like fugitives from a floating garden.

Villagers huddled under tin roof overhangs across the road as we stopped to have our coffee and sandwiches in a vacant resthouse while sheets of warm water poured down on the thatching overhead.

The going was slow as the road grew sloppier in the deluge. Both vehicles began to slide as they twisted higher and higher up the mountain. But the spectacular scenery blotted out our apprehension even as the going got rougher. From the tiniest wayside blossom to the broad sweep of the slopes and waterfalls the picture was one of incredible beauty, all washed with a wierd light playing through the mountains of clouds.

Tiny clusters of straw huts were set along the slopes on either side of the road and their families carried on their farming and goat tending throughout the on-again-off-again tropical squalls. The bright pink and yellow garments of the women stood out sharply against the green of the newly-washed grasses, and groves of banana and mango trees, while far away on the ridges cloud shadows turned the forests a deep emerald.

It was Saturday afternoon in an African village — a happy time for beer-drinking, cock fights, gossip and dancing, even on this remote 7,000 foot mountain slope.

Some 15 men and women were seated in a circle, each sucking from a four foot stalk straw whose end was stuck into a community calabash of pombe, the potent beer that Africans brew from corn and millet. They raised smiling black faces with reddened eyes as an older man rose and welcomed us, through Jimmy's interpretation. The village chief then invited us to look around the gathering. Two separate circles of pombe drinkers went on happily sucking up the brownish, grainy brew while a few women tended the foods barbecuing over several fires of smoking coals. The elders talked and youngsters played among the chickens.

The sun shone faintly through the smoke rising from the fires and as we left we had no doubt that the celebration would yet go on for several hours.

Farther on we were to pass smaller, but similar village gatherings with their rings of pombe drinkers. Obviously all work had stopped for the Elgon farmers, and traditional Saturday party time was on.

MORE SLOW MILES, sliding back and forth on the all-treacherous road of mud. Suddenly another village appeared, with a line of young tribesmen dancing to a clatter of shell beads and exhuberantly throwing their heads around to flash the long white fur of their headdresses. Their families were gathered around them, and they danced the few yards up the hill to greet us as we slowed.

Then on again along wildly verdant mountainsides and through repeated cloudbursts. Finally a car ahead. Jimmy stops to let it pass and talk about road conditions with the driver.

"It's very, very bad. No, the road is not closed," says the rain-soaked blonde in British accents and pulls away. She is anxious to push on to Mbale before nightfall.

"Have to push," says Jimmy, resigned. We slog out into deep mud and begin to shove from the rear. Engine heat and exhaust from the rear-placed engine fill the lungs. Wheels spin and the rear corner slips into the ditch. A unison push as our feet slip back in the slick. Again, and the bus inches forward, tires skimming, and races drunkenly to a more level stopping point.

Rain beats down and the light is fading, but the air is mild.

"KINTU IS stuck," remarks Jimmy when the second bus fails to show in a few minutes. Out again and down the hills. Bus end in a ditch, tilted. Jimmy drives while all push. Push again. Straighten up and pant in the thin air of the high altitude.

A band of young Africans appears out of the rain, curious. They laugh and stand there when asked to help push, but finally the older boys join in, and then little ones too, staring at our pale faces in curiosity all the while.

Push, push again, and spin away for a few yards until the next curve or slight rise of the road sends the car sliding to a halt against a bank or in a ditch.

Two cars, no traction, sheets of water, deeper mud. One to drive, seven to push; one rope, a few willing tribesmen along the way. One bus freed; go help the other.

HOURS PASS but few miles. It's inky dark now. Headlights only. Push, jump in the ditch before the bus slides back on you. Mud from the waist and feet round clods. The rope, now. From the front bumper we pull like Mississippi bargemen. Haul more to the right so it won't slide crossways of the road.

Lights shone faintly along the way from African huts — just over the banks, but people feared to come out to help in the nighttime. Just one young, brave man slogged along with us for several agonizing miles.

We snatched a few soft buns

Poltergeists Are Blamed For Damage From Pump Vibrations

DEAR HELEN:

I have been reading with interest the letters, inspired by "Ghost's Host," concerning poltergeists.

We had an experience with these so-called invaders. The most probably explanation was that bottles slid off tables, collided with other objects, etc., because of vibrations from a large diesel-driven water pump three-quarters of a mile away. But word got around, and here is where the unhappiness started.

Newspaper reporters and a major national picture magazine irresponsibly linked the "poltergeist" to the pre-teen family member. You probably remember the great amount of copy devoted to the boy who made things break just by "being there."

Lives were disrupted and the small son suffered considerable social discomfort through teasing and avid questioning.

We all know that the close passage of a very large truck will vibrate a house enough to cause dishes to rattle. But it is not thought weird because the sound of the truck is obvious. The source is not hidden.

We also know that mechanical vibrations can travel and can even be focused so that the result is unusual. The snap of a bull whip is an example of a mechanical wave in the whip which focuses on the tip to produce a very energetic sound and whip action.

In the instance mentioned above, the house and pump site were probably linked by the wet sand in an oak creek bed. For several months, in very cold weather, at seven in the morning when the faulty diesel pump was turned on to boost local water pressure, small objects in the house would leap and shake, sometimes crashing to the floor. Another home, half-way between the pump and the "haunted house" suffered repeated broken front door glass, and repeated failure of light bulbs in certain sockets.

Of course, evidence is unclear, because the temperature and moisture content of the linking stream bed kept changing. The water company did not identify the faulty pump as the cause, but the trouble stopped about the time the pump was repaired!

There are experts who trace down these "ghosts" —to very human causes. "Ghost's Host" should consult one. — C. A. Z.

DEAR C:

Now we know! And another fascinating ghost yarn exploded in a burst of facts. Thanks for bringing us up to date on a story which I always considered unfinished. I'm so very glad the boy hasn't been plagued with a poltergeist all these years!—H.

DEAR HELEN:

My mother and father are divorced and both are remarried. My stepfather will be giving me away at my wedding, though my father will also attend.

Here's the problem. My stepfather wants to invite his aunts and uncles whom I've never met, in addition to his parents. He's willing to stand the added expense. My blood-related relatives and the groom's relatives are all invited, but wouldn't it be too much to bring in a third set? — C. C.

DEAR C:

Your stepfather is acting in the capacity of a real father when he gives the bride away. Therefore I think his relatives should receive invitations. Don't risk a rift in the family by excluding them!—H.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL RAISANEN

Raisanen-Dustman Wed At San Anselmo Rite

Dorinda Dustman and Paul Raisanen were united in marriage at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo on Saturday.

Dorinda, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Dustman of Novato, was attended by Pat Keena of Novato as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Pat Miller of Studio City, Pat Edelman of San Francisco, Linda Faimali of New York City and Rene Cameto of Oakland.

Gary Granskog of Chico was best man for the bridegroom, and ushers were Jim Raisanen, John Dustman, Steve Benbo of Chico and Richard Pyorre of Coupleville, Wash.

The couple went on a wedding trip to San Francisco following a reception at the Meadow Club in Fairfax. They will reside in Mendocino.

The bride was graduated from Novato High School, College of Marin and Chico State College. She received a B.A. degree in history and was a stewardess for Eastern Airlines. She is a third grade teacher in Fort Bragg. John Dustman of Chico is her brother, and Mrs. John Moller of San Leandro is their grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Raisanen of Fort Bragg are the bridegroom's parents. He was graduated from Fort Bragg High School and attended the University of the Pacific in Stockton and the University of Helsinki in Finland. He was graduated from Chico State College and is a fifth grade teacher with the Mendocino Unified Schools. Jim Raisanen of Fort Bragg is his brother.

IN EAST AFRICA—

from the supply box to munch for dinner.

Going again like a berserk roller coaster skidding from side to side across the muddy track and hanging on hard to the passenger handrails. How much yardage this time before our dizzying run comes to a halt?

The rear end skittered as if on ice and made a wild arc into the bank. Out of the bus again re-dampening soggy clothes to inch the vehicles on.

"No landrovers around here to pull anybody out," Jimmy said, wiping the water off his face. "We can't stay here all night. We go on to Kitale."

Kitale? There was no such place in this wet ink-black night. Back into the mud-smeared interior of the bus and hang on, while Jimmy sings a comic song in Swahili and guns and gears the craft to keep it pointed forward and moving.

Lights from the second bus follow, falter, and follow again as Kintu inches over the mountain behind. Finally on the down slopes, twisting and skidding perilously for long hours through deep forests on the east side of the equatorial mountain. Nearing midnight on a Saturday night, nobody was at the border station as we crossed into Kenya.

"I'm going to a night club still tonight," he joked as the buses pulled to a stop in front of the deserted hotel.

We shed the twin clumps of mud that were our shoes and fell bare-footed out of the cars. Slogging through the gutter and up the walk, we stood dumbly in the light at the hotel desk, dripping. The lobby was filled with our muddy tracks.

"Now you really see Africa," Jimmy remarks. "You see how it can be, how it is for us to live here."

AFTER MIDNIGHT as we washed away hunks of mud in the hot water, vivid memories of the village parties and dancers and the spectacular vegetation and vistas of their mountain home shone through the muddy adventure.

Wax Benefits

Wax benefits floors by reducing wear, imparting gloss, easing soil removal and improving stain resistance.

ON THE AGENDA

Hospital Volunteers Schedule Annual Novato Harvest Ball

The seventh annual Harvest Ball of the Novato Hospital Volunteer Service will be held on Saturday at the Marin Country Club in Novato.

Invitations have been mailed for the ball and cocktails will begin at 7 p.m., dinner at 8:30, followed by dancing.

Mrs. Willoth Stenz is ball chairman and her committee chairmen are Mesdames Noel Weaver, Robert L. Weber, James Berthinier, Louis Ondrasek, and Jerry B. Evans, Mrs. Jack Sparrow is reservations chairman.

The ball is the only fund raising event sponsored by the Novato Hospital Volunteer Service. Proceeds from previous balls have purchased many patient aids in use at the hospital including a defibrillator, a heart monitoring machine and transistor radios. All are used by patients at no expense to them.

MARINITES WILL have a chance to participate in the annual Ski Swap and benefit the Boyd Marin Museum of Science when the Ross and Greenbrae guilds of the museum present a skiers event Saturday. The ski swap gives families an opportunity to sell and buy used equipment for the upcoming winter. A small admission and registration fee is charged. The seller registers each item to be sold at his own price, explains chairman Mrs. Webster Otis of Ross. Guild members will assist buyers in finding boots, poles, skis, parkas or whatever they need. Bay Area merchants will also display latest ski equipment during the day.

The sale will be held at J and B Ford service department, 5860 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

CORINTHIAN YACHT Club will honor Rear Admiral C. R. Bender, commander of the 12th Coast Guard district, and members of his staff at luncheon at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The occasion is the Coast Guard Day hosted by the Tiburon Club each fall. During the day a demonstration of air-sea rescue will be given, the Coast Guard band will give a program and a Coast Guard cutter will be on display.

Robert Lowry is chairman. George Berticevich and Sidney L. Chapin, assistants.

THE LATEST fall fashions will be presented by The Novato Junior Women's Club when members present their "Cruising with Fashions" from 7 to 9 p.m., Friday in the showroom of Ted Schuman Chevrolet in Novato.

Members will model the fashions informally as they walk throughout the audience. Wine and cheese tasting will also be offered.

Mrs. W. Michael Anthony and Mrs. Gordon Weesner are co-chairmen assisted by Mrs. Paul E. Lundberg, and Mrs. James Reis.

Modeling the fashions are Mesdames Donald Babcock, Gordon Briggs, Ralph Buckwalter, Gerald Foster, Ronald Lipe, Garry Ramser, James Reis, David Rhodes, Vernon Robertson and Douglas Scott. Mrs. Alan Chisholm will be commentator.

Proceeds from the fashion show will benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

THE CHURCH of Our Saviour's Young Wives Group will meet Friday at 9:30 a.m. at the Fireside Room of the church in Mill Valley. Mrs. Jean Sternburg of the Family Service League will speak on marital relations. Case histories will be presented and there will be an opportunity to ask questions.

NOVATO NURSES will host the meeting of the California Nurses Association District 28 at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novato.

Mrs. Dorothy Gunnell, University of California School of Nursing graduate division adviser, will be the speaker. Her topic will be "Furthering Your Education."

Mrs. Lauren Elkin and Mrs. Michael Abraham are co-chairmen.

A SIX-WEEK workshop in publications and publicity begins at Redwood High School in Larkspur tonight at 7:30. Ida Geary, writer and editor, will conduct the course which is specially designed for newsletter editors and press chairmen of clubs.

THE MEMBERSHIP drive to support the Marin Symphony Guild programs is underway, announces Mrs. John A. Clements of Tiburon, president.

The guild is the governing and fund-raising arm for Marin musical activities including the Marin Symphony Orchestra, Marin Youth Orchestra and Workshop for Strings and previews presented before each of the programs.

On the guild board of directors are Mrs. John A. Lesoine of Ross, vice president; Leonard C. Asiano of Mill Valley, treasurer; and Mrs. Leslie J. Airth of Tiburon, executive secretary.

Key Play Overlooked By Team In Saving A Six-Spade Slam

Playing today's hand in a recent team match the two declarers found different ways to go down at six spades. Each declarer had an even chance, but both overlooked a play that would boost the odds to 2 to 1 in his favor.

HAD TO RUFF

The first declarer took the ace of hearts, drew three rounds of trumps, cashed the king of clubs and lost a finesse to the queen of clubs. Back came a heart, and South had to ruff with his last trump.

Now dummy had two losing hearts and one losing diamond, and South could discard only two of them on his extra clubs. Down one.

The second declarer took the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart, led a club to the king and ruffed a second heart. Then he drew trumps and tried the club finesse. West won with the queen of clubs and cashed a heart trick. Likewise down one.

PLAY FOR BREAK

After taking the ace of hearts and ruffing a heart South should lead a low club and should play a low club from dummy.

West wins with the eight of clubs and returns a trump (as good a defense as any). Dummy's queen of spades wins, and South ruffs another heart. South cashes the ace of spades, leads a club to the king and draws a third round of trumps.

CLUB TO ACE

Now South leads a club to the ace, capturing the queen, and runs his last two clubs. Dummy has only one losing heart and one losing diamond, and both of those losers go on South's extra clubs. The ace of diamonds and dummy's last trump take the rest of the tricks.

South must develop four club tricks and should give up one trick in the suit while he still has control of the play. The odds are better than 2 to 1 that the five missing clubs will break 3-2.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ K Q 7 6
♥ A 6 4 3
♦ K 5 2.
♣ 10 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass or bid one spade.

This borderline decision depends on your temperament and the nature of your partner. Most experts would pass this hand, but would open it if there were a sprinkling of tens and nines in spades and hearts.

Employees Guard Park Water Weed

SURREY, England (UPI)—Reigate Park Employees are guarding a lake stocked with a water weed called olodea crispa.

Persons have been stealing the weed after nightfall and selling it for a tidy profit. Elodea crispa is used to oxygenate aquariums.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 16, the 290th day of 1968 with 76 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1859, abolitionist John Brown staged a raid on Harper's Ferry, Va. He seized a hotel, arsenal, firehouse and 30 townspeople. He was captured two days later.

In 1934, Chinese Communists began their long march to the northwest where they established headquarters and mapped strategy against the Nationalist government (which they overthrew in 1949).

In 1959, U.S. Army Chief of Staff, George Marshall, died.

A thought for the day: Roman Emperor Marcus Aurelius, said: "Receive wealth or position with arrogance and be ready to let it go."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. SEASON TO OPEN FRIDAY

"Mother Courage," Berthold Brecht's story of a woman who views war as being "good for business," will open the College of Marin drama season at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the college theater. Elizabeth Huddle (center, seated) stars as the mother of Swiss Cheese, played by Bruce Webster of Forest Knolls (left); Kattrin, played by Corrinne Atkinson of San Rafael, and Elif, played by Mark Rasmussen of Lagunitas. The performance will be repeated at 8:30 p.m. Saturday and Oct. 23 to 26. (Photo by Roger Bockrath)

Lynch Files Auto Repair Fraud Suit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch filed a lawsuit today seeking to stop operations of "an allegedly fraudulent automobile transmission repair scheme" in Sacramento.

Lynch's suit asked the Sacramento Superior Court for an injunction blocking operations of George E. Applegate's Bonded Transmission Centers. The attorney general also sought civil penalties for alleged false or misleading advertising and a minimum of $25,000 as damages.

The company adverised "car transmission repair at 'special' prices when the sole purpose is to coerce and trick customers into accepting greater repairs while the automatic transmission of the customer's auto is disassembled and the parts spread around his feet," Lynch said.

He added that if customers refuse the repairs, "they are forced to tow their cars . . . with the disassembled transmission in a box in the trunk."

Lynch also said the company used second-hand "often worn out parts."

He said the company still "charged their customers for performing these transmission repair 'specials'" but failed to perform them when they were "unable to trick their customers into agreeing to the greater transmission repairs."

Firearms Check

MANILA (UPI)—The Constabulary reports there are 380,000 registered firearms in the Philippines, a country with 34 million population. That's a ratio of about one firearm for every 89 Filipinos.

Kosygin Visits Prague; Occupation Pact Seen

PRAGUE (UPI)—A Soviet delegation headed by Premier Alexei N. Kosygin flew in from Moscow today and Radio Prague said they would sign an agreement providing for the "temporary" stationing of Soviet troops on Czechoslovak soil.

The Soviet delegation arrived only a few hours after the return from Moscow of Czechoslovak Premiere Oldrich Cernik from two days of what was described as "extremely hard" negotiations with the Soviets over the treaty which would legalize the presence of foreign Communist troops here.

Prague Radio said Kosygin and his party were met at the airport by Cernik, parliament leader Josef Smrkovsky, Slovak party leader Gustav Husak and "other representatives."

The radio made no mention of Communist Party First Secretary Alexander Dubcek, whose experiment in democracy resulted in the Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia on Aug. 21.

Dubcek also was not listed among those who greeted Cernik at Prague airport on his arrival from Moscow earlier in the day.

(In Budapest, Hungarian Prime Minister Jenoe Fock told Parliament that "the larger part of the Soviet troops and the units of the four other Socialist countries can be withdrawn from Czechoslovakia shortly."

The Communist Party newspaper Rude Pravo said the Moscow talks attempted to remove "the layer of distrust" between Moscow and Prague,

In Moscow, east European sources said the representatives of the other four Warsaw Pact nations that invaded Czechoslovakia may also visit Prague for the signing of the treaty — East Germany, Bulgaria, Poland and Hungary.

The pact was expected to call for two or three Russian divisions to remain in Czechoslovakia. The treaty would open the way for the withdrawal soon of most of the estimated 235,000 occupation troops, sources said.

The sources said there was little disagreement on this. Money was the problem.

Reliable sources said disagreement came over Czechoslovak demands the occupation forces pay for damage done to roads, fields and buildings by the invaders. The sources said both sides disagreed also on who would foot the bill for the Soviet troops remaining in Czechoslovakia.

Both sides agreed to hand the money questions to lesser ranking experts, the sources said.

Lower Rates Cut Revenue By $25,000

North Marin County Water District revenues last fiscal year dropped to $250,704 from $275,704 the previous year as a result of reduced water rates, according to the district's annual report.

The report received by the district board at last night's meeting, according to board secretary Eugene Churchill, said the $25,000 revenue drop represented an average saving of about $2 for the district's approximately 8,000 customers.

The report indicated an average balance of $940,000 throughout the year, Churchill said.

The North Marin County District Board also:

WATER — Received a report that water consumption in September was 16.3 per cent more this year than last because of the hot, dry month. The district's consumption was 183.4 million gallons compared to 157.7 million gallons in September 1967.

FIRE DISTRICT — Approved a $5,630 contract with the Novato Fire District for installation of fire hydrants and mains to the fire district's new site on Atherton Avenue.

MOBILE HOMES — Approved a construction agreement with Paul Goldstone of Oakland for Los Robles Mobile Home Park on Bel Marin Keys Boulevard.

REGULATIONS — Approved regulations for the use of the land around Stafford Lake for recreational purposes. They are the same as used by the Novato Parks and Recreation Department during the two years it was in charge of the property, he said.

Sea Bottom May Help Clean Air

NEW YORK (AP) — Mobil Corp. scientists reported today they have enlisted materials from the ocean floor in the fight to control air pollution.

They said so-called manganese nodules, found widely in the Pacific Ocean, are effective catalysts for converting combustible materials in automotive emissions to harmless water and carbon dioxide.

Currently, they said, the mining of manganese nodules from the ocean depths is too expensive.

The report was made at a Mobil-sponsored research symposium in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Brown Sees McCarthy As Vital To Humphrey

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former Gov. Edmund G. Brown said today Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy probably holds the key to the Democratic national ticket's chances of winning California on Nov. 5.

"If he came out with a first class speech — not just an indifferent one — it could make the difference between winning and losing in California," Brown told a Capitol news conference.

The lack of an endorsement from McCarthy probably is hurting Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic presidential nominee, more in California than anything else, he said.

Asked if he thought Humphrey could defeat Richard M. Nixon without strong backing from McCarthy, Brown said, "It would be awfully tough, but I still think he can do it."

Brown, speaking from the rostrum where he held dozens of news conferences as governor, said he will campaign throughout California and in several western states for the Humphrey-Muskie ticket between now and election time.

Brown said Nixon, the man he beat for governor in 1962, "seems to be a warmer human being" in this campaign than in the past when he was "designated as slick, tricky and evasive."

But he said Nixon has been "put into a shell . . . wrapped in cellophane" since the national conventions and has failed to make known his positions on such issues as disarmament and the war in Vietnam.

At first Nixon seemed to be a hawk on the war but "now he's being quiet about it," Brown said.

Kansas City Goes For Youth, Seattle For 'Names'

BOSTON (UPI)—They paid their money, $5.25 million apiece, and they took their choice. Neither the Kansas City Royals nor the Seattle Pilots expect to become the butt of Met-type jokes.

The two brand new American League franchises were stocked with rosters of 30 players each yesterday. They paid the existing clubs $175,000 for each selection in a day-long expansion draft. And both managements came away poorer but insistent they had gotten what they wanted.

Kansas City went solidly for youth, some tried, most not. Seattle went more for "name" players and, as a result, acquired a much older collection of veterans.

The Royals were admittedly looking ahead to "1970, 1971 and 1972" according to General Manager Cedric Tallis. They figure that pitchers Roger Nelson, 24, Steve Jone, 27 Jon Warden, 22, Dave Morehead, 25, Wally Bunker, 23, Jim Rooker, 26, and Bill Butler, 21, have "growth potential."

But just in case their "kiddie korps" is too young, the Royals installed Hoyt Wilhelm, 45, and Moe Drabowsky, 33, in their bullpen.

Pilot General Manager Marvin Milkes didn't agree. "We wanted established players and we got them. We got power and speed. We expect to trade for more pitching strength. We have players of value and people on the other clubs already want to talk to us. Our store is always open," Milkes added.

He displayed a chart listing selections by position that showed an infield of Don Mincher, 30, Ray Oyler, 30, Rich Rollins, 30, and Jack Hernandez, 28; an outfield of Tom Harper, 28, Tommy Davis, 29, and Chico Salmon 27; Jerry McNertney, 32, as the catcher and Pitchers Buzz Stephen, 24, Diego Segui, 30, Marty Pattin, 25, Gary Bell, 31, Gerald Schoen, 21, Jack Aker, 28, and Steve Barber, 29.

Tallis had Joe Foy, 25, Mike Fiore, 24, Paul Schaal, 25, and Billy Harris, 25, written across the top though additional notes confused the matter somewhat.

In addition to Kelly, his outfield list showed Joe Keough, 22, Steve Whitaker, 25, and Bob Oliver, 25. The long list of pitchers, a dozen righthanders and five southpaws, dominated the sheet.

Mrs. Cuneo Returns To Olympic Scene

QUEEN ANN—Among the Marin Countians in Mexico City for the Olympic Games are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cuneo of San Rafael who departed last Friday aboard a Western Air Lines jet.

Mrs. Cuneo is no newcomer to the Olympics. The former Ann Curtis won two gold medals and one silver for swimming in the 1948 Games at London. Her goldies were in the 400-meter freestyle and 400-meter relay and the silver for second place came in the 100-meter freestyle. In addition to her Olympics accomplishments, Queen Ann also won the Sullivan Award as the outstanding amateur athlete of 1944, first woman and first swimmer so honored.

ANN CURTIS CUNEO

In recalling her swimming days, Mrs. Cuneo noted that the 1948 Olympic swimming team was composed mainly of college students in their 20s. Today, thanks to the tremendous development of Age Group swimming in America, the U.S. team is composed largely of comparative babies. Swimmers in their 20s are considered over the hill.

JIM SHORTS:

Bill Ross At Hunters Point

Bill Ross, who trained and managed numerous service boxing champions while serving as Chief Master Sergeant and athletic director at Hamilton Field, has retired from the Air Force and taken over as athletic director at Hunters Point Naval Shipyard.

Local golf filberts who'd like to see rookie pro Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael in action may do so Oct. 28-Nov. 3 at Harding Park in San Francisco. Ron, along with such other Bay Area favorites as the Brothers Lotz (John and Dick), Bob E. Smith, Ron Funseth, Ken Venturi, Bobby Lunn, George Archer and Jim Wiechers are among the entrants in the Lucky International $100,000 Tournament.

Mill Valleyan Charles Einstein, who has carved his niche in the literary world mainly as a baseball expert, ghost writer and father confessor for Willie Mays and author of a book on how to play Little League baseball (to satisfy mommy and daddy), has moved to indoor sports in his latest publication — "How To Win At Blackjack," Cornerstone Library, New York. The paperback goes for a buck. Hit me. Ouch. Not so HARD!

He's Been In Canada Before

Yes, Johnny Boccabella of Marin, plucked Monday by the Montreal Expos from the Chicago Cubs in the N.L. expansion draft, has played ball in Canada before. In 1961 old Socktheballa starred for the Saskatoon Commodores of the semi-pro Western Canada League.

Sudden Thought: How lucky can a guy get. I mean, don't you think playing for Canadian Club would be an intoxicating experience?

Yes, folks, the San Francisco Warriors have a ticket outlet in Marin County—at Taveggia-Brusati Sport and Saddle Shop, 1340 Fourth Street, San Rafael. Also, the pro cage pasteboards can be purchased at all Greyhound Bus depots.

Oerter's Fourth Straight

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—As long as ancient, aching Al Oerter and swift Wyomia Tyus are competing, the United States will have a big share of Olympic glory — but today the Yanks must split even that share with two speedy sons of the British Commonwealth.

Oerter, who is giving Father Time as big a pain in the neck as he had had in his back for a long time, became the first athlete in Olympic history to win the gold medal in his event four straight times when he took the discus throw yesterday with an Olympic record heave of 212 feet, 6½ inches.

Now 32 years old, Oerter, of West Islip, N.Y., thinks he just may go for a fantastic fifth straight gold medal at Munich in 1972—when he'll be 36.

"I'll keep throwing for at least another year," said Oerter. "Munich is a big question mark now. I'll have to think about it."

Oerter said if he had lost, he would have tried to make the 1972 Olympic team in yachting. But now he's the champ again.

PLANS TO RETIRE

Miss Tyus, 23, won't be around for another Olympics in '72, since she plans to retire from track after these games. But the Griffin, Ga., star already has become one of the unique "repeat" winners in Olympic history—becoming the first sprinter to capture the women's 100-meter dash for the second straight time and this time in the world record time of 11 seconds.

Wyomia's triumph was merely one performance on one of the most brilliant track days in Olympic history — certainly the most brilliant day the British Commonwealth had enjoyed in a long, long time.

For one thing, there was Dave Hemery of Britain, a 24-year-old Boston University student, running a truly amazing race to win the 400-meter men's hurdles in 48.1 seconds—not only .7 under the pending world record of America's Geoff Vanderstock, but a stunning full second under the listed world and Olympic record of 49.1 set by America's Rex Cawley in 1964.

Hemery came zooming into the stretch eight meters ahead and, although he said, "I was so tired I didn't think I could make it to the finish line first," he made it with plenty to spare over West Germany's Gerhard Hennige.

For the other, there was Australian Ralph Doubell beat-

United States Swim Stars Begin To Reach 2nd Peak

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The vaunted U.S. swimming and diving team is beginning to reach a second peak this season for the Olympic swimming and diving championships starting tomorrow.

For alost every member of the team, the build-up for the Olympic trials to make the U.S. team was the most terrifying experience of their athletic carerrs.

"I was scared stiff until I made the team," said Mike Burton today. He is the world record holder in the 1,500-meter freestyle and favorite to win the metric mile and the 400-meter freestyle gold medals here.

"We left swimmers home who could win medals here. The competition at home is fierce."

"I had to peak more to make this team than I did in 1964," said Don Schollander, the Golden Boy of the Tokyo Olympics with his four gold medals. "Four years ago I just passed through the trials and really peaked for the Olympics.

"This year I had to go all out in the 200," added the 22-year-old Yale senior from Jacksonville, Fla., "the competition was tremendous. It gets tougher and tougher every year. They're coming up faster and better."

Schollander won the 100 and 400 freestyle and anchored the 400 and 800-meter freestyle relay teams, in Tokyo.

In the trials Schollander finished fifth in the 1 00 freestyle and thus won't be able to defend that title or compete in the 400-meter relay.

But he broke his own world record in the 200-meter freestyle with a time of 1:54.3 and passed up the 400 freestyle.

The 200 is a new Olympic event and by winning the 5-foot-11 blond also qualified for the 800-meter freestyle relay team. He'll probably get two golds.

Schollander said he felt fine and that a sore left elbow responded to treatment.

Burton, who had been bothered by a sore throat, said, "I feel much better now. I think I'm as ready as I'll ever be."

Any time trials?

"No," said the 21-year-old UCLA senior from Carmichael, Calif. "We didn't have any here. We're just getting accustomed to the pool.

"We're trying to peak for the big ones here. These are the ones that count. This is what all the years of swimming is all about."

Which race did he prefer, the 400 orthe 1,500?

"The one I win," said Burton.

Thompson's Racer Blown Off Course

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (UPI)—California speedster Mickey Thompson was blown off course yesterday on a shakedown run in preparation for a crack at the world land speed record for piston-driven cars.

Thompson's "Autolite Special" was nearly one half mile off course when it completed the trial run on wind-swept, rain-soaked 10-mile straightaway course.

A spokesman indicated it would probably be tomorrow before Thompson would be able to make an official assault on the mark of 409 miles per hour held by fellow Californians Bob and Bill Summers.

Thompson said his projectile-like vehicle, powered by two Ford overhead cam engines, continues to operate smoothly.

"We don't have any mechanical problems," Thompson said. "All we need is the weatherman's cooperation."

The U.S. Auto Club clocked Thompson at 160 miles per hour when he entered the speed traps in Tuesday's trial run and 240 miles per hour when he exited.

"The wind caught the car just after Mickey popped the braking parachutes and pulled it off course," a spokesman for Ford Motor Co. said.

Thompson, a veteran of speed runs on the famed salt flats, planned additional low speed tests prior to an official run to determine how the 5,400-pound vehicle handles in the wind.

A spokesman said the winds, measured at 17 miles per hour, caused the additional problem of blowing water onto the course.

The north end of the 10-mile course was reported to be under water and the south end puddled. About half the course was described as being in "reasonably good" driving condition.

Thompson had a close call when his car slid on two wheels at 240 miles per hour. Thompson was unhurt but appeared shaken after his car came to a halt.

Top-Level Credentials Held By K.C. Chiefs

NEW YORK (UPI)—All it takes to know why the Kansas City Chiefs, who the Oakland Raiders take on Sunday, are leading the Western Division of the American Football League is one look at the individual offensive statistics in the sixth week of the season.

The Chiefs, who took over first place last Sunday with their fifth victory in six games, have the individual leaders in passing and scoring and the No. 2 and No. 9 runners in the league.

Len Dawson is the passing leader with 61 completions in 102 attempts for a .598 percentage, 818 yards, four touchdowns and an average gain of 8.02 yards. John Hadl of the San Diego Chargers ranks second with 77 completions in 156 attempts for a .494 percentage, 1268 yards, nine touchdowns and an 8.13 average gain while Joe Namath of the New York Jets is third with 85-172 for .494, 1339 yards, eight touchdowns and 7.78.

Jan Stenerud is the leading scorer with 68 points on 14 extra points and 18 field goals—20 points more than Jim Turner of the Jets, who has 48 points on 15 extra points and 11 field goals. George Blanda of the Oakland Raiders is third with 40 points.

Hewritt Dixon of the Raiders has gained 484 yards in 91 attempts for a 5.3 yard average and the Chiefs' Bob Holmes, 5-foot, 9-inch, 220-pound "find" from Southern University, ranks second with 335 yards on 54 attempts for a 6.2 average. Hoyle Granger of the Houston Oilers is third and Ben Gregory of the Buffalo Bills is fourth.

The No. 9 ranking runner is Kansas City's Mike Garrett, who has gained 208 yards on 59 attempts for a 3.5 average.

Bulls Top Knicks In NBA Opener

Robinson, a Cincinnati Royal castoff, scored consistently with short one handed pops in compiling his 32 points. Seven-foot rookie center Tom Boerwinkle came down with clutch rebounds late in the game to preserve the victory for Chicago.

Oerter Didn't Want To Be Merely Another 'Asterisk'

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Al Oerter, the first Olympian in history to win four straight gold medals, says he never wanted to be merely another "asterisk" in the record book.

Until yesterday, he was.

Having won the discus event in Melbourne in 1956, again in Rome in 1960, and once again in Toyko in 1964, the 32-year-old West Islip, N.Y., computer analyst shared with John Flanagan the distinction of being the only Olympian to win three gold medals in a row.

Flanagan, an Irish cop from New York, won the hammer throw for the U.S. in 1900, again in 1904 and a third time in 1908. Oerter left him behind yesterday.

"I'm quite happy to be a fourth gold medalist without an asterisk or any other conditions," he explained, talking about how it felt to be the first human ever to win four in a row in Olympic competition.

Simpson Holds Quite A Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—O. J. Simpson of Southern California remained the Pacific-8 Conference's runaway scoring and rushing leader, according to the conference statistics released today.

The Trojan star has increased his touchdown credits to 72 points and his rushing to 808 yards.

Other individual statistical leaders include Stanford's passing quarterback Jim Plunkett in total offense with 995 yards and Washington State's Jerry Henderson in passing with 62 completions.

California's Wayne Stewart leads in receiving with 24 catches. Al Worley of Washington is ahead in interceptions with six steals. Zenon Andrusyshyn of UCLA is the conference's top punter with an average of 42.6 yards per kick.

Junior Pirates Win

Drake Junior Pirates routed the Redwood Junior Giants 25-0 last Saturday in the "Block Head Bowl" game between the Pop Warner Football Conference rivals at Terra Linda.

Rainy Days Like That In Mysterious Oakland

OAKLAND — After a week's respite to recover from the rigors of watching the A's in 80 odd (many actually were) games, I returned to the vast East Bay early of a Sunday to be faced with a delicious dilemma: Watching Raider football in the afternoon or Seal hockey in the evening? Or both?

The rain in the late morning — plus the prospects of dealing with 53,000 humans in one spot — kept me away from a certain Raider victory over injury-wracked San Diego. The Oakland footballers must have been equally certain, considering their reported flat play.

But by dusk, guilt hailed — and I was off to the Coliseum Arena for a look at the new (in quotes) Seals. It was far less crowded, by about 51,000. Also, the rain had stopped, which matters a great deal when you're viewing an indoor sport.

THE OAKLAND hockey team, rebuilt and supposedly reinspired, was as flat as the Raiders — at least for the two periods I was around. While the faces were new, the style of play wasn't. It was truly amazing how futile the Seals seemed, particularly when their opponents, the Kings of Los Angeles, had just flown in from a weary Saturday night beating in St. Louis. If anybody had a right to be listless, it was the Kings.

YET, THEY skated to a 3-1 lead after the first 40 minutes. Oakland had its old problems — inability to get the puck out of its own end, failure to take advantage of the "power play" situation when LA was shorthanded because of a penalty. The 1967-68 season for Oakland was starting all over again.

And poor Charlie Hodge, Seal goalie, was still hollering to stumbling defensemen, "Help me; help me." Charlie has a lovely screeching effect in his plea — heard paticularly well when there are only 2,500 people in a 12,500-seat arena.

LATER IN the season we will examine the neuroses of hockey goalies. Hodge especially is entitled to a couch-full.

Understandably, the Seals need more work together. After only eight exhibition games and one league encounter, they couldn't be expected to look like the Montreal Canadiens. None of the team's four lines has that instinctive familiarity that leads to clever passing and, ultimately, putting the puck in the net.

NEW COACH Fred Glover, a supposedly kind fellow, must amiably seek out the proper offensive combinations in the next few weeks. The season is long, so the orientation time can't totally damage a team like the Seals — unless there's no talent around to begin with.

On defense, Oakland is still weak, with no solid experience or savvy. Which must please Hodge no end.

AFTER THE second dull period, I figured it was all over. The Beatles were to appear with the Smothers Brothers; "Mission Impossible" also loomed. Better to leave the scene of suffering and tend to the home fires. The Seals, I assured my companion, were dead for this night. Was I certain? Certainly. Hadn't I predicted an easy Raider victory?

GLOVER MUST have told his charges that, with Michelson's departure, they should now do their stuff. They did, coming up with two goals in the first minute of the final period and ending up with a 4-4 tie — even scoring the equalizer on a power play.

Rainy Sundays are like that in the mystery that is Oakland.

Charger Named Top Defender

NEW YORK (AP) — Chuck Allen is like the shoemaker whose kids don't have any shoes.

He's a football player who has four daughters and no sons, and he's a mink rancher whose wife doesn't have a fur co at.

Allen also is the American Football League's defensive player of the week as selected by The Associated Press today.

The 29-year-old middle linebacker was the focal point of the defense which completely stymied the Oakland offense in the second half as the Chargers upset the Raiders 23-14 last Sunday, preventing them from equaling the league record of 15 straight victories.

Bobby Orr Leads Bruins Against Seals Tonight

OAKLAND (AP)—Bobby Orr leads his undefeated Boston Bruin teammates into the Oakland Coliseum tonight to meet the Oakland Seals in a National Hockey League game.

The Seals lost their season opener 5-1 to Minnesota and tied Los Angeles 4-4. The Bruins have whipped Detroit 4-2 and Philadelphia 3-2.

In addition to Orr, an all-star defenseman last year, the Bruins have center Phil Esposito, second in the NHL scoring race last season with 35 goals and 49 assists, and left wing Johnny Bucyk, who scored 30 goals.

Flynn Still 'Fair'

A WET WARMUP

Colette Besson of France removes a soggy warmup suit in a driving rain while preparing to run in the women's 400-meter semifinal race during the Olympics in wet Mexico City yesterday. The track was slowed by heavy rain.

Two More Gold Medals For U.S.

ing a man whom many had thought unbeatable, Kenya's Wilson Kiprugust, in the final of the men's 800 meters in a world record of 1:44.3.

The United States had a hero in this race today, even though he didn't win—slender, blond Tommy Farrell of Forest Hills, N.Y. A lot of track people think little Tommy hasn't got the talent of a world class runner—but nobody ever had denied his supply of running courage. For the second straight Olympics, Farrell has been the only Yank to get as far as the finals of the 800. In 1964 he finished fifth.

This time he was 40 yards from the finish line shoulder-to-shoulder with East Germany's Dieter Fromm in a battle for the bronze medal. Farrell loses few bouts of nerve and he won this one to give the U.S. a surprise third place.

But there was no denying after yesterday's competition that the United States will be lucky to match the 12 gold medals in men's track it won in the 1964 Olympics. So far the Yanks have only three in men's track. Yesterday, the Yanks were shut out completely in the 400-meter hurdles, which the U.S. had won six straight times.

CHANCES FOR TWO

The United States, however, figures to pick up two more gold medals today.

The pole vault, an old Yankee stronghold, is expected to give a gold medal to indoor-outdoor world record holder Bob Seagren or maybe to John Pennel, the first man who cleared 17 feet. And John Carlos and Tommie Smith are expected to run 1-2, or maybe 2-1, in the men's 200-meter dash, with Larry Questad looking in for a bronze.

But the U.S. had no hope in the men's javelin, where Mark Murro is the lone candidate against big name spearthrowers. In the women's 400-meter dash, Jarvis Scott of Los Angeles has a chance if she revises her poor, fast-start tactics of the preliminaries. George Young, the Arizona school teacher, is an outsider against African aces in the 3,000-meter steeplechase.

The U.S. men's basketball team continued to roll yesterday with a 96-75 romp over the Philippines, and tonight meets Yugoslavia, a team to which it has lost two exhibition games.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Some Planning Pointers Before You Go Cruising

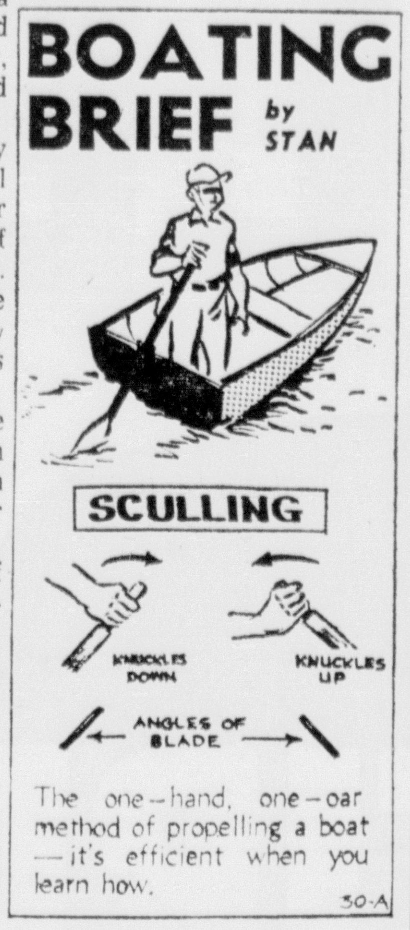
Here's a tip for anyone planning a long run in his boat where there is a need to consult a chart. It's particularly useful when the chart you have to use is one of the big ones that requires a seven-foot chart table if they are to be spread out.

Before starting, go over your intended route or track on the chart and make a checklist of all the buoys and markers by type and number, and all the landmarks and hazards you will pass.

A list of this kind is very easy to manage and reading it will not keep your eyes off the water ahead for the same length of time required to look at a chart. By glancing at the checklist, the skipper can see immediately what he has to look for next as he moves along.

Naturally, the chart will be carried along as well just in case more complete information is needed at some particular point.

Cruising has its own set of problems, as many of the questions we get indicate:



The one-hand, one-oar method of propelling a boat — it's efficient when you learn how.

Q. I'm planning a canal trip — through several locks. Anything I should know?

A. Most lock walls are pretty rough, and, if you scrape them, you can damage your boat. Take lots of fenders and bumpers of good quality and high strength. Also, throw in an extra boat hook and two or three lengths of mooring lines. When you need them, you need them badly.

Q. I am about to retire. I would like to cruise the Pacific Northwest and the Gulf. Where can I rent or charter boats? Is there a list of charter and rental organizations?

A. The best list I know is in Boat Owners Buyers Guide, 50 West 44th Street, New York, N. Y. 10036. It costs $1.50. The only word of advice I have is to take your time when renting to have a complete and perfect understanding — on paper — with the charterer or lessor.

Q. How much does it cost to maintain a cruising type power boat?

A. I would say that, depending on where one lives, the cost of "owning" a cruiser runs between $25 and $50 per foot per year. I live in a high cost area, and several cruising families I know budget for the higher figure. If there is anything left over at the end of the season, which is seldom, they put it in a sock toward a bigger boat.

Q. Do you have to live in a state to collect a refund on gasoline tax?

A. No. And this is something to watch if you cross into a state that gives gasoline tax refunds. Be sure to get receipts every time you buy fuel. Find out how to make application for the rebate.

Q. We're taking a couple we've known only a short time on a week's cruise. . . .

A. When they first come aboard, be very businesslike and firm and show them where to stow their belongings. Point out that on a boat there must be a place for everything, and everything must be in its place. If trouble strikes, there's no time to put something away or look for whatever you need. Incidentally, going for a WEEK with strangers is not a good idea. Take them for a DAY first. They could be real slobs.

Q. I like to take along a shotgun to practice trapshooting with clay birds. I'm told I could get into trouble in some places. Is this so?

A. Lawyers assure me that, as long as a gun (shotgun or rifle) is cased, taken down or obviously just being stored, you can take it almost anywhere. However, before you take a gun out and load it, ask some resident if there are local laws or hunting regulations that might apply. I ran into trouble myself this way once — having a shotgun in a bird sanctuary that I didn't even know existed.

Q. How about insurance if I cruise to the Bahamas, Mexico and the Caribbean?

A. Check with your insurance agent or broker before you go, of course. Generally speaking, your present insurance will cover you — with only minor adjustments — in the once-British or still-British islands of Bermuda, the Bahamas and Caribbean, as well as the French, Dutch and U. S. islands there. However, in Mexico, you had better buy new insurance from a Mexican company.

FOOTBALL ODDS

Rams, Colts Favored; 49ers Are Underdogs

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Los Angeles Rams and Baltimore Colts are strong favorites to remain unbeaten and tied for first place in the Coastal Division of the National Football League Sunday but the Dallas Cowboys are only seven-point choices over the Minnesota Vikings.

The Rams are favored by 19 points over the Atlanta Falcons and the Colts have been made 14-point picks over the Cleveland Browns. Each is seeking its sixth straight victory of the season.

In other NFL games, the St. Louis Cardinals are six over the Washington Redskins, the New York Giants five over the San Francisco 49ers, the New Orleans Saints two over the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Chicago Bears are rated even with the Philadelphia Eagles.

The New York Jets are six over the Houston Oilers, the Boston Patriots 3½ over the Buffalo Bills and the Cincinnati Bengals and Miami Dolphins are rated even in the only American Football League games listed today.

All the nation's top-ranked college football teams are favored except 10th-ranked Arkansas, which is a three-point underdog to Texas. Arkansas has won four straight games while Texas stands 2-1-1.

Top-ranked Southern California, second-ranked Ohio State and ninth-ranked Georgia are 20-point choices over Washington, Northwestern and Vanderbilt, respectively.

In other games involving the top 10, fourth-ranked Kansas is 15 over Oklahoma State, seventh-ranked Florida is 13 over North Carolina and eighth-ranked Tennessee is six over Alabama.

Elsewhere, Michigan State is six over Minnesota, Navy nine over Pittsburgh, Princeton 13 over Colgate, Harvard three over Cornell, Auburn 12 over Georgia Tech, Boston College five over Tulane, Indiana one over Michigan, Oklahoma 20 over Iowa State, Iowa 14 over Wisconsin and California and UCLA are a tossup.

Willsey Talks Of Bruin Speed

BERKELEY (UPI) — UCLA's football team is much like that of Army, says California Coach Ray Willsey, except that UCLA has a speedier offense.

"The Bruins have a multitude of people with speed," Willsey said yesterday, calling Mickey Cureton, Ron Copeland and Hal Busby "extremely dangerous."

Linebackers Jerry Woods and Travis Tatum rejoined the Bears yesterday after being out three weeks with leg injuries.

PREP FOOTBALL NOTES

Injuries Mar Thriller

By GARY TISCHLER

It was a memorable weekend of football in Marin County.

And some of the memories are somber.

Double injuries marred a game that for sheer weight of drama will seem vivid years from now.

Redwood reserve defensive halfback and quarterback Charles Flynn suffered a fractured neck while making a tackle on Novato fullback Tom Zechlin. He is listed in fair condition at Marin General Hospitad. And Pat Greene, the leading scorer in the Marin County Athletic League going into the game, suffered a mild concussion and may be out for two to three weeks.

These were dark sides to a game that had more than its share of courage on display — freak plays, near-misses and frustration. It seemed to have a kind of clear pitch and flow very rare in high school games, the tempo easily defined and the moment of momentum pickup easily seen.

The first noticeable thing was the crackup of Novato's usually impeccable ground game very early in the proceeding, and that in turn showed what Russ Dillon was made of, as well as some unusually sturdy qualities of the Redwood line.

Greg Davenport, the Hornets' top rusher, got nowhere all afternoon. And neither did anyone else until midway into the second half, when Zechlin, the converted tackle, suddenly provided the one roaring piece of fireworks by way of the ground.

The Giants showed their mettle early when the Hornets had first and goal from the five and eventually wound up at the nine-yard line after getting to the one.

But Dillon, spilled twice in that early drive, came back with a beautiful first down play as Pete Weekley got three yards past the Redwood secondary and snared a long, beautifully-placed pass for a 77-yard play that stunned the Giants into a first-half daze.

So did Dillon's punting, something he hasn't had to do very often. He laced his kicks high, spiralling beautifully allowing no return all afternoon long, averaging 41 yards per boot in an unnoticed but key part of the game.

The key man on the Redwood line was big and injured Gary Kasprzak, who, although three times jumping offsides, played a big part in wrecking the Hornet running game.

Dillon, who passed very little in the Tamalpais game the previous week, could have had a runaway game with a little glue on the ball. He lost two sure touchdown passes when receivers dropped the ball, once on the goal line.

Peters, Redwood's key man last year, never could find the passing range. Midway through the second period, he hobbled off the field and appeared slowed the rest of the game. Flynn took over his defensive halfback position, playing well despite his 135-pound size, until the tragic run-in with Zechlin.

But it was fullback Pete Richter, who has played only sparingly all year due to cracked ribs, who guttily came up with the big play time and time again for the Giants.

Richter, who appears to be almost sleepwalking while running, burrowed, barged and banged for first down yards, scoring the Giants' first touchdown on a beautiful, tank-line smash up the middle. And they say he is not completely recovered from his early-season injuries.

Then came Zechlin's dramatic 66-yard run that turned the game upside down and caused Novato coach Al Scott to literally leap into the air in joy not once but four times like a genuine fan and father. It will be a long time before football becomes computerized if a few more Scotts are around, and the more the better.

Zechlin, who had never kicked an extra point in his high school career, followed with a straight and true kick, leaving Redwood with two touchdowns needed to win.

Which left only Redwood's last abortive drive that ended inches off the fingertips of a Redwood player in the end zone on the final second of play.

. . . ELSEWHERE . . . How about Tamalpais losing 29-13 to Mills, which hadn't won going into the game? . . . Jim O'Brien broke another long one for Marin Catholic, this time 52 yards enroute to a 100-yard night in a 19-19 tie against Rancho Cotate . . . How about Drake's complete stifling of the San Rafael offense . . . and the performance of what looks like another great back in Bob Sutherland of Drake? . . . Terra Linda's complete wipeout of Poly scoring six touchdowns, all on sustained drives . . . which brings us to Saturday night when the annual biggie of the year comes up. It's Terra Linda (3-0-1) vs. Drake (3-1-0) and Terra Linda has never beaten the Pirates, and has not scored against Drake for the past two years.

Weather In Key Role At Sahara

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Golf star Jack Nicklaus shoots for his third straight Sahara Invitational tournament victory when the $100,000 72-hole event begins tomorrow.

A field of about 135 is expected to compete with $20,000 awaiting the winner. Included are U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, Billy Casper, current leading money winner of the touring pros, Julius Boros and other top players.

MISSING

Missing from the roll, however, are Arnold Palmer, Gay Brewer and Gary Player.

The site for the four rounds is the par-72, 7,143-yard course at the Paradise Country Club, located on the outskirts of Las Vegas.

Nicklaus, who won the 1963 Sahara, registered back-to-back victories in 1966 and 1967. Last year he picked up the $20,000 with rounds of 68-69-62-71—270.

Las Vegas weather invariably provides much speculation. A wind storm or heavy rain can develop almost without warning. One year play was conducted simultaneously at the Paradise and Las Vegas Municipal course across town.

A rainstorm suddenly hit the Paradise course and washed out all scores for the round. But not a drop fell on the neighboring club. Its scores were, of course, also rubbed out.

WIND

The 36-hole pro-am competition was set to conclude with the final round today. The pros were playing for a $22,222 side purse, the amateurs for prizes.

In yesterday's windy first round of the pro-am, teams headed by Dean Beman and Howie Johnson led the field with 59s. Top individual scores for the day were turned in by Rocky Thompson, with a 69, and Miller Barber, one stroke back.

Fish Derby Winner

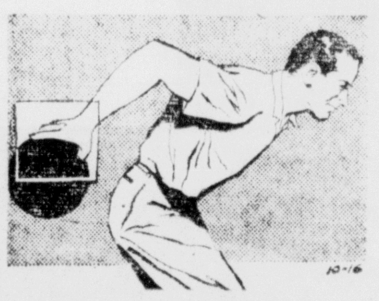
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



I am in favor of a simple delivery, with the fingers remaining behind the ball all the way. This means no twisting or snapping at the finish. If your thumb is turned just slightly to the left, you'll obtain all the hook that is necessary with just an easy lifting motion as the ball takes off.

Celeb Golf Under Way

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — The Ninth Annual Baseball Celebrity Golf Classic gets underway today with a field including such stars as Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants and Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The tournament, over the 72-hole Canyon Country Club course, runs through Saturday.

Also among the field playing for the first prize of a color television set are Sammy Ellis of the California Angels, last year's winner, Bobby Knoop, Bob Rodgers, Jim Fregosi and Andy Messersmith, also of the Angels; Ron Fairly, Wes Parker Hank Aguirre and Salty Parker of the Dodgers; Jim Davenport and Hal Lanier of the Giants; Ron Perranoski of the Minnesota Twins; Tommy Davis of the Chicago White Sox; Andy Etchebarren of the Baltimore Orioles; Gene Mauch, new manager of the newly-formed Montreal Expos of the National League; and Rick Monday of the Oakland Athletics.

Olympics Basketball Is A Six-Team Race

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Prior predictions that six teams would battle for the Olympic basketball title still are holding up after three days and nights of competition—except for Mexico.

Mexico got its come-uppance last night in the first clash of favored teams as Brazil, whose coach says "we could win it if someone should slip," beat the Mexicans 60-53.

Otherwise the United States and Russia, generally picked to fight for the championship, and Yugoslavia and Italy have shown their prowess.

The United States, a sort of slumbering giant, didn't play well in its game yesterday with the Phillipines, having too many turnovers to make Coach Hank Iba entirely happy. The Yanks won 96-75 because they were just so much bigger and had more rebounding strength.

Russia set an Olympic scoring record its second time out when it swamped Morocco 123-51. All told the Soviets have scored 302 points in three games, which is 22 more than the Americans have counted and 69 more than Brazil, 31 more than Yugoslavia and almost 50 more than Italy.

Only five teams are undefeated as the tournament goes in its fourth day with the highly important U.S.-Yugoslavia game scheduled tonight.

The United States, Yugoslavia and Italy are 3-0 in Group A, and Russia and Brazil have that record in Group B where the two do not meet until the last day of the first round—next Sunday.

Donis Peralta of Panama's team hasn't won a game, but he leads the tournament in scoring and the fans are fascinated by a 5-foot-7 guy who goes up for rebounds and sometimes even dunks one.

Peralta has scored 78 points in three games. He thrives against the big fellows, although he weighs only 132 pounds the lightest man in the tournament.

Second in scoring is Don-Pa-Chin of South Korea, whose team hasn't won a game, either. He has scored 73 points.

The big teams do not have any individual scorers in the top 10.

'Cats Win Again

Undefeated Marin Catholic High School's Class C basketball team breezed to its third Marin County Athletic League victory of the season yesterday, 30-11 over Terra Linda High. John Street was top scorer with 10 points.

THE LADIES — BLESS 'EM ALL

The male animal is a contradiction and there is little hope for his early recovery. He professes great love for women in general, and perhaps one or more in particular. He measures quality and quantity in his manufactured, cooked, and fabricated goods to her whim and desire and ultimate approval. He struts like a fool to catch her eye, and beams like a kid at Christmas when she glows her regal approval.

He works like a pack animal to provide for her, to pamper her, to protect her, and sometimes takes a lot of abuse for his trouble. He strives for success to quicken the rustle of silk for his lady, and he indulges her frightening collections of artifices carefully selected to keep him guessing, confused, and subdued. He does all these, and seeks more ways to do more, and he wouldn't have it any other way.

The male animal readily admits instant and total motivation comes from woman. There is no greater force. He knows all this, and yet he becomes an automobile dealer and his memory and common sense instantly desert him. He is a man among men, in a male environment, with good ole grease, and machines, and the heady smell of honest sweat, high octane gas, and concentrated smog.

No mere wisp of a woman could comprehend or invade this very special male sanctuary, and, by George, if one of 'em does come in, she's just got to be reminded of the separation of sex and machines in the new facts of life. Discussions have to be carried on in a very simplified version of our language, like: This is a steering wheel. Turn the steering wheel. See how the front wheels turn, too. Now, isn't that nice?

What nut of a man permitted his wife to bring in the car all by herself, and without a mechanic to interpret or at least a male-written recitation of troubles to look for? How can we localize the symptoms that cannot be described or come from hiding in your garage? How are you going to explain the fix when you've fixed it? And, so goes the agonizing soliloquy that inevitably winds up with thoroughly confused and disgusted woman and self-righteously vindicated dealer who knew it would happen.

A pitiful situation and a pitifully stupid dealer. The situations are endless in number and the number of dealers stupid in this area are much too many.

I am one dealer who may well be guilty of much ignorance in many money-grubbing ways of dealermanship, but I've got a whole lot of smarts in how to appreciate the impact of woman. The correlation of happy women customers and successful auto dealers alone makes a course in statistical analysis fascinating and worth while. I have taught and preached this course well in my own dealership, Marin Dodge, and my people, both fore in sales and aft in service know their lessons well.

The woman who comes to us to shop for a car finds herself overwhelmed with intelligent—not condescending—attention. We know the cars were designed and engineered with the woman in mind, so what could be more natural than letting her know how good our designers and engineers are, and how well they read her?

The woman who drives into our Service Department gets no sympathetic clucks or bland dismissal of recited grievances as figments of a fertile female imagination. We'll look for and find that nerve-shattering bloop-bloop that comes only between 25 and 27 miles per hour. And, we'll talk adult talk, not baby talk.

Like any normal male animal, we need women, and even more so. With us, it's economic survival, too.

DeMolays To Install On Saturday

Terry L. Wilson will be installed as master councilor of the Novato Chapter, Order of DeMolay, at 8 p.m. Saturday at Druids Hall in Novato.

Richard Campbell will be installed as senior councilor and Michael Rebello as junior councilor.

Lorna Parr will be installed as the chapter sweetheart.

Wilson, 18, is a senior at Novato High School, where he is a high hurdler on the track team. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Wilson of 10 Gertrude Lane.

Miss Parr, 17, also is a senior at Novato High School. She holds the office of charity in Novato Assembly 194, International Order of Rainbow for Girls. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Parr of 38 Washington Street.

Other officers to be installed are Rex Kosack, scribe; Bill Danbury, senior deacon; Jim De Garmo, junior deacon; Allen Benelli, senior steward; Curt Lewis, junior steward; Mike Lloyd, orator; Pat Latta, sentinel; Bill Swearingen, chaplain; Jerry Lewis, standard bearer; Rick Wilson, marshall, and Chris Rohrer, almoner.

Ross General Joins National Clinical Program

Ross General Hospital has joined a 14-hospital clinical and drug information service program spanning the nation, hospital officials have announced.

The program, which started Oct. 1, will test a computer system in which doctors and pharmacists have immediate access to thousands of microfilmed studies on medications and diseases, supplied by the University of Iowa hospital.

Ross General is the only California hospital taking part in the nationwide test program, according to A. H. Angelini, director of pharmacy services at the hospital.

If the one-year test is successful, hospitals such as Ross General with advanced pharmacy departments will serve as distribution centers for information for other hospitals in the area.

HOMES SPREAD IN EAST CORTE MADERA

Corte Madera flatlands and slopes east of Highway 101 are rapidly being filled with homes from Paradise Shopping Center to the bay. Circular area in the center is the Mariner Green Townhouses development which sold out its first unit in 90 days, its second in 60 days and is now building its third unit. Road running diagonally at upper left is Paradise Drive.

INVESTING

Bonds And Preferreds Pay Well

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I recently retired and could use more income. Have you any suggestion on the following stocks which I hold: Atlas Consolidated Mining & Development, Lorillard Corp., Keystone Steel and Wire, Inspiration Consolidated Copper and F. W. Woolworth? — W. P.

A. Sales of two issues will increase your yield and add stability to your portfolio. Although Inspiration Consolidated Copper will probably report somewhat better earnings than in strike-depressed 1967, this could be the second year in which the dividend was not covered, leaving some doubt as to the payment's security. The second sale is Woolworth which, because of an improving outlook, has moved up in price, but at this level the yield is inadequate for your needs.

I like Atlas Consolidate Mining — a Philippine-based copper operation — which has upped its October quarterly payment to 89 cents a share after reporting a 78 per cent increase in first-half earnings.

A contract arrangement with Mutshubishi of Japan, negotiated in 1955 and expiring in 1972, has been beneficial to Atlas. This month daily production will have reached an annual rate of 100 million pounds, a target set two years ago. Increased production should help offset weakening in copper prices expected next year.

Directors of Lorillard have approved the merger into Loew's Inc. Under terms of the union you will receive for each Lorillard share held a $62 face value debenture paying 6.875 per cent a year in interest.

In addition you will receive a warrant to purchase — pending approval of a three-for-one split — one share of Loew's common at $35 for four years and at increasing amounts for the following eight years.

The prospects for Keystone Consolidated Industries (formerly Keystone Steel and Wire) depend on the company's success in expanding into new markets to offset the limited growth and intense competition in its wire business. Because recent acquisitions are promising and shares offer a good income, I would hold.

Purchase of either of these high-rated bonds is recommended: Georgia Power 6⅝'s of 1981 or Pacific Electric 6⅝'s of 1993. The balance of your funds should be used to buy American Can $1.75 preferred yielding about 5½ per cent.

Boothe Computer Reports Earnings

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — D. P. Boothe Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, Boothe Computer Cor., has reported earnings of $418,876, or 29 cents per share on revenues of $5,584,00 for the quarter ending Sept. 30.

Nine months earnings were $828,638, or 60 cents per share, on revenues of $10,190,000.

Purchasing Powers Expected To Climb

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — For at least the next 10 years, the output of the nation's economy and the real purchasing power flowing to consumers will grow at a rate of 4 and one-half per cent if it is a time of full employment, Paul W. McCracken, University of Michigan economist, says.

He said economic growth at this level would be about 30 per cent faster than the 3 and one-half per cent rate which generally has prevailed since the latter part of the last century.

Hike In Earnings

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — United States Leasing International, Inc., (AMEX) has reported a 33 per cent increase in per share earnings for the first nine months of 1968. Earnings were a record $1.6 million, equal to 61 cents per share vs. 46 cents at Sept. 30 last year.

Schoonmaker Forms New Division To Manufacture Small Generators

The formation of a new division has been announced by A. G. Schoonmaker, Sausalito, to design and manufacture small generator sets up to 400 kilowatts, special vehicles, ground support equipment and refrigerated vehicles and containers.

During the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, a sales volume of $6 million, out of the company's total sales of $15 million was credited to this part of its production activities. The new division will be known as the Emtek Division and Schoonmaker has hired former marketing vice president M. J. Sullivan of the International Fremont Division of Dynamics Corp. of America as an Emtek vice president. He will be headquartered in New York and Washington, D.C., where apparently much of this business is generated.

All this is expected to boost Schoonmaker production and a considerable increase in employment at the Sausalito plant is anticipated early next spring.

KIRK W. FREDERICK of San Rafael has been appointed to head a new administration division at Fibreboard Corp., San Francisco to consolidate manufacturing, marketing and distribution activities, personnel, public relations and office services. He was previously vice president of organization and personnel.

ARCHITECT Eugene E. Crawford of Crawford and Banning, San Rafael, has been elected first vice president of the California council of the American Institute of Architects for 1969. He will serve as president in 1970.

SAN RAFAEL COMMERCIAL PHOTOGRAPHER Ken Molino has a series of full-page photographs of Marin appearing weekly in Advertising Age magazine. He recently concluded a six-month color series assignment for Western Electric Co. of its communications installation in San Francisco. Now he is traveling in Southern California and Nevada picturing the facilities and services of a major utilities company.

SUBJECT of a feature article in Tire Review, a trade magazine, is Brodie and Schwerin San Rafael Tire and Brake, San Rafael. The company is cited for a highly successful business policy of honoring all credit cards since 1962.

TOM MARTIN of Raccoon Straits Yacht Sales in Sausalito was named an award winner by Pearson Yachts, Providence, R.I., for his outstanding sales record of Pearson vessels in this area.

Squires Placak

INSURANCE. Robert L Squires of Mill Valley has been appointed a district manager for Equitable Life Assurance Society of America. He is with the company's agency in San Francisco. . . . James L. Placak of San Rafael has qualified for Connecticut General Life's 1969 President's Club. . . . Robert P. Dimond of Novato has completed a special casualty and property insurance course at Aetna Life and Casualty's home office in Hartford, Conn. He is with Index Underwriters, Inc. in San Francisco. . . . Michael B. Fitzgerald, Paul M. McKimmie, Donald P. Sands Jr. and Michael E. Spangler, all of San Rafael; Rolf G. Froelich of Mill Valley and Blake A. Thomson of Belvedere have qualified as members of New York Life's 1968 Star Club.

MR. AND MRS. BERNARD SELIGMAN of Sleepy Hollow are reservations chairmen for the annual conference of Nutrilite Products, Inc. distributors gathering in San Francisco next Saturday.

Bank Directors Vote Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Stockholders of Bank of America got an "early Christmas gift" yesterday when directors coted a 20 per cent stock dividend.

The stock split will be payable Dec. 23 to shareholders of record Dec. 2. The bank said an increase in capital stock necessary to pay the dividend will be presented to shareholders for approval at a special meeting Dec. 17.

The bank's directors also declared a regular quarterly dividend of 55 cents a share, payable on Nov. 29 to shereholders of record Nov. 1.

Air West Reports Passenger Records

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Air West passenger traffic continued to show increases in September as the international carrier completed its first full quarter of merged operations in eight western states, Canada and Mexico.

Highlights included record third quarter boardings of 825-240, up 89,390 passengers over 1967; a September high of 247,740 passengers, compared with 227,180 a year ago, and nine-month boardings of 2,310,748, compared with 2,658,160 for the entire 12 months of 1967.

The first coins minted in the Western Hemisphere were made in Mexico City in the 1530s, says the National Geographic.

"I read 250 words per minute and I got through college. If that was good enough for me, it's good enough for my kid."

Sure, you can still get through college if you're a "normal" student reading at the average rate of 250 to 400 words per minute. It just means that throughout your college career you'll spend over 5,000 hours doing just your required reading! And that's a shame, because you could save at least 3,700 of those hours. How? By learning to read at least three times faster.

For five years now the Reading Dynamics Institute has guaranteed to at least triple your reading speed or refund your entire tuition. Thousands of people throughout the Bay Area have taken up this offer and are now reading 3 to 10 times faster. Results? Hundreds, even thousands, of irreplaceable hours saved for them to invest as they choose. Businessmen and professional people now spend more time in productive work. High school and college students have time for campus activities and taking "want to" courses, raising their grade point average, or holding down a part-time job. Imagine, if a student could cut 3,700 hours of his required reading time and invested only 2,500 of those hours in a job that paid $1.75 an hour, he could earn $4,375.00.

Reading Dynamics is an incredible education breakthrough. It is the definitive rapid reading method in the world today because their graduates consistently surpass the 450 to 600 words per minute rates aspired to by conventional reading courses. Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,000 and 3,000 words per minute. Many go higher, and all understand and appreciate what they read at these staggering speeds.

FREE READING DYNAMICS MINI-LESSON
Does Reading Dynamics really work? Well there is one way to find out. Come to one of the free Reading Dynamics Mini-Lessons listed below. Whether you are out of school or in, you'll find the Mini-Lesson an exciting hour well spent. You'll learn what Reading Dynamics is all about and all of your questions will be answered. And since the Mini-Lesson is a miniature version of a Reading Dynamics class, you will probably leave reading a little faster than when you came in. Of course, if you want to read a lot faster for the rest of your life you will have to sign up for the course.

Student Power Signs Daubed At Drake High

Signs demanding "Free Speech," "Power Now" and "Student Power" were painted on walls, lockers, walkways, benches and even a drinking fountain last night at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo.

Principal Harold Allison said that janitors were called during the night and early morning hours to scrub off the signs with paint remover and repaint over the slogans. By the time school opened this morning most of them had been removed or covered up, he said.

Some of the slogans were painted in free-hand letters about three feet high, he said, and others were done using a stencil about one foot high and red spray paint.

Allison said he did not know of any activity or movement at the school which would have incited the sign painter or painters, or even if vandalism was done by a Drake student or students.

The San Anselmo Police Department is investigating, he said.

Accidents are the leading cause of death among persons aged one to 17, says the National Safety Council.

Vacancy Filled In Terra Linda

Robert N. Bennett of 648 Woodbine Drive was elected last night to the board of directors of the Terra Linda Community Services District, according to board secretary Helen Lontz.

Bennett, a representative for Bankers Life Insurance, will succeed Richard Rosenberg, who resigned last month.

Chairman Neal D. Harding presided at the meeting at the Terra Linda Firehouse.

Marin GOP Leader Scolds Republicans For Cranston

I-J Special Report

"The times are too perilous and the needs too urgent to send a man to Washington who intends to sabotage whatever Dick Nixon intends to do," said Reed of Rafferty's opponent, Democratic nominee Alan Cranston.

Members of the Republican for Cranston committee either should get a pledge from Cranston that he will back the new president, or withdraw their support, declared Ross in a statement released here by Rafferty for U.S. Senator headquarters.

Friday night will be amateur photographers night at the dress rehearsal of "Bunny Bash," at 8 p.m. in the Novato Community House.

The Novato Community Players are sponsoring an amateur photography contest for those wishing to take either posed or candid shots of the cast for the bash, a spoof of the Playboy clubs.

The best over-all photograph will receive four reserved seat tickets to the opening night, with two tickets for best in each of three categories: back-stage drama, on-stage rehearsal and "cheesecake."

Bob Hax, Independent-Journal photographer; Peter Keller, Novato Advance photographer, and Scott Wright, director of the show, will judge the pictures.

The bash will be presented at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 15, 16, 22 and 23 at the Novato Community House.

Juvenile Writing Course Scheduled

A six-week course in commercial writing for the juvenile market will start at 8 p.m. Monday in Marin Country Day School's adult education program.

The class, taught by Jeanne Massey, will meet for two hours each Monday and will include both basic and advanced instruction. Enrollment information is available from the day school.

Sonoma Supervisors Reject Court Shift

Sonoma County supervisors yesterday denied a request from Cotati Police Chief John Curtis to transfer the City of Cotati from the Central Judicial Court District in Santa Rosa to the Southern Judicial Court District in Petaluma.

Studying a map, supervisors found the irregular Cotati city boundaries were an island in the central district and would be connected to the southern district only by a narrow strip along Highway 101. Feeling this would bring jurisdictional problems, the board refused the request.

Curtis said he felt the transfer would make court appearances more convenient for Cotati residents since transportation is more readily available to Petaluma. City Mgr. Gordon C. Howe said the proposed transfer had never been presented to the council, and that Curtis made the request on his own.

Russia, Cuba Ink Scientific Pact

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuba and the Soviet Union have signed a five-year agreement for scientific collaboration, Radio Havana reported today.

The accord calls for 90 Soviet scientists to visit Cuba and for Cubans to go to Russia for science training.

Novatan Injured On Lakeville Highway

Dirk J. Smit, 37, of 10 Rebecca Way, Novato, was injured at 2:15 a.m. today when the truck he was driving struck a bridge abutment and went into a three foot ditch on Lakeville Highway near East Stoneburner Road, Petaluma.

Smit was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for lacerations of the head. Petaluma police reported the truck belonged to his employer, Teleview Systems, 148 Mitchell Road, San Rafael.

Apartment Looted

A .22-caliber pistol and a clock radio valued at a total of $85 were stolen Friday or Saturday from the apartment of Arnold Schultz, 400 Canal Street, Apt. 121, San Rafael police said.

GI Smothers Grenade; Medal Of Honor Given

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 20-year-old Army medical aidman who smothered a grenade explosion with his body has been awarded the Medal of Honor, the Army announced today.

The parents of Pfc. James H. Monroe of Wheaton, Ill. will receive his posthumous award tomorrow from Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor.

Monroe was killed on Feb. 16, 1967 while serving with the 1st Calvary Division near Bong Son, South Vietnam.

While treating a seriously wounded man, he saw a live grenade fall directly in front of his platoon's position.

"He shouted a warning to all those nearby, pushed the wounded aside and lunged forward to smother the grenade's blast with his body," the Army said.

Monroe is the fourth Army medic to earn a Medal of Honor in Vietnam.

His medal is the 53rd of the nation's highest military decoration to be conferred in the Vietnam war.

Auto Parts Stolen

Barton M. Young of 636 Lindaro Street, San Rafael, reported yesterday that $210 worth of parts was removed from his car while it was parked in front of his home Monday night, police said.

LBJ Signs Bill For New Aid To Colleges

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson today signed into law legislation to step up aid for the nation's overcrowded colleges. The bill also contained a provision to cut off aid to students who participate in campus disorders.

Johnson also signed into law a sweeping overhaul of the vocational education program, authorizing $3 billion over three years starting July 1.

The higher education bill authorizes $7.3 billion through fiscal 1971 to help private and public universities to build classrooms, improve libraries and expand graduate student programs.

The aid cut-off amendment provides that students convicted by a court or found guilty by the university, after adequate hearing, of conduct that damages college property or disrupts classes would lose federal aid for two years.

The new vocational education law authorizes the biggest spending effort yet in that field, spreading $3 billion over three years starting in fiscal 1970.

The two new education laws also mark the first serious attack on the Administration's war-on-poverty agency, the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The higher education law transfers Upward Bound, the pre-college tutoring program for needy high school students, from OEO to the Office of Education.

The vocational education law calls for a study toward phasing out OEO's Job Corps and requires the next President to recommend by next March 1 whether the Head Start program of training pre-school children should also be transferred from OEO.

Student Reports Theft Of Suitcase

The theft of a suitcase, valued at $50, was reported yesterday by Helen Elizabeth Doneaux of Stockton, a student at Dominican College, San Rafael police said.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

'New Careers' Encounters Same Old Bureaucracy

Exactly two months ago today, the Independent-Journal commended the Marin County Board of Supervisors for endorsing a "New Careers" program in county employment, but raised the question: Why is it necessary to have a five-month study by the administrator's staff before starting the program?

The same question bothered Dr. Arthur Pearl of University of Oregon, who on Aug. 13 had presented the program to the supervisors. Last week, he was back in Marin to find out what's holding it up.

PROFESSOR PEARL and Dr. Frank Riessman of New York University are the originators of the "New Careers" program.

Unlike the labyrinthine bureaucracy of the "War on Poverty," it is simplicity itself. The whole idea is to offer employment to those disadvantaged in education or background, at the same time giving them job-oriented education to help them better themselves.

For the employer — in this case, the County of Marin — there is no need for a special organization. The "New Careers" applicants can be handled through the employment office that handles all job applications.

For the schools, the program requires setting up special courses to train the young men and women for the jobs they are to fill, and give them the educational background for advancement. It is this promise of advancement that is the key to the program's success.

SO WHAT HAS happened in the two months since the board of supervisors endorsed "New Careers" for a county project?

The county administrator's office, which was given the job of setting it up, has not even come out of the dressing room, let alone started the game.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella said last week, when Professor Pearl arrived with his inquiries, that he hasn't even made a cost estimate yet.

Nobody from the administrator's office has talked with Louis H. Herkenhoff, president of College of Marin, although he expressed interest in the program and said he has faculty members eager to offer the special classes.

THE COUNTY ADMINISTRATOR'S office proposed creating a new department—a new bureaucracy—to administer the program.

This is precisely what is NOT needed. This is the War on Poverty all over again — big promises and scant results. This is the "Lyndon B. Johnson syndrome" applied at the county level.

Exactly two months ago today, we said in this column:

"It would seem a simple matter to unfreeze the stratified county civil service structure to permit hiring 25 or 50 untrained minority race members. . . . The training program could be worked out afterward with College of Marin. We see no reason why the hiring must wait until the whole blueprint is completed."

WE SAY IT AGAIN NOW. And since County Administrator Alan Bruce's office has not even started the blueprint, we suggest that the board of supervisors assert a little authority and do something itself to get the program started — now! The "study and report" route via the administrator's office is getting nowhere — as usual.

The Propertied Bird

The more we learn about animals, the more we are struck by their resemblance to humans. But in our reading the other day, we think we found the similarity that takes the prize.

Science has known for several decades that birds do not sing in the spring because their mates were enthralled by their voices. They sing to proclaim to the world that this is my territory, I have staked my claim and will fight any male of my kind that tried to muscle in. They are birds of property.

Now, this may seem a rather stupid thing to do. But a female bird won't give more than a quick first glance to an unpropertied male. And, for all we know, the males with large properties in rich subdivisions, like Kent Woodlands, win the loveliest, most talented mates.

Proposition 9 Seen As Threat To Water, Sewer Services

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Another reason for defeat of Proposition 9 on the Nov. 5 ballot — the Watson initiative limiting real property taxes to one per cent of market value — has been developed by the California State Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber is urging California voters to reject the Watson Amendment in view of its impact on water, and other health and safety requirements.

Burnham Enersen, chairman of the chamber's statewide water resources committee, says that Proposition 9, if enacted, "would cripple incomplete or planned water supply, treatment and distribution systems and waste disposal systems by removing the ability of local government to finance capital outlay programs for the construction of needed facilities."

"Pay-as-you-go financing of such projects," he said, "using the revenue from the sale of water or charges for waste disposal, is impossible since these services cannot be sold until the facilities are constructed and operating.

"LONG-TERM BOND financing remains as the only feasible means of financing such projects.

"Water needs in California for new communities, new industries, and more productive farms are compounded by constatnly increasing per capita needs. Local water agencies in the next decade will be in excess of $4 billion in capital outlay.

"Another $1.2 billion will be needed during the next five years for construction of new sewage treatment plants, or for repair of existing facilities.

"Raising the water quality through inprovement of existing facilities will cost even more. Funds from almost all of these projects must come from local bond issues which would be blocked by Proposition 9."

ADD THIS COST to the already evident costs of welfare and education, which also run up into the billions, to the state's budget, and the need for state revenue would be astronomical in the years to come.

Just the funding of education and welfare alone would, it is estimated, come near tripling the state income tax, and cause the sales tax to rise to around 12 per cent. Add water and waste disposal to this and the total bill would reach in the field of not only the undesirable, but also the unbearable for the ordinary taxpayer.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Farm Workers Not Covered By NLRA

Another reader (H. H. Rodgers, Oct. 9) recently criticized the grape boycott and stated that secondary boycotts are illegal under the Taft-Hartley Act. Since farm workers are excluded from National Labor Relations (Taft-Hartley) Act coverage, secondary boycotts by them are not illegal. This determination has recently been upheld by the California attorney general's office.

Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers Organizing Committee would be only too willing to accept NLRA coverage, despite its restrictions, since this would give them recognition of their rights as well as a guarantee of benefits which have been available to other labor groups for over 30 years, for example unemployment insurance benefits.

Thousands of farm worker families in the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys go on welfare each winter because of their low wages, seasonal employment, and lack of unemployment beneifts.

Different Approach To Transit Problem

The disappointing series of columns by William Fusselman have triumphantly pointed out various reasons why transit won't work in Marin County. A similar approach was taken by various people a good many years ago who recited the reasons why the airplane would never get off the ground.

At meetings of the Marin County Transit District — where I have never seen Mr. Fusselman in attendance — the various acknowledged problems which he lists are discussed in detail. So are many others, and so are various proposals for overcoming them.

A look at a different set of difficulties is given in "Tomorrow's Transportation," a study of new systems for urban transportation made by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The report begins by identifying eight general problems in present-day urban and suburban areas, where the automobile and sadly outmoded public trasnit systems are the rule.

Traffic congestion, urban pollution, quality of service and efficient use of land were four of the problems whose names are self-explanatory. Equality of access to urban opportunity is another, with the comment that present transportation tends to immobilize and isolate such nondrivers as the old, the younger, the poor and the handicapped.

Three others listed are:

Urban development options: "Transportation investments can be used creatively in the orderly development of urban areas. Present urban transportation is often not appropriate." (Question: How do we want Marin County developed? By freeway alone?)

Efficient use of equipment and facilities: Increased efficiency and economy must be obtained through better use of such techniques as cost control, scheduling and routing, experimentation in marketing.

Institutional framework: "An improved institutional framework — legal, financial, governmental and intergovernmental — is needed to eliminate rigidities and anachronisms which prevent the adoption of new technologies and methods." . . .

Sales Tax Preferred To Property Levy

As a homeowner-taxpayer I would like to comment in favor of Proposition 1-A.

I personally prefer "nickel and dime" paying a small sales tax than paying a large or larger tax on my home. Besides visitors to our state and even welfare recipients help contribute to the community when they buy products with these taxes; and nobody, but nobody helps pay my property tax.

As far as the Legislature dropping the sales tax by one-half cent if 1-A is defeated, I rather doubt it. They can always find something else to spend the money on, sooner or later. So why not help the already overburdened homeowner, now?

Black America Course 'A Must'

I cannot keep this to myself! Last night (Oct. 9) was the first of four lectures about the history and culture of the black American. Somehow my education lacked this subject. It seems to me that learning about each other's past brings with it understanding of our present.

Everyone out there in "I-J-land" should get up right now and find the course closest to him. This knowledge is a must for every American. The Novato High School series continues Oct. 23, Nov. 6, and Nov. 20 — each at 7:30 p.m. It's free! Please come and bring your relatives.

'68 Campaign 'Last Hurrah' For Politics On Old Alignment

WASHINGTON — Out of two and a half weeks on the road talking with hundreds of peopel — many of them the young — one conclusion comes through. With the upheaval shaking the body politic at almost every level, the political structure so long familiar will never be quite the same again.

Third parties have sprung up and then withered away. The two old parties have survived more or less intact for more than a century. The politics of pragmatism and compromise has prevailed and on the whole has served the nation well.

GEORGE C. WALLACE'S American Independent Party may, like its many predecessors, be carted off to the political attic. But if it is not to be Wallace's party — a personal party built essentially around one man — another upsurge on the right seems certain to take its place. Wallace's support has shown above all a deep-seated frustration with the political process a disillusionment with the two old parties. As one of Wallace's taxi drivers in Southern California put it:

"They (the Republicans and the Democrats) aren't going to do a blankety blank one of the things that have got to be done in this country. Maybe this fellow Wallace can't either. But I'm for giving him a chance."

The conventional political wisdom is that Wallace's strength has peaked and that he is bound to decline in the final weeks. In a final stop in the Midwest the evidence seemed to be all to the contrary. A poll taken in an automotive plant in St. Louis in the first week in October showed 40 for Hubert Humphrey, 100 for Richard Nixon and 850 for Wallace. These were United Auto Workers.

At the beginning of the campaign a Granite City, Ill., steel plant showed 380 for Humphrey, 480 for Nixon and 597 for Wallace. These were members of the United Steelworkers Union. And for law-and-order buffs the poll reported out of the Missouri State Prison —150 Humphrey, 400 Nixon and 800 Wallace — says something.

IF THE SAMPLES from around the country are a true reflection of the way the blue-collar vote is going, the nationwide polls may underestimate the Wallace strength.

Wallace's selection of Gen. Curtis LeMay as his vice presidential running mate has in most editorial and other opinion been a bad blunder. A southern governor with a touch of the populist is linked with a tough spokesman for the military - industrial complex and the hardest of hard lines on the Vittnam war. This is the curious hybrid, half-tiger and half-southern mule, that comes through. It must leave the taxi driver, the beautician, "just us folks" to whom Wallace addresses himself, somewhat puzzled.

Yet there is no proof that LeMay scares the Wallaceites as he does the cartoonists who recall the link between Hitler and the aggressive military in the person of Field Marshal Herman Goering. The hard line on Vietnam — let's go all out and get it over with — has always scored high in any sampling of opinion. If LeMay adds any appeal to the ticket it is in the area of widespread impatience over a war that continues to take such a heavy toll in blood and money with no foreseeable end.

NEITHER NIXON nor Humphrey seems thus far to inspire any intense enthusiasm. They are typical products of the politics of the past. To use a dubious word they lack charisma, fire, a dramatic presence, that draws the crowds and send them. A Wendell Willkie, Dwight Eisenhower with his own paternal, understated style, Adlai Stevenson and his great appeal for a limited segment of the voting public, John F. Kennedy who in 1960 drew the screamers, Robert F. Kennedy and the wildly unruly crowds greeting him in the primaries — there is nothing like that in the current campaign.

Fed up, wanting a change, the voters will go for Nixon unless all signs fail. Under the circumstances the total vote will probably be considerably lower than in recent years unless the Wallaceites turn out in large numbers.

Luck, as in every department of human life, is a big factor. Humphrey's tragedy, and against the background of the high achievements of his political career it has at times the look of a Greek tragedy, is to run in the wrong year in the wrong campaign under terms that could hardly be more unfavorable. The luck is all with Nixon.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Nixon Has To Look Back In Fear Someone Gaining

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Richard M. Nixon, clearly the front-runner as the long presidential race winds into its final lap, is occasionally missing a stride as he glances nervously over his shoulder at his pursuers.

George Wallace, surprising some experts, is still up front with the leaders. He is running easily, confident that he has forced the pace thus far.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey is just running as hard as he can. It may not be the right time for sprinting, but there just doesn't seem to be any other strategy available.

These are the conclusions which arise from a second appraisal of the three presidential campaigners. This time we watched them, with the campaign beyond its halfway point, before the ninth annual conference of United Press International editors.

WALLACE — The former Alabama governor began his UPI speech with the wry comment that he was not used to speaking before orderly audiences. Then, from notes, he spoke for half an hour stressing his determination to vest control of local schools and local government in locally elected officials, not in "pointy-head" federal bureaucrats.

In a half-hour question period Wallace was asked a number of questions about foreign policy. He said his whole campaign and attitude were "pitched on peace — peace through strength." On the central issue of the Vietnam war, he said he supports the Paris talks ("let's pray and hope they're successful"), but would move for a military victory with conventional arms if the talks fail.

NIXON — Nixon made no speech and submitted, at once, to questions.

As expected, editors' questions brought out most of the positions which Nixon has been taking in his speeches. He maintained his self-imposed ban on outlining peace proposals for Vitenam. He said he would not escalate the level of bombing now.

HUMPHREY — The vice president talked from a foreign policy text for 50 minutes. There was no lack of detailed discussion here. On the contrary, there were five detailed essentials for world peace and a six-point proposal for the Middle East as elaboration for one of the five.

Humphrey restated his willingness to accept the "risk" of a complete bombing halt in Vietnam. He again stressed, however, that such an action would have to be matched by some evidence of Communist good faith. He said Russia should see that North Vietnam provides it.

ART BUCHWALD

The Truth Is Out At Last: How We Got Into Vietnam

WASHINGTON — In all the discussions on what went wrong in Vietnam, no one has asked the crucial question: "Who was the first American adviser to South Vietnam, and what kind of advice did he give to get us in so much trouble?"

Through careful research and extraordinary luck, I managed to locate him the other day. His name is Keenan Rutledge and he now works for an automobile company recalling faulty steering wheels.

At first Keenan was reluctant to discuss the role he played in Vietnam, but after plying his with drinks he opened up.

"I WAS A PRIVATE in the Army," Keenan said, "stationed at Fort Bragg back in 1954. I was on KP one day and the sergeant came in and said, 'Rutledge, how would you like to get off KP?' I asked what I had to do and he said, 'There's some place called Vietnam and they need an adviser for their army. The captain said to take someone from the KP list.'

" 'But Sarge, what should I advise them?"

" 'How do I know? I don't even know where Vietnam is.' "

Keenan looked into his glass "I figured anything was better than KP, so I packed my duffel bag and waited for available transport. In those days everything was based on priority. It took three months before anyone would fly me to Vietnam. Well, I got there and showed up at the palace in Saigon. Everyone was waiting for me from the premier on down and the first thing they asked me was, 'What's your advice?'

"I said, 'I don't like the looks of things," and this impressed the hell out of them. I then said, 'The first thing you ought to do is defend yourselves.'

"THEY LIKED THAT, but I could tell they were still disturbed and finally one of the cabinet officers said, 'We respect your advice, but what bothers us is why the United States would send us a private to solve our military problems'.

"I thought fast and said, "This is just a disguise to throw off the Communist agents. I'm really a corporal.'

"That satisfied them, and they said they would do anything I told them.

"Well, there I was in Vietnam all by myself, and they were counting on me to save them. I wrote a letter to the Pentagon telling them about the advice I had given the South Vietnamese so far and they congratulated me and asked me if there was anything I wanted. I had just seen the movie 'Wake Island' on television, so as a gag I radioed back, 'Send me more Japs.'

"THIS MUST have gotten them very confused in Washington, because the next thing I knew they sent out an inspector general to find out what was going on: I told him that things were going very well and I expected to be home by Christmas. The inspector general reported this back to the secretary of defense who went on television and announced to the American public, 'Our boys in Vietnam will be home by Christmas.'

"In the meantime the South Vietnamese were leaning on me pretty heavily for advice, and since I couldn't be everywhere at the same time, I asked the Pentagon to send out another adviser. Since I was out there first, I was the senior adviser and he was the junior adviser. I was promoted to sergeant. Now the United States was committed, because it had two men in Vietnam. When Bob Hope heard about it he came out and did a show for the two of us.

"UNFORTUNATELY, the South Vietnamese kept asking for more and more advice, so we had to keep asking for more and more advisers. One thing led to another and pretty soon I was commanding 40,000 advisers and had the rank of major general. I guess if I had stayed I would have had Westmoreland's job."

"What made you leave?"

"The South Vietnamese got sore at me. I told them if they ever hoped to win the war they'd have to win the hearts and minds of the people, and they said, angrily, 'When we want your advice we'll ask for it.'"

U.C. Changes Mind Again; Plans Grape Purchase Ban

BERKELEY (UPI) — The University of California at Berkeley changed its mind again yesterday and decided to not purchase table grapes being boycotted by the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

The decision amounts to a reaffirmation of an earlier decision.

The campus purchasing agent originally banned all grapes Oct. 4. On Saturday, U.C. President Charles Hitch said campuses could discontinue buying grapes "only if . . . there is not sufficient demand to make continued service economical." He said the university should not take sides in the grape dispute.

Richard P. Hafner, director of public affairs, said yesterday's decision "reflects our local needs . . . We felt our interpretation follows the intention of the president's memo."

Hitch's ruling had been interpreted by supporters of the boycott as a "sellout" to grape growers. About 400 supporters of the boycott marched on University Hall yesterday to demand amnesty for 11 students arrested there at a sit-in Monday night.

The sit-in cane after a meeting with Hitch by members of the Mexican-American Student Confederation who were angered by Hitch's order.

Ralph Arreola, acting chairman of the confederation, said Hitch's Saturday ruling "simply put the university behind the agricultural growers and the Ronald Reagan clique."

Chrysanthemum Weekend Slated

The Chrysanthemum Society of Marin will present its 19th annual flower show from 1 to 7 p.m. Oct. 26 and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 27 at the Crocker-Citizens National Bank, Fourth and B Streets, San Rafael.

The show, "Spotlight on Mums," will include horticulture and arrangement divisions, to be judged on a standard system.

Entry reservations may be made until next Wednesday and entries will be received from 7 to 10 p.m. Oct. 24 and 8 to 9 a.m. Oct. 25. Retired Lt. Col. J. Paul Sibbitt of 81 Cambridge Heights, Novato, chairman of the show, may be contacted for additional information.

Thai Leader Claims Heavy Cost To Reds

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thai forces have killed or captured 6,374 Communist terrorists in the past three years, Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn said yesterday.

Thanom, reviewing progress in the country's struggle against Communist guerrilla movements, told reporters a breakdown of the figures showed it included 576 Communists killed. The figures for terrorist captured included those who had surrendered to the government.

Tam Discipline Study Committee Gives Attendance Top Priority

Tamalpais High School District's discipline study committee, charting its course, agreed yesterday to focus first on attendance problems.

The committee, composed of students, parents and staff members, decided against starting with a general philosphical approach or investigating a specific incident.

During a two-hour session at the district room on the Redwood High School campus, there was a strong call for communication between students, community and school.

The committee, formed last month, spent most of its session determining how it should proceed and the scope of its task.

Rev. Gordon L. Foster of Mill Valley noted that young people "see things in revolt against the status quo while the present rules are designed to keep it intact."

Lawrence Goldberg, a member of the Kentfield School District board, said he saw "the discipline problem as a symptom of the gap between adults and young people . . . and maybe between adults themselves."

One student noted that students resent district policy and the committee could study what students resent.

Committee members also wondered how discipline could be applied within the educational goal of developing self-reliant individuals.

Dr. Gloria W. Melbostad, Tamalpais district trustee, said she felt there was too much emphasis on procedures, and "individuals felt they were not treated as individuals," but treated impersonally by regulation.

The committee was formed after parents of students, who were disciplined for skipping school to attend an antidraft rally in April, claimed the resulting discipline was unwarranted.

John M. Thompson, advisor to the Students Rights Club at Redwood High School, urged the committee to study student rights.

Dr. Ellen Binckley, committee chairman, assured him that student rights and other areas of concern would come before the committee as it progresses in its work.

The committee adjourned until 7:30 p.m. Nov. 5 at the district administration building at Redwood High campus. Nineteen of the 23 committee members were present.

Touch Football Days Are Over

MELROSE, Mass. (AP) — Rep. Torbert MacDonald, D-Mass., says his touch football days are over.

"All during my football career, which spanned playing at Medford High, Andover Academy and Harvard," he said, "I never had a broken bone. But the age of 51 is not the resilient age of 21.

"From here on I will leave the playing to my sons and the watching to myself."

Lack Of Quorum

The Novato Planning Commismeeting Monday because of a meeting last night because of a lack of a quorum, according to secretary Juanita Gibson. Four members of the seven-man commission were out of town, she said.

Colleges Seek Record Budget

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — State college trustees are suggesting a record operating budget from the Legislature of $285.2 million for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

Members of the trustees' finance and educational policies committees, meeting in San Francisco yesterday, voted 9-2 to recommend that the full board adopt that request figure when its meets Oct. 23-24 in Fresno.

The amount represents an eincrease of $46.2 million from the 1968-69 budget.

If the full board approves, the suggestion would go to the state Department of Finance and then to the Legislature and the governor. Last year the board asked $250.2 million and got $224.3 million.

Humphrey Pledges 'Extra' Negro Help

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey says that a century of deprivation requires not only equal opportunity but even "a little extra help" for Negroes.

The Democratic presidential nominee spoke on civil rights in appearances here yesterday before a predominantly student group at Kansas City's Rockhurst College and at a meeting of labor and Negro leaders here.

With crowds urging him to "give 'em hell" at a campaign in the two largest cities of normally Democratic Missouri, Humphrey enjoyed one of his best days as he launched the final three weeks of his campaign.

Humphrey said he has been criticized for his support of federal programs to train more Negro workers, and to upgrade educational levels in the nation's slum areas.

He told a group of Negro leaders, "I do not intend, in order to win this election, to compromise a lifetime of dedication to the cause of human rights."

Humphrey has a busy schedule here today, including a question session with housewives, a shopping center reception, a downtown rally, and a television interview.

In a speech prepared for the downtown rally, Humphrey criticized Nixon's choice of Spiro T. Agnew as the No. 2 man on the Republican ticket.

"You know," he said, "it's bad enough that Mr. Republican's TV blitz keeps telling us that 'Nixon's the one.' But it's even worse when you stop to think that 'Agnew's the two,'" he added.

Later in the day, Humphrey will fly to New York City for the annual Alfred E. Smith Memorial dinner.

WALLACE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — George C. Wallace received a restrained but polite reception yesterday as he wound up a three-day California swing with speeches at three aerospace plants and by fielding questions from the audience on a national television show.

The American Independent Party's presidential candidate was to go to Alamagordo, N.M., and Texas today.

A Negro, who identified himself as Booker Terry Sharp, a Los Angeles cement mason, drew loud applause at the Joey Bishop TV show when, as the last question from the audience, he said: "What we need in this country is a president who will unify the people, not divide them. What are you going to do about that?"

"I agree with you," Wallace began before Bishop stopped further discussion by saying that Wallace now was over the time given other presidential candidates who appeared on the show. The program, on the American Broadcasting Co., was taped for showing tonight.

Earlier Wallace spoke at Hughes Aircraft in Culver City; at TRW Systems in Redondo Beach and Aerojet General in Downey. For the most part, the employees listened silently, although there were occasional bursts of applause and some boos.

LeMAY

SAIGON (AP) — Surrounded by some of the tightest security precautions yet seen in Vietnam, U.S. vice presidential candidate Curtis E. LeMay began a visit today to the Vietnam War.

A spokesman said George C. Wallace's running mate would talk to senior U.S. officials "and the man in the mud."

LeMay, an advocate of a full military victory in Vietnam, went from the airport to the nearby U.S. Command headquarters for his first military briefing by Gen. Creighton Abrams the U.S. commander for Vietnam, and his staff.

The former Air Force chief of staff was expected to meet with Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker later in the day.

The VIP arrival area at the airport was under heavy guard by Secret Service men, embassy security officials, Air Force and Army MPs and Vietnamese security men.

A spokesman said LeMay would return to the United States and report to Wallace before the third party presidential candidate appears on television Sunday.

AGNEW

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gov. Spiro T. Agnew says a return to the South of unemploymed workers who moved North to collect higher welfare benefits "might not be such a bad thing."

The Republican vice presidential candidate, long an advocate of standardized welfare benefits administered through the Social Security Administration, said last night that such a standardization might cause some welfare recipients to move South.

He is expected to spend most of the day taping television programs and will address a Republican dinner in the evening. Agnew will leave Pittsburgh tomorrow and travel to Youngstown, Ohio, and Detroit, Mich.

MUSKIE

Muskie delivered the same general message yesterday to predominantly Negro crowds in Harlem and Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant area and to an all white crowd in Brooklyn's Greenpoint section.

America must not build walls, he said, if they are to achieve the goals of ending the Vietnam war—"the first order of business"—eliminating ghettoes and unacceptable living conditions, and "learning to govern our cities."

RAFFERTY

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State schools chief Max Rafferty found himself before a high school civic classes yesterday where, as Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, he fielded questions on subjects ranging from Vietnam to the internal combustion engine.

He told Mrs. Margaret Garrett's senior civic class at El Camino High School that if the South Vietnamese "want to go communist, they ought to be allowed to do so."

Then he added, "But if they want our help, they should have that too."

He then repeated his four-point program for getting out of Vietnam.

Asked for his position on air pollution, Rafferty said he would support a federal program to develop cars that don't use smog-producing gasoline.

"The day of the automobile as you know it is ended," he said. "Otherwise, it is going to end all of us."

CRANSTON

Speaking at the University of California at Los Angeles, Cranston again referred to Rafferty's statement that if an unconditional bombing halt became American policy, it would be "perilously close to treason."

In Sacramento Rafferty said again yesterday: "I don't call my opponent a traitor. I don't think he is."

Despite this, Cranston kept up his contention, in remarks prepared for delivery, that Rafferty's words about treason apply to anyone who urges an unconditional halt to the bombing — including prominent senators of both parties.

Cranston told the students, "I bring good news to all of you incipient traitors who agree with me that we should stop the bombing and get on with the negotiations."

The news, he said, is that top presidential adviser McGeorge Bundy has joined those who call for a bombing halt without conditions and a phased withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

Bundy was a national security adviser to presidents John F. Kennedy and Johnson, and now is president of the Ford Foundation. Bundy made public his change of views on the war over the weekend.

REAGAN

ANAHEIM (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says there is a "price tag" for winning Assembly committee approval of a bill and the proceeds go to the election campaigns of Democratic candidates for the lower house.

Campaigning for Republicans in Orange County yesterday, the GOP governor said Jesse Unruh, Democratic speaker of the Assembly, is "the handler of campaign funds for the candidates."

A spokesman for Unruh, Richard Kline, replied: "Campaign contributions have never been a consideration for the passage or nonpassage of any bill going through the state Assembly in which Jesse Unruh has been even indirectly involved, much less directly."

Reagan's attack came as he toured Southern California in his battle to win Republican control of the Legislature.

Now, the Democrats control the Assembly 42-38, while the Senate is split 20-20. Today, Reagan was to move into San Diego County to put in a good word for Republican Assemblyman Pete Wilson.

Unruh, the powerful legislator who is considering running for Reagan's job in 1970, is also traveling through the state speaking for Democrats.

REGISTER

SACRAMENTO (AP) — More Californians are registered to vote this fall than ever before in the Golden State's history.

The total is 8,580,673. The previous record was 8,340,868 for the 1966 general election. Registration in the last presidential year, 1964, was 8,184,143.

The breakdown by party is: Democrats 4,682,661, or 54.5 per cent of the total; Republicans 3,462,131, or 40.3 per cent; American Independent Party 94,478, 1.1 per cent; Peace and Freedom party 64,248, or .7 per cent; miscellaneous 50,566, or .6 per cent, and declined to state 233,589, or 2.7 per cent.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Realization Old Age Coming Can Become A Source Of Stress

VAN DELLEN

There comes a time when every man realizes youth has flown the coop. The emotional reactions to anticipated old age can be a source of stress.

Some individuals go through this transitional period gracefully; others, reluctantly and more so, when they fight against impossible odds to preserve the illusion of youth.

To the middle-aged man retirement is too close for comfort. His spouse also realizes that life has already poured out its most important gift, and she, too, fears the specter of old age.

This state of mind can create medical problems. The best defense is knowledge of self. It is most important to guard against our weaknesses.

THE EMOTIONAL manifestations that arise in this period of life usually represent exaggerations of the personality and characteristics of an earlier age. Those who know themselves are aware of their weaknesses.

Stable individuals evaluate situations as they really are and not as they appear through rose-colored glasses. Above all, be aware of and try to deal efflicts and tensions that all of us face. Blaming others is fraught with danger.

UNFORESEEN problems may strike. We refer to illness, business reversals, or losing a promotion.

Young people can afford to treat failures and disappointments casually because time is on their side. The middle-aged have lost this cushion. The physician may be able to offer a temporary crutch at this time to lessen the depression and help the individual over the hump.

Dr. Van Dellen will anser questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

PREVENTING HEPATITIS

Mrs. T. writes: My husband just returned to work after a long siege of hepatitis. What precautions should we take to prevent another attack?

REPLY

Because of immunity, a second attack seldom occurs after the first has subsided completely. Be sure he gets sufficient rest during the next few months. He should decline all social invitations and avoid unnecessary business commitments.

Liquor in any form is taboo. Strenuous exercise is not advisable and he should eat a nourishing diet.

LOW BLOOD COUNT

A reader writes: What is meant by a low blood count and why is it down?

REPLY

A low blood count is associated with a reduction in the number of blood cells or hemoglobin. Anemia is an example of this condition. The decline usually stems from bleeding, too little blood formation, or increased blood cell destruction.

ARTHRITIS OF RIBS

REPLY

If you refer to angina pectoris, no. Distress resembling this condition may occur on arthritis of the connecting joints between the ribs and breastbone or between the ribs and the vertebrae, especially when the involved areas are on the left side and at the same level as the heart.

IMPETIGO IS CATCHING

A reader writes: What causes impetigo? The skin is covered with lesions that look like cold sores and they weep a little. Does the disease spread to other persons?

REPLY

Impetigo is a highly contagious, crusty skin disease due to streptococci. It responds to antibiotics such as penicillin or the tetracylines.

SURGERY FOR GOITER?

B. L. writes: I have an inward goiter. Is there any cure other than operation?

REPLY

No, but surgery is not needed unless the enlargement is pressing on the windpipe or interfering with swallowing.

GUM AND ANGINA

A reader writes: Would constantly chewing gum have any effect on a man of 72 with angina? He has done this for about two years.

REPLY

No harm, provided the gum doesn't get in the way of the nitroglycerin tablet that is placed under the tongue when chest pain appears.

Today's Health Hint —

Clear out the medicine cabinet regularly.

Orphans Seeking $1.5 Million

OAKLAND (AP) A $1.5 million suit was filed yesterday in Superior Court on behalf of seven children whose parents were killed 10 days ago in a Fremont automobile accident.

William Clopton, a San Jose attorney, filed the suit for the children who range in age from 2 to 11 years.

Named defendants were the City of Fremont, Citizens Utilities Co., Pacific States Steel Co. and American Forge Co.

The suit contends they were negligent in not properly policing the highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Guadalupe Prado were killed when their car and another collided head on at Niles Boulevard and Kraftile Road. Police said Prado swerved to avoid a piece of wood on the highway.

Their children are now staying with their grandmother, Pauline Padilla, in Fremont.

Church Supports Farm Laborers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Council of the Episcopal Diocese of California has recommended inclusion of farm workers under the National Labor Relations Act.

The council, at its monthly meeting yesterday, approved a resolution urging agricultural workers be given the privileges extended to other workers, such as the right to be represented by a labor union.

The resolution, recommended by the council's department of social relations, said farm laborers are not accorded the right to organize under current labor laws.

However, the council left to individual Episcopalians a decision as to whether to support the current boycott of California table grapes sponsored by the AFL-CIO farm workers' union.

Nader Raps Repair Bills On New Cars

FARMINGTON, Mich. (AP) — Ralph Nader took another swipe at the auto industry yesterday, accusing U.S. automakers of deliberately building a profit system into breakdowns and repairs on new cars.

Nader, the author of a highly critical book on American cars, "Unsafe at Any Speed," promised he would make "spectacular revelations" in upcoming congressional hearings tentatively set for November.

Nader told a news conference at Oakland Community College that repairs on late model cars are costing individual consumers "hundreds of dollars a year."

He cited as an example the design of bumpers, which he said sustain heavy damage in minor collisions at speeds as low as two miles per hour.

"A functional bumper," said Nader," "would save—according to an insurance company estimate—a cool billion dollars a year for the American consumer." Nader said the estimate came from an insurance executive in Detroit, but he declined to identify the source.

Modernization Funds Sought In Marin City

Melvin Randolph, manager of the Marin City housing project, will seek board approval to apply to the housing assistance office for funds for a modernization program at a meeting of the Marin County Housing Authority today at 7:30 p.m. in the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

The program could involve painting, playground improvements, an irrigation system and paving. No cost estimate has been figured.

TV REVIEW

New Visual Frankness On Screen

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The most notable thing about last night's CBS-TV drama, "The People Next Door"—in which two families went to pot after their children took to narcotics—was the new visual frankness.

The 90-minute "CBS Playhouse" production, written by J. P. Miller, including one scene in which a 16-year-old girl on an "STP" trip runs around the family home, inside and out, in the altogether.

FRANK SCENES

There also was a scene in which she is found by her father in bed with a motley-looking punk in a messy pad. And in yet another scene she tells her father, in front of her mother, that he is a woman chaser; only her term was more explicit.

The young girl in question was played by an actress named Deborah Winters. Had long blonde hair—natch. Knew all the latest hate-your-parents cynicism beneath her dark idealism—natch.

Goodbye, Donna Reed, wherever you are. We'll miss you.

TWO FAMILIES

"The People Next Door" concerned two nice, everyday families. The daughter in one, as we have noted, takes narcotics like gumdrops, sleeps around and thinks her parents are phony—which they are. Her brother understands everything, as we can immediatey tell because he had long hair, wears a pendant, plays guitar and has outgrown marijuana and other former toys.

In the other family, meanwhile, the handsome, clean cut, short-haired, honor student son is a pusher of narcotics on the side, and is eventually turned over to the cops by his father. In short, what we have here is a remake of Sunnybrook Farm.

Television, it is clear, has now devloped to a high art a new form of theater—the generation gap soap opera. Like last night's outing, it is a middle-class, middle-aged, nightmare vision of Armageddon. It uses all the latest words and cliches and attitudes, but somehow it all comes out like a dramatized tract. The lions are the kids, and the Christians are the parents. Where are you, Donna?

THE ADULTS

"The People Next Door" included the usual adult stereotypes—natch—especially the typical father that we have come to know and love: An insensitive, determinedly respectable, self-deluding, lying, hard-drinking wage earner who likes it when his daughter attends football games. Lloyd Bridges had this enviable role.

And I would like to say that with parents like these, the new generation has no exclusive claim to drastic action. Such clods have been the cause of childrens' revolts in all times and places. The desire for truth and honesty did not, as the general gap soap operas suggest, begin in the last few years.

In short, we have had a spurt of black-and-white video confrontations of the obvious — but what has been missing is the more subtle description of relations between reasonably intelligent persons of various generations. Without this, all we are watching is the same old story, spiced merely by more sophisticated weapons of revolt.

DANIEL ROOT
Eagle scout

Novatan, 17, Becomes An Eagle Scout

Daniel Root, 17, a senior at Novato High School, has been awarded the Eagle award, highest in scouting, at a Court of Honor held at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Root has been in scouting four years. He holds 24 merit badges and is a member of the Order of the Arrow.

He is the son of M/Sgt. and Mrs. Samuel W. King of 281 Bolling Drive, on the base.

Three other Eagle Scouts, Joseph Schroedel, Mark O'Connell and Bill Linn, received the bronze palm at the same Court of Honor. Also presented were 130 merit badges, six first class, and nine second class promotions.

Fall Flower Festival Set In Ross

"Cavalcade of Color" will be the theme of the 22nd annual Fall Flower Festival of the Garden Society of Marin from noon to 6 p.m. Oct. 26 and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Oct. 27 at the Art and Garden Center in Ross.

A series of action features is planned for the two-day event, along with standard horticultural and arrangement competition.

Mrs. Robert L. Tuckey of Kentfield, vice chairman of the show, will demonstrate "New Approach to Flower Arrangement" at 2 p.m. both days.

At 3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, John Yonkow, a landscape designer, will present a talk with slides, "How to Avoid Destruction of Beautiful Marin County."

Robert Krohn, past president of the Marin Bonsai Club, will demonstrate "How to Grow a Bonsai Tree," at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Also scheduled are exhibits by the Marin Orchid Society and the Marin Bonsai Club.

Entries for the horticulture and arrangement divisions will be received from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Oct. 25 and judging will begin at 9 a.m. Oct. 26.

In the horticulture division there will be classes for chrysanthemums and ornamental plants, under the standard system of the National Council of State Garden Clubs and California Garden Clubs Inc.

In the arrangement division, classes will be divided for novice, amateur, advanced amateur and masters.

Alec C. Thomas of San Anselmo is show chairman with Herbert G. Pratty of San Rafael, president of the Garden Society of Marin, as general chairman.

Formosans Plan New Vice Curbs

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China's Interior Ministry announced yesterday it is going to outlaw prostitution in Formosa by stages.

It said the ban would be applied first in Taipei at a date yet to be decided and would later be extended to the rest of the island.

The ministry said all licenses issued to prostitutes will be revoked and all houses of prostitution, both licensed and unlicensed, will be closed.

Spirit Week Doings Set For Drake

Tricycle races, a tug-of-war, a slave auction and a girls' football game are among events planned for spirit week at Sir Francis Drake High School next week.

Climaxing the week will be Drake's homecoming football game at 8 p.m. Friday against Redwood High School at College of Marin stadium, and the homecoming dance from 9 p.m. to midnight Saturday in the Drake girls' gymnasium.

A spirit trophy will be awarded the class winning most points during the week's events, which will start before classes Monday with a corridor decorating contest.

At noon Monday, competition between classes will include a wheelbarrow relay, a tug-of-war and possibly scooter races.

Tuesday will be bicycle day, with all students asked to ride bicycles to school. At noon Tuesday, tricycle relays will be run and a sledgehammer car smash has been tentatively scheduled.

A slave auction of senior football players will be held at noon Wednesday.

On Thursday, a powder puff football game will pit junior and senior girls against freshman and sophomore girls, while the slaves bought Wednesday will model in a half-time fashion show.

On Friday, students will elect the spirit queen during second period classes and an effigy of the Redwood Giant will be hanged, burned or otherwise disposed of at noon. A pre-game rally wll be held at 2:35 p.m.

Playing for the homecoming dance Saturday will be the Rubber Soul Trio.

Burned Fireman Presented With A $1,200 Check

Capt. Richard W. Beyer, the Novato fireman critically burned July 19 fighting a Marinwood blaze, Monday night attended the first meeting of the Novato Volunteer Firemen since getting out of the hospital Sept. 27 and was presented a check for $1,200.

The money was raised by a steak barbecue sponsored by fellow fireman and by contributions from many citizens as well as members of the department.

"He was shocked, surprised and happy," observed Fire Chief George Cavallero.

Beyer said at first he was reluctant to accept it because he felt it bordered on chairty, but "the firemen convinced me that it was not only them, but the whole community who had gotten behind it, so it made me feel good."

Beyer, who is faced with more surgery next month and probably after the first of the year, said he has made no plans for the money or the immediate future.

Seeks Permit

Application of Harold B. Grant for a front yard parking variance at 81 Summit Drive is scheduled for the 7:30 p.m. meeting today of the Corte Madera Board of Adjustments at town hall. Grant seeks a 10-foot variance for uncovered off-street parking.

Insanity Plea Withdrawn In San Jose Trial

SAN JOSE (AP) — One codefendant has withdrawn his insanity plea in a murder-kidnap trial as the other wound up his defense with a single witness.

The prosecutor said yesterday that the Superior Court jury might get the case against Thomas E. Braun and Leonard Maine, both 19 and from Ritzville, Wash., by next Monday.

Maine, who had testified earlier that Braun shot down Timothy Luce, 17, of Ukiah and previously killed a man and woman in the Pacific Northwest, withdrew his insanity plea just before yesterday's trial session ended.

Both were charged with the death of Luce and the attempted murder, kidnap and rape of his girl friend, Susan Bartolomei, in August 1967.

INNOCENT PLEAS

Braun's attorney, Merle Orchard, based his client's defense on testimony of Dr. Paul C. Handrich, a Ukiah psychologist.

Handrich called Braun a mentally ill schizophrenic.

"He is mentally ill and was then mentally ill," said Handrich. "He was acting automatically on outside impulses he did not understand. Braun doesn't fully know the significance of the act of murder. He didn't have gut-level knowledge of what it means to kill someone."

Handrich said Braun's mother abandoned him at the age of 2 and his father renounced him "as some bastard who doesn't really belong..."

'FELT TRAPPED'

"He felt perpetually trapped and anxious in a world which controls him," commented the psychologist.

He agreed Braun had picked up Luce and Miss Bartolomei near Ukiah, killed the boy in a vineyard, drove to Central California where the girl was raped in a motel, then taken later to the Sierra foothills and shot in the head five times.

Under crosse-xamination by Dist. Atty. Arthur Broaddus, Handrich said he believed the robbery of Luce of $6 and the rape of girl were "byproducts of a psychiatric disturbance, incidental to a crazy bit of behavior, I do not know what his motives were."

NO UNDERSTANDING

Handrich said, "Shooting Tim Luce illustrates Braun's tendency to simply act with no rational kind of motive or understanding of why he did it."

Jurors for the first time heard details on the shooting of Mrs. Deanna Buse, 21, of Bothwell, Wash. The defendants are accused in her death and that of Samuel Ledgerwood of Portland on the two days preceding their entry into California.

In further cross examination, Handrich said of Mrs. Buse: "He took the woman at gunpoint (from her car) into some bushes, ordered her to disrobe completely, then told her to fold her clothes neatly, at which point she was shot to death. There was no evidence of sexual molestation. I asked Mr. Braun was she unattractive. He replied, 'No.'

"She was a woman normally endowed," he continued. "How many of us can understand the motive of having a woman undress, then shoot her. This is quite typical of a schizophrenic. It is a bizarre, senseless act."

Alioto Catches Up On Taxes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) Mayor Joseph Alioto paid $329 in back taxes yesterday after it was discovered that the furnishings in his plush Presidio Terrace home had been underassessed by $5,040 for the past two years.

Tax records showed that Alioto's furnishings were assessed at only $560 for the past two years and the assessment should have been $5,600.

"It was a typing error," said Deputy Assessor Ray D. Leavitt. "Someone dropped a digit from the total."

Welfare Case Fraud Hard To Pinpoint

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's social welfare director says welfare fraud probably is more extensive than recent figures show, yet "there is no reason to believe people that are poor have any greater level of cheating in their lives than anybody else in society."

This comment by John C. Montgomery, the welfare director, came regarding a report issued by the state Social Welfare Board after five hearings designed to find out whether welfare cheating is widespread or slight in California.

TO GET FACTS

Gov. Ronald Reagan had asked the board and its Advisory Committee on Welfare Abuse to gather facts about "fraud and welfare chiseling, to check out and weigh carefully the evidence and to report to me the full picture of the situation as you find it."

Reagan had said, "One opinion is that cheating is widespread among the 1.2 million persons receiving cash subsistence grants in California. The other opinion is that there is only a minimal amount of cheating."

Regarding the hearings, Montgomery said: "Both of these views are not supported by what limited facts we have."

COSTLY REPORT

Jack W. Williams, the welfare board's executive secretary, estimated at about $2,000 the cost of the report and the hearings in Redding, San Bernardino, Fresno, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Welfare officials at all five hearings testified that reported fraud — as well as convictions — accounted for a fraction of one per cent to two or three per cent of their counties' welfare cases.

In larger counties, estimated loss from fraud ranged from $30,000 to $40,000. Welfare officers said some of this money was returned as cases were investigated.

20 AREAS

The board's report made 20 recommendations, including a state register of all welfare recipients, more effort by social workers to prevent fraud and simplified welfare records.

At Fresno in February, Richard B. Peterson, a county welfare official, was asked if there were more cases of fraud than actually were reported.

"Unquestionably there is," Peterson replied. "I refer briefly to the iceberg theory —that is, that you only see a portion of the problem above the water."

At the Los Angeles hearing March 1, assistant welfare director Marvin Freedan said 1,500 cases of suspected fraud were reported to the district attorney in 1967. He said there were about 250,000 welfare cases in Los Angeles County during any one month in 1967.

CASES PROCESSED

Of the 1,500 cases, Freedman said, 965 were processed by the district attorney's office. Of the 965, he continued, some three-fourths were rejected by the district attorney.

At San Bernardino in January, welfare director Roscoe Lyda said, "While it is difficult to prove, it is my contention there is a higher incidence of welfare fraud than commonly believed . . ."

At San Francisco Feb. 16, Chairman Williams adjourned the hearing after some members of the audience continually shouted and cheered. One shout to the board was, "Prove you are not a fraud."

81 CASES STUDIED

Gertrude Kannon, a San Francisco welfare official, read a 1963-64 report saying 81 cases of alleged fraud were reported in the program of Aid to Families with Dependent Children. She said there were 5,380 cases in that program in San Francisco during any one month in 1963-64.

At Redding in January, John J. Morrill, special investigator for the Shasta County Welfare Department, reported: "Out of 2,500 to 3,000 cases . . . we average approximately four cases per month reported to the special investigation unit of the welfare department." He said about one case per month goes to the district attorney.

Workshop May Repeat At College

Proposal for a second workshop by the Marin Junior College District board and students on Oct. 31 will be made by acting College of Marin President Louis H. Herkenhoff at the board's meeting tomorrow.

The meetiing will be in Room-G-1 of the physical education complex at the college.

Format of the suggested workshop will be the same as one held Oct. 8, the discussion of mutual matters of interest including the question of whether the board or associated students should pay $7,800 for athletic activities.

The board tomorrow also is expected to award a contract for interior and exterior finishing of two portable buildings already purchased by the district.

Architect Honored For Designs

Mill Valley architect Neill Smith of 166 Helens Lane, has been presented two 1968 awards for design excellence by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The awards were made Monday at the national conference of the American Institute of Planners in Pittsburgh, Pa.

The two projects by his San Francisco firm of Neill Smith and Associates which received the honors were Woodside Gardens, a 10-story public housing project for the elderly in San Francisco, and College-town, Phase 1, a married student housing project near Sacramento State College.

Smith is a past member of the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee and has designed several commercial buildings in Marin County including the Redwood Medical Center in Ross and the Northgate Medical Dental Building.

Marinites Hit By Strep Cases

Forty-nine cases of streptococcus infection, including 42 in Novato, were reported last week to the Marin County Health Department, Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, health officer, said.

There were five cases in San Rafael and one each in Mill Valley and Belvedere-Tiburon.

Twenty-seven cases of gonorrhea were also reported, including six in Sausalito, five in Novato, four in San Rafael and Mill Valley, two in Marin City and San Anselmo and the rest scattered throughout the county.

Therewere two cases of mumps reported in San Rafael, one case of syphilis, also in San Rafael, and one of salmonella, in Larkspur.

Police Pick Up Counterfeit Bill

San Rafael police yesterday reported confiscating a counterfeit $20 bill Sunday after a clerk at Tamalpais Market, Second and D streets, spotted the bad money.

Police said the man who tried to cash it said he got it in change when he cashed his pay check Friday at a San Anselemo tavern.

No charges were filed.

S.P. Loses Try To Discontinue Valley Trains

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Public Utilities Commission yesterday turned down the application of Southern Pacific to discontinue its San Joaquin Daylight passenger trains.

The PUC decision on the trains, which run between Oakland and Los Angeles and between Sacramento and Tracy, followed 11 days of public hearings last July. The hearings were held in San Francisco, Sacramento, Stockton, Fresno, Bakersfield and Los Angeles, and a total of 63 witnesses testified with 93 exhibits being introduced.

The PUC decision said S.P. "has not demonstrated that it has made a sincere effort to compete in open market with other modes of transportation by the manner in which it presently operates the aforesaid trains."

"It is the public utility obligation of Southern Pacific Co. to continue passenger service provided by the Sacramento and San Joaquin Daylights notwithstanding operating losses since there is a substantial public need for the service in question and although Southern Pacific apparently incorrectly assumes that it may divest itself of all unprofitable operations," the ruling said.

The PUC said declining patronage on the trains was due partially, "if not largely," to the lack of promotional advertising, the diminished adequacy and attractiveness of the service, and the failure to make the necessary effort to compete with other types of transportation.

The PUC said, "Despite Southern Pacific's failure to provide modern and attractive service and its negative and indifferent attitude on passenger service generally, there is still substantial patronage of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Daylights."

Mystery Sweetener Identified

MIAMI (SS) — The mystery of a miracle berry that makes sour things taste sweet has been solved.

The active ingredient has been isolated and found to be a protein with a molecular weight of 44,000. Application of the protein to the tongue modifies the taste so that sour substances taste sweet.

The protein comes from a shrub indigenous to tropical West Africa that yields a small, red berry. Natives often chew the pulp to make their stale and acid maize bread more palatable and to give sweetness to sour palm wine and beer.

Drs. Kenzo Kurihara and Lloyd M. Beidler of Florida State Universitiy report that the sweetening of the subsequent taste of acids occurs at solutions as low as five parts in a hundred million.

Hormone Helps Cancer Battle

LOS ANGELES (SS) — Radiation treatment for persons with advanced abdominal cancer is effective, but up to now a serious deterrent has been resulting kidney damage.

Dr. Richard J. Steckel of the School of Medicine of the University of California at Los Angeles has attacked the problem with infusions of the hormone, epinephrine, into the left renal artery immediately before and during irradiation of the entire abdomen.

Six months after completion of the treatment, the left kidney of his patient appears to be functioning better than the unprotected right kidney.

Medi-Cal Held Bonanza For Some Doctors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh took his criticism of Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration before a U.S. Senate committee today where he said the state's Medi-Cal program "constitutes a bonanza for unscrupulous medical men."

Some doctors, he said, "are making as much as $100,000 per year" by treating patients under the state program for medical care for the poor and the aged.

LEADOFF WITNESS

The Democratic Assembly speaker, on a tour of the state campaigning for Democratic candidates for the lower house, was leadoff witness before a hearing by the Senate Committee on Aging.

In remarks prepared for his appearance, Unruh said the Reagan administration's refusal to impose fee schedules for servies under Medi-Cal is "almost totally responsible for the soaring, runaway costs in the administration of this program."

Saying one San Joaquin County doctor charged the state $6 for laboratory tests which cost him only 25 cents, Unruh said, "The only limit on a doctor's charges under Medi-Cal is how much he can get away with without troubling his conscience too much."

If private insurance companies can impose fee schedules for doctors treating private patients, Unruh said, "the state should establish fee schedules for doctors treating patients with public money.

FEE INCREASES

"The present situation," he said, "constitutes a bonanza for unscrupulous medical men."

Fee increases by doctors have caused the cost of the program to rise $40 million in the past two years, Unruh said.

"Governor Reagan's failure to impose limits on the amount doctors and hospitals can collect from Medi-Cal refutes his claim that he wants to control the program's cost," he continued.

"The people really getting well under this program are the doctors—and some of them are getting very well indeed," Unruh said.

He called upon the medical profession "to restrain those doctors who continue to gouge the public pocketbook and the poor and elderly alike."

Poet Accused Of London Arson

LONDON (AP) — A 20-year-old poet, Timothy John Daly was accused today at Tower Bridge police court of setting fire to London's Imperial War Museum.

He was ordered held in custody for another hearing Oct. 23.

The dome of the museum was extensively damaged during a midnight blaze earlier this week but priceless relics of the two world wars were saved.

There was no indication whether Daly was connected with an anti-Vietnam war group that circulated leaflets in London urging demonstrators to make grenades and firebombs and assemble for a massive anti-Vietnam protest Oct. 27.

Transplants May Control Hemophilia

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Spleen transplants now offer brightening hopes for a normal life to victims of hemophilia, the "bleeder's disease," a Harvard Medical School researcher said here today.

"I'm reluctant to say 'cure,'" said Dr. John C. Norman. It would be more accurate to say there is good evidence that spleen transplants "can alleviate hemophilia," he said.

Another promising treatment, infusion of spleen cells, alleviated hemophilia for up to 60 days in clinical tests without any of the sometimes risky immunosuppresion required by transplantation.

LONG-KNOWN DISEASE

Scientists have estimated that up to 100,000 Americans, 99.9 per cent of them men, are hemophiliacs. In more serious cases, hemorrhaging can occur after minor bumps and bleeding often is spontaneous.

"Throughout his life, the patient with severe hemophilia lives on the brink of hemorrhagic disaster," Norman said.

Facotor VIII from other sources, including whole blood, can be infused, but the antihemophilic benefit is only temporary.

Norman's current experiment involves transplanting new spleens into eight hemophiligic dogs. The longest survival is now in its second year, and Factor VIII levels are satisfactory.

Norman said a hemophiliac can lead a relatively normal life if his Factor VIII level can be maintained at about 20 per cent of normal.

In one of the few human applications, a Denver, Colo., team transplanted a father's spleen into his 17-year-old son. The youth's Factor VIII level jumped from less than 1 per cent to 20 per cent. However, five days later, the new spleen ruptured, ending the experiment.

LIVER, TOO

The donor spleen, though unpaired, may be taken from a live donor since it is not a vital organ and in normal persons Factor VIII also is produced elsewhere in the body.

The liver is believed to produce three or four times the amount of Factor VIII generated by the spleen, Norman said.

It is not desireable for hemophiliac transplantation, however, because the operation is much more difficult and since the liver is a vital organ, the only sources are cadavers.

Norman said the cell infusions were given four hemophilic patients by doctors at the University of California at Irvine. In one 4-year-old, the Factor VIII level was raised from 2 per cent to 13 per cent for 60 days without antirejection measures.

Norman said his studies and the work in California and Colorado confirm that liver and spleen produce Factor VIII—knowledge not confirmed as recently as last year—and spleen transplant or spleen cell infusion now seem "more reasonable."

Nothing has been found in the area of transplant or infusion that would "lower the high hopes we have of its feasibility and possible utility as an adjunct in the treatment of classical hemophilia," Norman said.

Army To Retain Part Of Fort

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Army no longer uses Fort Mason as a maritime transportation center, but the military will retain the choice portion when 39 acres are disposed of as surplus.

An announcement yesterday said the 25-acre eastern portion, which includes attractive landscaping and the fort's major historical buildings, will not be disposed of.

The western 39 acres, which Mayor Joseph L. Alioto has proposed for development of private housing, a occupied by flat asphalt surfaces and barracks-like buildings.

Retardation Workshop Is Saturday

A day-long workshop on mental retardation will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday at the San Geronimo Country Club, sponsored by the Marin Aid to Retarded Children.

Principal speaker will be Dr. Ivy Mooring, director of the Mental Retardation Services board of Los Angeles.

Also on the program will be Marin Supervisor Peter H. Behr, Judge Alvin H. Goldstein, Dr. David Fisher, director of the Behavior Therapy Institute in Sausalito, Dr. Daniel A. Collins of Mill Valley, and H. David Sokoloff, first vice president of the California Council for Retarded Children.

The workshop will include a review of changes in providing for the mentally retarded, including the regional centers for diagnosis, counseling and purchase of services.

One has been established in San Francisco and its director, James M. Eason, will discuss its function.

Alvin N. Taylor, director of the Marin office of the Bay Area Social Planning Council, will speak on services now available for the retarded in Marin County and the needs for services and programs.

Kurt Wehbring is coordinator of the workshop, which has been made possible by a grant administered by the California Council for Retarded Children.

'Crisis In U.S.' Talk Series Set

A six-week lecture series on "Crisis in America" will be presented starting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at Petaluma Junior High School, sponsored by the adult education division of the Petaluma City Schools Department. The series speaker, Dr. John R. Wilkins, theologian and traveler, will delve into the reasons for unrest, demonstrations and violence in urban America.

A graduate of Hamline University and the Boston University School of Theology, he has traveled to China, Germany, Africa, South America and Pakistan.

The opening lecture will concern "factual report on civil disorders of 1967 in the United States." Other topics in coming weeks will be "Why Such Disorders Occur in Our Democracy," Oct. 24; "Causes and Effects of Ghetto Life," Oct. 31; "Right of Dissent, Community Rights and Law Enforcement," Nov. 7; "Recovery and Rehabilitation in Riot Torn Areas," Nov. 7; "Future of the Cities and National Plans for Action," Nov. 14.

Irvine Heiress Loses Appeal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A claim by the great-granddaughter of the late Orange County rancher James Irvine for part of the $75 million worth of shares in the Irvine Foundation was rejected yesterday by a federal appeals court.

The ruling by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals upheld an earlier decision by a federal court in Los Angeles which dismissed the claim of Mrs. Joan Irvine Smith.

Mrs. Smith's suit had contended that 459 shares of the estate should have gone to her rather than to the foundation.
